because they called thee, The cast away,
saying, This is Zión, whome no man seeketh

His prayer.

Jeremiah is cast into prison because he prophesied that the citie shoulde be take of the King of Babylon. 7 He sheweth, that the people shoulde come againe to their owne possession. 38 The people of God are his seruants, and he is their Lord.

THe worde that came vnto Ieremiā from the Lord, in the tenth yere of Zedekiah King of Iudāh, which was the eighteenth yere of Nebuchad-nezzār. For then the King of Babels hoste besieged Ierusalem: and Ieremiā the Prophet was shut vp in the court of the prison, & was in the King of Iudahs house.

3 For Zedekiah King of Iudah had shut him
vp, saying, Wherefore doest thou prophetic, & say, Thus saith the Lord, *Behold,
I wil giue this citie into the hands of the King of Babel, and he shal take it?

4 And Zedekiah the King of Iudah shal
not escape out of the hand of y Caldeins,
but shal surely be deliuered into the hands of the King of Babel, and shal speake with him mouthe to mouthe, and his eyes shal
beholde his face.

5 And he shal lead Zedekiáh to Babel, and there shal he be, vntil <sup>o</sup> I visite him, saith the Lord : thogh ye fight with the Caldeans, ye shal not prosper.

6 ¶ And Ieremiah said, The worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

7 Beholde, Hanameél, the sonne of Shallúm thine vncle, shal come vnto thee and faie. Bye vnto thee my field, that is in A-nathóth: for the <sup>o</sup> title by kintred appertei-neth vnto thee <sup>d</sup> to bve it.

8 So Hanameel, mine vnclen sonne, came to me in the court of the prison, according to the worde of the Lord, and said vnto me, Bye my field, I praie thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the countrei of Benjamin: for the right of the possession is thine, and the purchase belongeth vnto thee: bye it for thee. Then I knewe that this was the worde of the Lord.

And I bought the field of Hanameel, mine vncles sonne, that was in Anathoth and weighed him y siluer, euen seven shekels, and ten pieces of siluer.

And I writ it in the booke and signed it, & toke witnesses, and weighed him the sil-
uer in the balances.

So I toke the boke of the possession, being sealed according to the Law, and custome, with the boke that was open,

12 And I gaue the booke of the possession vnto Baruch the sonne of Neriah, the sonne of Maasiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine vncles sonne, and in y<sup>e</sup> presence of the witnesse, written in the booke of the possession, before all the Iewes that sate in the court of the prison.

13. And I charged Baruch before them, say-

14 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israël, Take the writings, even this booke
of the possession, bothe that is sealed, and this booke that is open, and put them in an earthen <sup>h</sup> vessel, that they maie continue a long time.

15 For the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel
saith thus, Houses and fields, and vineyar-
des shalbe possessed againe in this land.
16 ¶ Now when I had deliuered the peo-

the possession vnto Barúch, the sonne of Neriáh, I prayed vnto the Lord saying

17 Ah Lord God, beholde, thou hast made the heauē and the earth by thy great power, and by thy stretched out arme, and there is nothing hard vnto thee.

18 *Thou shewest mercie vnto thousands,
and recompencest the iniquitie of the fathers into y<sup>e</sup> bosome of their childre after them: o God the great and mightie, whose Name is the Lord of hostes.

19 Great in counſel, and mightie in worke
(for thine eyes are open vpon all the waies
of the ſonnes of men, to giue to euery one according to his waies, and according to the frute of his workes)

20 Which hast set signes and wonders in the land of Egypt vnto this <sup>k</sup> day, & in Israel
and among all men, and hast made thee
Name, as appeareth this daie,

21 And hast brought thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs, and with wonders, and with a strong hand, with a stretched out arme, and with great terror,

22 And hast giuen them this land, which thou didest sweare to their fathers to giue them, even a land, that floweth with
milke and honie,

23 And they came in, and possessed it, but they obeyed not thy voyce, nether walked in thy Law: all that thou commandedst them to do, they haue not done: therefore thou hast caused this whole plague to come vpon them.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Baruch writeth, as Ieremiāh enditeth, the boke of the curses agānst Iudāh and Israël. 9 He is sent with the boke vnto the people and readeth it before them all. 14 He is called before the rulers and readeth it before the also. 23 The King casteth it in the fyre. 28 There is another written at the comādemēt of the Lord.

And in the fourth yere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Iosiah King of Iudāh, came this worde vnto Ieremiāh from the Lord, saying,

Take thee a roole or boke, and write therein all the wordes that I haue spoken to thee against Israël, & against Iudāh, and against all the nations, from the daie that I spake vnto thee, even b from the daies of Iosiah vnto this daie.

It maie be that the house of Iudāh wil heare of all the euil, which I determined to do vnto them that they may reuerie euerie man from his euil waie, that I maie forgiue their iniquitie and their sinnes.

Then Ieremiāh called Baruch the sonne of Neriah, and Baruch wrote a t ŷ mouth of Ieremiāh all the wordes of the Lord, which he had spoken vnto him, vpo a roole or boke.

And Ieremiāh comāded Baruch, saying,

I am shut vp, & can not go into ŷ House of the Lord.

Therefore go thou, and read the roole wherein thou hast written at my mouth, the wordes of the Lord in the audience of the people in the Lords House vpon the first day: also thou shalt read them in the hearing of all Iudāh, ŷ come out of their cities.

It may be that they wil pray before the Lord, and euerie one returne from his euil way, for the angre & the wrath, that the Lord hathe declared agānst this people.

So Baruch the sonne of Neriah did according vnto all, that Ieremiāh ŷ Prophet comāded him, reading in the boke the wordes of the Lord in the Lords House. And in the fift yere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Iosiah King of Iudāh, in the ninth moneth, they proclaimed a fast before the Lord to all the people in Ierusalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Iudāh vnto Ierusalem.

Then red Baruch in the boke the wordes of Ieremiāh in the House of the Lord in the chambre of Gemariāh the sonne of Shaphān the secretarie, in the hier court, the entrie of the newe gate of the Lords House, in the hearing of all the people.

When Michaiāh the sonne of Gemariāh, the sonne of Shaphān had heard out of the boke all the wordes of the Lord,

Then he went downe to the Kings house into the Chancellours chamber, and lo, all ŷ princes sate there, even Elishamā the Chancellour, & Delaiāh the sonne of Samaiāh, and Elnathan ŷ sonne of Achib, and Gemariāh the sonne of Shaphān, and Zedekiāh the sonne of Iananiāh, and all the princes.

Then Michaiāh declared vnto them all the wordes that he had heard whē Baruch red in the boke in the audience of the people.

Therefore all the princes sent Iehudi the sonne of Nethaniah, the sonne of Shelemiah, the sonne of Chushi, vnto Baruch, saying, Take in thine hand the roole, wherein thou hast red in the audience of the people, and come. So Baruch the sonne of Neriah, toke the roole in his hand, and came vnto them.

And they said vnto him, Sit downe now, and read it, that we may heare. So Baruch red it in their audience.

Now when they had heard all the wordes, they were afraied bothe one another, and said vnto Baruch, We wil tell this the King of all the ŷ wordes.

And they examined Baruch, saying, Tels vs now, how dost thou write all these wordes at his mouth.

Kings rage.

Then Baruch answered & pronounced all these wordes vnto them in the mouth, and I wrote them w boke.

Then said the princes vnto Iehudi theee, thou and Ieremiāh man knowe where ye be.

And they wēt in to the house of Iehudi, but they laied vp ŷ roole in the house of Elishamā the Chancellour, and read all the wordes, that he mi

So the King sent Iehudi the ecolo: it out of Elishamā the chambre, and Iehudi red it in the King, and in the audience of the princes, which stode beside him.

Now the King sate in the ninth moneth, and burning before him.

And when Iehudi had re sides, he cut it with the p into the fyre, that was o all the roole was cofūme d was on the herth.

Yet they were not afraid garments, nether the King seruants, that heard all the Neuertheles, Elnathan, & Gemariāh had besoght the wolde not burne the roole not heare them.

14 Then said Jeremiāh, That is false, I flee not to the Caldeans: but he wolde not heare him: so Iriiah toke Jeremiāh, and broght him to the princes.

15 Wherefore the princes were angry with Jeremiāh, and smote him, and laid him in prison in the house of Iehonathan the scribe: for they had made that the <sup>h</sup> prison.

16 When Jeremiāh was entred into the dungeon, and into the prisons, and had remained there a long time,

17 Then Zedekiāh the King sent, and toke him out, and the King asked him secretly in his house, and said, Is there any worde from the Lord? And Jeremiāh said, Yea: for, said he, thou shalt be deliuered into the hand of the King of Babel.

18 Moreouer, Jeremiāh said vnto King Zedekiāh, What haue I offended agaiſt thee, or agaiſt thy ſeruants, or agaiſt this people, that ye haue put me in prison?

Chap. 38.

19 *Where are now your Prophetes, which prophecied vnto you, saying, The King of Babel ſhal not come agaiſt you, nor agaiſt this land?

20 Therefore heare now, I pray thee, O my lord the King: let my prayer be accepted before thee, that thou cauſe me not to returne to the house of Iehonathan the scribe, lest I dye there.

21 Then Zedekiāh the King commanded, that they shulde put Jeremiāh in the court of the prison, and that they shulde giue him dailey a piece of bread out of the bakers strete vntill all the bread in the citie were eaten vp. Thus Jeremiāh remained in the court of the prison.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

<sup>h</sup> That is, so long as there was any bread in the citie, thus God provided for him, if he wil cause their enemies to preferre them to y end wherunto he hathe appointed them.

<sup>h</sup> By the motion of the rulers Jeremiāh is put into a dungeon. 14. As the request of Ebed-melech the King commandeth Jeremiāh to be broght forth of the dungeon. 17. Jeremiāh sheweth the King how he might escape death.

THEN Shephatiah the sonne of Matthan, and Gedaliah the sonne of Pashhur, and Iucal the sonne of Shelemiah, & Pashhur the sonne of Malchiah, heard the wordes that Jeremiāh had spoken vnto all the people, saying,

Thus ſaith the Lord, He that remaineth in this citie, ſhal dye by the ſworde, by the famine and by the peſtilence: but he that goeth forth to the Caldeans, ſhal liue: for he ſhal haue his life for a pray, and ſhal liue.

23 Thus ſaith the Lord, This citie ſhal ſurely be giuen into the hand of the King of Babels armie, which ſhal take it.

<sup>a</sup> Thus we ſee how the wicked who they can not abide to heare y truth of Gods wordes, ſeke to put the miniſters to death as tranſgreſſors of poliſies.

24 Therefore the princes ſaid vnto y King, We beſeeche you, let this man be put to death: for this he weakeneth the hands of the men of warre: that remaine in this citie, and the hands of all the people, in

ſpeaking ſuche wordes vnto them: for this man ſeketh not the wealth of this people, but the hurt.

5 Then Zedekiāh the King ſaid, Beholde, he is in your hands, for the King can doe you nothing.

6 Then toke they Jeremiāh, and caſt him into the dungeon of Malchiah the ſonne of Hammelech, that was in the coort of the prison: and they let downe Jeremiāh with coards: and in the dungeon there was no water but myre: ſo Jeremiāh ſtacke ſtraw in the myre.

7 Now when Ebed-melech the blacke More one of the Eunuches, which was in the Kings house, heard that they had put Jeremiāh in the dungeon (then the King ſate in the gate of Benjamin)

8 And Ebed-melech wet out of the Kings house, and ſpake to the King, ſaying,

9 My lord the King, theſe men haue done euil in all y they they haue done to Jeremiāh the Prophet, whom they haue caſt into y dungeon, and he dyeth for hunger in the place where he is: for there is no more bread in the citie.

10 Then the King commanded Ebed-melech y blacke More, ſaying, Take fro hence thirtie men with thee, and take Jeremiāh the Prophet out of the dungeon before he dye.

11 So Ebed-melech toke the men with him and went to the house of the King vnder the treſurie, and toke there olde rotten ragges, and olde worne cloutes, and let them downe by coardest into the dungeon to Jeremiāh.

12 And Ebed-melech the blacke More ſaid vnto Jeremiāh, Put now theſe olde rotten ragges and worne vnder thine armes, betwene the coardest. And Jeremiāh did ſo.

13 So they drew vp Jeremiāh with coardest and toke him vp out of the dungeon, and Jeremiāh remained in the court of the prison.

14 Then Zedekiāh the King ſent, and toke Jeremiāh the Prophet vnto him, in the third entrie that is in the Houſe of the Lord, & the King ſaid vnto Jeremiāh, I wil aſke thee a thing: hide nothing from me.

15 Then Jeremiāh ſaid to Zedekiāh, If I declare it vnto thee, wilt thou ſlaye me: and if I giue thee counſel, thou wilt not heare me.

16 So the King ſware ſecretly vnto Jeremiāh, ſaying, As the Lord liueth, that made vs theſe ſoules, I wil not ſlaie thee, nor giue thee into the hands of thoſe men that ſeke thy life.

17 Then ſaid Jeremiāh vnto Zedekiāh, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, God of Iſrael, If thou wilt go forth vnto the King of Babels princes, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, and this citie ſhal be taken: ſo ſhal I ſcape, and thou ſhalt be ſlaue.

18 But if thou wilt not go forth vnto the King of Babels princes, then ſhal I be giuen into the hand of the Caldeans, and they ſhal burne it with fyre, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hand.

19 And Zedekiāh the King ſaid vnto Jeremiāh, I am careful for the life of the King: ſo ſhal I be ſlaied vnto the Caldeans, let me into their hands, and thou ſhalt liue.

20 But Jeremiāh ſaid, The Lord ſaith thus: hearken vnto the wordes of the Lord, I beſeeche thee, which thou ſhalt heare: ſo ſhal it be well vnto thy ſoule ſhal liue.

21 But if thou wilt reſuſe to heare the wordes of the Lord, then ſhal I be ſlaied vnto the Caldeans, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hand.

22 And behold, all the women which are in the King of Iudahs house, and thoſe women ſhal be perſuaded thee, and ſhal ſay agaiſt thee: thy ſoule ſhal be in danger, and thou ſhalt be turned backe to the Caldeans, and thou ſhalt be taken by the hand.

23 So thou ſhalt bring out all thy children to the Caldeans, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hand: Babel: and this citie ſhal be burnt with fyre.

24 Then ſaid Zedekiāh vnto Jeremiāh, No man knowe of theſe wordes, leſt he ſay ſo: ſo thou ſhalt not dye.

25 But if the princes vnderſtand, and they talked with thee, and thou ſaidſt, Thus ſaith the Lord, now what thou haſt ſaid, they ſhal hide it not from vs, and thou ſhalt ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord.

26 Then ſhalt thou ſay vnto the King, Thus ſaith the Lord, I beſeech thee, cauſe me to returne to Iehonathan the ſcribe, that I may dye there.

27 Then came all the princes, and they asked him. And he tolde them all theſe wordes that the Lord commanded: ſo thei left him, for the matter was not good.

28 So Jeremiāh abode ſtill in the prison, vntill the day that the King was taken: and he was there, when the King was taken.

buchad-nezzar King of Babel and all his hoste against Ierusalem, and thei besie-

And in the eleventh yere of Zedekiah in the fourth moneth, the ninth daie of the moneth, the citie was broken a vp.

And all the princes of the King of Babel came in, and sat in the middle gate,
euen Neregal, Sharézer, Samgar-nebo, Sarfechim, Rab-faris, Neregal, Sharézer,
Rab-mag with all the residue of the prin-

And when Zedekiah the King of Iudah
sawe them, and all the men of warre, then
thei fled, & went out of the citie by night,
through the Kings garden, & by the gate betwene the two walles, and he went toward the wilderness.

But the Caldeans hoste pursued after them, and ouertoke Zedekiah in the de-

him, thei broght him to Nebuchad-nez-

Then the King of Babel slewe the sonnes

also the King of Babel slewe all the nobles of Iudah.

Moreouer he put out Zedekiahs eyes,
and bounde him in chaines, to carye him
to Babel.

And the Caldeans burnt the Kings hou-

and brake downe the walles of Ierusalem.

Then Nebuzar-adan the chief steward
caryed away captiue into Babel the rem-

Take him, and loke wel to him, and do

CHAP. XL.

<sup>c</sup> The worde which came to Jeremiáh from the Lord after that Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had let him go from Ramáth, when he had taken him being bounde in chaines among all that were carryed awaie captiue of Ierusalem and Iudáh, which were carryed awaie captiue vnto Babel.

1 And the chief steward toke Jeremiáh, and said vnto him, The Lord thy God hath pronounced this plague vpon this place.

2 Now the Lord hath broght it, & done according as he hath said: because ye haue sinned against the Lord, and haue not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come vpon you.

3 And now beholde, I loke thee this daie from the chaines which were on thine handes, if it please thee to come with me into Babel, come, and I wil loke wel vnto thee: but if it please thee not to come with me into Babel, tary stil: beholde, all the land is before thee: whether it seemeth good, and conuenient for thee to go, thether go.

4 For yet he was not returned: therefore he said, Returne to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám, the sonne of Shaphán, whome the King of Babel hath made gouernour ouer all the cities of Iudáh, and dwell with him among the people, or go wheresoeuer it please thee to go. So the chief steward gaue him vitayles and a rewarde, and let him go.

5 Then went Jeremiáh vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám, to Mizpáh, and dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land.

6 Now when all the captaines of the hoste, which were in the fields, euen thei and their men heard, that the King of Babel had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám

gouernour in the land, and that he had committed vnto him, men, and women, and children, and of the poore of the land, that were not carryed away captiue to Babel,

7 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpáh, euen Ishmaél the sonne of Nethaniáh, and Iohanán, and Ionathán the sonnes of Karéah, and Seraiah the sonne of Tanhuméth, and the sonnes of Ephai, the Netophathite, and Iezaniáh the sonne of Maachathi, thei and their men.

8 And Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám, the sonne of Shaphán, sware vnto them, and to their men, saying, Feare not to serue the Caldeans: dwell in the land, and serue the King of Babel, and it shalbe wel with you.

9 As for me, beholde, I wil dwell at Mizpáh to serue the Caldeans, which will come vnto vs: but you, gather you wine, and sommer frutes, and oyle, and put them in your vessels, & dwell in your cities, that ye haue taken.

10 Likewise when all the Iewes that were in Moáb, and among the Ammonites, and in Edóm, and that were in all the countreis, heard that the King of Babel had left a remnant of Iudáh, and that he had set ouer them Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám the sonne of Shaphán,

11 Euen all the Iewes returned out of all places where thei were driuen, and came to the land of Iudáh to Gedaliah vnto Mizpáh, and gathered wine and sommer frutes, very muche.

12 Moreover Iohanán the sonne of Karéah, and all the captaines of the hoste, that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpáh,

13 And said vnto him, Knowest thou not that Baalis the King of the Ammonites hath sent Ishmaél the sonne of Nethaniáh to slay thee? But Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám beleued them not.

14 Then Iohanán the sonne of Karéah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpáh secretly, saying, Let me go, I pray thee, and I wil slay Ishmaél the sonne of Nethaniáh, and no man shal knowe it. Wherefore shouldest thou keepest thee, that all the Iewes, which are gathered vnto thee, shouldest be scattered, and the remnant in Iudáh perishe?

15 But Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikám said vnto Iohanán the sonne of Karéah, Thou shalt not do this thing: for thou speakest falsely of Ishmaél.

CHAP. XL.

Then arose Ishmaél the sonne of Nethaniáh with these ten men, Iohanán, and smote Gedaliah the sonne of Shaphán with the sworde, and slew him, whome the King of Babel had made gouernour in the land.

Ishmaél also slew all the Iewes that were with Gedaliah at Mizpáh, and the Caldeans that were founde there of warre.

Now the seconde daie after that Gedaliah was slaine, there came men from Shaloh, & from Samaria, euen having their beards shaven, and their clothes rent and cut, with incense in their hands to offer for the Lord.

And Ishmaél the sonne of Nethaniáh went forth from Mizpáh weeping, as he went: & when he was come to the sonne of Ahikám.

And when thei came into the cite, Ishmaél the sonne of Nethaniáh slew thei, and cast their bodies into the pit, he and the Iewes that were with him.

But ten men were founde that had fled vnto Ishmaél, Slaine he had treasures in the field, of barley, and of oyle, and of flax, and of madder, and slew them not.

Now the pit wherein Iohanán had hid the dead bodies of the Iewes, which Asa the King had hid, was founde: and the King of Babel King of Israël, and the sonne of Nethaniáh filled the pit with stones.

Then Ishmaél carryed away the residue of the people that were left in Mizpáh, euen the Kings daughter, and the people that remained in Mizpáh, and Nebuzar-adan the chief steward carried them away captiue vnto the King of Babel.

But when Iohanán the sonne of Karéah heard of all the things that were done, he and all the captaines of the hoste, which were with him, heard of all the things that were done.

Then they all toke their bows, and fought with Ishmaél, & Iohanán.

Then arose Iſhmaēl the sonne of Netha-niāh with these ten men that were with him, and smote Gedaliāh the sonne of Nethaniāh, and the sonnes of Shaphān with the sword, and slewe him, whome the King of Babel had made gouernour ouer the land.

Iſhmaēl also slewe all the Iewes that were
with Gedaliāh at Mizpāh, & all the Cal-deans that were founde there, & the men of warre.

Now the seconde daie that he had slaine
Gedaliāh, and no man knewe it,

There came men from Shechem, frō Shi-
don, & from Samaria, foure score men,
having their beards shauen, and their clothes rent and cut, with offerings and men in their hands to offere in the House of the Lord.

And Iſhmaēl the sonne of Nethaniāh
went forth from Mizpāh to meete them,
weeping as he went: & when he met them,
he said vnto them, Come to Gedaliāh
the sonne of Nethaniāh.

And when they came into the middles of the citie, Iſhmaēl the sonne of Netha-niāh slewe them, and cast them into the mid-des of the pit, he and the men that were
with him.

But ten men were founde among them,
that said vnto Iſhmaēl, Slay vs not: for we haue treasures in the field, of wheat, and
of barley, and of oyle, and of honie: so he slewed, and slewe them not among their brethren.

Now the pit wherein Iſhmaēl had cast
the dead bodies of the men (whome he had slaine because of Gedaliāh) is it,
which Asa the King had made because of Baſhi King of Israel, and Iſhmaēl the sonne of Nethaniāh filled it with them
that were slaine.

Then Iſhmaēl caryed away captiue all
the residue of the people that were in Miz-pāh, euen the Kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpāh, whome Nebuzar-adān the chiefe steward had committed to Gedaliāh the sonne of Netha-niāh, and Iſhmaēl the sonne of Nethaniāh
caryed them away captiue, and departed
to go ouer to the Ammonites.

But when Iohanān the sonne of Kareah, & all the captaines of the hoste that were
with him, heard of all the euil that Iſhmaēl
the sonne of Nethaniāh had done,

Then they all toke their men, and went to fight with Iſhmaēl & sonne of Nethaniāh,

and founde him by the great waters, that are in Gibeon.

Now when all the people whome Iſhmaēl caryed away captiue, sawe Iohanān the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste, that were with him, they were glad.

So all the people, that Iſhmaēl had caried away captiue from Mizpāh, returned and came againe, and went vnto Iohanān
the sonne of Kareah.

But Iſhmaēl the sonne of Nethaniāh, escaped from Iohanān with eight men, and went to the Ammonites.

Then toke Iohanān the sonne of Kareah, & all the captaines of the hoste, that were
with him all the remnant of the people
whome Iſhmaēl the sonne of Nethaniāh
had caryed away captiue from Mizpāh, (after that he had slaine Gedaliāh the sonne of Nethaniāh) euen the strong men of warre, and the women, and the children, &
the cuniches, whome he had brought againe
from Gibeon:

And they departed and dwelt in Gerūth Chimham, which is by Beth-lehem, to go to entre into Egypt,

Because of the Caldeans: for they feared
them, because Iſhmaēl the sonne of Nethaniāh had slaine Gedaliāh the sonne of Nethaniāh, whome the King of Babel had made gouernour in the land.

CHAP. XLII.

The captaines aske counsel of Ieremiāh what they ought to do. 7 He admonisheth the remnant of the people not to go into Egypt.

Then all the captaines of the hoste,
and Iohanān the sonne of Kareah, & Iezaniāh the sonne of Hoshaiah, and all
the people from the least vnto the moste came,

And said vnto Ieremiāh y Prophet, Hea-
re our prayer, we beseeche thee, & pray for vs vnto the Lord thy God, eue for all this remnant (for we are left, but a fewe of manie, as thine eyes do beholde)

That the Lord thy God may shewe vs the way wherein we may walke, and the thing
that we may do.

Then Ieremiāh the Prophet said vnto
them, I haue heard you, beholde, I wil pray
vnto the Lord your God according to your wordes, and whatsoever thing the Lord shal answer you, I wil declare it vn-
to you: I wil kepe nothing backe fro you.

Then they said to Ieremiāh, The Lord
be a witness of truth, and faith betwene
vs, if we do not, euen according to all things for the which the Lord thy God
shal send thee to vs.

Whether it be good or euil, we wil obey
the voyce of the Lord God, to whome we call.

Dissembling hypocrites. Jeremiah. Railings and scorn

e Here is declared the vision & the occasion thereof, whereof mention was made, Chap. 40.

d Read Chap. 18, 3.

e Because all Kings hearts and waies are in his hands, he can turne them & dispose them as he pleases him, and therefore they need not to feare man, but onely obey God, Prou. 21, 1, 10, 31, 17, 18.

f Thus God turneth & polieth of the wicked to their owne destruction: for the thought themselves sure in Egypt, and there Nebuchadnezzar destroyed them, and the Egyptians, Chap. 40, 15.

g Read Chap. 26, 6 & 24, 22, shewing that this shulde come vpon them for their iniquities & rebelliousness.

h For you were fully minded to go into Egypt, & haue feared God spake to the consularie.

And thee that it may be wel with vs, when we obey the voyce of the Lord our God.

7 ¶ And so after ten dayes came y<sup>e</sup> worde of the Lord vnto Jeremiah.

8 Then called he Iohanán the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaynes of the hoste, which were with him, and all the people from the least to the moſte.

9 And said vnto the, Thus saith the Lord God of Israél, vnto whome ye sent me, to present your prayers before him.

10 If ye wil dwell in this land, then I wil buyld you, and not destroye you, and I wil plant you, and not roote you out: for I repent me of the euil that I haue done vnto you.

11 Feare not for the King of Babel, of whome ye are afraid: be not afraid of him, saith the Lord: for I am with you, to saue you, and to deliuer you from his hand.

12 And I wil grant you mercie that he may haue compassion vpon you, and he shal cause you to dwell in your owne land.

13 But if ye say, We wil not dwell in this land, neither heare the voyce of the Lord your God,

14 Saying, Nay, but we wil go into the lād of Egypt, where we shal se no waite, nor heare the founde of the trumpet, nor haue hunge of bread, and there wil we dwell,

15 (And now therefore heare the worde of the Lord, ye remnant of Iudah: thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israél, If ye set your faces to entre into Egypt, and go to dwell there.)

16 Then the sworde that ye feared, shal take you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine, for y<sup>e</sup> which ye care, shal there hāg vpon you in Egypt, & there shal ye dye.

17 And all the men that set their faces to entre into Egypt to dwell there, shal dye by the sworde, by the famine & by y<sup>e</sup> pestilence, & none of them shal remaine nor escape frō the plague, that I wil bring vpon them.

18 For thus saith the Lord of hostes y<sup>e</sup> God of Israél, As mine angre and my wrath hath bene powred forth vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem: so shal my wrath be powred forth vpon you, when ye shal entre into Egypt, & ye shal be a detestacion, & an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproche, and ye shal se this place no more.

19 O ye remnant of Iudah, the Lord hath said concerning you, Go not into Egypt: knowe certainly that I haue admonished you this day.

20 Surely ye haue dissembled in your hearts when ye sent me vnto the Lord your God, saying, Pray for vs vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lord our God and declare vnto vs euen according vnto all that the Lord our God shal say, and we wil do it.

21 Therefore I haue this day declared in you, but you haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lord your God, nor anie thing for the which he hath sent me vnto you.

22 Now therefore, knowe certainly that ye shal dye by the sworde, by the famine, and by the pestilence, in the place whither ye desire to go and dwell.

CHAP. XLIII.

Iohanán carryeth the remnant of the people into Egypt contrary to the minds of Jeremiah. & Jeremiah prophesieth the destruction of Egypt.

NOW whē Jeremiah had made an end of speaking vnto the whole people all the wordes of the Lord their God, to the which y<sup>e</sup> Lord their God had sent him to them, euen all these wordes,

2 Then spake Azariah the sonne of Hoſaiah, and Iohanán the sonne of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying vnto Jeremiah, Thou speakest fallſly: the Lord our God hath not sent thee to say, Go not into Egypt to dwell there,

3 But Baruch the sonne of Neriah, & pro-uoketh thee againſt vs, for to deliuer vs into the hand of the Caldeans, that they might slay vs, and carie vs away captiue into Babel.

4 So Iohanán the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaynes of the hoste, and all the people obeyed not the voyce of the Lord, & dwell in the land of Iudah.

5 But Iohanán the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaynes of the hoste toke all y<sup>e</sup> remnant of Iudah, that were returned from all nations, whether they had bene captiue to dwell in the land of Iudah:

6 Euen men and women, and children, and the Kings daughters, and euerie persone, that Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had left with Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the Prophet, & Baruch the sonne of Neriah.

7 So they came into the land of Egypt: for they obeyed not the voyce of the Lord: thus came they to Tahpanhes.

8 ¶ The came the worde of the Lord vnto Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying,

9 Take great stones in thine hand, and hide them in the clay in the bricke kil, which is at the entrie of Pharaohs house in Tahpanhes in the sight of the men of Iudah.

10 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israél, Behold, I wil send and bring Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel my seruant, and wil set his throne vpon these stones y<sup>e</sup> I haue hid, and he shal spread his pauill n ouer the land of Egypt: such as are appointed to death, to death, & such as are for captiuitie, to captiuitie, and such as are for the sworde, to the sworde.

And I will kinde a fyre in the gods of Egypt, and he shall carie them awaie captiue: I will carie him selfe with the land, & the shepherds puteth on his garment, & he shal departe from thence in the day. He shal breake also the images of them, that is in the land, & the houses of the gods of Egypt, & he shal burne with fyre.

CHAP. XLIV.

Jeremiah reproacheth the people for their idolatry by the threatening of the Lord. The destruction of Egypt and of the prophecies.

THE worde that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Iewes, which were in the land of Egypt, and remnant of Iudah, & Tahpanhes, and in the countrey of Pathros.

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israél, Ye haue sene all the euils, which I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, & cities of Iudah: & behold, they are desolate, & no man dwelleth therein, because of their wickednes, which they haue committed, to prouoke me, in that they went to burne other gods, whome they neither thei nor you nor your fathers knewe: Howbeit I sent vnto you the Prophets, rising early in the morning, saying, Oh do not thinke that I haue.

3 But thei wolde not heare nor care to turne from their wickednes, to burne no more incense vpon the altars.

4 Wherefore my wrath was kindled against you, & I was powred forth, and the cities of Iudah, and Ierusalem, and thei are desolate, & they appeare this daye.

5 Therefore now thus saith the Lord God of Israél, Where is this great euil against you, that ye haue done, that ye haue suckeling out of Iudah, and ye are to remaine?

6 In that ye prouoke me with the workes of your hands, & ye haue sent vnto other gods in the land, whether ye be gone to dwell, or whether ye be goneto dwell, bring destruction vnto you, that ye might be a curse among all nations of the earth.

7 Haue ye forgotten the wickednes of your fathers, and the wickednes of Iudah, and the wickednes of your owne wickednes, & the wickednes of your wiues, which ye haue committed in the land of Ierusalem?

8 Thei are not humbled

efore I haue this day declared
you haue not obeyed the voice of your God, nor anie thing that
he hath sent me vnto you:
therefore, knowe certainly that I will by the sworde, by the famine,
the pestilence, in the place where
ye desire to go and dwell.

He shal breake also the images of Bethshemesh, that is in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians
shal he burne with fyre.

CHAP. XLIIII.

He reproveth the people for their idolatrie. Thei that were chastened by the threatening of the Lord, are chastened, in the destruction of Egypt and of the Lewes therein, is propheied.

The worde that came to Ieremiāh concerning all the Lewes, which dwell in the land of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at Tahpanhes, and at Noph, and in the countrey of Pathros, saying,

Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israēl, Ye haue sene all the euil that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, and vpon all the cities of Iudāh: & beholde, this day they are desolate, & no man dwelleth therein, Because of their wickednes which they
haue committed, to prouoke me to anger
in that they went to burne incense, & to serue other gods, whome they knewe not,
neither thei nor you nor your fathers.

Howbeit I sent vnto you all my seruants
the Prophetes rising early, and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate.

But they wolde not heare nor incline their eare to turne from their wickednes, and to burne no more incense vnto other gods.

Wherefore my wrath, and mine anger was powred forth and was kindled in the cities of Iudāh, and in the stretes of Ie-rusalem, and they are desolate, & walke, as I haue sayd this daye.

Therefore now thus saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord of hostes
the God of Israēl, Wherefore commit ye
this great euil against your soules, to cut off from you man and woman, childe &
suckeling out of Iudāh, and leaue you no-
one to remaine.

In that ye prouokē me vnto wrath with
the workes of your hands, burning incense vnto other gods in the land of Egypt whether ye be goneto dwell: y<sup>e</sup> ye might bring destruction vnto your selues, and that ye might be a curse and a reproche
among all nations of the earth.

Haue ye forgotten the wickednes of your fathers, and the wickednes of the Kings of Iudāh and the wickednes of their wi-
ues and your owne wickednes and the wickednes of your wiues, which they haue committed in the land of Iudāh and in y<sup>e</sup>
stretes of Ierusalem?

They are not humbled vnto this daye,

nether haue they feared nor walked in my lawe nor in my statutes, that I set before
you and before your fathers.

Therefore thus saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord of hostes y<sup>e</sup>
God of Israēl, Beholde, I will set my face against you to euil & to destroy all Iudāh.

And I will take the remnant of Iudāh,
that haue set their faces to go into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and they shal
all be consumed & fall in the land of Egypt: they shal be consumed by the sworde & by y<sup>e</sup> famine: they shal dye from the least vnto the moste, by the sworde, &
by the famine, & they shal be a detestation
and an astonishment and a curse and a reproche.

For I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I haue visited Ierusalem, by y<sup>e</sup>
sworde, by the famine, & by the pestilence.

So that none of the remnant of Iudāh,
which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shal escape or remaine, that they shuld returne into the land of Iudāh to the which they haue a desire to returne to dwell there: for none shal returne, but as suche as shal escape.

Then all the men which knewe that their
wiues had burnt incense vnto other gods
and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, then all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt in Pathros, answered Ieremiāh, saying,

The worde that thou hast spoken vnto
vs in the Name of the Lord, we wil not heare it of thee.

But we wil do whatsoeuer thing goeth
out of our owne mouth, as to burne incen-
se vnto the Quene of heauē, & to powre
out drinke offerings vnto her, as we haue
done, both we and our fathers, our Kings and our princes in the cite of Iudāh, and in the stretes of Ierusalem: for then had we plenty of vitales and were wel and felt none euil.

But since we left off to burne incense to the Quene of heauen, and to powre out drinke offerings vnto her, we haue had scar-
cenes of all things, and haue bene consumed by the sworde and by the famine.

And when we burnt incense to the Que-
ne of heauen & powred out drinke offerings
vnto her, did we make her cakes to make her glad, and powre out drinke offerings
vnto her without our housebandes?

Then said Ieremiāh vnto all the people,
to the men, and to the women, and to all

Did not y<sup>e</sup> Lord remeber the incense that ye burnt in y<sup>e</sup> cities of Iudāh, & in the stre-tes of Ierusalem, both ye you, & your fathers,

22 So that the Lord colde no longer forbear, because of the wickednes of your inuencions, & because of the abominations, which ye haue committed: therefore is your land desolate and an astonishment, & a curse without inhabitant, as appeareth this daie.

23 Because ye haue burnt incense and because ye haue sinned agais̄t the Lord, & haue not obeyed the voice of the Lord, nor walked in his Law nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this plague is come vpon you, as appeareth this day.

24 Moreover Jeremiāh said vnto all the people and to all the women, Heare the wordes of the Lord, all Iudāh that are in the land of Egypt:

25 ¶ Thus spaketh the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, saying, Ye and your wiues haue bothe spoken with your mouthes, and fulfilled with your hand, saying, We will performe our vowes y<sup>e</sup> we haue vowed to burne incense to the Queene of heauen, and to poure out drinke offrings to her: ye will performe your vowes and do the things that ye haue vowed:

26 Therefore heare the wordes of the Lord; all Iudāh that dwell in the land of Egypt. Beholde, I haue sworne by my great Name, saith the Lord, that my Name shall no more be called vpon by the mouth of any man of Iudāh, in all the land of Egypt, saying, The Lord God liueth.

27 Beholde, I wil watche ouer them for euil and not for good, and all men of Iudāh that are in the land of Egypt, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine, vntill they be vterly destroyed.

28 Yet a small nombre that escape the sword, shall returne out of the land of Egypt into the land of Iudāh: and all the remnant of Iudāh that are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall knowe whose wordes shall stand, mine or theirs.

29 And this shall be a signe vnto you, saith the Lord, when I visite you in this place, that ye may knowe that my wordes shall surely stand agais̄t you for euil.

30 Thus saith the Lord, Beholde, I wil p<sup>er</sup>igie Pharaoh Hophra King of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seek his life: as I gaue Zedekiah King of Iudāh into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel his enemy, who also sought his life.

CHAP. XLV.

Jeremiāh comforteth Baruch, assuring him that he should not perish in the destruction of Ierusalem.

¶ The wordes that Jeremiāh the Prophet spake vnto Baruch the sonne of Neriah, when he had written these wordes in a booke at the mouth of Jeremiāh in the fourth yere of Ichoiakim the sonne of Iosiah King of Iudāh, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel vnto thee, O Baruch, Thou didest say, Wo is me now: for the Lord hath layed sorrow vnto my sorrow, I am faint in my mourning, and I can finde no rest.

¶ Thus shalt thou say vnto him, The Lord saith thus, Beholde, that which I haue buylt, wil I destroy, & that which I haue planted, wil I plucke vp, saith the Lord.

¶ And I keest thou great things for thy self: seeketh thou not: for beholde, I wil bring a plague vpon all flesh, saith the Lord: thy life wil I giue thee for a pray in all places, whether thou goest.

CHAP. XLVI.

He prophesieth the destruction of Egypt, & the vengeance is promised to Israel.

¶ The wordes of the Lord, which came vnto Jeremiāh the Prophet agais̄t the Gentiles.

¶ Agais̄t Egypt, agais̄t the armie of Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, which was by the riuer Perath in Carchemish, which Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel smote in the fourth yere of Ichoiakim the sonne of Iosiah King of Iudāh.

¶ Make readie buckler and shield, and go forth to battel.

¶ Make readie the horses, and let the horsemen get vp, & stand vp wth your fallers, foubish the speares, and put on the brigandines.

¶ Wherefore haue I sene them afraid, & driuen backe for the inmightie men are smitten, and are fled away, and loke not backe: for feare was round about, saith the Lord.

¶ The swift shall not flee away, nor the strong man escape: they shall stumble, and fall toward the North by the riuer Perath.

¶ Who is this, that cometh vp, as a flood, whose waters are moued like the riuers?

¶ Egypt riseth vp like the flood, and his waters are moued like the riuers, and he saith, I wil go vp, & wil couer the earth: I wil destroy the cite with them that dwell therein.

¶ Come vp, ye horses, and rage ye chariots, and let the valiant men come forth, the blacke Mores, and the Lybians that beare the shield, and the Lydians that handle & bend the bowes.

¶ For this is the day of the Lord God of hostes, a day of vengeance, that he may aduēge him of his enemies: for the sword shall deuoure, and it shall be sariat, and made drunke with their blood: for the Lord God of hostes hath a sacrifice in the North

North countrey by the riuer. Go vp vnto Gilead, the daughter of virginie, the daughter of the North: thou vse many medicines, but shalt haue no health.

¶ The nations haue heard thy crye, haue filled the land with stumblers agais̄t thee, they are fallen bothe together.

¶ The wordes that the Lord spake by the Prophet, how Ichoiakim King of Babel shulde be the land of Egypt.

¶ Publish in Egypt & decrye, and proclaime in Noph, & say, Stand still, and prepare the sword that deuoure round about.

¶ Why are they valiant men, colde not stand, because they see them.

¶ He made many to fall, another: and they said, A gaine to our owne people, of our natiuitie from the violent.

¶ They did crye there, Egypt, and of a great multitude passed the time appointed.

¶ As I liue, saith the King of the Lord of hostes, surely the mountaines, & as Canaan shall it come.

¶ Thou daughter dwellest in the gear to go into Noph, shalt be waste and desolate, an inhabitant.

¶ Also her hired men are like fat calves: they are ke and fled away together, stand, because the day of vengeance was come vpon them, & visitacion.

¶ The voyce thereof shall be as the serpent: for they shall murther, and come agais̄t the hewers of wood.

¶ They shall cut downe the Lord: for they can not beare, they are more then the number, they are innumerable.

¶ The daughter of Egypt ded, she shall be deliuered, the people of the North.

¶ Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Beholde, I wil visite the people of No & Pharaoh, and all them that are with their gods & their idols.

m You haue conuited deuile childe in making wicked vowes, and in performing y<sup>e</sup> same.

n This declarerth an horrible plague toward idolaters, seeing that God wil not vouchsafeth to haue his Name mentioned by such as haue polluted it.

o We see therefore, that God hath a perpetual cause ouer his, wherefores they are frustrated, though they be but twoorthree, yet he wil deliuer them when he destroyeth his enemies.

p He sheweth the meanes whereby they shulde be destroyed, to assure them of y<sup>e</sup> certaintie of y<sup>e</sup> plague, and yet they remaine still in their obstinacie till they perish: for Iosiphus lib. 10 de Antig cap 10 writeth that foue yeres after the taking of Ierusalem, Nebuchad-nezzar the younger, hauing conquered Ierusalem, the Moabites and the Ammonites, w<sup>er</sup> againe Egypt, & slew the King, & so brought these Jewes, and other into Babylon.

Why are thy valiant men put backe: they

They did crye there, Pharaóh King of Egypt, and of a great multitude haue

As I liue, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hostes, surely as Tabór is in

so shal it come.
O thou daughter dwellig in Egypt, make thee geare to go into captiuitie: for Noph shal be waste and desolate, without

Egypt is like a faire calfe, but destructi-

Also her hired men are in the middes of

The wordes of the Lord that came to Jeremiáh the Prophet, againt y Philistims, before that Pharaóh smote Azzá-hah.
Thus saith the Lord, Beholde, waters rise
vp out of the North, & shalbe as a swelling flood, and shal ouerflowe the land, &
all that is therein, and the cities with them
that dwell therein: then the men shal crye,
& all the inhabitants of y land shal howle.
At the noyce & stamping of the hooves of his stróg horses, at the noyce of his charets,
and at the rumbling of his wheles: the fathers shal not loke backe to their children,
for feblenes of hands,
Because of the daye that cometh to des-
troye all the Philistims, and to destroye Tyrus, and Zidón, & all the rest, that take their parte: for the Lord wil destroye the Philistims, y remnant of the yle of Caphtór.
Baldenes is come vpon Azzáh: Ashkelón is cut vp with the rest of their vallis. How long wilt thou cut thy self?
O thou sworde of the Lord, how long wil it be or thou cease! turne againe into thy scaberde, rest and be stil.
How can it cease, seing the Lord ha-

6 Flee and saue your liues, and be like vnto the heath in the wiljernes.

7 For because thou hast trusted in thy workes and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and Chemósh shal go for the into captiuitie with his Priests and his princes together.

8 And y destroyer shal come vpon all cities, & no citie shal escape: the valley also shal perish and the plaine shalbe destroyed as the Lord hath spoken.

9 Giue wings vnto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shalbe desolate, without any to dwell therein.

10 Cursed be he that doeth the worke of y Lord negligently, and cursed be he that kepeth backe his sworde from blood.

11 Moab hath bene at rest from his youth, and he hath setled on his lees, & hath not bene powred from vessel to vessel, nether hath he gone into captiuitie: therefore his taste remained in him and his sent is not changed.

12 Therefore beholde, y daies come, saith the Lord, that I wil send vnto him suche as shal cary him away, and shal emptie his vessels, and breake their bottels.

13 And Moab shal be ashamed of Chemósh as the house of Israél was ashamed of Beth-él their confidence.

14 How thinke you thus, We are mightie & strong men of warre?

15 Moab is destroyed, and his cities burnt vp, & his chofen yong me are gone downe to slaughter, saith the King, whose name is, The Lord of hostes.

16 The destruction of Moab is readie to come, and his plague hasteth fast.

17 All ye y are about him, mourne for him, & all ye that knowe his name, say, How is the strong staffe broken, & the beautiful rod!

18 Thou daughter that doest inhabite Dibón, come downe from thy glorie, & sit in thirst: for the destroyer of Moab shal come vp vpon thee, and he shal destroy thy strong holdes.

19 Thou that dwellest in Aroér, stand by the way, and beholde: aske him that fleeth and that escapeth, & say, What is done?

20 Moab is confounded: for it is destroyed: howle, and crye, tel ye it in Arnón, that Moab is made waste,

21 And iudgement is come vpon the plaine country, vpon Holón & vpon Iaházah, and vpon Mepháath,

22 And vpon Dibón, and vpon Nebó, and

vpon the house of Diblaháim,

25 The horne of Moab is cut of, and his arme is broken, saith the Lord.

26 Make ye him drunken: for he magnified him self against the Lord: Moab shal wallow in his vomite, and he also shal be derision.

27 For didest not y deride Israél, as thou hast bene founde among theues? for when thou speakest of him, thou art mocked.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leaue the cities, & dwell in the rocks, and be like the doue, that maketh her neste in the sides of the holes mouth.

30 I knowe his wrath, saith the Lord, & it shal not be so: & his dissimulations, for thei do not right.

31 Therefore wil I howle for Moab, and I wil crye out for all Moab: mine heart shal mourne for the men of Kir-héres.

32 O vine of Sibmáh, I wil wepe for thee, as I wept for Iazér: thy plantes are gone out of the sea, thei are come to the sea of Iazér: the destroyer is fallen vpon thy Sommer frutes, and vpon thy vintage.

They that fled, shalbe vnto Heshbón, because of the fyre came out of Heshbón, & the top of the feditious.

he their King possessed Gad? and his people dwell in his cities?

Therefore beholde, the dayes come,
saith the Lord, that I wil cause a noyse of warre to be heard in a Rabbah of the Am-monites, and it shall be a desolate heape, &
her daughters shall be burnt with fyre: then shall Israél possesse those that possessed
him, faith the Lord.

Howe, o Heshbón, for Ai is wasted: crye ye daughters of Rabbah: gird ye with sackcloth: mourne & runne to & fro by hedges: for their King shall go into cap-tiuitie, & his Priests, and his princes likewise.

Wherefore gloriest thou in the valleys?
thy valley flower away, o rebellious daughter: she trusted in her treasures, saying,
Who shall come vnto me?

Beholde, I wil bring a feare vpon thee,
saith the Lord God of hostes, of all those
that be about thee, and ye shall be feared euerie man: right forth, & none shall gather him that fleeth.

And afterward I wil bring againe the

captiuitie of the children of Ammón.

To Edóm thus saith the Lord of hostes,
Is wisdom no more in Temán? is counsell
perished from their children? is their wis-dome vanished?

Flee, ye inhabitants of Dedán: they are turned backe, and haue consulted to dwell: for I haue broght the destruction of Esáu vpon him, and the time of his visitation.

If the grape gatherers come to thee,
wolde they not leaue some grapes? if theues
come by night, they wil destroye til they haue ynough.

For I haue discouered Esáu: I haue vncouered his secrets, and he shall not be able to hide him self: his fede is wasted, and his brethré and his neighbours, and there shall be none to say,

Leaue thy fatherles children, & I wil
preserue them aliue, and let thy widows trust in me.

For thus saith the Lord, Beholde, thei whose iudgement was not to drinke of the cuppe, haue assuredly drunke, and art thou
he that shalt escape free? thou shalt not go
free, but thou shalt surely drinke of it.

For I haue sworne by my self, saith the Lord, that Bozrah shall be waste, and for a reproche, and a desolation, and a curse,
and all the cities thereof shall be perpetual desolations.

I haue heard a rumour from the Lord, &
an embassadour is sent vnto the heathen,
saying, Gather you together, and come against her, and rise vp to the battell.

For lo, I wil make thee but smale among the heathen, and despised among men.

Thy feare, and the pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee, thou that dwel-
lest in the cleftes of the rocke, and kepest
the height of the hill: thogh thou shuldest make thy nest as hie as the egge, I wil bring thee downe from thence, saith the Lord.

Also Edóm shall be desolate: euerie one that goeth by it, shall be astonished, & shall hisse at all the plagues thereof,

As in the ouerthrowe of Sodom, and of Gomorá, and the places thereof nere about, saith the Lord: no man shall dwell
there, neither shall the sonnes of men re-
maine in it.

Beholde, he shall come vp like a lyon
from the swelling of Iorden vnto the strong dwelling place: for I wil make Is-raél to rest, euen I wil make him to haste away from her, & who is a chosen mā that I may appoint against her? for who is like me? & who wil appoint me y time? & who is the shepherd that wil stand before me?

Duration of Babel.

And Caldea shalbe a spoile: all that spoi
le her, shalbe satisfied, saith the Lord.

Because ye were glad and reioyced in de stroying mine heritage, & because ye are grown fat, as the calves in the grasle, & c
neyed like strong horses,

Therefore your mothers shalbe sore con

Because of the wrath of the Lord it shal
not be inhabited, but shalbe wholly deso
late: euerie one that goeth by Babel, shal
be astonied, & & hille at all her plagues.

Put your selues in aray against Babel
round about: all ye that bend the bowe,
shoote at her, spare no arrowes: for she ha
the sinned against the Lord.

Crye against her round about: she haue
giuen her hand: her foundations are fallē,
her wallies are destroyed: for it is y ven geance of the Lord: take vengeance vpon
her: as she haue done, do vnto her.

Destroye the tower from Babel, and him that handleth the siegth in the time of hanuelt: because of the sworde of the op pressor they shal turne euerie one to his people, and they shal flee euerie one to his owne land.

Israel is like scattered shepeth: the lyons ha
ue disperfed them: first the King of Af
shur haue deuoured him, & last this Ne buchad-nezzar King of Babel haue broke his bones.

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes
the God of Israel, Beholde, I wil visite the King of Babel, and his land, as I haue visi ted the King of Affhur.

And I wil bring Israel againe to his ha

the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

In those dayes, and at that time, saith
the Lord, the iniquitie of Israel shalbe sought for, and there shal be none: and the sinnes of Iudah, & they shal not be found:
for I wil be merciful vnto them, whome I releue.

Go vp against the land of the rebelles,

O Babel, and thou wast not aware: thou

Ieremiah. A recompence. 329

The Lord hathe opened his treasure, and hathe brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the worke of the Lord
God of hostes in y land of the Caldeans.

Come against her from the vmoft bor der: open her store houses: tread on her as
on sheaues, and destroie her utterly: let no thing of her be left.

Destroie all her bullockes: let them go downe to the slaughter. Wo vnto them, for their day is come, and the time of their visitation.

The voice of them that flee, and esca pe out of the land of Babel to declare in Zion y vengeance of the Lord our God,
and the vengeance of his Temple.

Call vp the archers against Babel: all ye
that bend y bowe, besiege it rounde about:
let none thereof escape: *recompence her
according to her worke, and according to all that she haue done, do vnto her: for she haue bene proude against the Lord, euen
against the holy one of Israel.

Therefore shal her yong men fall in the streets, and all her men of warre shalbe de stroyed in that day, saith the Lord.

Beholde, I come vnto thee, O proude man,
saith the Lord God of hostes: for thy day
is come, euen the time that I wil visite thee.

And the proude shal stumbe and fall, &
none shal raise him vp: and I wil kinde
a fyre in his cities, and it shal deuoure all rounde about him.

Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The chil dren of Israel, and the children of Iudah
were oppressed together: and all that toke
them captiues, helde them, and wolde not let them go.

But their strong redeemer, whose Name is
the Lord of hostes, he shal mainteine their cause, that he may giue rest to the land, &
disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

A sworde is vpon the Caldeans, saith
the Lord, and vpon the inhabitants of Ba bel, and vpon her princes, and vpon her wise men.

A sworde is vpon the soothsayers, and thei shal dote: a sworde is vpon her strong men, and thei shal be afraid.

A sworde is vpon their horses and vpon
their charrets, and vpon all the multitude
that are in the middes of her; and thei shal
be like women: a sworde is vpon her trea sures, and thei shal be spoiled.

A drought is vpon her waters, and thei
shal be dried vp: for it is the lad of graue
images, and thei dote vpon their idoles.

Therefore y Ziims with the Iims shal dwell there, & the ostiches shal dwell the

ther shal it be inhabited from generacion
vnto generacion.

they were founde in the middes of the citie.
Nebuzar-adan the chief steward toke

And the King of Babel smote them, and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Ha-

This is the people, whome Nebuchad-

LAMENTATIONS.

CHAP. I.

The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalem, And sheweth that they are plagued because of their finnes. The first and seconde chapter beginne euery Verse according to the letters of the Ebrewe Alphabet. The third hath the thre Verses for euery letter, & the fourth as the first.

How doeth the citie remaine solitarie that was ful of
people! she is as a widow:
she that was great among
the nations and princeesse
among the prouinces, is made tributarie.

She wepeth continually in the night, &
her teares runne downe by her cheekes: among all her louers, she hath none to comfort
her: all her friends haue delt vnfaithfully

with her, & are her enemies.

Iudah is caryed away captiue, because of affliction, and because of great seruitude:
she dwelleth among the heathē, & findeth
no rest: all her persecuters toke her in the streites.

The wayes of Zion lament, because no man cometh to the solenne feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her vir-
gines are discomfited, and she is in hea-uines.

Her aduersaries are the chief, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions, & her children are gone into capti-uitie before the enemy.

And from the daughter of Zion all her beautie is departed: her prices are become Nun.i.

beautie of Israel, & remembered

akob, and not spared: he hathe

the daughter of Iudah: he hathe
downe to the ground: he hathe
the kingdome and the princes

cut of in his fierce wrath all of Israel: he hathe drawe back
hand from before the enemy,
was kindled in Iakob like a fla-
which deuoured rounde about.
bee his bowe like an enemies:
was stretched vp as an aduersi-

tabernacle of the daughter of

ael, & consumed all his palaces:
destroyed his strong holdes, and ceased in the daughter of Iudah
on and mourning.

he destroyed his tabernacle, as he hathe destroyed his congrega-
d hathe caused the feasts & Sabforgotten in Zion, & hathe de-indignation of his wrath the
the Priest.

he hathe forsaken his altar: he ha-
his Sanctuary: he hathe giue
nd of the enemy the walls of d they haue made a noyse in the Lord, as in the day of solenni-hathe determined to destroy the daughter of Zion: the stre-
tine: he hathe not withdrawn
an destroying: therefore he ma-
part: and the yvall to lament destroyed together.

Her gates are sonke to the ground: he ha-
the destroyed and broken her barres: her King and her princes are among the Gentiles: the Lawe is no more, neither can her Prophetes receive any vision fro the Lord.
The Elders of the daughter of Zion sit vp to the ground, and kepe silence: they haue cast vp dust vpon their heades: they haue girded the selues with sackcloth: the virgines of Ierusalem hang downe their heades to the ground.

Mine eyes do faile w teares: my bowels
swell: my hieuer is powred vpon the earth,
for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children and sucklings
swound in the stretes of the cite.

They haue said to their mothers, Where is bread and drinke? when they swounded
as the wounded in the stretes of the cite,
whe thei gaue vp the gost in their mothers bosome.

What thig shal I take to witness for thee?
what thing shal I copare to thee, O daughter Ierusalem: what shal I like to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgine daughter Zion: for thy breache is great like the sea:
who can heale thee?

Thy Prophetes haue looked out vaine,
and foolish things for thee, and they haue not discovered thine iniquitie, to turne
away thy captiuitie, but haue looked out for thee false prophecies, and causes of banishment.

All that passe by the way, clappe their hands at thee: thei hisse and wagge their head vpon the daughter Ierusalem, saying,
Is this the cite that men call, The perfection of beautie, and the ioye of the whole earth?

All thine enemies haue opened their mouth against thee: thei hisse and gnash the teeth, saying, Let vs deuoure it: certainly this is the day that we looked for: we haue founde and sene it.

The Lord hathe done that which he had purposed: he hathe fulfilled his worde that he had determined of olde time: he ha-
the thrown done, and not spared: he hathe
caused thine enemy to reioice ouer thee,
and set vp the home of thine aduersaries.

Thei heart cryed vnto y Lord, O wall
of daughter Zion, let teares runne downe
like a river, day and night: take thee no
rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

Arise, crye in the night: in y beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like war: before the face of the Lord: lift vp thine hands toward him for y life of thy yong childre, that faint for hungre in the corners of all the stretes.

Beholde, O Lord, and conside to whome
thou hast done thus? shal the women eat
their fruce, and children of a spanne long?

shal the Priest and the Prophet be slaine
in the Sanctuarie of the Lord?

21 The yong and the oldelye on the groun-
de in the stretes: my virgines and my yong
me are fallen by the sword: y haste slaine
them in the day of thy wrath: thou haste
killed and not spared.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemne day my terrouns rounde about, so y in the day of the Lords wrath none escaped nor remained: those that I haue nourished & brought vp, hathe mine enemy consumed.

CHAP. III.

I Am the man, that hathe sene afflictio
in the rod of his indignation:

He hathe led me, and brought me into darknes, but not to light.

Surely he is turned against me: he turneth
his hand against me all the day.

My flesh and my skynne, hathe he caused
to waxe olde, he hathe broke my bones.

He hathe buylded against me, & copaf-
sed me with gall and labour.

He hathe set me in darke places, as thei
that be dead for euer.

He hathe hedged about me, that I can not get out: he hathe made my chaynes heauie.

Also when I crye and shoute, he shutteth
out my prayer.

He hathe stopped vp my waies with he-
wen stone, and turned away my paths.

He was vnto me as a beare lyg in waite,
& as a lion in secret places.

He hathe stopped my waies, & pulled me
in pieces: he hathe made me desolate.

He hathe bent his bow and made me a marke for the arrowe.

He caused the arrowes of his quier to entre into my reins.

I was a derision to all my people, and their song all the daye.

He hathe filled me with bitternes, & made me drunken with worme wood.

He hathe also broken my teeth with stones, and hathe couered me with ashes.

Thus my soule was farre of fro peace: I forgot prosperitie.

And I said, My strenght & mine hope is perished from the Lord,

Remembring mine affliction, & my mourning, the worme wood and the gall.

My soule hathe them in remembrance,
and is humbled in me.

I consider this in mine heart: therefore
haue I hope.

If is the Lords mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions faile not,

They are renewed euery morning: great
is thy faithfulness.

The Lord is my portion, saith my soule:
therefore will I hope in him.

The Lord is good vnto them, that trust
in him, & to the soule that seeketh him.

For, cometh,

THE ARGUMENT.

After that I choiſed in by the conſel of Ieremiah & Ezekiel had yelied him ſelf to Neſuchadne-
zar, and ſo went into captiuitie wth his mother & ſiſters of his princes & of the people, certein begins orepen and anſwer that thei had obei the Prophets coſeſ, but though the thing which thei had perſeued ſhoulde not come to paſſe, & thei ſore their eſtate ſhoulde be ſit miſerab<sup>le</sup> under the Cutheans.
Ezekiel whereof he conſirmeſt his former prophecies, declaring by y<sup>e</sup> viſions & reuelations ſhewed unto him that the citie shoulde moſte certainly be deſtroied, & the people grievouſly tormẽted by Godes ſer- ues, in ſomuche that they that remained ſhoulde be brought into cruel bondage. And leſt the godly ſhoulde ſu- paire in theſe great troubles, he aſſureth them that God wil deliuer his Church at his time appointed, and alſo deſtroie their enemies which either afflicted them or reioyced in their miſeries. The effect of the viſion and the other ſhoulde chiefly be performed vnder Chriſt, of whome in this booke are many notable promiſes, and in whome the glorie of the new Temple ſhoulde perfectly be reſtored. He prophesied theſe thinges in Caldea at the ſame time that Ieremiã prophesied in Iuda, and there began in the fiſt yere of Ieremiã captiuitie.

one had foure faces, and eu
d foure wings.
fir fete were streight fete, and the sole of their fete was like the sole of a calmer fete, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.

And the hands of a mā came out frō vnder
their wings in the foure partes of the, and their wings had their faces, & their wings.
They were ioyned by their wings one
to another, & when thei went forth, thei
returned not, but euerie one went streight
forwarde.

And the similitude of their faces was as the face of man: and they foure had the face of a lyon on the right side, and they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of anagle.

Thus were their faces: but their wings
were spred out about: two wings of euerie
one were ioyned one to another, and two covered their bodies.

And euerie one went streight forwarde:
they went whether their spirit led them,
& thei returned not whē thei wēt forth.

The similitude also of the beastes, and their appearance was like burning coles of
fyre, and like the appearance of lampes:
for the fyre ran among the beastes, & the fyre gaue a glister, and out of the fyre there went lightening.

And the beastes ran, and returned like unto lightening.

Now as I behelde the beastes, beholde,
a whele appeared vpon the earth by the beastes, hauing foure faces.

The faciō of the wheles and their worke
was like vnto a chrysolite: & they foure
had one forme, and their facion, and their worke was as one whele in another whele.

Whē thei wēt, thei wēt vpon their foure
sides, & they returned not when thei wēt.

They had also rings, and height, & were fearful to beholde, and their rings were ful of eyes, round about them foure.

And when the beastes went, the wheles
wēt with them: and when the beastes were lift vp frō the earth, the wheles were lift vp.

Whether their spirit led the, they wēt,
and thether did the spirit of the wheles
lead them, and the wheles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit of the beastes
was in the wheles.

When the beastes went, they went, and when they stode, they stode, & when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheles
were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit
of the beastes was in the wheles.

And the similitude of the firmament vpon
the beas of the beastes was wonderful, like vnto chrystal, spred ouer their heads about.

And vnder the firmament were their wings streight, the one toward the other:
euerie one had two, which covered the,
and one had two, which covered their bodies.

And when they went forth, I heard the noise of their wings, like y<sup>e</sup> noise of great waters, and as the voice of the Almighty, euē the voyce of speache, as the noise of an hoste: and when they stode, they let downe their wings.

And there was a voyce from the firmament, that was ouer their heads, whē they stode, and had let downe their wings.

And about the firmament that was ouer
their heads, was the facion of a throne like vnto a saphir stone, and vpon the simi-litude of the throne was by appearance, as
the similitude of a man about vpon it.

And I saw as the appearance of ambre,
and as the similitude of fyre rounde about within it to lōke to, euē from his loynes
vpwarde, and to lōke to, euē from his loy-
nes downewarde: I saw as a likenes of fyre,
and brightnes rounde about it.

As the likenes of the bowe, that is in the cloude in the day of raine, so was the appearance of the light rounde about.

This was the appearance of the similitude of the glorie of the Lord: and when I sawe it, I fel vpon my face, and I heard a voyce of one that spake.

CHAP. III.

The Prophet is sent to call the people from their error.

And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, stand vp vpon thy fete, & I wil
speake vnto thee.

And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken vnto me, and set me vpon my fete, so y<sup>e</sup> I heard him that spake vnto me.

And he said vnto me, Sonne of mā, I send thee to the childre of Israhel, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled against me: for they & their fathers haue rebelled against me, euē vnto this very day.

For they are impudent children, and stifhearted: I do send thee vnto them, & thou shalt say vnto the, Thus saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord God.
But surely they wil not heare, neither in dede wil they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yet shalt they knowe that I
haue bene a Prophet among them.

And thou sonne of man, feare them not,
neither be afraide of their wordes, although rebelles, and thornes be with thee, & thou remainest with scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor be afraide at their lokes, for
they are a rebellious house.

Therefore thou shalt speake my wordes
vnto them: but surely they wil not heare, neither wil they in dede cease: for they are rebellious.

But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and eat
that I giue thee.

And when I looked vp, behold, an hād was set
vnto me, & lo, a rolle of a booke was therein.

warre against it rounde about.

Moreover, take an yron panne, and set it for a wall of yron betwene thee and the cite,

Sleepe thou also vpon thy left side, & lay

the iniquitie of the b house of Israel vpon

it, according to the nombre of the daies, that thou shalt sleepe vpon it, thou shalt beare

their iniquitie.

For I haue laied vpon thee the yerres of their iniquitie, according to the number of the daies, euen thre hundredth and nin-

of the house of Israel.

And when thou hast accomplished them,

sleepe againe vpon thy right side, and thou shalt beare the iniquitie of the house of

Iudah fourtie daies: I haue appointed thee

a day for a yere, euen a day for a yere.

Therefore shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Ierusalem, & thine arme shal

And beholde, I wil lay bands vpon thee,

and thou shalt not turne thee from one si-

deto another, til thou halt ended the daies

of thy siege.

Thou shalt take also vnto thee wheat, &

barly, and beanes, and lentiles, and millet,

and fitches, and put them in one vessel, &

make thee bread thereof according to the number of the daies, that thou shalt sleepe

vpon thy side: euen thre hundredth & nin-

Thou shalt drinke also water by measure,

euen the fixt parte of an Hin: from time to

And thou shalt eat it as barly cakes, and

thou shalt bake it in the dongue that com-

of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whether I wil cast them.

Then said I, Ah, Lord God, beholde, my soule hath not bene polluted: for fro my youth vp, euen vnto this houre, I haue not

etene of a thing dead, or torne in pieces,

nether came there any vncleane flesh in my mouth.

Then he said vnto me, Lo, I haue giuen

thee bullockes & dogue for mans dongue,

& thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

Moreover he said vnto me, Sonne of ma,

beholde, I wil breake the staffe of bread

in Ierusalem, and they shal eat bread by weight, and with care, and they shal drinke

water by measure, and with astonishment.

Because that bread and water shal faile,

they shalbe astonied one with another, &

shal consume away for their iniquitie.

CHAP. V.

The signe of the heeres, whereby is signified the destruction of the people.

And thou sonne of man, take thee a

sharpe knife, or take thee a barbour

razor & cause it to passe vpo thine head,

and vpon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and deuide the heere.

Thou shalt burne with fyre the third part in the middes of the cite, whē the dayes

of the siege are fulfilled, & thou shalt take

the other third parte, & smite about it with a knife, and the last third parte thou shalt scatter in the winde, and I wil drawe out a sworde after them.

Thou shalt also take thereof a fewe in number, and binde them in thy clappe.

Then take of them againe and cast them

into the middes of the fyre, & burne them

in the fyre: for thereof shal a fyre come

forthe into all the house of Israel.

Thus saith the Lord God, This is Ierusa-

lem: I haue set it in the middes of the nations and countreys, that are rounde about

her.

And she hath changed my iudgements

into wickednes more then the nations, &

my statutes more then the countreys, that are rounde about her: for thei haue refused

my iudgements and my statutes, and they

haue not walked in them.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your multitude is greater then the nations that are rounde about you, and ye

haue not walked in my statutes, nether haue ye kept my iudgements: no, ye haue not done according to the iudgements of the nations, that are rounde about you.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Be-

holde, I, euen I come against thee, and wil

execute iudgement in the middes of thee,

euen in the sight of the nations.

And I wil do in thee, that I neuer did before, nether wil do anie more the like, because of all thine abominations.

For in the middes of thee, the fathers

shal eat their sonnes, and the sonnes shal

eat their fathers, and I wil execute iudge-

ment in thee, and the whole remnant of

thei wil scatter into all the windes.

Wherefore, as I liue, saith the Lord God,

6 He said furthermore vnto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what they do? even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here to cause me to departe from my Sanctuary: but yet turne thee & thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he caused me to entre at the gate of the court: and when I looked, beholde, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, digge now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, beholde, there was a dore.

9 And he said vnto me, Go in, and beholde the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in, and sawe, and beholde, there was euerie similitude of creeping things and abominable beastes and all the idoles of the house of Israel painted vpon the wall rounde about.

11 And there stode before them seuentie men of the Ancients of the house of Israel, and in the middes of them stode Iazaniab, the sonne of Shaphan, with euerie man his censour in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went vp like a cloud.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou sene what the Ancients of the house of Israel do in the darke, euerie one in the chambre of his imagerie for thei saie, The Lord seeth vs not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

13 Againe he said also vnto me, Turne thee againe, & thou shalt see greater abominations that they do.

14 And he caused me to entre into the entrie of the gate of the Lords house, which was toward the North: and beholde there sate women mourning for Tammuz.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou sene this, o sonne of man? Turne thee againe, & thou shalt see greater abominations then these.

16 And he caused me to entre into the inner court of the Lords house, and beholde, at the dore of the Temple of the Lord, betwene the porche and the altar were about fise and twentie men with their backs toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the sunne, toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou sene this, o sonne of man? Is it a smale thing to the house of Iudah to commit these abominacions & thei do here: for thei haue filled the land with crueltie, and haue returned to prouoke me: and lo, thei haue cast out & stinke before their noses.

18 Therefore wil I also execute my wrath:

mine eye shal not spare them, neither wil I haue pitee, and though thei crye in mine eares with a loude voyce, yet wil I not heare them.

CHAP. IX.

<sup>b</sup> He cryed also with a loude voyce in mine eares, saying, The visitations of the citie drawe nere, and euerie man hath a weapon in his hand to destroye it.

<sup>c</sup> And beholde, six men came by the way of the hie gate, which lieth toward the North, and euerie man a weapon in his hand to destroye it: and one man among them was clothed with linnen, with a writers ynkhorne by his side, & thei went in and stode beside the brasen altar.

<sup>d</sup> And the glorie of the God of Israel was gone vp from the Cherub, whereupon he was and stode on the dore of the house: & he called to the man clothed with linnen, which had the writers ynkhorne by his side.

<sup>e</sup> And the Lord said vnto him, Go through the middes of the citie, even through the middes of Ierusalem, and set a marke vpon the foreheads of them that mourne, and crye for all the abominacions that be done in the middes thereof.

And he spake vnto the man clothed with

vnder the Cherub, and fil thine hands
with coles of fyre from betwene the Che-

And he went in in my sight.

Now the Cherubims stode vpo the right side of the house when the man went in, &
the cloude filled the inner court.

Then the glorie of the Lord went vp fro the Cherub, and stode ouer the dore of the house, and the house was filled with the cloude, and y court was filled with the brihtnes of the Lords glorie.

And the voice of the Cherubims wings
was heard into the vtter court, as the voyce of the Almighty God, when he speaketh.

And when he had commanded the man clothed with linnen, saying, Take fyre from betwene the wheles, & from betwene the Cherubims, then he went in and stood beside the whele.

And one Cherúb stretched forth his hand from betwene the Cherubims vnto the fire, that was betwene the Cherubims, &
toke thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linne: who toke
it and went out.

And there appeared in the Cherubims
ſ likenes of a māś hād vnder their wings.

y And whē I loked vp, beholde foure whe-
les were befide the Cherubims, one whele
by one Cherúb, and another whele by another Cherúb, and the appareance of the wheles was as the colour of a chrysolite stone.

And their appearance (for they were a four of one facion) was as if one wheel
had bene in another whele.

u When they went forth, they went vpo
their foure sides, and they returned not a
they went: but to the place whether th
first went, they went after it, & they t

And their whole body, and their ring
& their hands, and their wings, & the wheels were full of eyes round about, even in the same four wheels.

And the Cherub cryed to these wheles
mine hearing, saying, O whele.

1

And every beast had foure faces: y first face was the face of a Cherúb, and the seconde face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an egle.

And the Cherubims were lifted vp: this

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, prepare thy stuffe to go into captiuitie: & go forth by daie in their sight: and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that thei maie consider it: for thei are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth the thy stuffe by daie in their sight as the stuffe of him y goeth into captiuitie: & y shalt go forth as euen in their sight, as thei that go forth into captiuitie.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and carie out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare it vpon thy sholders, & carie it forth in the darke: thou shalt couer thy face that thou seest not the earth: for I haue set thee as a signe vnto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was comanded, so I broght forth the my stuffe by day, as y stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and broght it forth in the darke, and I bare it vpon my shulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the worde of y Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, haue not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said vnto thee, What doest thou?

10 But saie thou vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This burden concerneth the chief in Ierusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Saie, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shal it be done vnto them: thei shal go into bondage & captiuitie.

And the chiefest that is among them, heare vpon his shulder in the night, & shal dig the wall, & carie out thereby: his face y he se not the ground.

My net also wil I spread, & he shal be taken in my net, & I wil bring him to Babel to y land of the Chaldeans, that he not se it, though he be there.

And I wil scatter toward all that are about him to all his garisons, and I wil bring forth the sword after them.

And thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I shal scatter thei among the people, & disperse them in the countreys.

But I wil leaue a little remnant, that I may shew the pestilence, that thei shall see in these abominations among them, where thei come, and thei shall knowe that I am the Lord.

Moreouer, the worde came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, eat thy bread, & drinke thy water, & be carefull.

And say vnto the people, Thus saith the Lord God, I wil bring the remnant of Ierusalem, and of the countreys, & drinke their water, & the land shal be desolate because of the crueltie that thei haue done: & thei shall dwell therein.

And the cities that are about Ierusalem, & the land shal be desolate, & thei shall knowe that I am the Lord.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, what is the vision that thou haue in the land of Israel, & thei shall be prolonged?

Tel them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I wil make this people as a rebellious house, & thei shal no more vse the law, & thei shal no more be as a people, & the effect of euill shall be in them.

For no vision shal be anie more within the house of Israel, & thei shal be as a rebellious house, & thei shal no more be as a people, & the effect of euill shall be in them.

For I am the Lord: I wil bring the vision that I shal speake, & thei shal be as a rebellious house, & thei shal no more be as a people, & the effect of euill shall be in them.

Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, behold the vision that I shal speake, & thei shal be as a rebellious house, & thei shal no more be as a people, & the effect of euill shall be in them.

For I am the Lord: I wil bring the vision that I shal speake, & thei shal be as a rebellious house, & thei shal no more be as a people, & the effect of euill shall be in them.

these abominations among the heathen,

I am the Lord.

Moreover, the worde of the Lord came
vnto me, saying,
Sonne of man, eat thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble, & with carefulnes,
And say vnto the people of the land,
Thus faith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and of the land of Israel, Thei shall eat their bread with careful-
nes, & drinke their water with desolatio:
for the land shall be desolate fro her abundance because of the crueltie of them that dwell therein.

And the cities that are inhabited, shall be left void, & the land shall be desolate, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that you haue in the land of Israél, saying, The
dayes are prolonged and all visions failed:
Tel them therefore, Thus faith the Lord
God, I wil make this prouerbe to cease, & thei shall no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israél: but say vnto them, The dayes are at hand and the effect of euerie vision.

For no vision shall be any more in vaine,
nether shall there be anie flattering diuinacio
within the house of Israél.

For I am the Lord: I wil speake, and that thing that I shall speake, shall come to passe: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your daies, o rebellious house, wil I say the things, & wil performe it, faith y Lord God.

Again the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

Sonne of man, beholde, thei of the house

for many daies to come, & he prophesieth
of the times that are far of.

Therefore say vnto the, Thus faith the Lord God, All my wordes shall no longer be delayed, but y thing which I haue spoken, shall be done, faith the Lord God.

CHAP. XIII.

The worde of the Lord against false prophetes, which
teache the people the counsels of their owne hearts.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

Sonne of man, propheticie against the Pro-
phetes of Israél, that propheticie, and say thou vnto the, that propheticie out of their owne hearts, Heare the worde of y Lord.

Thus faith the Lord God, Wo vnto the foolish prophetes that followe their owne
spirit, and haue sene nothing.

O Israél, thy Prophetes are like the foxes
in the waste places.

Ye haue not risen vp in y gappes, nether
made vp the hedge for the house of Israél,
to stand in y battel in the day of the Lord.

Thei haue sene vanitie, & lying diuinatio, saying, The Lord saith it, & the Lord
hathe not sent the: & thei haue made others
to hope that thei wolde confirme y worde
of their propheticie.

Haue ye not sene a vaine vision? & haue
ye not spoken a lying diuinatio: y ye say,
The Lord saith it, albeit I haue not spokē.

Therefore thus faith the Lord God, Because ye haue spoken vanitie & haue sene
lies, therefore beholde, I am against you,
faith the Lord God,

And mine hand shall be vpō the Prophetes y se vanitie, & deuine lies: thei shall not be in the assemblie of my people, nether shall thei be writtē in the writing of the house of Israél, nether shall thei entre into the land of Israél: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord God.

And therefore, because thei haue decei-ued my people, saying, Peace, & there was no peace: & one build vp a wall, & behol-
de, y others daubed it w vntepared morter.

Say vnto the which dawbe it w vntempe-
red morter, that it shall fall: for there shall come a great showre, & I wil send hailesto-
nes, which shall cause it to fall, and a stormie
winde shall breake it.

Lo, when the wall is fallen, shall it not be said vnto you, Where is y dawbing where with ye haue dawbed it?

Therefore thus faith y Lord God, I wil cause a stormie winde to breake forth in my wrath, & a great showre shall be in mine
angre, & haile stones in mine indignation
to consume it.

So I wil destroy the wall y ye haue daw-
bed with vntepared morter, & bring it dow-
ne to y ground, so y the fundacio thereof shall be discouered, & it shall fall, & ye shall be consumed in the middes thereof, & ye shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

15 Thus wil I accomplish my wrath vpon the wall, and vpon the that haue dawbed it with vntempered mortar, & wil say vnto you, The wall is no more, neither the dawbers thereof.

16 To wit, the Prophetes of Israél, which prophesie vpon I Ierusalem, and se visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 Likewise thou sonne of man, set thy face against y daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne heart: and prophesie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo vnto the women that fowe pillows vnder all arme holes, and make vailes vpon the head of euerie one that standeth vp, to hunt soules: wil ye hunt the soules of my people, and wil ye giue life to the soules that come vnto you?

19 And wil ye pollute me among my people for handflays of barlie, & for pieces of bread to flay the soules of them that shulde not dye, and to giue life to the soules that shuldenot liue in lying to my people, that heare your lies?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I wil haue to do with your pillowes, wherewith ye hunt y<sup>m</sup> soules to make the to flie, and I wil teare them from your armes, and wil let the soules go, <sup>eu</sup>en the soules, that ye hunt to make them to flie.

21 Your vailes also wil I teare, and deliuer my people out of your hand, and thei shal be no more in your handes to be hunted, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lyes ye haue made the heart of the righteous sad, whome I haue not made sad, and strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he shulde not returne from his wicked way, by promising him life,

23 Therefore ye shal se no more vanitie, nor diuine diuinations: for I wil deliuer my people out of your hand, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIII.

The Lord sendeth false prophetes for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reserueth a smale portion for his Church.

1 Then came certeine of the Elders of Israél vnto me, and a sate before me, And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idoles in their heart, & put the stumbling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: shulde I, being required, answer them?

3 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Euerie man of the house of Israél that setteth vp his idoles in his heart, & putteth y<sup>m</sup> stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and cometh to the Prophet, I the Lord wil answer him, that cometh according to the multitude of his idoles:

5 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Returne, and withdrawe your seules, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominations.

I will bring a sworde vpon this land, so that they shall go through the land, so that they shall destroy man and beast out of it.

These three men were in the mids of the land, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shal neither sonnes nor daughters be left: they shal be deliuered, but the land shall be waste.

Come the vine.

Shal deliuer neither sonnes nor daughters, but they onely shalbe deliuered them selues.

Or if I send a pestilence into this land, & powre out my wrath vpon it in blood, to destroy out of it man and beast,

And though Noah, Daniel and Job were in the mids of it, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shal deliuer neither sonne nor daughter: they shal but deliuer their owne soules by their righteousnes.

For thus saith the Lord God, How much more when I send my foure fold iudgements vpon Ierusalem, even the sworde, and famine, and the noisome beast and pestilence, to destroy man & beast out of it: Yet beholde, therein shalbe left a remnant of them, which shalbe carryed away bothe sonnes & daughters: beholde, they shal come forth vnto you, & ye shal see their way, & their enterprises: and ye shalbe comforted, concerning the euil that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, even concerning all that I haue brought vpon it.

And they shal comforte you, when ye shall see their way and their enterprises: and ye shall know, that I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XV.
As the inextinguishable wood of the vine tree is cast into the fyre, so Ierusalem shalbe burnt.

And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, what cometh of the vine tree about all other trees? and of the vine branche, which is among the trees of the forest?

Shal wood be take thereof to do any worke? or wil men take a pyn of it to hang any vessel thereon?

Beholde, it is cast in the fyre to be consumed: the fyre consumeth bothe the ends of it; and the mids of it is burnt. Is it mete for any worke?

Beholde, when it was whole, it was mete for no worke: how muche lesse shal it be mete for any worke, when the fyre hath consumed it, and it is burnt?

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As the vine tree, that is among the trees of the forest, which I haue giuen to the fyre to be consumed, so wil I giue the inhabitants of Ierusalem.

And I will set my face against them: they shal go out from one fyre, & another fyre shal consume them: & ye shall knowe, that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them,

And when I make the land waste, because they haue greatly offended, saith the Lord God.

Againe, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, cause Ierusalem to knowe her abominations,

And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalem, Thine habitation & thy kindred is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

And in thy nativitie when thou wast borne, thy navel was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadeled in clouties.

None eye pitied thee to do any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassion vpon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field to the contempt of thy persone in the day that thou wast borne.

And when I passed by thee, I sawe thee polluted in thine owne blood, and I said vnto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: even when thou wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.

I haue caused thee to multiply, as thy bud of the field, and thou hast increased, and waxen great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, thine heere is growen, where as thou wast naked and bare.

Now when I passed by thee, and looked vpon thee, beholde, thy time was as the time of loue, & I spread my skirres ouer thee, and couered thy filthines: yea, I swore vnto thee, and entered into a couenant with thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becamest mine.

Then washed I thee with water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oyle.

I clothed thee also with broidered worke, and shod thee with badgers skinne: and I girded thee about with fine linen, & I couered thee with silke.

I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put bracelets vpon thine hands, & a chaine on thy necke.

And I put a frontlet vpon thy face, and earrings in thine eares, & a beautiful crowne vpon thine head.

Thus wast thou deckt with golde and filuer, and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silke, & broidered worke: thou didst eat fine floure, and hony and oyle, & thou wast very beautiful, and thou didst growe vp into a kingdome.

And thy name was spread among the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfite through my beautie which I had set vpon thee, saith the Lord God.

a Thou boastest to be of the seede of Abraham, but thou art degenerate and followest the abominations of the wicked Canaanites, as children do the manners of their fathers, Isa. 1. 4. & 57. 3. b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, & placed thee in this land to be my Church.

c Being thus in thy filthines and forsaken of all me, I sate thee & gaue thee these things, whereby is meant that before God with his Church, & true life, there is nothing, but filthines and death.

d These wordes, as blood, pollution, nakednes & filthines are oyl times repeated, to beate downe their pride, and to cause them to consider what they were before. God receiued them to mercie, & fauoured their shame.

e That thou shouldest be a chaste wife vnto me, and that I shoulde mainteine thee & indue thee with all graces. f I washed away thy finnes.

g I sanctified thee with mine holy Spirit. h Herby he sheweth how he saved his Church, enriching it & gaue it a power of dominion to reigne. i He declarerth wherein the dignitie of Ierusalem standeth in wisdom, that the Lord gaue them of his beautie and excellencie.

15 Now thou didest trust in thine owne
beautie, and plaied the harlot, because of thy renome, and hast powred out thy for-

16 And thou didest take thy garments, and

and plaied the harlot thereupon: the like

17 Thou hast also takē thy faire iewels ma-

19 My meat also, which I gaue thee, as fine
floure, oyle, & hony, wherewith I fed thee,
thou hast euen set it before the for a swe-

20 Moreouer thou hast taken thy sonnes &
thy daughters, whome I have borne vnto
me, & these hast thou sacrificed vnto them,
to be deuoured: is this thy whoredome a small matter?
21 That thou hast slayne my children, and deliuered them to cause the to passe through fyre for them?
22 And in all thine abominacions & who-redomes thou hast not remembred the daies
of thy youth, when thou wast naked and bare, & wast polluted in thy blood.
23 And beside all thy wickednes (wo, wo vnto thee, saith the Lord God)
24 Thou hast also buyt vnto thee an hie
place, and hast made thee an hie place in e-uery strete.
25 Thou hast buyt thine hie place at euery
corner of way, & hast made thy beautie
to be abhorred: thou hast opened thy se-cye to euery one that passed by, & multiplied
thy whoredome.
26 Thou hast also comitted fornicacion wth
the Egyptians thy neighbours, which haue great members, and hast encreased thy whoredome, to prouoke me.
27 Beholde, therefore I did stretch out mine
hand ouer thee, and wil diminish thine
ordinarie, and deliuer thee vnto the wil
of them that hate thee, euen to the daughters of the Philistims, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.
28 Thou hast played the whore also with the Assyriās, because thou wast insatiable:
yea, thou hast played the harlot with them,
and yet couldest not be satisfied.
29 Thou hast moreover multiplied thy for-nicacion frō the land of Canāā vnto Cal-
dea, & yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.
30 How weake is thine heart, saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord
God, seing thou doest all these things, eue

ly worke of a presumpuous whorish womā.
31 In that thou buydest thine hie place in the corner of euery way, and makest thine
hie place in euery strete, & hast not bene as an harlot that despiseth a rewarde, 32 But as a wife that plaieith the harlot, &
taketh others for her housband:
33 Thei giue gifts to all other whores, but y<sup>e</sup>
giuest gifts vnto all thy louers, & rewar-
dest them, that they may come vnto thee
on euery side for thy fornicacion.
34 And the contrary is in thee frō other women in thy fornicacions, nether the like for-nicacion shalbe after thee: for in that thou giuest a rewarde, & no rewarde is giuen vnto
thee, therefore thou art contrary.
35 Wherefore, o harlot, heare the worde of 36 Thus saith the Lord God, Because thy shame was powred out, and thy filthines discovered through thy fornicacions with thy louers, and with all the idoles of thine

abominacions & by the blood of thy children, which thou didest offre vnto them, 37 Beholde, therefore I wil gather all thy louers, with whome thou hast takē pleas-

all them that thou hast hated: I wil euen
gather them rounde about against thee, &

38 And I wil iudge thee after the maner of them that are harlots, and of them that shed blood, & I wil giue thee the blood of wrath and ielousie.
39 I wil also giue thee into their hands, and they shal destroy thine hie place, and shal
breake downe thine hie places: they shal
strippe thee also out of thy clothes, & shal
take thy faire iewels, and leaue thee naked
and bare.
40 They shal also bring vp a companie a-

Yet hast thou not walked after their waies, nor done after their abominations: but as it had bene a very litle thing, thou walk corrupted more then thei in all thy waies.

As I liue, saith the Lord God, Sodóm thy sister hath not done, neither she nor her daughters, as thou hast done & thy daughters.

Beholde, this was the iniquitie of thy sister Sodóm, Pride, fulnes of bread, and abundance of idleness was in her, and in her daughters: nether did she strengthen the hand of the poore and nedie.

But thei were haurie, and comitted abominacion before me: therefore I toke the away, as pleased me.

Nether hath Samaria committed halfe of thy finnes, but thou hast exceeded the in thine abominacions, and hast iustified thy sisters in all thine abominacions, which thou hast done.

Therefore thou which hast iustified thy sisters, beare thine owne shame for thy finnes, that thou hast comitted more abominable the thei which are more righteous then thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and beare thy shame, seing that thou hast iustified thy sisters.

For thy sister Sodóm was not heard of by thy report in the day of thy pride.

Before thy wickednes was discovered, as in that same time of the reproche of the daughters of Aram, and of all the daughters of the Philistims round about her which despise thee on all sides.

Then thou shalt remembre thy waies, & be ashamed, when thou shalt receiue thy sisters, bothe thy elder and thy yonger, and I wil giue them vnto thee for daughters, but not by thy couenant.

And I wil establish my couenant with thee, and thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord,

That thou maist remembre, and be ashamed, and neuer open thy mouthe any more: because of thy shame when I am pacified toward thee, for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVII.

The parable of the two egles.

And the worde of the Lord came vn to me, saying,

Sonne of man, put forth a parable and speake a prouerbe vnto the house of Israel,

And say, Thus saith the Lord God, The great egle with great wings, and long wings, and ful of fethers; which had diuers colours, came vnto Lebanon, and toke the hiest branche of the cedre,

And brake of the topp of his twigge, & caried it into the land of marchants, and set it in a citie of marchants.

He toke also of the fede of the land, and planted it in a fruteful ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tre.

And it budded vp, and was like a spreading vine of lowe stature, whose branches turned toward it, and the rootes thereof were vnder it: so it became a vine, & it broght forth the branches, and shot forth the buds.

There was also another great egle with great wings and many fethers, & beholde, this vine did turne her rootes toward it, & spread forth her branches toward it that she might water it by the trenches of her plantacion.

It was planted in a good soile by great waters, that it shulde bring forth the branches, and beare frute, and be an excellent vine.

Say thou, Thus saith the Lord God, Shal it prosper? shal he not pul vp the rootes thereof, and destroy the frute thereof, and cause them to drye? all the leaues of her bud shal wither without great power, or many people to plucke it vp by the rootes thereof.

1 When thou brakst the couenant, which was made betwene thee & me, as ver. 8. m That is, of mercie and lo- ue I wil pittie thee, and so stand to my couenā, though thou hast de- served the con- trary. a Whereby he sheweth among the mo- re wicked he had euer some sence of his Church which he wolde cause to knowe in due tyme: & here he de- clareth how he will call y Gentiles. b But of my mercie. c This decla- reth what fra- tes Gods mer- cies were in his, to wit, iuraw, and re- pentance for their former life.

XVII. a That is, Nebuchad- nezzar, who hath the great power, riches and many cou- reys vnder him, shal come to Ierusalem and take away Ieconiah the King, as ver. 12. b Meaning, the Babylon. c That is, Ze- beliah, who was of the Kings blood, and was left at Ierusalem, & made King in stead of Ieco- niah, 2 King. 24. 17. ver. 37. d This was Ze- beliah king- dome. e That it might not haue power to re- bell against Babylon, as ver. 14. f Meaning, the King of Egypt of whom Ze- beliah sought succour against Nebuchad- nezzar. g That he shoulde be benighted by the waters, of Nilus. h Shal not Ne- buchad- nez- zar destroy it?

10 Beholde, it was planted: but shal it prosper? shal it not be dried vp, and wither? when the East winde shal touche it, it shal wither in the tresses, where it grew.

11 Moreover, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Say now to this rebellious house, Knowe ye not, what these things meane? tel them, Beholde, the King of Babel is come to Ierusalem, and hath taken the King thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel,

13 And hath taken one of the Kings sede, and made a couenant with him, and hath taken an othe of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land,

14 That the kingdome might be in subiection; and not lift it self vp, but kepe their couenant, and stand to it.

15 But he rebelled against him, and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that they might giue him horses, & much people: shal he prosper? shal he escape, that doeth suche things? or shal he breake the couenant, & be deliuered?

16 As I liue, saith the Lord God, he shal dye in the middes of Babel, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose othe he despised, and whose couenant made with him, he brake.

17 Nether shal Pharaoh with his mightie hoste, & great multitude of people, mainteine him in the warre, when they haue cast vp mounts, and buylded ramparts to destroy many persones.

18 For he hath despised the othe, and broken the couenant (yet lo, he had giuen his hand) because he hath done all these things, he shal not escape.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, I wil surely bring mine othe that he hath despised, and my couenant that he hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 *And I wil spread my net vpon him, & he shal be taken in my net, & I wil bring him to Babel, and wil entre into iudgement with him there for his trespass that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that fle from him with all his hoste, shal fall by the sworde, and they that remaine, shal be scattered toward all sides: and ye shal knowe that I the Lord haue spoken it.

22 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also take of the toppe of this hie cedre, and wil set it, and cut of the toppe of the tendre plante thereof, and I wil plante it vpon an hie mountaine and great.

23 Euen in the bye mountaine of Israel wil I plant it: and it shal bring forth the boughs and beare fruite, and be an excellent cedre, and vnder it shal remaine all birdes, and euery foule shal dwell in the shade

dowe of the branches thereof.

24 And all the trees of the field shal knowe that I the Lord haue brought downe the hye tree, and exalted the lowe tree, that I haue dried vp the greene tree, and made the drye tree to flourish: I the Lord haue spoken it, & haue done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

And hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my iudgements to deale truly, he is iuste, he shal surely liue, saith the Lord God.

If he beget a sonne, that is a thief, or a shedder of blood, if he do any one of these things,

Thogh he do not all these things, but hath eaten vpon the mountaynes, or defiled his neighbours wife,

Or hath oppressed the poore and nedie, or hath spoiled the pledge, or hath lifted vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hath committed abomination,

Or hath giuen for the vpon vsurie, or hath taken increase, shal he liue? he shal not liue: seeing he hath done all these abominations, he shal dye the death, and his blood shal be vpon him.

doles of the house of Israel, nor hath de-withholden the pledge, nether hath spoiled by violence, but hath giue his bread to the hungrye, and hath couered the naked

with a garment,

¶ Nether hath withdrawn his hand fro
the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor increase, but hath executed my iudgements, & hath walked in my statutes, he shall not dye in the iniquitie of his father, but he shall surely liue.

¶ His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and
hath not done good among his people,
soeuen he dyeth in his iniquitie.

¶ Yet saie ye, Wherefore shall not the sonne
beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hath executed iudgement & iustice, & hath kept all my statutes, and
done them, he shall surely liue.

¶ The same soule that sinneth, shall dye:
the sonne shall not beare the iniquitie of
the father, nether shall the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousness of the righteous shall be vpon him, and the wickednes of the wicked shall be vpon him self.

¶ But if the wicked wil returne from all his sinnes that he hath committed, and keepe all my statutes, and do that which is lawfull and right, he shall surely liue; & shall not dye.

¶ All his transgressions that he hath committed, thei shall not be * mentioned vnto
him, but in his * righteousness that he hath done, he shall liue.

¶ Haue I anie desire that the wicked shul
de dye, faith the Lord God? or shall he not liue, if he returne from his waies?

¶ But if the righteous turne awaie from his righteousness, and commit iniquitie, &
do according to all the abominaciōs, that the wicked man doeth, shall he liue? all his righteousnes that he hath done, shall not be mentioned: but in his transgression that he hath committed, and in his sinne that he hath sinned, in them shall he dye.

¶ Yet ye saie, The waie of the Lord is not equal: heare now, O house of Israel. Is not my waie equal? or are not your waies vn-equal?

¶ For when a righteous man turneth awaie
from his righteousness, and comitteth in-iquitie, he shall euen dye for the same, he shall euen dye for his iniquitie, that he ha-
the done.

¶ Again when the wicked turneth awaie
from his wickednes that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawfull and

right, he shall saue his soule alius:
¶ Because he considereth, & turneth awaie
from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely liue & shall not dye.

¶ Yet saith the house of Israel, The waie
of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my waies equal? or are not your waies vnequal?

¶ Therefore I wil iudge you, O house of Israel, euerie one according to his waies, saith the Lord God: returne therefore and cause others to turne awaie from all your transgressions: so iniquitie shall not be your destruction.

¶ Cast away from you all your transgressions,
whereby ye haue transgressed & make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why wil ye dye, O house of Israel?

¶ For I desire not the death of him that dyeth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to returne, and liue ye.

her whelpes, and made him a lion.

CHAP. XX.

1 The Lord denieth that he wil answer them when they praie because of their unkindenes. 33 He promyseth that his people shal returne from captiuitie. 44 By the forest that shulde be burnt, is signified the burning of Ierusalem.

AND in the seventh yere in the first moneth, y tenth day of y moneth, came certayne of the Elders of Israel to enquire of the Lord, and saie before me.

2 Then came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, speake vnto the Elders of Israel, and saie vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye come to inquire of me as I liue, saith the Lord God, when I am asked, I wil not answer you.

4 Wilt thou iudge them, sonne of man: wilt thou iudge them? cause them to vnderstand the abominations of their fathers,

5 And saie vnto them, Thus saith y Lord God, In the daie when I chose Israel, and lift vp mine hand vnto the side of the house of Iaakob, and made my self knowe vnto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift vp mine hand vnto them, and said, I am the Lord your God,

6 In the daie that I lift vp mine hand vnto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had prouided for them, flowing with milke & honie which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I vnto them, Let euerie man cast awaie the abominations of his eyes, and defile not your selues with y idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, and wolde not heare me: for nohe cast awaie the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forsake y idoles of Egypt: then I thoght to powre out mine indignacion vpon the, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the middes of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had respect to my Name, that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, among whome they were, & in whose sight I made my self knowe vnto the in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I caried them out of the land of Egypt & broght them into the wilderness.

11 And I gaue them my statutes, and declared my iudgements vnto them, which a man do, he shal liue in them.

12 Moreouer I gaue the also my Sabbath: to be a signe betwene me and the, that they might knowe that I am y Lord, that sanctifie them.

13 But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast awaie my iudgements, which if a man do, he shal liue in them, and my Sabbaths have they greatly polluted: then I thoght to powre out mine indignacion vpon them in the wilderness, to consume them,

14 But I had respect to my Name, that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I broght them out.

15 Yet neuertheles, I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wilderness that I wolde not bring them into the land, which I had giuen them, flowing with milke & honie, which was pleasant aboue all lands,

16 Because they cast awaie my iudgements, and walked not in my statutes, but haue polluted my Sabbaths: for their hearts went after their idoles.

17 Neuertheles, mine eye spared the, that I wolde not destroye them, neither wolde I consume them in the wilderness.

18 But I said vnto their children in the wilderness, Walke ye not in the ordinances of your fathers, neither obserue their maners, nor defile your selues with their idoles.

19 I am the Lord your God: walke in my statutes, and kepe my iudgements & do the,

20 And sanctifie my Sabbaths, & thei shal be a signe betwene me & you, that ye might knowe that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my iudgements to do the, which if a man do, he shal liue in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thoght to powre out mine indignacion vpon them, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the wilderness.

22 Neuertheles I withdrew mine hand & had respect to my Name that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I broght them forth.

23 Yet I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wilderness, that I wolde scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countreis.

24 Because they had not executed my iudgements, but had cast awaie my statutes, & had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers idoles.

25 Wherefore I gaue them also statutes that were not good, & iudgements, wherein they shulde not liue.

And I polluted the in their own eyes in that they caused to passe by all that I first openeth the words, that I destroye them, to the end that they might knowe that I am the Lord.

Therefore, sonne of man, speake to the house of Israel, & say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, yet in this have ye not changed your maners, for ye have grievously transgressed against me, before I brought you into the land.

For when I had brought them into the land, then they sawe euerye one all the thicke trees, and they offered their sacrifices, and there they placed their offering of prouocation: that they made their swete savour, and out there their drinke offerings.

Then I said vnto them, What place whereunto ye go? And they answered me, We will go into the house of Baalim, where we will offer our sacrifices.

Wherefore, say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye polluted? after the maner of your fathers, commit ye not whore dome after dominations?

For when you offer your gifts, your sonnes to passe through the pollute your selues with all your offerings: then I will answer you, saith the Lord God, I will not answer you.

Neither shal that be done that I have commanded you, for ye say, We will do as our fathers did, in the heaten, and as the families of the countreis, and serue wood, and stone.

As I liue, saith the Lord God, I will rule you with a mightie hand, I will stretch out arme, & in my wrath I will bring you from the peopel, and I will gather you out of the countreis, in ye are scattered, with a mightie hand, I will stretch out arme and I will powre out.

And I will bring you into the land of the people, & there will I plant you face to face.

Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord God.

And I will cause you to passe vnto the land, and I will bring you into the land of the covenant.

And I will chuse out from among you, the rebellious, and them that transgressed my statutes: I will bring them out of the land, that dwell, & they shal not entere into the land of Israel, & you shal knowe y I am the Lord God.

As for you, house of Israel, say to the Lord God, Go you, and serue your idoles, seeing that ye will not liue.

Meaning, y the Caldeans shulde destroy them as the East winde doeth the frute of the vine.

I have cast awaie my iudgements, not in my statutes, but have made my Sabbaths: for their heart was not true.

I have cast awaie my iudgements, not in my statutes, but have made my Sabbaths: for their heart was not true.

And I polluted the in their owne gifts, in that they caused to passe by the fyre all that first openeth the wombe, that I might destroye them, to the end that they might knowe that I am the Lord.

Therefore, sonne of man, speake vnto the house of Israel, & say vnto the, Thus saith the Lord God, yet in this your fathers haue blasphemed me, though they had before grievously transgressed against me.

For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted vp mine hand to giue it, then they sawe euerie hie hill, & all the thicke trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented their offering of prouocation: there also they made their swete savour, and powred out there their drinke offerings.

Then I said vnto them, What is the hie place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof was called o Bamah vnto this day.

Wherefore, say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye not polluted after the maner of your fathers? & commit ye not whoredome after their abominations?

For when you offer your gifts, and make your sonnes to passe through the fyre, you pollute your selues with all your idoles vnto this day: shal I answer you when I am asked, o house of Israel, as I liue, saith the Lord God, I wil not answer you when I am asked.

Neither shal that be done that cometh into your minde: for ye say, We wil be as the heathen, and as the families of the countreys, and serue wood, and stone.

As I liue, saith the Lord God, I wil surely rule you with a mightie hand, and with a stretched out arme, & in my wrath powred out.

And wil bring you from the people, and wil gather you out of the countreys, wherein ye are scatred, with a mightie hand, & with a stretched out arme and in my wrath powred out.

And I wil bring you into the wilderness of the people, & there wil I plead with you face to face.

Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so wil I plead with you, saith the Lord God.

And I wil cause you to passe vnder the rod, and wil bring you into the bonde of the couenant.

And I wil schute out from among you the rebelles, and them that transgresse against me: I wil bring them out of the land where they dwell, & they shal not entre into y land of Israel, & you shal knowe y I am y Lord.

As for you, o house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, Go you, and serue euerie one his idole, seing that ye wil not obey me, and pollute mine holie Name no more with your gifts and with your idoles.

For in mine holie mountaine euen in the hie mountaine of Israel, saith y Lord God, there shal all the house of Israel, and all in the land, serue me: there wil I accept the, and there wil I require your offerings and the first frutes of your oblations, with all your holy things.

I wil accept your swete savour, when I bring you from the people, & gather you out of the countreys, wherein ye haue bene scatred, that I may be sanctified in you before the heathen.

And ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I shal bring you into the land of Israel, into the land, for the which I lifted vp mine hand to giue it to your fathers.

And there shal ye remeber your wayes, and all your workes, wherein ye haue bene defiled, and ye shal iudge your selues worthy to be cut of, for all your euils, that ye haue committed.

And ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I haue respect vnto you for my Names sake, and not after your wicked wayes, nor according to your corrupt workes, o ye house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, set thy face toward the way of Temin, and droppe thy worde toward the South, and prophecie toward the forest of the field of the South,

And say to the forest of the South, Heare the worde of the Lord: thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil kindle a fyre in thee, and it shal deuoure all the grune wood in thee, and all the dry wood: the continual flame shal not be quenched, & euerie face from the South to the North shal be burnt therein.

And all flesh shal see, that I y Lord haue kindled it, & it shal not be quenched. The said I, Ah Lord God, thei say of me, Doeth not he speake y parables?

5 That all flesh may knowe that I the Lord haue drawn my sworde out of his sheath, & it shal not returne anie more.

7 And if they say vnto thee, Wherefore mournest thou? then answer, Because of the brute: for it cometh, and euery heart shal melt; and all hands shal be weak, and all mindes shal faint, and all knees shal fall away as water: behold, it cometh, and shal be done, saith the Lord God.

8 Again, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, say, A sworde, a sworde bothe sharpe, and fourbished.

10 It is sharpened to make a sore slaughter, & it is fourbished that it may glitter: how shal we reioyce for it contemne the rod of my sonne, as all other trees.

11 And he hath giuen it to be fourbished, that he may handle it: this sworde is sharpe, and is fourbished, that he may giue it into the hand of the slayer.

12 Crye, and howle, sonne of man: for this shal come to my people, and it shal come vnto all the princes of Israel: the terrours of the sworde shal be vpon my people: smite therefore vpon thy thigh.

13 For it is a tryal, and what shal this be, if the sworde contemne euen the rod? It shal be no more, saith the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, sonne of man, prophesie, and smite with hand to hand, and let the sworde be doubled: let the sworde that hath killed, returne the thirde time: it is the sworde of the great slaughter, entering into their priuie chambers.

15 I haue brought the feare of the sworde into all their gates to make their heart to faint, and to multiplie their ruines. Ah it is made bright, & it is dressed for the slaughter.

17 I wil also smite mine hands together, & wil cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord haue said it.

22 At his right hand was the diuination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouth in the slaughter, and to lift vp their voyce with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, tocale a mount, and to buyld a fortres.

23 And it shal be vnto them as a false diuination in their sight for the othes made vnto them: but he wil call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they shal be taken.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye haue made your iniquitie to be remembered, in discouering your rebellion, in all your workes your sinnes might appeare: because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shal be taken with the hand.

25 And thou prince of Israel polluted, & wicked, whose day is come, when iniquitie shal haue an end.

26 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil take away the diademe, & take of the crowne: this shal be no more the same: I wil exalt the humble, and wil abase him that is high.

27 I wil ouerturne, ouerturne, and it shal be no more vntill he y<sup>e</sup> come, whose right it is, and I wil giue it him.

28 ¶ And thou, sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemers, say thou, I say, The sworde, the sworde drawe forth, & fourbished to the slaughter, to consume, because of the glittering.

29 Whiles they se vanitie vnto thee, and prophesied a lye vnto thee to bring thee vpon the neckes of the wicked that are slaine, whose day is come when their iniquitie shal haue an end.

30 Shal I cause it to returne into his sheath? I wil iudge thee in the place where thou wast created, euen in the land of thine habitation.

31 And I wil powre out mine indignation vpon thee, & wil blowe against thee in the fyre of my wrath, & deliuer thee into the hand of beaustie me, & skilful to destroy.

32 Thou shalt be in fyre to be deuoured: thy blood shal be in the middes of the land, and thou shalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

Ierusalem is reproved for cruelty. 27 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their unsatisfiable covetousnes. 27 The tyrannie of rulers. 29 The wickednes of the people.

Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, I shew her all her abominations: the citie sheddeth blood in the middes of the land, that her time may come, and idoles against her selfe to pollute.

Thou hast offended in thy blood: thou hast shed, and hast polluted in thine idoles, which thou hast made: thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe neere, & art come vnto thy terme: therefore I made thee a reproche to the nations, a mocking to all countreys.

In thee haue they taken gifte of blood: thou hast taken vsurie and increase, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten the Lord God.

Can thine heart endure, or can thy hands be strong, in the daies that haue to do with thee? I the Lord haue said it, and wil do it.

And I wil scatter thee among the nations, and disperse thee in the countreys: cause thy filthines to cease from thee, and thou shalt take thine iniquitie thy selfe in the sight of the heathen.

Thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lord, when I haue said it.

proued for crueltie. 27 Of the wicked false prophets and priests, and of their crueltyes. 28 The tyrannie of rulers
over the people.

uer, the worde of the Lord
came vnto me, saying;

Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge

wilt thou iudge this bloody citie? wilt thou
stewe her all her abominacions?

Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The
citie sheddeth blood in the middes of it,
that her time may come, and maketh i-
doles against her self to pollute her self.

Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy self in thine idoles, which thou hast made, and
thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe nere, & art come vnto thy terme: therefore haue
I made thee a reproche to the heathē, &
a mocking to all countreys.

Those that be nere, and those that be farre
from thee, shal mocke thee, which art vile in name & sore in affliction.

Beholde, the princes of Israel euery one in thee was ready to his power, to shed blood.

In thee haue they despised father & mother: in the middes of thee haue they oppressed the stranger: in thee haue they vexed the fatherles and the widowe.

Thou hast despised mine holy things, &
hast polluted my Sabbaths.

In thee are men that cary tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eat vpon the mountaines: in the middes of thee they commit abomination.

In thee haue they discovered their fathers shame: in thee haue they vexed her
that was polluted in her floures.

And euery one hath committed abomination with his neighbours wife, and eu-
ery one hath wickedly defiled his daughter in law, & in thee hath euery man forced his owne sifter, even his fathers daughter.

In thee haue they taken giftes to shed
blood: thou hast taken vsurie and the en-crease, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten me,
saith the Lord God.

Beholde, therefore I haue smitten mine
hands vpon thy couetousnes, that thou hast vied, and vpon the blood, which hath bene in the middes of thee.

Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be strong, in the daies that I shal
haue to do with thee? I the Lord haue spoken it, and wil do it.

And I wil scatter thee among the heathē,
and disperse thee in the countreys, and wil
cause thy filthines to cease from thee.

And thou shalt take thine inheritance in thy self in the sight of the heathen, and thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lord.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

Sonne of man, the house of Israel is vnto
me as drosse: all they are brasse, & tynne,
and yron, and lead in the middes of the furnace: they are even the drosse of siluer.

Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, beholde, therefore I wil gather you in the middes of Ierusalem.

As they gather siluer and brasse, & yron,
and lead, & tynne into the middes of the furnace, to blowe the fyre vpon it to melt it, so wil I gather you in mine angre and in my wrath, and wil put you there & melt
you.

I wil gather you, I say, and blowe the fy-re of my wrath vpon you, and you shal be melted in the middes thereof.

As siluer is melted in the middes of the furnace, so shal ye be melted in the mid-des thereof, and ye shal knowe, that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

Sonne of man, say vnto her, Thou art the land, that is vnclane, & not rained vpon
in the day of wrath.

There is a conspiracie of her Prophetes
in the middes thereof like a roaring lyon,
rauening the pray: they haue deuoured sou-
les: they haue taken the riches & precious things: they haue made her many widdowes
in the middes thereof.

Her Priests haue broken my Law, & haue
defiled mine holy things: they haue put no
difference betwene the holy & prophane,
nether discerned betwene the vnclane,
and the cleane, and haue hid their eyes
from my Sabbaths, and I am prophaned
among them.

Her princes in the middes thereof are
like wolues, rauening & pray to shed blood,
and to destroye soules for their owne co-
ueretous lucre.

And her Prophetes haue dawbed them
with vnrempred mortar, scing vanities, &
diuining lies vnto them, saying, Thus saith
the Lord God, when the Lord had not spoken.

The people of the land haue violently
oppressed by spoyling and robbing, & haue vexed the poore & the neady: yea, they haue oppressed the stranger against right.

And I fought for a man among them, that shulde make vp the hedge, & stand in the gap before me for the land, that I shulde
not destroy it, but I founde none.

Therefore haue I powred out mine indignation vpon them, & consumed them
with the fyre of my wrath: their owne waies
haue I rendred vpon their heads, saith
the Lord God.

walked in y way of thy sister:
gine her cup into thine hand.
the Lord God, Thou shalt sisters cup, depe and large laughed to skome & had in derision.

derision, because it conteineth muche.
Thou shalt be filled with drunkenes &
scrowe, euén with the cup of destruction,
and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.
Thou shalt euén drinke it, and wring it out to the dregges, & thou shalt breake the sherdes thereof, & teare thine owne brea-sters: for I haue spoké it, saith y Lord God.
Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten me, and cast me
behind thy backe, therefore thou shalt also beare thy wickednes & thy whoredome.
The Lord said moreouer vnto me,
Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholáh &
Aholibáh? and wilt thou declare to them
their abominations?
For they haue plied the whores, and blood in their hands, and with their idoles
haue they committed adulterie, and haue
also caused their sonnes, whome they bare vnto me, to passe by the fyre to be their meat.
Moreouer thus haue they done vnto me:
they haue defiled my sanctuarie in the same day, & haue prophaned my Sabbaths.
For when they had slaine their children
to their idoles, they came the same day
into my Sanctuarie to defile it: and lo, thus
haue they done in y middes of mine house.
And how muche more with that they sent formento come from p farre vnto who-
me a messenger was sent, & lo, they came?
for whome thou didst wash thy self, and painted thine eyes, & deckedst thee with ornaments,
And facest a vpon a costlie bed, and a
table prepared before it, whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oyle.
And a voyce of multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the companie great were broght men of Sabá from the wilderness, which put bracelets vpon their hands, and beautiful
crownes vpon their heads.
Then I said vnto her, that was olde in adulteries, Now shal she and her fornications
come to an end.
And they went in vnto her as they go to a cômune harlot: so wét thei to Aholáh
and Aholibáh the wicked women:
And the righteous men they shal iudge
them, after the maner of harlots, and after the maner of murderers: for they are harlots, and blood is in their hands.
Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil bring a multitude vpon them, and wil
gine them vnto the tumulte, and to the spoyles.
And the multitude shal stone them with stones, and cut them with their swordes:
they shal slay their sonnes, and their daughters, & burne vp their houses with fyre.

Thus wil I cause wickednes to cease out of the lād, that all women may be taught
not to do after your wickednes.
And they shal lay your wickednes vpó
you, and ye shal beare the finnes of your idoles, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.
CHAP. XXXIII.
He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable
of a seething pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiels wife being dead.
A Gaine in the ninth yere, in the tēth
moneth, in the tenth day of the mo-neth came the worde of the Lord vnto me,
saying,
Sonne of man, write thee the name of the day, euén of this same day: for the King of Babel set him self against Ierusalem this same day.
Therefore speake a parable vnto y rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith
the Lord God, Prepare a pot, prepare it,
and also power water into it.
Gather the pieces thereof into it, euén
euerie good piece, as the thigh and the shulder, & fil it with the chief bones.
Take one of the best shepe, and burne
also the bones vnder it, & make it boyle
wel, and sethe the bones of it therein,
Because the Lord God saith thus, Wo
to the bloodie citie, euén to the pot, whose skome is therein, and whose skome is not gone out of it: bring it out a piece by piece: let no horse fall vpon it.
For her blood is in the middes of her: she set it vpon an high rocke, and powred it
not vpon the grounde to couer it w dust,
That it might cause wrath to arise, & take vengeance: euén I haue set her blood vpon
an high rocke y it shulde not be couered.
Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Wo
to the bloodie citie, for I wil make the burning great.
Heape on muche wood: kindle the fy-re, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.
Then set it emptie vpon the coles thereof, that the brasle of it may be hot, and may burne, and that the filthines of it may be molten in it, and that the skome of it may be consumed.
She hath wearied her self with lies, &
her great skome went not out of her: therefore her skome shalbe consumed with fyre.
Thou remainest in thy filthines & wicked-
nes: because I wolde haue purged thee,
and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged fro thy filthines, til I haue caused my wrath to light vpon thee.
I the Lord haue spoken it: it shal come

15 ¶ Also the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

16 Sonne of man, beholde, I take away frõ
thee the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou nether mourne nor wepe, nether shalt thy teares runne downe.

17 Cease from sighing: make no mourning
for the dead, & binde the tyre of thine
head vpon thee, & put on thy shoes
vpon thy fete, & couer not thy lippes, and eat & not the bread of men.

18 So I spake vnto the people in the morning, and at euen my wife dyed: and I did in the morning, as I was commanded.

19 And the people said vnto me, Wilt thou not tel vs what these thigs meane toward vs, that thou doest so?

20 Then I answered them, The worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

21 Speake vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil pollute
my Sanctuarie, euen the pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, & your sunnes, & your daughters whome ye haue left, shal fall by the swoorde.

22 And ye shal do as I haue done: ye shal
not couer your lippes, nether shal ye eat
the bread of men.

23 And your tyre shal be vpon your heads, &
your shoes vpon your fete: ye shal not mourne nor wepe, but ye shal pine away
for your iniquities, & mourne one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is vnto you a signe: according to all that he hath done, ye shal do:
and when this cometh, ye shal knowe that
I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou sonne of man, shal it not be in the day when I take from the their power,
the ioye of their honour, the pleasure of
their eyes, and the desire of their heart,
their sonnes and their daughters?

26 That he that escapeth in that day, shal come vnto thee to tel thee that which he hath heard with his eares?

27 In that day shal thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speake, and be no more domme, and thou shalt be a signe vnto them, and they shal
knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

The worde of the Lord against Ammon, which reioy-ced at the fall of Ierusalem. 2 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea, and the Philistims.

The worde of the Lord came againe
vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and propheticke against them,
And say vnto the Ammonites, Heare the

worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saydest, A ha, a ha, against my Sanctuarie, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate, and against the house of Iudáh, when they went into captiuitie,

Beholde, therefore I wil deliuer thee to me of the East for a possession, and they shal set their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shal eat thy fruite, and they shal drinke thy milke.

And I wil make Rabbáh a dwelling place
for camels, and the Ammonites a shep-
cote, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped the hands, and reioyced
with the fete, and reioyced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel,

Beholde, therefore I wil stretche out
mine hand vpon thee, and wil deliuer thee
to be spoiled of the heathen, & I wil roote thee out from the people, and I wil cause
thee to be destroyed out of the countreis
& I wil destroye thee, & thou shalt knowe
that I am the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou Moab and Seir do say, Beholde, the house
of Iudáh is like vnto all the heathen,

Therefore, beholde, I wil open the side
of Moab, euen of the cities of his cities,
say, in his frontiers with the pleasant coun-
treys, Beth-ieshimóth, Báal-meon, and Kariatháim.

I wil call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and wil giue them in posses-

CHAP. XXVI.

The prophetieth that Tyrus shal be ouerthrow-
ne, as the destruction of Ierusalem,
and a punishment of the marchants
destruction of Tyrus.

And in the eleuenth yere
the first daie of the moneth, the
of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
Sonne of man, because that Tyrus saith against Ierusalem, A ha, the
the people is broken: it is turned vpon
for being she is desolate, I shal be

Therefore thus saith the Lord God,
Beholde, I come against thee, O Tyrus,
wil bring vpon manie nations against thee, as the sea mounteth vpon with his waves, and thei shal destroye the walles of Tyrus, & breake downe her towers: I shal scrape her dust from her, and make her the toppe of a rocke.

Thou shalt be for the spreading
in the middes of the sea: for I haue said, saith the Lord God, and it
shal be so to the nations.

And her daughters which are in
the sea, shal be slaine by the swoorde,
thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

For thus saith the Lord God, because thou hast said, I wil bring vpon
Tyrus Nebuchad-
King of Babel, a King of Kings
North, with horses and with char-iots, with horsemen, with a multitude
of the people.

He shal laie with the swoorde thy walls in the field, and he shal make against thee, and cast a mount againe
and lift vp the buckler against thee.
He shal set engines of warre betwixt against thy walles, and with his swoorde breake downe thy towres.

The dust of his horses shal couer
the multitude: thy walles shal fall at the noise of the horsemen, at the wheels, & of the chariots, when he shall enter into thy gates as into the entrie
of a broken downe.

With his houses of his horses shal
he breake downe all thy stretes: he shal slay
the multitude by the swoorde, and the strength shal fall downe to the ground.
And thei shal robbe thy riches,
thy marchandise, and thei shal
breake downe thy walles, and destroye
thy houses, and thei shal cast thy timbre and thy dust into
the middes of the water.

CHAP. XXVI.
The prophet saith that Tyrus shalbe ouerthrowen because it was destroyed as the destruction of Ierusalem. 15 The ruining and assailing of the marchantes for the destruction of Tyrus.
And in the <sup>a</sup> eleuenth yere, in the first daie of the moneth, the worde
of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hathe said against Ierusalem, A ha, the <sup>b</sup> gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me:
for seing she is desolate, I shalbe <sup>c</sup> replenished,
Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Be-holde, I come against thee, o Tyrus, and I wil bring vp manie nations against thee,
as the sea mounteth vp with his waues.
And thei shal destroie the walles of Tyrus & breake downe her towers: I wil also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the toppes of a rocke.
Thou shalt be for the spreading of nettes
in the middes of the sea: for I haue spoken
it, saith the Lord God, and it shalbe a spoyle to the nations.
And her <sup>d</sup> daughters which are in the fi-
elde, shalbe slaine by the sword, and thei
shal knowe that I am the Lord.
For thus saith the Lord God, beholde, I wil bring vpon Tyrus Nebuchad-nezzar
King of Babel, a King of Kings from the North, with horses and with charets, and with horsemen, with a multitude and mu-che people.
He shal slaie with the sword thy daughters in the field, and he shal make a forte against thee, and cast a mount against thee,
and lift vp the buckler against thee.
He shal set engines of warre before him
against thy walles, and with his weapons
breake downe thy towres.
The dust of his horses shal couer thee,
for their multitude: thy walles shal shake
at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheles, & of the charets, whe he shal entre
into thy gates as into the entrie of a citie
that is broken downe.
With <sup>e</sup> houses of his horses shal he tread
downe all thy trees: he shal slaie thy people by the sword, and the <sup>f</sup> pillars of thy strength shal fall downe to the grounde.
And thei shal robbe thy riches and spoi-
le thy marchandise, and thei shal breake
downe thy walles, and destroie thy pleasant houses, and thei shal cast thy stones
and thy timbre and thy dust into the mid-des of the water.
Thus wil I cause <sup>g</sup> y sounde of thy songs
to cease, and the sounde of thine harpes

shalbe no more heard.
I wil laie thee like the toppes of a rocke:
thou shalt be for a spreading of nettes:
thou shalt be buylt no more: for I the Lord haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.
Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shal
not the yles tremble at the sounde of thy fall, and at the crye of the wounded, when thei shalbe slaine and murdered in the middes of thee?
Then all <sup>h</sup> y princes of the <sup>i</sup> sea shal come downe from their thrones: thei shal laie awaie their robes, & put of their broyded
garments, and shal clothe them selues
with astonishment: thei shal sit vpon the grounde, and be astonished at euerie moment, and be amased at thee.
And thei shal take vp a lamentacion for thee, and saie to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited <sup>j</sup> of y sea men,
the renoumed citie which was strong in the sea, lothe she & her inhabitants, which cause
their feare to be on all <sup>k</sup> y haunt therein!
Now shal the yles be astonished in the daie of thy fall: yea, the yles that are in the sea, shalbe troubled at thy departure.
For thus saith the Lord God, Whe I shal
make thee a desolate citie, like the cities
that are not inhabited, & whe I shal bring the deape vpon thee, and great waters shal
couer thee,
When I shal cast thee downe with them
that descende into the pit, with the people
of olde time, and shal set thee in the lowe
partes of the earth, like the olde ruines, w them, I say, which go downe to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shal
shewe my glorie in the lad of the <sup>l</sup> liuing.
I wil bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: thogh thou be soght for,
yet shalt thou neuer be founde againe,
saith the Lord God.

I say vnto y<sup>e</sup> prince of Tyrus,
the Lord God, Because thou

Behold, thou art wiser the Daniël: there is no secret, that thei can hide from thee.
With thy wisdom and thine vnderstan
ding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast
gotten gold and silver into thy treasures.
By thy great wisdom and by thine occu pation hast y<sup>e</sup> increased thy riches, and thi
heart is lifted vp because of thy riches.
Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Be cause thou didst thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God,

Behold, therefore I will bring strangers
vpon thee, even the terrible nations: and thei shal drawe their swordes against the beautie of thy wisdom, and thei shal de file thy brightnes.

Thei shal cast thee downe to the pit, and thou shalt dye the death of them, that are thine in the middes of the sea.

While thou saydest before him, y<sup>e</sup> I shal
thee, I am a god: but thou shalt be a man,
and no God, in the hands of him that shalt thee.

Thou shalt dye the death of the vncir

haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

Moreover the worde of the Lord came
vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion vp
on the King of Tyrus, and say vnto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest vp the summe, & art full of wisdom and perfite in beautie.

Thou hast bene in Eden y<sup>e</sup> garde of God:
cuerie precious stone was in thy garment. y<sup>e</sup>
rubie, y<sup>e</sup> topaze & the diamod, y<sup>e</sup> chrysolite,
y<sup>e</sup> onix, & the iasper, y<sup>e</sup> saphire, y<sup>e</sup> emeraud,
& the carbuncle & golde: y<sup>e</sup> worke manship
of thy timbrels, & of thy pipes was prepa red in thee in the day that y<sup>e</sup> wast created.

Thou art the anointed Cherub, that co
uereth, and I haue set thee in honou<sup>r</sup>: thou wast vpon y<sup>e</sup> holy mountaine of God: y<sup>e</sup> hast walked in y<sup>e</sup> middes of the stones of fyre.
Thou wast perfite in thy waies from the day that thou wast created, til iniquitie
was founde in thee.

By the multitude of thy marchandise,
thei haue filled the middes of thee with crueltie, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as prophane out of y<sup>e</sup> moun tain of God; & I will destroy thee, & coue ring Cherub from the middes of the sto nes of fyre.

Thine heart was lifted vp because of thy beautie, & thou hast corrupted thy wisdo
me by reason of thy brightnes: I will cast
thee to the ground: I will lay thee before Kings, that thei may beholde thee.

Thou hast defiled thy sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, & by the iniquity of thy marchandise: therefore will
I bring forth a fyre fro y<sup>e</sup> middes of thee,

which shal deuoure thee: & I will brig thee
to ashes vpon the earth, in the sight of all
them that beholde thee,

All thei y<sup>e</sup> knowe thee among the people,
shalbe astonished at thee: thou shalt be a
terroure, & neuer shalt thou be any more.

Againe, the worde of the Lord came
vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, set thy face against Zi
don, and prophetic against it,

And say, Thus saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord God, Behol
de, I come against thee, o Zidon, & I will be glorified in y<sup>e</sup> middes of thee: & thei shal
knowe that I am the Lord, when I shal ha
ue executed iudgements in her, and shalbe
sanctified in her.

For I will send into her pestilence & blood,
into her stretes, and the flaine shal fall in y<sup>e</sup>
middes of her: the enimie shal come agai
st her with the sworde on euerie side, & thei
shal knowe that I am the Lord.

And thei shalbe no more a pricking thorne vnto y<sup>e</sup> house of Israel, nor any greeuous thorne of all that are rounde about them,
and despised the, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord God,

Thus saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord God, When I shal ha
ue gathered y<sup>e</sup> house of Israel fro y<sup>e</sup> people
where thei are scattered, & shal be sancti fied in the sight of the heathen, then shal thei dwell in the land, that I haue gi
uen to my seruant Iakob.

And thei shal dwell safely therein, & shal
buyld houses, & plant vineyardes: yea, thei
shal dwell safely, when I haue executed iud gements vpon all rounde about thei y<sup>e</sup> despise the, & thei shal knowe y<sup>e</sup> I am y<sup>e</sup> Lord their God.

And I wil powre my wrath vpon Sin,
which is the strength of Egypt: and I wil
destroy the multitude of No.

And I wil set fyre in Egypt: Sin shal haue great sorow, and No shalbe destroyed,
and Noph shal haue sorowes dailely.

The yong men of Auen, and of Phibe-

shal go into captiuitie.

At Tehaphneches the day I shal restraine
his light, when I shal breake there the bar-

Thus wil I execute iudgemets in Egypt,
and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

And in the eleuenth yere, in the first

the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, I haue broken the arme
of Pharaoh King of Egypt: and lo, it shal
not be bounde vp to be healed, nether shal
they put a roole to binde it, and so make it strong, to holde the sworde.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Be-holde, I come against Pharaoh King of Egypt, and wil breake his arme, that was strong, but is broken, and I wil cause the sworde to fall out of his hand.

And I wil scatter the Egyptians among
the nations, and wil disperse them through the countreys.

And I wil strengthen the arme of the King of Babel, and put my sworde in his hand, but I wil breake Pharaohs armes, &
he shal cast out sighings as the sighings of him, that is wounded before him.

But I wil strengthen the armes of the King of Babel, and the armes of Pharaoh
shal fall downe, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord. When I shal put my sworde into the hand of the King of Babel, & he shal stretch it out vpon the land of Egypt.
And I wil scatter the Egyptians among
the nations, and disperse them among the countreys, and they shal knowe, that I am
the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharaoh with the prosperitie of the Assyrians. 10 He prophesieth a like destruction to them bothe.

And in the eleuenth yere, in the third
moneth, & in the first day of the mo-neth the worde of the Lord came vnto me,
saying,

Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh King
of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whome
art thou like in thy greatnes?

Beholde, Affhur was like a cedre in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke
shadowing boughes, and shot vp verie hie,

and his top was among the thicke boughes.

The waters nourished him, and the depe
exalted him on hie with her riuers running rounde about his plants, and sent out her little riuers vnto all the trees of the field.

Therefore his height was exalted about all the trees of the field, & his boughes were multiplied, and his branches were long,
because of the multitude of the waters,
which the depe sent out.

All the foules of the heaven made their nests in his boughes, and vnder his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their yong, and vnder his shadow
dwelt all mightie nations.

Thus was he faire in his greatnes, and in the length of his branches: for his roote
was nere great waters.

The cedres in the garden of God colde
not hide him: no fire tre was like his branches, and the chestnut trees were not like his boughes: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in his beautie.

I made him faire by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, enuied him.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because he is lift vp on high, and hath shot
vp his toppe among the thicke boughes, &
his heart is lift vp in his height,

I haue therefore deliuered him into the hands of the mightiest among the heathen: he shal handle him, for I haue cast him
away for his wickednes.

And the strangers haue destroyed him,
when the terrible nations, and they haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in the valleys his branches are fallen, & his boughes
are broken by all the riuers of the land:
and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadowe, and haue forsaken
him.

Vpon his ruine shal all the foules of the heaven remaine, and all the beasts of the field shalbe vpon his branches,

So that none of all the trees by the waters shal be exalted by their height, nether
shal shoote vp their toppe among the thicke
boughes, nether shal their leaues stand vp
in their height, which drinke so muche
water: for they are all deliuered vnto death
in the nether partes of the earth in the middes of the children of men among the
that go downe to the pit.

Thus saith the Lord God, In the daye
when he went downe to hel, I caused them
to mourne, & I covered the depe for him,
and I did restraine the floods thereof, and the great waters were staied: I caused Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees
of the field fainted.

I made the nacios to shake at the sounde
of his fall, when I cast him downe to hel,

Many other nations were vnder their dominion.
O, country.

Signifying,
that there was no greater
power in the worlde then
his was.

Or, thus wast

That is, of Nebuchad-nez-
zar, who afterward was the monarche and pouere ruler of
the worlde.

Hereby is signified the destruction of the power of the Assyrians by the Babylonians.

The depe

18 To whome I art thou thus like in glorie & in greatnes amog the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden vnto the nether partes of the earth: thou shalt sleepe in the middes of the vncircumcised, with them that be slaine by the sword: this is Pharaoh & all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXII.

a The Prophet is commanded to bewaile Pharaoh King of Egypt. 12 He prophesieth that destruction shal come vnto Egypt through the King of Babylon.

ANd in the twelfth yere in the twelfth moneth, & in the first day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion for Pharaoh King of Egypt, & say vnto him, Thou art like a lyon of the nations & art as a dragon in the sea: thou castest out thy riuers & troublest the waters with thy fete, and stampest in their riuers.

3 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil therefore spread my net ouer thee with a great multitude of people, & thei shal make thee come vp into my net.

4 Then wil I leaue thee vpon the land, & I wil cast thee vpon the open field, & I wil cause all the foules of the heauē to remaine vpon thee, and I wil fill all the beasts of the field with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh vpon the mountaines, & fill the valles with thine height. d I wil also water with thy blood the land wherein thou swimme, euen to the mountaines, and the riuers shalbe full of thee.

6 And when I shal put thee out, I wil couer the heauen, and make the starres thereof darke: I wil couer the sunne with a cloude, and the moone shal not giue her light.

7 All the lights of heauen wil I make darke for thee, and bring darkness vpon thy land, saith the Lord God.

8 I wil also trouble the hearts of many people, when I shal bring thy destruction among the nations, and vpon the countreis which thou hast not known.

9 Yea, I wil make many people amazed at thee, & their Kings shalbe astonished with feare for thee, when I shal make my sword to glitter against their faces, & thei shal be afraid at euery moment: euery man for his owne life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, The sword of the King of Babel shal come vpō thee, By the swordes of the mightie wil I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shalbe terrible nacions, and they shal destroye the pompe of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shalbe confumed.

12 I wil destroye also all the beasts thereon from the great waterfildes, nerher shal the fore of man trouble them any more, nor the houses of beast trouble them.

13 Then wil I make their waters depe, and cause their riuers to runne like oyle, saith the Lord God.

14 When I shal make the land of Egypt desolate, and the countrey with all that is therein, shalbe laied wast: when I shal smite all them, which dwell therein, then shal thei knowe, that I am the Lord.

15 This is the mourning wherewith they shal lament her: the daughters of the nacions shal lament her: thei shal lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

16 In the twelfth yere also in the fiftenth day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and cast them downe, euen thei and the daughters of the mightie nacions vnto the nether partes of the earth, with them that go downe into the pit.

18 Whome doest thou passe in beautie go downe and sleepe with the vncircumcised.

19 Thei shal fall in the middes of them that are slayne by the sword: she is deliuered to the sword: drawe her downe, and all her multitude.

20 The moste mighty & strong shal speake to her out of the middes of hel with thy helpe her: they are gone downe and sleepe with the vncircumcised that be slaine by the sword.

21 As Hur is there & all his companie: their graues are about him: all they are slayne and fallen by the sword.

22 Whose graues are made in the side of the pit, & his multitude are rounde about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword, which caused feare to be in the land of the liuing.

23 There is Elim and all his multitude rounde about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword & are gone downe with the vncircumcised into the nether partes of the earth, which caused the felues to be feared in the land of the liuing: yet haue they borne their shame with thei that are gone downe to the pit.

25 There is Mefhech, Tubal, & all the multitude: their graues are rounde about him: all these vncircumcised are slaine by the sword, thogh thei feare to be in the land of the liuing.

26 And thei shal nor lie with the vncircumcised, thei which are gone downe to the nether partes of the earth, with their weapons of warre, and their swordes vnder their heauens: iniquitie shalbe vpō their bones: thei were full of feare of the mightie of the liuing.

27 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the middes of the vncircumcised, and lyest with thei that are slaine by the sword.

28 There is Edom, his Kings & princes, which with their weapons of warre, they shal be laied by them that were slaine by the sword: they shal sleepe with the vncircumcised, and with them that go downe to the pit.

29 There be all the princes of the land of the Zidonians, which with all the Zidonians, which are slaine by the sword, thei are ashamed of their fete: the vncircumcised sleepe with thei that are slaine by the sword, and are ashamed with them that go downe to the pit.

30 Pharaoh shal se the, and he shal be ashamed of all his multitude: all his armie shalbe slaine by the sword, saith the Lord God.

31 For I haue caused my feare to be in the land of the liuing: and he shal be ashamed of the middes of the vncircumcised, thei that are slaine by the sword, Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The office of the gouernours and ministers. 14 He strengtheneth them that dispaire, and boldeneth them with the promes of mercie. 30 The worde of the Lord against the mockers of the Prophet.

Againe, the worde of the Lord came
vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and say vnto them, When I bring the sworde vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their watchman,
If when he seeth the sworde come vpon
the land, he blowe the trumpet and war-
ne the people,

Then he that heareth the sounde of the trumpet, and wil not be warned, if the sworde come, & take him away, his blood

shal be vpon his owne head.

For he heard the sounde of the trumpet,
and wolde not be admonished: therefore his blood shal be vpon him: but he that recei-
ueth warning, shal saue his life.

But if the watchman se the sworde come, and blowe not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sworde come, and take any persone from among them, he is taken away for his iniquitie,
but his blood wil I require at the watch-
mans hand.

* So thou, o sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israël:
therefore thou shalt heare the worde at my mouth, and admonishe them from me.

When I shal say vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt dye the death, if thou doest not speake, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shal dye
for his iniquitie, but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

Nethertheless, if thou warne the wicked
of his way, to turne from it, if he do not turne from his way, he shal dye for his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

Therefore, o thou sonne of man, spea-
ke vnto the house of Israël, Thus ye speake and say, If our transgressions and our sinnes be vpon vs, and we are consumed
because of them, how shulde we then
liue?

Say vnto them, as I liue, faith the Lord
God, I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and liue: turne you, turne you from your euil wayes, for why wil ye dye, o ye house of Israël?

Therefore thou sonne of man, say vn-
to the children of thy people, The righte-
ousnes of the righteous shal not deliuer
him in the day of his transgression, nor
the wickednes of the wicked shal cause
him to fall therein, in the day that he returneth from his wickednes, nether shal
the righteous liue for his righteousness in the day that he sinneth.

When I shal say vnto the righteous, that he shal surely liue, if he trust to his ow-
ne righteousness, and commit iniquitie,
all his righteousnesses shal be no more re-membred, but for his iniquitie that he hathe committed, he shal dye for the same.

Againe when I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt dye the death, if he turne from his sinne, & do that which is lawful and right,

To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge,
and giue againe that he had robbed, and walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquitie, he shal surely liue, and 26 Ye leane vpon your swordes: ye worke abomination, and ye defile euerie one his neighbours wife: shulde ye then possesse the land?

27 Say thus vnto them, Thus saith y Lord God, As I liue, so surely thei that are in the desolate places, shal fall by the sword: and him that is in the open field, wil I giue vnto the beastes to be deuoured: and thei that be in the fortes and in the caues, shal dye of the pestilence.

CHAP. XXXIII.

2 Against the sheperdes that despised the flocke of Christ, & seke their owne gain 7 The Lord saith that he wil visite his disperfed flocke, and gather them together. 23 He promisseth the true shepherd Christ, and with him peace.

1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophetic against the sheperdes of Israel, prophetic and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God vnto the sheperdes, * Wo be vnto the sheperdes of Israel, that fede them selues: shulde not the sheperdes fede the flockes?

3 Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the woll: ye kil them that are fed, but ye fede not the shepe.

4 The weake haue ye not strengthened: the sicke haue ye not healed, nether haue ye bounde vp the broken, nor broght againe that which was driue away, nether haue ye sought that which was lost, but with crueltie, & with rigour haue ye ruled the.

5 And they were scatted without a shepherde: and when thei were disperfed, thei were deuoured of all the beasts of the field.

6 My shepe waded through all the mountaines, and vpon euerie hye hill: yea, my flocke was scatted through all the earth, and none did seke or serche after them.

7 Therefore ye sheperdes, heare the worde of the Lord.

8 As I liue, saith the Lord God, surely because my flocke was spoiled, and my shepe were deuoured of all y beastes of the field, hauing no shepherd, nether did my sheperdes seke my shepe, but the sheperdes fed them selues, and fed not my shepe,

9 Therefore, heare ye the worde of y Lord, o ye sheperdes.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against the sheperdes, and wil requyre my shepe at their hands, and cease them to cease from feeding the shepe: nether shal the sheperdes fede them selues.

any more: for I wil deliuer my flocke from their mouthes, and thei shal no more feare them.

For thus saith the Lord God, I wil serche my shepe, and seke them.

As a shepherd sercheth out when he hath bene among his, so wil I seke out my flocke, which are scattered, so wil I deliuer them out of all places whither they haue bene scattered in the darke daie,

And I wil bring them out from among the people, and gather them from thence, and wil bring them to their owne land, and fede them vpon the mountaynes of Israel, by the riuers, and in all the red places of the countrey.

14 I wil fede the in a good pasture, on the hie mountaynes of Israel: folde be there shal thei lie in a pasture, and in fat pasture shal thei fede on the mountaynes of Israel.

15 I wil fede my shepe, and bring them to rest, saith the Lord God.

16 I wil seke that which was lost, and againe that which was driuen away, and wil binde vp that which was broken, and wil strengthen the weake, but I wil destroy the fat and the strong, & I wil destroy them with iudgement.

17 Also you my shepe, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I iudge betweene you and betweene the rams & the goats.

18 Semeth it a small thing vnto you, that I haue eaten vp the good pasture, but I haue tread downe with your fete the good pasture: & to haue drunk of the waters, but ye must trouble me with your fetes?

19 And my shepe eat that which is troden with your fete, and drinke of the waters which ye haue troubled with your fetes.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I, euen I wil iudge betweene the fat shepe and the lean.

21 Because ye haue thrust with your shulder, and pusht all the weak hornes, til ye haue scattered them.

22 Therefore wil I helpe my flocke, thei shal nomore be spoiled, and I wil ge betweene shepe and shepe.

23 And I wil set vp a shepherd over them, and he shal fede them, euen as I haue fed them, saith the Lord God.

24 And I the Lord wil be their God, and my seruant David shal be the prince over them. I the Lord haue spoken.

25 And I wil make with them a new covenant of peace, and wil cause the euill to cease out of the land: and thei shal safely in the wilderness, and in the woods.

Because ye haue thruſt with ſide & with

CHAP. XXXVI.

He promisseth to deliuer Israel from the Gentiles.

22 The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to be ascribed to the mercie of God, and not vnto their deservings.

26 God reneweth our hearts, that we maie walke in his commandements.

16 As thou sonne of man, prophesie vnto the mountaines of Israel, and saie, Ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lord.

17 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the enemy hath said against you, Aha, euen the high places of the worlde are ours in possession,

18 Therefore prophesie, and saie, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they haue made you desolate, and swallowed you vp on euery side, that ye might be a possession vnto the residue of the heathen, and ye are come vnto the lippes & tongues of men, and vnto the reproche of the people,

19 Therefore ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleys, and to the waste, & desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are rounde about.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely in the fyre of mine indignation haue I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which haue taken my land for their possession, with the ioye of all their heart, & with despiteful mindes to cast it out for a praie.

21 Prophecie therefore vpon the land of

Israel, and saie vnto the mountaines, and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I haue spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because ye haue suffered the shame of the heathen,

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I haue lifted vp mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shall beare their shame.

23 But you, O mountaines of Israel, ye shall shoote forth the your branches, and bring forth the your fruite to my people of Israel: for they are ready to come.

24 For beholde, I come vnto you, and I will turne vnto you, and ye shall be tilled and sowed.

25 And I will multiply the men vpon you, euen all the house of Israel wholly, & the cities shall be inhabited, & the desolate places shall be buylded.

26 And I will multiply vpon you man and beast, and they shall encrease, and bring fruite, and I will cause you to dwell after your olde estate, & I will bestowe benefites vpon you more then as the first, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

27 Yea, I will cause men to walke vpon you, euen my people Israel, & they shall possess you, and ye shall be their inheritance, and ye shall no more hence forth be depriued of men.

28 Thus saith the Lord God, Because they haue said vnto you, Thou shalt be deuoured, & men shall bene a waste of thy people,

29 Therefore thou shalt deuoure men no more, neither waste thy people hence forth, saith the Lord God,

30 Neither will I cause men to beare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou beare the reproche of the people any more, neither shalt thou cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

31 Moreover the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

32 Sonne of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their owne land, they defiled it by their owne waies, & by their dedes: their waie was before me as the filthines of the menstruous.

33 Wherefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that they had shed in the land, and for their idoles, whereunto they had polluted it.

34 And I scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed through the countreys: for according to their waies, and according to their dedes, I iudged them.

35 And when they entred vnto the heathen, whether they went, they polluted mine holy Name, when they said of them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land.

But I favoured mine holy Name: the house of Israel had polluted the heathen, whether they went.

22 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, I do not desire your lakes, O house of Israel, but your holie Names sake, which ye polluted among the heathen whether ye went.

23 And I will sanctifie my great Name, which ye polluted among the heathen, whom ye haue polluted it, & shall knowe that I am the Lord.

24 Lord God, when I shall be sanctified before their eyes.

25 For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreys, and will bring you into your owne land.

26 Then will I powre cleane water vpon you, and ye shall be cleane: yea, I will cleanse you from all your filthines, and from all your idoles.

27 And I will give you a new heart, also will I giue you a new spirit, and I will take away the stonie heart of your flesh, & I will giue you an heart of flesh.

28 And I will put my Spirit within you, & cause you to walke in my statutes, and shall keepe my iudgements and commandments, and ye shall dwell in the land, and I will be your God.

29 And ye shall dwell in the land, and I will be your God.

30 I will also deliuer you from all unrighteousnes, and I will call for a corn, and I will increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

31 For I will multiply the fruit of the trees, and the increase of the field, and ye shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

32 The shall ye remember your own wayes, & your dedes that were against me, & that I iudged your felices worthy to be destroyed for your iniquities.

33 Therefore shall ye be holy, and shall not commit iniquities, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

34 And I will cleanse you from all unrighteousnes, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

35 And I will cleanse you from all unrighteousnes, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

36 And I will cleanse you from all unrighteousnes, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

37 And I will cleanse you from all unrighteousnes, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

38 And I will cleanse you from all unrighteousnes, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

41 And I will cleanse you from all unrighteousnes, and shall beare no more the reproche of the heathen.

And ye shal dwell in the lād, that I gaue
to your fathers, and ye shal be my people
and I wil be your God.

I wil also deliuer you from all your fil-thines, and I wil call for <sup>o</sup> corne, and wil
increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

For I wil multiplie the frute of the trees, and the encrease of the field, that ye shal beare no more the reproche of fami-

The shal ye remeber your owne wicked
wayes, & your dedes that were not good, & shal iudge your selues worchie to haue bene <sup>r</sup> destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominacions.

Be it known vnto you that I do not
this for your sakes, saith the Lord God:
therefore, o ye house of Israël, be ashamed,
and confounded for your owne wayes.

Thus saith the Lord God, What time
as I shal haue clenfed you from all your iniquities, I wil cause you to dwell in the cities, and the desolate places shal be buylded.

And the desolate lād shal be tilled, where as it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

For they said, This waste lād was like the garden of Eden, and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shal knowe that I
the Lord buyld the ruinous places, and plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue

spoken it, and wil do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil yet for this be soght of the house of Israël, to per-forme it vnto them: I wil encrease them
with men like a flocke.

38 As the holie flocke, as the flocke of Ieru-salem in their solemne feastes, so shal the desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 He prophesieth the bringing againe of the people, bowing in captiuitie. 16 Hesheweth the vnion of the ten tribes with the two.

1 The hand of the Lord was vpon me, & caryed me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the middes of the field, which was ful of bones.

2 And he led me round about by them, and beholde, there were very manie in the open field, and lo, they were verie drye.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, can these bones liue? And I answered, o Lord God, thou knowest.

4 Again he said vnto me, Prophecie vpon
these bones and say vnto them, O ye drye
bones, heare the worde of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God vnto these bones, Beholde, I wil cause breath to entre in-
to you, and ye shal liue.

6 And I wil lay sinewes vpō you, and make flesh growe vpon you, and couer you with skin, and put breath in you, that ye may liue, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophecied, as I was commanded;
and as I prophecied, there was a noise,
and beholde, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I behelde, lo, the sinewes, and the flesh grewe vpon them, and aboue, the skin couered the, but there was no breath
in them.

9 Then said he vnto me, Prophecie vn-

and say to the winde, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the foure <sup>b</sup> windes, o
breath, and breathe vpon these slaine,
that they may liue.

10 So I prophecied as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they liued, and stood vp vpon their fere,
an exceeding great armie.

11 Then he said vnto me, Sonne of man,
these bones are the whole house of Israël. Beholde, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone, & we are clea-ne cut of.

12 Therefore prophecie, and say vnto the,

1 And the worde of <sup>y</sup> Lord came vnto me, saying,

8 After manie dayes thou shalt be visited: for in the latter yeres thou shalt come into the land, that hath bene destroyed with the sword, and is gathered out of manie people vpon the mountaines of Israel, which haue long lien waste: yet they haue bene brought out of the people, and they shall dwell all safe.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come vp like a reppell, & shalt be like a cloude to couer the land, bothe thou, and all thy bandes, & manie people with thee.

O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal.

And I will destroy thee, & leaue but the sixt part of thee, & wil cause thee to come vp from the North partes and wil bring thee vpon the mountaines of Israel:

And I will smite thy bowe out of thy left

Thou shalt fall vpon the mountaines
of Israel, and all thy bads and the people,
that is, with thee: for I wil giue thee vnto
the birds and to euery feathered foule &
beast of the field to be deuoured.

Thou shalt fall vpon the open field: for I
haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

And I will send a fyre on Magog, and
among them that dwell safely in the cyles,
and they shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

So wil I make mine holy Name knowē in that I am the Lord, the holie one of Is-

Beholde, it is come, and it is done, saith
the Lord God: this is the day whereof I haue spoken.

And they that dwell in the cities of Is-

fyre vpon the weapons, and on the shields,
and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the
arrowes, and vpon the staves in their hands,
and vpon the speares, and they shall burne
them with fyre seuen yerres.

So that they shall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut downe any out of the forests: for they shall burne the weapons
with fyre, and they shall robbe those, that robbed them, and spoyle those that spoy-

And at y same time wil I giue vnto Gog
a place there for buryal in Israel, euen the valley wherby men go toward y East part of the Sea: and it shall cause the that passe
by, to stop their noses, and there shall they burye Gog with all his multitude: & they shall call it the valley of Hamon-Gog.

And seuen moneths long shall the house
of Israel be burying of the, that they may

Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them, and they shall haue a name when I

And they shall chuse out men to go con-

16 And also the name of the citie shall be Hamonah: thus shall they cleanse the land.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, Speake vnto euerie feathered fowle, and to all the beasts of the field, Assemble your selues, and come: I gather your selues on euerie side to my sacrifice: for I do sacrifice a great sacrifice for you vpon the mountaines of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drinke blood.

18 Ye shall eat the flesh of the valiant, and drinke the blood of the princes of the earth, of the weathers, of the lambs, and of the goates, and of bullockes, euen of all fat beasts of Bashan.

19 And ye shall eat fat til you be full, and drinke blood, til ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I haue sacrificed for you.

20 Thus you shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of warre, saith the Lord God.

21 And I wil set my glorie among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my iudgement, that I haue executed, and mine hand, which I haue layed vpon them.

22 So the house of Israel shall knowe, that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forth.

23 And the heathen shall knowe, that the house of Israel went into captiuitie for their iniquitie, because they trespassed against me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gaue them into the hand of their enemies: so fel they all by the sword.

24 According to their vncleannes, and according to their transgressions haue I done vnto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now wil I bring againe the captiuitie of Iakob, and haue compassion vpon the whole house of Israel, and wil be ielous for mine holy Name,

26 After that they haue borne their shame, and all their transgression, whereby they haue transgressed against me, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without feare of any.

27 When I haue brought them againe from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am sanctified in them in the sight of manie nations,

28 Then shall they knowe, that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to be led into captiuitie among the heathen: but

I haue gathered them vnto their owne land, and haue left none of them any more there,

29 Nether wil I hide my face anie more from them: for I haue powred out my Spirit vpon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

IN the five and twentieth yere of our being in captiuitie in the beginning of the yere, in the tenth day of the moneth, in the fourth yere after that the citie was smitten, in the self same day, the hand of the Lord was vpon me, & brought me thither.

3 Into the land of Israel brought he me by a diuine vision, and set me vpon a verie high mountaine, whereupō was as the buylding of a citie, toward the South.

3 And he brought me thither, and beholde, there was a man, whose similitude was to loke to, like brasse, with a linen threde in his hand, and a rede to measure with: and he stode at the gate.

4 And the man said vnto me, Sonne of man, beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and set thine heart vpon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent, that they might be shewed thee, art thou brought hether: declare all that thou seest, vnto the house of Israel.

5 And beholde, I sawe a wall on the outside of the house rounde about: and in the mans hand was a rede to measure with, of six cubites long, by the cubite, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the buylding with one rede, and the height with one rede.

6 Then came he vnto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went vp the staires thereof, and measured the poste of the gate, which was one rede broad, and the other poste of the gate, which was one rede broad.

7 And euerie chamber was one rede long, & one rede broad, and betwene the chambers were five cubites: and the poste of the gate by the porche of the gate within was one rede.

8 He measured also the porche of the gate within with one rede.

9 Then measured he the porche of the gate of eight cubites, and the postes thereof, of two cubites, and the porche of the gate was inward.

So he measured the court, an hundredth cubites long, & an hundredth cubites broad
as it was square: likewise the altar that was before the Houfe.

And he broght me to the porche of the house, and measured the postes of the por-che, five cubites on this side, and five cubi-
tes on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubites on this side, and three cubites on that side.

The length of the porche was twentieth

he broght me by y<sup>e</sup> steppes whereby thei wēt

one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. XLII.

The disposition and order of the buylding of the Temple
and the other things thereto belonging.

Afterward, he broght me to the Tēple, and measured the postes, six cubites broad on the one side and six cubi-tes broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

And the breadth of the entrie was ten cu-
bits, & the sides of the entrie were five cubits on y<sup>e</sup> one side, & five cubits on y<sup>e</sup> other side, & he measured the lēgh thereof for-
tie cubites, & the breadth twentieth cubites.

Thē went he in, and measured the postes
of the entrie two cubites, and the entrie
six cubites, and the breadth of the entrie seuen cubites.

So he measured the length thereof twen-
tie cubites & the breadth twentieth cubites
before the Temple. And he said vnto me,
This is the moste hoile place.

After, he measured the wall of the house,
six cubites, and the breadth of euerie cham-
bre four cubites rounde about the house,
on euerie side.

And the chambres were chambre vpon
chābre, thre and thirtie fote high, & they entered into the wall made for the chambres which was rounde about the house: y<sup>e</sup> postes might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

And it was large and went round mounting vpwarde to the chambres: for the stare of the house was mounting vpward,
rounde about the house: therefore y<sup>e</sup> house was larger vpwarde: so thei went vp frō
the lowest chābre to y<sup>e</sup> hiest by the middes.

I sawe also the house hie rounde about: y<sup>e</sup>
fundacions of the chambres were a ful re-
de of six great cubites.

The thickenes of the wall which was for the chamber without, was five cubites, and that which remained, was the place of the

chambres that were within.

And betwene the chambres was the wy-denes of twentieth cubites rounde about the Houfe on euerie side.

And the dore of the chābres were tow-
arde the place that remained, one dore
toward the North, & another dore tow-arde the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was five cubites roun-de about.

Now the buylding that was before the seperate place toward the West corner,
was seuentie cubites broad, and the wall
of the buylding was five cubites thicke,
rounde about, & the lēgh ninetie cubites.

So he measured the house an hundredth cubites long, & the separate place and the buylding with the walles thereof were an hundredth cubites long.

Also the breadth of the forefront of the house and of the separate place toward the East, was an hundredth cubites.

And he measured the length of the buylding ouer against y<sup>e</sup> separate place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundredth cubites with the Temple within, and the arches of the court.

The postes and the narowe windowes, &
the chambres rounde about, on thre sides
ouer against the postes, filed with cedar wood rounde about and frō y<sup>e</sup> ground vp to y<sup>e</sup> windowes, and the windowes were filed.

And from about the dore vnto the inner house and without, and by all the wall
rounde about within and without it was fyled according to the measure.

And it was made with Cherubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was be-twene a Cherúb and a Cherúb: and euerie
Cherúb had two faces.

So that the face of a man was toward the
palme tree on the one side, & the face of a lion toward the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house rounde about.

From the grounde vnto about the dore were Cherubims and palme trees made as in the wall of the Temple.

The postes of the Tēple were squared, & thus to loke vnto was the similitude &
forme of the Sanctuarie.

The altar of wood was thre cubites hie,
& the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof and the length thereof &
the sides thereof were of wood. And he said vnto me, This is the table that shalbe
before the Lord.

And the Temple & the Sanctuarie had
two dore.

And the dore had two wickets, euery
two turning wickets, two wickets for one dore, and two wickets for another dore.

Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the

But the seconde day thou shalt offre an

8 Thowise which dores they must go in, or come out of the Temple, &c.

Peef. 1. The inner court gate C. whereunto they went up by eight steps, as appeareth in y great figure.

THUS saith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the East, shalbe shut the six working daies: but on the Sabbáth it shalbe opened, and in the daye of the new moone it shalbe opened.

3 And the prince shal entre by the waye of the porche of that gate without, and shal stand by the poste of the gate, & y Priests shal make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings, & he shal worship at the threshold of the gate: after, he shal go forth, but the gate shal not be shut til the evening.

4 Likewise the people of the land shal worship at the entrie of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new moones.

5 And the burnt offering that the price shal offre vnto the Lord on the Sabbáth daye, shalbe six lambs without blemish, & a ram without blemish.

6 And the meat offering shalbe an Epháh for a ram: and the meat offering for the lambes a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

7 And in the daye of the new moone it shalbe a yong bullocke without blemish, and six lambs and a ram: they shalbe without blemish.

8 And he shal prepare a meat offering, euen an Epháh for a bullocke, and an Epháh for a ram, and for the lambes according as his hand shal bring, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

9 And when the prince shal entre, he shal go in by the waye of the porche of that gate, & he shal go forth by the way thereof.

But when the people of the land shal come before the Lord in the solemne feasts, he that entred in by the waye of y North gate to worship, shal go out by the waye of the South gate: and he that entred by the waye of the South gate, shal go forth by the waye of the North gate: he shal not returne by the waye of the gate whereby he came in, but they shal go forth ouer against it.

10 And the prince shalbe in the middes of them: he shal go in when they go in, & whé thei go forth, they shal go forth together.

11 And in the feasts, and in the solemnitie the meat offering shalbe an Epháh to a bullocke, and an Epháh to a ram, and to the lambs, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

12 Now when the prince shal make a fre burnt offering or peace offerings frely vnto the Lord, one shal then open him the gate, y turneth toward the East, and he shal make his burnt offering and his peace offerings, as he did on the Sabbáth day: after,

he shal go forth, and when he is gone forth, one shal shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt dailey make a burnt offering vnto the Lord of a labe of one yere without blemish: thou shalt do it euery morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it euery morning, the first parte of an Epháh, and the third parte of an Hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine flour: the meat offering shalbe continually by a perpetual ordinance vnto the Lord.

15 Thus shal they prepare the lambe, and the meat offering and the oyle euery morning, for a continual burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, If the prince giue a gift of his inheritance vnto any of his sonnes, it shalbe his sonnes, & it shalbe their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he giue a gift of his inheritance to one of his seruants, then it shalbe his to the yere of libertie: after, it shal returne to the prince, but his inheritance shal remaine to his sonnes for them.

18 Moreouer the prince shal not take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shal cause his sonnes to inherit of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered euery man from his possession.

19 ¶ After, he broght me through the entrie which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests, which flood toward the North: and beholde, there was a place at the West side of them.

20 Then said he vnto me, This is the place where the Priests shal seeth the trespass offering and the sinne offering, where they shal bake the meat offering, that they shal de not beare them into the viter court: to sanctifie the people.

21 Then he broght me forth into the viter court, and caused me to go by the four corners of the court: and beholde, in euery corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court, there were courtes ioyned of fortie cubites long, and thirtie broad: these foure corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall about them, euen about those foure, and kitchens were made vnder the wall round about.

24 Then said he vnto me, This is the kitchen where the ministers of the house shal seeth the sacrifice of the people.

Now whé I returned, beholde, the waters were very many, & they were to the right hand, and on the other.

Then said he vnto me, These waters shall be holme, & shall flowe into the sea: thei shal runne into the sea, & the waters shalbe holme.

Then broght he me out toward y North

And when the man that had the line in his

the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

Againe he measured a thousand, & broght
me through the waters: the waters were to

and broght me through: the waters were
to the loines.

Afterward he measured a thousand, and
it was a riuer, that I colde not passe ouer:
for the waters were risen, & the waters

And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, hast

Now whē I returned, beholde, at y brinke
of the riuer were very many trees on the one side, and on the other.

Thē said he vnto me, These waters yssue
out toward the East countrey, and runne
downe into y plaine, and shal go into one sea: thei shal runne into another sea, and the waters shalbe holtsome.

And euerie thing that liueth, which mo-
ueth, whersoever y riuers shal come, shal
liue, and there shalbe a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shal co-

erie thing shal liue whether y riuer cometh.

And then the fishers shal stand vpon it,
and from Bn-gédi euen vnto E-neglaim,
thei shal spreade out their nettes: for their fish shalbe according to their kindes, as
the fish of y maine sea, exceeding many.

But the myrie places thereof, & the ma-
rises thereof shal not be holtsome: thei shal
be made salt pittes.

And by this riuer vpon the brinke there-
of, on this side, & on that side shal growe
all fruteful trees, whose leafe shal not fade, nether shal the frute thereof faile: it shal bring forth the new frute according to his monthes, because their waters rúne out of the Sanctuarie: and the frute thereof
shalbe meat, & the leafe thereof shalbe for medicine.

Thus saith y Lord God, This shal be the border, whereby ye shal inherit the land according to y twelue tribes* of Israel: Ioseph shal haue two porcions.

And ye shal inherit it, one aswel as another: concerning the which I lift vp mine hand to giue it vnto your fathers, and

this lād shal fall vnto you for inheritance.

And this shalbe the border of the land
toward the North side, frō the maine sea
toward Hethlōn as men go to Zedāhah:

Hamāth, Berōthāh, Sibrām, which is betwene the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamāth, and Hazār, Hatticōn,
which is by the coast of Haurān.

And the border from the sea shalbe Ha-zār, Enān, & the border of Damascus, and the residue of the North, Northwarde, &
the border of Hamāth: so shalbe the North parte.

But the East side shal yemeasure from Haurān, and from Damascus, and from Gileād, and from the land of Israël by Ior-dēn, & from the border vnto the East sea:
and so shalbe the East parte.

And the Southside shalbe toward Temān from Tamār to the waters of M-ri-bōth in Kadēsh, & the riuer to the maine
sea: so shalbe y South parte toward Temān.

The West parte also shalbe the great sea
frō the border, til a mā come ouer against Hamāth: this shalbe the West parte.

So shal ye deuide this land vnto you, according to the tribes of Israël.

And you shal deuide it by lot for an inheritance vnto you, & to the strangers that dwell among you, which shal beget children among you, & thei shalbe vnto you,
as borne in the countrei amōg the childre

you in the middes of the tribes of Israël.

And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth,
there shal ye giue him his inheritance,
saith the Lord God.

THE ARGUMENT.

The great providence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are most lively here seen in the prophet, who never leaveth his destitute, but now in their greatest miseries and afflictions giveth them special revelations of such things as should come to the Church, even from the time that they were in captivity, to the last end of the world, and to the general resurrection, as of the four monarchies and empires of all the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Persians, Grecians, & Romans. And of the certaine nombre of the times even unto Christ, when all ceremonies and sacrifices should cease, because he should be the accomplishment thereof: moreover he sheweth Christs office and the cause of his death which was by his sacrifice to take away sinnes, and to bring everlasting life. And as from the beginning God our Father exercised his people under the cross, so he teacheth here, that after that Christ is offered, he will leave this exercise to his Church until the dead rise againe, and Christ gather his into his kingdom in the heavens.

CHAP. I.

The captivity of Iehoiakim King of Iudá. 4 The King chooseth certaine young men of the Levites to leave. 5 They haue the Kings ordinarie appointed, 6 But this abstaine from it.

In the thirde yere of the reigne of Iehoiakim King of Iudá, came Nebuchad-nezzár, King of Babel vnto Ierusalém, & besieged it.

And the Lord gaue Iehoiakim King of Iudá into his hand, w<sup>ch</sup> parte of the vessels of the house of God, which he caried into the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and he broght the vessels into his gods treasure.

And the King spake vnto Ashpenáz the master of his Eunuches, that he shulde bring certaine of the children of Israél, of the Kings seede, and of the princes:

Children in whome was no blemish, but wel fauoured, & instructed in all wisdom, and wel sene in knowledge, and able to vnderstand knowledge, and such as were able to stand in the Kings palace, and whome they might teache the learning, and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

And the King appointed them prouision euerie daie of a portion of the Kings meat, and of the wine, which he dranke, so nourishing the thre yere, that at the end thereof, they might stand before the King.

Now among these were certaine of the children of Iudá, Daniel, Hananiáh, Misháel, and Azariáh.

Vnto whome the chief of the Eunuches

thought they shulde be witty & learned, and y<sup>e</sup> they shulde be of a nature that they might do him better service: thus he did for his purpose: therefore it is not to praise his liberality: yet in this he is to be commended, that he hearkened learning, and knew that it was a necessarie thing, to see him the better to his purpose: yet it is not to be commended, that Daniel did learne and knowledge that was not godlier in all points, which the King appointed him, but was content to learne y<sup>e</sup> common things. h That by their good interteinement they were kept from the mediocrity of their owne people. i To the intent they might learne the manners of the Chaldeans and all things that were at the table, as in other offices.

I gaue other names: for he called Daniel, Belteshazár, & Hananiáh, Shadrách, & Misháel, Meshách, and Azariáh, Abednegó.

But Daniel had determined in his heart, that he wolde not defile him self with the portion of the Kings meat, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he required y<sup>e</sup> chief of the Eunuches that he might not defile him self.

(Now God had broght Daniel into fauour, and tender loue with the chief of the Eunuches)

And the chief of the Eunuches said vnto Daniel, I feare my lord the King, who hath appointed your meat and your drinke: therefore if he se your faces worse looking then the other children, which are of your sorte, the shal you make me lose mine head vnto the King.

Then said Daniel to Melzár, whome the chief of the Eunuches had set ouer Daniel, Hananiáh, Misháel, and Azariáh, Proue thy seruants, I beseeche thee, ten daies, and let them giue vs pulse to eat, and water to drinke.

Then let our countenances be looked vpon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the portion of the Kings meat: and as thou seest, deale with thy seruants.

So he consented to them in this matter, and proued them ten daies.

And at the end of ten daies, their countenances appeared fairer, and in better looking then all the childrens, which did eat the portion of the Kings meat.

Thus Melzár toke awaie the portion of their meat, and the wine that they shulde drinke, and gaue them pulse.

nor mainteine his owne. o Meaning, that within this space he might haue the tryal, and that noman shulde be able to discern it: & thus he spake, being moued by the Spirit of God. p Not that it was a thing abominable to eat dente meates and to drinke wine, as bothe before and after they did, but if they shulde haue hereby bene wonne to the King and haue refused their owne religion, that meat and drinke had bene accursed. q This bare feeding and that also of Moses when he fled from the court of Egypt, & declared that we must liue in such sobriety as God doeth call vs vnto, seeing he will make it more profitable vnto vs, then all dainties: for his blessing onely sufficeth.

CHAP. II.

The dreame of Nebuchad-nezzár. 13 The King commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to be slaine because they could not interpret his dreame. 16 Daniél requirith time to solute the question. 24 Daniél is broght vnto the King and sheweth him his dreame & the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the everlasting kingdom of Christ.

And in the second yere of the reigne of Nebuchad-nezzár, Nebuchad-nezzár dreamed dreames wherwith his spirit was troubled, & he slepe was vpon him. Then the King commanded to call y inchanters, and the astrologians and the forcerers, and the Caldeans for to shewe the King his dreames: so thei came and stode before the King.

3 And the King said vnto them, I haue dreamed a dreame, & my spirit was troubled to knowe the dreame.

4 Then spake the Caldeans to the King in the Aramites language, O King, liue for euer: shewe thy seruants thy dreame, and we shal shewe the interpretation.

5 And the King answered and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye wil not make me vnderstand the dreame with the interpretation thereof, ye shalbe drawn in pices, and your houses shalbe made a iakes.

6 But if ye declare the dreame and the interpretation thereof, ye shal receiue of me gifts and rewardes, and great honour: therefore shewe me the dreame and the interpretation of it.

7 Thei answered againe, and said, Let the King shewe his seruants the dreame, and we wil declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the King answered, and said, I knowe certainly that ye wolde gaine the time, because ye se the thing is gone fro me.

<sup>a</sup> The father and the sonne were bothe called by this name, so that this is ment of y some, when he reigned alone: for he reigned also after a sort v his father. b Not that he had many dreames, but because many matters were contained in this dreame. c Because it was so rare and strange a dreame that he had not had the like. d He was so heavy with slepe that he began to sleepe a gayne. Some read, and his slepe was broken from him e For all these astrologers & forcerers called them selues by this name of honour as though all the wisdom and knowledge of the country depended vpon the, and that all other countries were void of the same. f That is, in syrian tongue which differed not much from the Caldeans, saue it seemed to be more eloquent, & therefore the learned vied to speake it: as the Iewish writers do to this day. g This is a iuste reward of their arrogancie (which wanted of the felicitie that they had the knowledge of all things) thei shalbe proven fooles & y to their perpetual shame and confusion. h Here in appeared thir ignorance that notwithstanding their brags, yet were thei not able to tel the dreame, except he entred them into the matter, & therefore thei wolde pretende knowledge where was but more ignorance and so as doo the sects of the people, shal be worthy to dye. <sup>i</sup> Euer redme the time.

9 But if ye wil not declare me the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you: for ye haue prepared lying and corrupt wordes, to speake before me til y time be changed: therefore tel me til y time be changed: knowe, if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Caldeans answered before the King, and said, There is no man vpon earth that can declare y Kings matters: yet, there is nether King nor prince nor Lord that asked suche things at an inchanter or astrologian or Caldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the King requirith, & there is none other that can declare it before the King, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the King was angrie and in great furie, and commanded to destroye all the wise men of Babel.

13 And when sentence was giuen, the wise men were slaine: and thei sought Daniél & his felowes to be put to death.

14 Then Daniél answered with counsel & wisdome to Arióch the Kings chief steward, which was gone for the to put to death the wise men of Babel.

15 Tea, he answered and said vnto Arióch the Kings captaine, Why is the sentence so hastie from the King? Then Arióch declared the thing to Daniél.

16 So Daniél went and desired the King he wolde giue him leasure & that he wolde shewe the King y interpretation thereof.

17 Then Daniél went to his house and shewed the matter to Hananiáh, Mishael, and Azariáh his companions,

18 That thei shulde beseeche the God of heauen for grace in this secret, that Daniél & his felowes shuldenot perish with the rest of the wise men of Babel.

19 Then was the secret reueiled vnto Daniél in a vision by night: therefore Daniél praised the God of heauen.

20 And Daniél answered & said, The Name of God be praised for euer and euer: for wisdome and strength are his,

21 And he changeth the times and seasons: he taketh awaie Kings: he setteth vp Kings: he giueth wisdome vnto the wise, & vnderstanding to those that vnderstand.

22 He discovereth the depe & secret things: he knoweth what is in the darkenes, and the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thanke thee & praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast giuen me wisdome and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared vnto vs the Kings matter.

24 Therefore Daniél went vnto Arióch, whome the King had ordeined to destroye the wise men of Babel: he went and said this vnto him, Destroy the wise men of Babel, but bring me the King, and I wil declare vnto thee the interpretation.

Then Arióch broght Daniél vnto the King in all haste, and said thus, I haue found a man of the Chaldeans that were broght captiue: he declare vnto the King the interpretation.

Then answered the King, and said, Daniél, whose name was Belsazzar, art thou able to shewe me the interpretation of my dreame?

Daniél answered in the presence of the King, & said, The secret which thou hast demanded, can nether I nor the astrologians, the inchanters, nor the soothsayers declare vnto the King.

But there is a God in heauen which revealeth secrets, and sheweth the interpretation of the dreame.

Nebuchad-nezzár what shalbe the interpretation of thy dreame, and thou hast sene in thine head vpon the wall.

Then the King, when he was in the night, came into thy minde, what shuldest thou passe hereafter, and he that receiveth secrets, teller thee, what shalbe the interpretation of thy dreame?

As for me, this secret is reueiled vnto me for anie wisdome that I haue, then anie other liuing, but none of the King the interpretation, and none might knowe y thoughts of the King.

O King, thou sawest, and beheldst a great image: this great image was so excellent, it stode in the middle of the court, and the forme thereof was terrible.

Thou beheldst it til a stone was cast vpon his feet, which smote them without hands, which smote them and brake them to pices.

Then was the yron, the clay, the silver & the golde broken al together, and became like the chaffe of the winde, and the winde caryed it away: that no place was founde for the stone that smote the image, and the great mountaine, and filled the earth.

This is the dreame, and we wil declare the interpretation thereof before the King y interpretation.

said thus vnto him, Destroye not the wisemen of Babel, but bring me before the King, and I wil declare vnto the King the

Then Ariôch broght Daniël before the King in all haste, and said thus vnto him,
I haue found a man of the children of Iu-
dash that were broght captiues, that wil
declare vnto the King the interpretation.

Then answered the King, and said vnto
Daniël, whose name was Belteshazzâr,
Art thou able to shewe me the dream? w<sup>h</sup>
I haue sene, and the interpretation thereof?

Daniël answered in the presence of the King, & said, The secret which the King hath demanded, can neither the wise, the astrologians, the inchanter, nor the foursiders declare vnto the King.

But there is a God in heau'n that re-
ueileth secrets, and sheweth the King Nebuchad-nezzâr what shalbe in the latter dayes. Thy dreame, and the things, w<sup>h</sup>
thou hast sene in thine head vpon thy bed,
is this.

O King, when y<sup>e</sup> wast in thy bed, thoghts came into thy minde, what shulde come to passe hereafter, and he that reueileth secrets, telleth thee, what shal come.

As for me, this secret is not shewed
me for anie wisdom that I haue, more than anie other liuing, but onely to shewe
the King the interpretation, and that thou
mightst knowe y<sup>e</sup> thoughts of thine heart.

O King, thou sawest, and beholdest, there was a great image: this great image whose glorie was so excellent, it stood before thee,
and the fume thereof was terrible.

This images head was of fine & golde,
his breast and his armes of silver, his bellie
and his thighs of brasse,

His legges of yron, & his fete were parte
of yron, and parte of clay.

Thou beheldest it til a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image
vpon his fete, that were of yron and clay,
and brake them to pieces.

Then was the yron, the clay, the bras-
se, the silver & the golde broken all together,
and became like the chaffe of the former
floores, and the winde caried them away,
that no place was founde for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

This is the dreame, and we wil declare
before the King y<sup>e</sup> interpretation thereof.

O King, thou art a King of Kings: for the God of heauen hath giuen thee a kingdome, power, and strength, & glorie.

And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the fowles of the heauen hath he giuen into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler ouer

them all: thou art this head of golde.

And after these shall rise another kingdo-
me, inferior to thee, of silver, and another third kingdome shalbe of brasle, which
shal beare rule ouer all the earth.

And the fourth kingdome shalbe strong
as yron: for as yron breaketh in pieces, &
subdueth all things, and as yron bruseth
all these things, so shal it breake in pieces and bruse all.

Where as thou sawest the fete and toes,
parte of potters clay, and parte of yron:
the kingdome shalbe deuided, but there shalbe an it of the strength of the yron, as thou sawest the yron mixt with the claye,
and the earth.

And as the toes of the fete were parte of
yron, and parte of clay, so shal the kingdo-
me be partely strong, and partely broken.

And where as thou sawest yron mixt with clay & earth, they shal mingle them sel-
ues with y<sup>e</sup> fete of men: but they shal
not ioine one with another, as yron can not be mixed with clay.

And in the dayes of these Kings, shal
the God of heauen set vp a kingdome, which shal neuer be destroyed: and this kingdo-
me shal not be giuen to another people,
but it shal breake, and destroye all these
kingdomes, and it shal stand for euer.

Where as y<sup>e</sup> sawest, that the stone was cut of the mountaine without hands, and that it brake in pieces the yron, the bras-se, the clay, the silver and the golde: so the great God hath shewed the King, what shal come to passe hereafter, and the dream
is true, and the interpretation thereof
is sure.

Then the King Nebuchad-nezzâr fel-
vpon his face, and bowed him self vnto Daniël, and commanded that he shulde
offer meat offerings, & sweete odoures vnto
him.

Also the King answered vnto Daniël, &
said, I knowe of a truth that your God is God of gods, & the Lord of Kings, and the reueiler of secrets, King thou couldst
open this secret.

So the King made Daniël a great man,
and gaue him manie and great gifts.
He made him gouernour ouer the whole
prouince of Babel, and chief of the rulers, & aboue all the wise men of Babel.

e He did not this for their private profit, but that the whole Church which was the there in affliction, might haue some release, and ease, by this benefit. f Meaning, that either he was a judge, or that he had the whole authority, so that none coulde be admitted to the Kings presence, but by him.

CHAP. III.

1 The King setteth up a golden image. 2 Certaine are accused because they despised the Kings commandement, and are put into a burning oven. 25 By beleefe in God they are deliuered from the fyre. 26 Nebuchad-nezzâr confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

a Vnder presence of religion, and holines in making an image to his idole Bel, he sought his owne ambition and vaine glorie: and this declareth, that he was not touched with the true feare of God before, but y<sup>e</sup> confessed him on a sudden motion as the wicked, when they are overcome with the greatness of his workes. The Greke interpreter write, that this was done 18 yeres after the dream, and as may appeare y<sup>e</sup> King feared lest the Iewes by their religion shulde haue altered the state of his commonwealth, and therefore he me to bring all to one kinde of religion, and so rather sought his owne quietnes, then Gods glorie.

b Shewing, y<sup>e</sup> the idole is now known for an idole to log as he is with the workman: but when the ceremonies and customes are rectified, & void and the consent of the people is there, the of a blocke they thinke they haue made a god.

c This was sufficient with y<sup>e</sup> wicked at all times to aproue their religion, if the Kings authority were alleged for y<sup>e</sup> establishment thereof, not considering in the meane season what Gods worde did permit. d These are y<sup>e</sup> two dangerous weapons wherewith Satã vsesh to fight against y<sup>e</sup> childre of God, y<sup>e</sup> consent of the multitude, & y<sup>e</sup> crueltye of y<sup>e</sup> punishment for though some feared God, yet y<sup>e</sup> multitude is consented to the wickednes, as shewed the: & here y<sup>e</sup> King required not an inward consent, but an outward gesture, that y<sup>e</sup> Iewes might by little & little learne to forget their true religion.

Nebuchad-nezzâr the King made an image of golde, whose height was threescore cubites, & the breadth thereof six cubites: he set it vp in the plaine of Durâ, in the prouince of Babel.

Then Nebuchad-nezzâr the King sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes & the dukes, the iudges, the receiuers, the counsellers, the officers, & all the gouerners of the prouinces, that they shulde come to the dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzâr the King had set vp.

So the nobles, princes, and dukes, the iudges, the receiuers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouerners of the prouinces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzâr the King had set vp: and they stode before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzâr had set vp.

Then an herald cryed aloud, Be it knowe to you, o people, & nations, and languages,

That when ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psalteries, dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, ye fall downe and worship the golde image, that Nebuchad-nezzâr the King hath set vp.

And whosoever falleth not downe and worshippeth, shal the same houre be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace.

Therefore assone as all the people heard y<sup>e</sup> sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psalterie, & all instruments of musicke, all y<sup>e</sup> people, nations, & languages fel downe, and worshiped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzâr the King had set vp.

By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeas, and grieuously accused the Iewes.

For they spake and said to the King Nebuchad-nezzâr, O King, liue for euer.

Thou, o King, hast made a decree, that euery man that shal heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpes, sackbut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, shal fall downe & worship the golden image,

And whosoever falleth not downe, and worshippeth, that he shulde be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace.

There are certeine Iewes whome thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô: these men, o King, haue not regarded thy commandement, neither wil they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set vp.

Then Nebuchad-nezzâr in his anger and wrath commanded that they shulde bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô: so these men were brought before the King.

And Nebuchad-nezzâr spake, and said vnto the, What disordre wil not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô serue me, nor worship the golde image, that I haue set vp?

Now therefore are ye ready whē ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, to fall downe, & worship the image, which I haue made: for if ye worship it not, ye shalbe cast immediately into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace: for who is that God, that can deliuer you out of mine hands?

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô answered & said to the King, O Nebuchad-nezzâr, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

Beholde, our God whome we serue, is able to deliuer vs fro the hote fyrie fornace, and he wil deliuer vs out of thine hand, o King.

But if not, be it known to thee, o King, y<sup>e</sup> we wil not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

Then was Nebuchad-nezzâr full of rage, and the forme of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, & Abednegô: therefore he charged and commanded that they shulde heate the fornace at once seuen times more then it was wont to be heat.

And he charged the moste valiant men of warre y<sup>e</sup> were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô, & to cast them into the hote fyrie fornace.

So these men were bounde in their clothes, their hosen, & their cokes, with their other garments, and cast into the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

Therefore, because the Kings commandement was straite, that the fornace shulde be exceeding hote, the flame of y<sup>e</sup> fyre was so great, that it consumed the Meshach and Abednegô.

And these thre men Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô fel downe bounde in the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

The Nebuchad-nezzâr came, & stood aloofe and rofe vp in haste, & said vnto his counsellers, Dicke ye me, what shal I do? Who answered and said, These men bounde into the hote fyrie, o King, it is true, o King.

And he answered, and said, I wil see if I can deliuer them, walking in the hote fyrie, and they haue no hurt, as the fourth is like the hote fyrie.

Then the King Nebuchad-nezzâr came to the mouth of the hote fyrie, & spake and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednegô, the seruants of God, go forth & come hether: Meshach and Abednegô came out of the middes of the fyre.

Then the nobles, princes and the Kings counsellers came to see these men, because the fyre had ouer their bodies: for not an houre had they beene in the hote fyrie, and their head was burnt, neither was their clothing changed, nor any smel of fyre in them.

Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzâr said, Blessed be the God of Meshach and Abednegô, who hath sent his Angel, and deliuered his seruants out of the hote fyrie: they put their trust in him, and haue obeyed the Kings commandement, & their bodies rather than they wolde forsake their own god, saue their own liues.

Therefore I make a decree, that all people, nation, and language, whiche say any blasphemie against the God of Meshach and Abednegô, shal be drawn in pieces, and their hots made a iakes, because there is no other god, that can deliuer after this sorte.

Then the King promoted Meshach and Abednegô in the prouince of Babel.

Nebuchad-nezzâr King vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in the world, Peace be multiplied vnto you.

I thought it good to declare these wonders, that the hie God hath wrought toward me.

How great are his signes, and how strong are his wonders! For his kingdome is an everlasting kingdome, and his power is from generation to generation.

trumpet, harpes, sackbut, dulcimer, and all instruments, shall fall downe & worship the image, for the fire falleth nor downe, and that he shulde be cast into of an hore fyrie fornaice.

For certaine Iewes whome thou hast charged for the prouince of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

O King, haue not regard to commandement, neither wil they worship the golden image, thou hast set vp.

Nebuchad-nezzar in his anger commanded that they shulde be cast into the hore fyrie fornaice, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. These men were brought before the King.

Nebuchad-nezzar spake, and said, What disordre wil not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, for ye worship the golde image, that I haue made?

Therefore are ye ready wher ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all sort of musike, to fall downe, & worship the image, which I haue made for you? If ye be not, ye shalbe cast into the mides of an hore fyrie fornaice, for who is that God, that can deliuer out of mine hands?

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to the King, O Nebuchad-nezzar, we are not careful to answer thee at this tyme.

For our God whome we serue, he will deliuer vs fro the hore fyrie fornaice, and he will deliuer vs out of thine hand.

It may be known to thee, O King, that we serue thy gods, nor worship thy image, which thou hast set vp.

Nebuchad-nezzar was charmed at the forme of his visage, was amazed at Shadrach, Meshach, & Abednego.

Therefore he charged and commanded, that they shulde heate the fornaice seven times more then it was wont to be.

For he charged the moste valiant men that were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, & to cast them into the hore fyrie fornaice.

When they were bounde in their coats, and their clothes, with their crowns, and cast into the mides of the hore fyrie fornaice.

For because the Kings commandment was strait, that the fornaice shulde be heate, the flame of the fyrie fornaice was so great, that it consumed the fornaice, and the King, and all the people that were with him.

Meshach and Abednego. And these three men Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego fell downe bounde into the mides of the hore fyrie fornaice.

¶ The Nebuchad-nezzar the King was astonished and rose vp in haste, & spake, and said vnto his counsellors, Did not we cast these men bounde into the mides of the fyre? Who answered and said vnto the King, It is true, O King.

And he answered, and said, Lo, I see foure men loose, walking in the mides of the fyre, and they haue no hurt, and the forme of the fourth is like the sonne of God.

Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came nether to the mouth of the hore fyrie fornaice, & spake and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the seruants of the hie God, go forth, & come hither: for Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came forth of the mides of the fyre.

Then the nobles, princes and dukes, and the Kings counsellors came together, to see these men, because the fyre had no power ouer their bodies: for not an heere of their head was burnt, neither was their coats changed, nor any smel of fyre came vpon them.

Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzar spake and said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who hath sent his Angel, and deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, and haue changed the Kings commandement, & yielded their bodies rather than they wolde serue or worship anye god, save their owne God.

Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation, and langage, which speake anye blasphemie against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, shall be drawn in pieces, and their houses shall be made a iakes, because there is no god that can deliuer after this sorte.

Then the King promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the prouince of Babel.

Nebuchad-nezzar King vnto all people, nations and langages, that dwell in all the world, Peace be multiplied vnto you.

I thought it good to declare the signes and wonders, that the hie God hath wrought toward me.

How great are his signes, and how mighty are his wonders! For his kingdome is an euerslasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

CHAP. IIII.

Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. ¶ The Prophet declareth howe of a proude King he shulde become as a beast. ¶ After he confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignitie.

¶ Nebuchad-nezzar being at a rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

Saw a dreame, which made me afraied, and the thoughtes vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

Therefore made I a decree, that they shulde bring all the wise men of Babel before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretation of the dreame.

So came the enchanters, the astrologians, the Caldeans and the soothsayers, to whom I tolde the dreame, but they coulde not shewe me the interpretation thereof.

Till at the last Daniel came before me, (whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I tolde the dreame, saying,

O Belteshazzar, chief of the enchanters, because I knowe, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, & no secret troubleth thee, tel me the visions of my dreame, that I haue sene and the interpretation thereof.

Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And beholde, I sawe a tree in the mides of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

A great tree & strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, & the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

The boughes thereof were faire and the frute thereof much, and in it was meat for all: it made a shadowe vnder it for the beastes of the field, and the fowles of the heauen dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

I sawe in the visions of mine head vpon my bed, and beholde, a watchman and an holy one came downe from heauen,

And cryed aloud, and said thus, Hewe downe the tre, and breake of his branches: shake of his leaues, and scatere his frute, that the beasts may flee from vnder it, & the fowles from his branches.

Neuertheles leaue the stump of his rootes in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beasts among the grasse of the field.

¶ Let his heart be changed from mans nature, & let a beasts heart be giuen vnto him, and let seven times be passed ouer him.

¶ The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the worde of the holy ones: the demande

There was no trouble that might cause me to dreame, and therefore I came onely of God.

¶ This was another dreame besides that which he sawe of the fourte emperour: for Daniel bothe declared what that dreame was, and what it meant: and he was onely ex-pounded the dreame.

¶ In that that he sent abroad to others whose ignorance in times past he had experienced, and that Daniel was euer ready at hand, to declare the nature of the vngodlie, & neuer sicke to the seruantes of God, but for very necessity, then they spare no flatterings.

¶ This no dreame was a great grief to Daniel, not onely to haue his name changed, but to be called by the name of a vile idole, which was the name of Nebuchad-nezzar.

¶ He was him forget the true religion of God.

¶ Which also was a great grief to the Prophet, to be numbered among the forerunners of men whose practices were wicked and contrary to Gods worde.

¶ By the tree is signified the dignitie of a King, whome God ordeineth to be a defence for all kinde of men, & who is rate is profitable for mankind.

¶ Meaning the Angel of God, which neither eateth nor sleepeth, but is euer ready to do Gods will.

¶ It is not inordinatly corrupted, but is euer holy, and in that that he cometh to cut downe this tree, he knewe it shulde not be cut downe by any other.

¶ This dreame was onely for a time loose his kingdome, but he was not to be like a beast.

¶ God hath decreed this iudgement, and the whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that liue vpon the earth against God.

¶ He hereby he meaneth y Nebuchad-nezzar shulde be onely for a time loose his kingdome, but he was not to be like a beast.

¶ God hath decreed this iudgement, and the whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that liue vpon the earth against God.

¶ He hereby he meaneth y Nebuchad-nezzar shulde be onely for a time loose his kingdome, but he was not to be like a beast.

¶ God hath decreed this iudgement, and the whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that liue vpon the earth against God.

¶ He hereby he meaneth y Nebuchad-nezzar shulde be onely for a time loose his kingdome, but he was not to be like a beast.

¶ God hath decreed this iudgement, and the whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that liue vpon the earth against God.

was answered; to the intent that liuing mé may knowe, that y<sup>e</sup> moſte high haſte powe ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomeſoeuer he wil, and appointeth ouer it the moſte abieſt among men.

25 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad-nezzár haue ſene; therefore thou, ó Belſhazzár, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wiſe men of my kingdome are not able to ſhewe me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee.

26 ¶ Then Daniél (whoſe name was Belſhazzár) held his <sup>pe</sup>ace by the ſpace of one houre, and his thoughts troubled him, & the King ſpake and ſaid, Belſhazzár, let nether the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belſhazzár answered and ſaid, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

27 The tre y<sup>e</sup> thou ſaweſt, which was great and mightie, whoſe height reached vnto the heauen, and the ſight thereof through all the worlde,

28 Whoſe leaues were faire & the frute thereof muche, and in it was meat for all, vnder the which the beaſts of the field dwelt, and vpon whoſe branches the foules of the heauen did ſit,

29 It is thou, ó King, y<sup>e</sup> art great & mightie: for thy greatnes is growen, & reacheth vnto heauen, & thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

30 Where as the King ſawe a watchman, & an holy one, that came downe from heauen, and ſaid, Hewe downe the tre & deſtroy it, yet leaue the ſtump of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a bande of yron and braſſe binde it among the graſſe of the field, & let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beaſts of the field, <sup>1</sup> til ſeuē times paſſe ouer him,

31 This is the interpretation, ó King, and it is the decre of the moſte high, which is come vpon my lord the King,

32 That they ſhal driue thee from men, & thy dwelling ſhal be with the beaſts of the field: they ſhal make thee to eat graſſe as y<sup>e</sup> oxen, & thei ſhal wet thee with the dewe of heauen: and ſeuē times ſhal paſſe ouer thee, til thou knowe, that <sup>a</sup> the moſte high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomeſoeuer he wil.

33 Where as they ſaid, that one ſhulde leaue the ſtump of the tre rootes, thy kingdome ſhal remaine vnto thee: after that, thou ſhalt knowe, that the heauens haue the rule.

34 Wherefore, ó King, let my counſel be acceptable vnto thee, and <sup>o</sup> breake of thy ſinnes by righteousnes, & thine iniquities by mercie toward the poore: lo, let there be an healing of thine erour.

25 All theſe things ſhal come vpon y<sup>e</sup> King Nebuchad-nezzár.

26 ¶ At the end of twelue moneths, he walked in the royal palace of Babel.

27 And the King ſpake and ſaid, Is not this great Babel, that I haue buylt for the houſe of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiſtie?

28 While y<sup>e</sup> worde was in the Kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, ſaying, O King Nebuchad-nezzár, to thee be ſpoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee,

29 And they ſhal driue thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhal be with the beaſts of the field: they ſhal make thee to eat graſſe, as the oxen, and ſeuē times ſhal paſſe ouer thee, vntil thou knoweſt, that y<sup>e</sup> moſt high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, & giueth it vnto whomeſoeuer he wil.

30 The very ſame houre was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzár, and he was driuen from men, and did eat graſſe as the oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of heauen, til his heeres were grown as egles feathers and his nailes like birds clawes.

31 And at the end of theſe <sup>r</sup> dayes I Nebuchad-nezzár liſt vp mine eies vnto heauen, and mine vnderſtanding was reſtored vnto me, and I gaue thanks vnto the moſte high, and I praized and honored him that liueth for euer, <sup>o</sup> whoſe power is an euertlaſting power, and his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his wil he worketh in the armie of heauen, & in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can ſtay his hand, nor ſay vnto him, What doeſt thou?

33 At the ſame time was mine vnderſtanding reſtored vnto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glorie and my beautie was reſtored vnto me, and my counſellours and my princes fought vnto me, & I was eſtablished in my kingdome, and my glorie was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore I Nebuchad-nezzár praize, and extoll & magnifie the King of heauen, whoſe workes are all trueth, and his wayes iudgement, and thoſe that walke in pride, he is able to abaſe.

King

King a Belshazzar made a great feast
to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine before the thousand.
And Belshazzar while he tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden
and siluer vessels, which his father Nebuchad-nezzar had brought from the Temple in Ierusalem, that the King and his princes, his wife, and his concubines might drinke therein.

Then were brought the golde vessels, that weretake out of the Temple of the Lords house at Ierusalem, and the King and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines dr-
ke in them.

They drake wine and praised the gods
of golde, and of siluer, of brasse, of yron, of wood, and of stone.

At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer against the candlesticke vpon the plaister of the wall of the Kings palace, & the King sawe the
palme of the hand that wrote.

Then the Kings countenance was changed, and his thoghts troubled him, so that the ioyntes of his loines were loosed, and his knees smote one against the other.

Wherefore the King cryed loud, that they shulde bring the astrologians, the Cal-deans and the soothsaiers. And the King
spake, and said to the wise men of Babel, Whosoever can read this writing, and declare me the interpretaciō thereof, shal-
be clothed with purple, & shal haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shalbe the third ruler in the kingdome.

Then came all the Kings wise men, but they colde nether read the writing, nor shewe the King the interpretation.

Then was King Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were affonied.

Now the Queene by reason of the talke of the King, and his princes came into the banquet house, and the Queene spake,
and said, O King, liue for euer: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.

There is a mā in thy kingdome, in who-
me is the spirit of the holie gods, and in the dayes of thy father light and vnder-standing & wisdom like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him: whome the King Nebuchad-nezzar thy father the King, I say, thy father, made chief of the enchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and soothsaiers.

Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and vnderstanding (for he did expounde dreames, and declare hard

sentences, and dissolued doubt) were fo-
unde in him, even in Daniel, whome the King named Belshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he wil declare the interpretacion.

Then was Daniel brought before the
King, and the King spake and said vnto
Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art
of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah,
whome my father the King brought out of Iewrie?

Now I haue heard of thee, that the spirit of the holie gods is in thee, & that light
and vnderstanding and excellēt wisdom
is found in thee.

Now therefore wisemen, & astrologians
haue bene brought before me, that they
shulde read this writing, and shewe me
the interpretacion thereof: but they col-
de not declare the interpretation of the thing.

Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest
shewe interpretacions, and dissolue dou-
tes: now if thou canst read the writing, &
shewe me the interpretacion thereof, thou
shalt be clothed with purple, & shalt haue
a chaine of golde about thy necke, and shalt
be the third ruler in the kingdome.

Then Daniel answered, and said before
the King, Kepe thyrewardes to thy self, &
giue thy giftes to another: yet I wil read
the writing vnto the King and shewe him
the interpretation.

O King, heare thou, The moste high
God gaue vnto Nebuchad-nezzar thy
father a kingdome, and maiestie and honour and glorie.

And for the maiestie that he gaue him, all
people, nations, and langages trembled, &
feared before him: he put to death whome
he wolde: he smote whome he wolde: who-
me he wolde he set vp, & whome he wolde
he put downe.

But when his heart was puffed vp, and his
minde hardened in pride, he was deposed
from his kinglie throne, and they toke his honour from him.

And he was driuen from the sonnes of
men, & his heart was made like the beasts,
and his dwelling was with the wilde asses:
they fed him with grasse like oxen, and
his bodie was wet with the dewe of the
heauen, til he knewe, that the moste high
God bare rule ouer the kingdome of me,
and that he appointeth ouer it, whome so-
euer he pleaseth.

And thou his sonne, o Belshazzar, hast
not hūbled thine heart, though thou knew-
est all these things,

sentences, and dissolued doubt) were fo-
unde in him, even in Daniel, whome the King named Belshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he wil declare the in-
terpretacion.

Then was Daniel brought before the
King, and the King spake and said vnto
Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art
of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah,
whome my father the King brought out of Iewrie?

Now I haue heard of thee, that the spirit of the holie gods is in thee, & that light
and vnderstanding and excellēt wisdom
is found in thee.

Now therefore wisemen, & astrologians
haue bene brought before me, that they
shulde read this writing, and shewe me
the interpretacion thereof: but they col-
de not declare the interpretation of the
thing.

Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest
shewe interpretacions, and dissolue dou-
tes: now if thou canst read the writing, &
shewe me the interpretacion thereof, thou
shalt be clothed with purple, & shalt haue
a chaine of golde about thy necke, and shalt
be the third ruler in the kingdome.

Then Daniel answered, and said before
the King, Kepe thyrewardes to thy self, &
giue thy giftes to another: yet I wil read
the writing vnto the King and shewe him
the interpretation.

O King, heare thou, The moste high
God gaue vnto Nebuchad-nezzar thy
father a kingdome, and maiestie and honour and glorie.

And for the maiestie that he gaue him, all
people, nations, and langages trembled, &
feared before him: he put to death whome
he wolde: he smote whome he wolde: who-
me he wolde he set vp, & whome he wolde
he put downe.

But when his heart was puffed vp, and his
minde hardened in pride, he was deposed
from his kinglie throne, and they toke his
honour from him.

And he was driuen from the sonnes of
men, & his heart was made like the beasts,
and his dwelling was with the wilde asses:
they fed him with grasse like oxen, and
his bodie was wet with the dewe of the
heauen, til he knewe, that the moste high
God bare rule ouer the kingdome of me,
and that he appointeth ouer it, whome so-
euer he pleaseth.

And thou his sonne, o Belshazzar, hast
not hūbled thine heart, though thou knew-
est all these things,

But hast lift thy self vp against the Lord
of heauen, and they haue brought the vessels of his House before thee, & thou and thy princes, thy wiues and thy concubines

Then was the palme of the hand sent from him, and hath written this writing.

And this is the writing that he hath written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, VPHARSIN.

This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath numbered thy kingdome, and hath finished it:

TEKEL, thou art wayed in the balance, and art founde to light.

PERES, thy kingdome is diuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

Then at the commandement of Belshazzar they clothed Daniël with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, and made a proclamacion concerning him that he shulde be the thirde ruler in the kingdome.

The same night was Belshazzar King of the Chaldeans slaine.

And Darius of the Medes toke y kingdome, being threescore and two yere olde.

CHAP. VI.

Daniël is made ruler ouer the gouerners. 8 An also against Daniël. 16 He is put into a den of lions by the commandement of the King. 23 He is deliuered by faith in God. 24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the lions. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniël.

It pleased Darius to set ouer the kingdome an hundredth and twentie gouernours, which shulde be ouer y whole kingdome.

And ouer these, thre rulers (of whome Daniël was one) that the gouernours might giue accompts vnto them, and the King shulde haue no damage.

Now this Daniël was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the King thought to set him ouer the whole realme.

Wherefore the rulers and gouernours sought an occasion against Daniël concerning the kingdome: but they coulde finde none occasiō nor faute: for he was so faithful that there was no blame nor faute founde in him.

Then said these mē, We shal not finde an occasion against this Daniël, except we finde it against him concerning the Law of his God.

Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, and said vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

All the rulers of thy kingdome the officers and gouernours, the counsellors, and dukes haue consulted together to make a decree for the King and to establish a statute, that whosoever shal aske a petition of anie god or man for thirtie dayes sauē of thee, o King, he shal be cast into the denne of lions.

Now, o King, confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

Wherefore King Darius sealed the writing and the decree.

Now when Daniël vnderstode that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his windowe being open in his chamber toward Ierusalem, he kneeled vpon his knees thre times a day, & prayed and praised his God, as he did aforetime.

Then these men assembled, and founde Daniël praying, and making supplication vnto his God.

So they came, and spake vnto the King concerning the Kings decree, Hatt thou not sealed the decree, that euery man that shal make request to anie god or mā with in thirtie dayes, sauē to thee, o King, shal be cast into the denne of lions? The King answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

Then answered they, and said vnto the King, This Daniël which is of the children of the captiuitie of Iudāh, regardeth not thee, o King, nor the decree, that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition thre times a day.

When the King heard these wordes, he was sore displeased with him self, and set his heart on Daniël, to deliuer him: and he laboured til the sunne went downe, to deliuer him.

Then these men assembled vnto the King, and said vnto the King, Vnderstand, o King, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute, which the King confirmeth, may be altered.

¶ Then the King commanded, and they broght Daniël, and cast him into the denne of lions: now the King spake, and said vnto Daniël, Thy God, whome thou alway seruest, euen he wil deliuer thee.

And a stone was broght, and layed vpon the mouth of the denne, and the King sealed it with his owne signet, & with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not be changed, concerning Daniël.

Then the King went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, nether were the instruments of musike broght before him, and his slepe went from him.

¶ Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in all haste vnto the denne of lions.

m After that 24 God had to long time deferred his anger, & patiently waited for thine amendement. n This worde is twice writte for the certaintie of y thing: shewing, that God had more surely considered: signifying also that God hath appointed a tēme for all kingdomes, & y miserable end shal come on all that raise them selues against him.

o, waiting.

o Cyrus his sonne in law gaue him this title of honour although Cyrus in effect had y dominion.

o, he be troubled.

b This heathē King preferred Daniël abouē to all his nobles & familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others.

c Thus the wicked cā not abide the graces of God in others, but seek by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such as allures there is no better remedie then to walke vprightly in y feare of God, and to haue a good conscience.

And when he came to the denne with a lamentable voyce vnto the King spake, and said to Daniël, the seruant of the liuing God, whome thou alway seruest, able to deliuer thee from the lions.

Then said Daniël vnto y King, liue for euer.

My God hath sent his Angell, & shute the lions mouthes, that they hurt me not: for my iustice was before him: & vnto thee, o King, no hurte.

Then was the King exceedingly glad, and commāded that they shoulde bring Daniël out of the denne: so he was broght out of the denne, and no hurte was founde vpon him, as he beleued in his God.

And by the commandement of the King these men which had accused Daniël were brought, & were cast into y denne with their children, and the lions had the mairtie of them: & brake all their bones a peeces, & came at the grōunde of the denne.

¶ Afterwarde King Darius wrote vnto all people, nations & languages in all the worlde: Peace be multiplied to you.

I make a decree that in all the worlde of my kingdome, men tremble before the God of Daniël: for his kingdome shal not perish, & his minion shal be euerlasting.

He rescueth and deliuereth his people: he sheweth signes and wonders in the earth: who hath deliuered the power of the lions.

So this Daniël prospered in y reigne of Cyrus.

Darius & in y reigne of Cyrus. ¶ Darius did worship God aright, & he wolde haue destroyed all superstition & set him in y chief place, but only haue let him vpon y worde: but this was a certē cōfession that he was compelled by this wonderful miracle in him self, but is the onelie fountaine of liue without him there is no liue.

shut the lions mouthes, that they haue not

Then was the King exceeding glad for him, and commaunded that they shoulde take

CHAP. VII.

A vision of foure beastes is shewed vnto Daniël.
The rebornes of the fourth beast. 37 Of the euerla-
sing kingdome of Christ.

IN the first yere of Belshazzar King of Babel, Daniël sawe a dreame, and there were visions in his head, vpon his bed:
then he wrote the dreame, & declared f
summe of the matter.

Daniël spake and said, I sawe in my vision

that this rest shall not be a deliuerance from all troubles,
therefore encouraged the to loke for a continual affliction to be feared, and reuiled, by whome they shoulde haue a spiritual and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they shoulde haue a constant and destruction of the Babylonical kingdome.

Daniël. Foure beastes. 361

by night, and beholde, the foure windes of
the heauen stroue vpon b the great sea

And foure great beastes came vp from
the sea one diuers from another.

The first was as a lion, and had egles
wings: I behelde, til the wings thereof
were plucked of, and it was lifted vp from
the earth, and set vpon his fete as a man,
and a mans heart was giuen him.

And beholde, another beast which was the
seconde, was like a beare and stode vpon
the one side: and he had thre ribbes in his mouth betwene his teeth, & then said
thus vnto him, Arise & deuoure muche
flesh.

After this I behelde, and lo, there was an other like a leopard, which had vpon his backe foure wings of a foule: the beast
had also foure heads, and dominion was giuen him.

After this I sawe in the visions by night, & beholde, the fourth beast was fearful and terrible and verie strong. It had great teeth: it deuoured & brake in pieces
and stamped the residue vnder his fete: &
it was vnlike to the beastes that were before it: for it had ten hornes.

As I considered the hornes, beholde
there came vp among them another litle
horne, before whome there were three of the first hornes pluckt awaie: & beholde,
in this horne were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouthe speaking presumptuous
things.

I behelde, til the thrones were set vp,
and the Ancient of daies did sit, whose garment was white as snowe, and the heere

Caldean em-

barbarous and cruel.

ginning and

To wit, the

ndement, who
by this measurement
ingratitude of
the worlde.

h Meaning, Alexander the King of Macedonie. i That is, his foure chief captaines, which had the empire among them after his death. Scileus had Asia the great, Antigonus the leste, Cassander, and after him Antipater was King of Macedonie, and Ptolomeus had Egypt. k It was not of him self nor of his owne power that he gate all these countreys: for his arme commited, but thirte thousand men, and he ouercame in one battel Darius, which had ten hundred thousand, when he was so heauie with slepe that his eyes were scarce open, as the stories report: therefore this power was giuen him of God. l That is, the Romain empire which was as a monster & colde not be copared to anie beast, because the nature of none was able to expresse it m Signifying the tyrannie and greedines of the Romans. n That which the Romans colde not quietly enioie in other countreys, they wolde giue it to other Kings and rulers that at all times when they wolde, they might rake it againe: which libertie is here called the stamping of the rest vnder
the fete. o That is, sondrie and diuers prouinces which were gouerned by the deputies and proconsuls, whereof euerie one might be compared to a King. p Which is ment of Iulius Cesar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius, and Nero &c. who were as Kings in effe, but because they colde not rule, but by the consent of the Senat, their power is compared to a litle horne. For Mahomet came not of the Romaine empire, and the Pope hatte no uocation of gouernement: therefore this can not be applied vnto them, and also in this prophetic the Prophets purpose is chiefly to comfort the Iewes vnto the reuelation of Christ. Some take it for the whole bodie of Anti-christ. q Meaning, a certaine portion of the ten hornes: that is, a parte from the whole estate was plucked awaie. For Augustus toke from the Senat the libertie of choosing the deputies to send into the prouinces, and toke the gouernement of certaine countreys to him self. r That is, Romaine Emperours at the first vied a certaine humilitie and gentleness, and were content that they might haue the profite, and therefore in elections and counsels wol-de behaue them selues according as did other Senators: yet against their enemies and those that wolde resist them, they were fierce and cruel, which is here ment by the proud mouth. s Meaning the places where God and his Angels shoulde come to iudge these monarchies, which ingratitudes shoulde beginne at the first coming of Christ. t That is, God which was before all times, and is here described as mans nature is able to compaehend some portion of his glorie.

of his head like the pure wolle: his throne
was like the fyrie flame, & his wheles as burning fyre.

10 A fyrie streame yssued, and came forth
from before him: thousand thousands ministrer vnto him, and ten thousand thousands stood before him: the iudgement
was set, and the bookes opened.

11 Then I behelde, & because of the voyce of the presumptuous wordes, which the horne spake: I behelde, euen til the beast
was slaine, and his bodie destroyed, and
giuen to the burning fyre.

12 As concerning the other beastes, they had taken awaie their dominion: yet their liues were prolonged for a certene time
and season.

13 ¶ As I behelde in visions by night, be-holde, one like the Sonne of man came in the cloudes of heauen, and he approached vnto the Ancient of daies; & they broght
him before him.

14 And he gaue him dominion, & honour,
and a kingdome; that all people, nations,
and langages shulde serue him: his dominion is an euerlasting dominion, which shal neuer be taken awaie: and his king-
dome shal neuer be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was troubled in my spirit,
in the middes of my bodie, and the visions of mine head made me afraid.

16 Therefore I came vnto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this: so he tolde me, and shewed me the interpretation of these things.

17 These great beastes, which are foure, are four Kinges, which shal arise out of the earth,

18 And they shal take the kingdome of the Sainctes of the moste high, and possesse
the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 ¶ After this, I wolde knowe the truth of the fourth beast, which was so vnlike to all the others, very feareful, whose teeth were
of yron, and his nailes of brasse: which de-uoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue vnder his feet.

20 Also I wolde knowe of the ten hornes that were in his head, & of the other which came vp, before whome three fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things; whose voice

was more stoute then his felowes.

21 I behelde, & the same horne made bu-tel against the Sainctes, yea, and preuaile
against them,

22 Vntil the Ancient of daies came, and iudgement was giuen to the Sainctes of the moste high: and the time approached
that the Sainctes possessed the kingdome.

23 The he said, The fourth beast shal be the fourth kingdome in the earth, which shal
be vnlike to all the kingdomes, and shal
devoure the whole earth, and shal treade
it downe and breake it in pieces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome shall arise after the, and he shal vniuersi-
fied the first, and he shal subdue three Kinges.

25 And shal speake wordes against the moste high, & shal consume the Sainctes of the moste high, & thinke he maier change times and lawes, and they shal be giuen
into his hand, vntil a time, and times &
the dewiding of time.

26 But the iudgement shal sit, & they shal take awaie his dominion, to consume and
destroye it vnto the end.

27 And the kingdome, and dominion, and the greatnes of the kingdome vnder the heauen shal be giuen to the holie people of the moste high, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome & all powers shal
serue and obeye him.

28 Euen this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had manie cogitations which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

ulus, Tyberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus &c. ¶ God shall to rage against his Sainctes for a long time, which is ment by these mes but at length he will awaie these troubles and thores cleas like, Mat. 24, 29 which is here ment by the dewiding of
by his power shal restore things that were out of order
like horne, that is shal neuer rise vp againe. ¶ He breake beast shal be destroyed, to winch his Church might be nes, which though they do not fully imye here, yet be ly the preaching of the Gospel conue the beginning there by the wordes vnder the heauen. ¶ Therefore he here
of Christ's kingdome in this worlde which kingdome

uerie true rule. ¶ Though he had manie more moured him to trye to see out of this matter curiously with that which God reueled, and kept it in memorie and se of the Church,

CHAP. VIII.

A vision of a battell betwix a ramme and a goat.
The understanding of the vision.

IN the thirde yere of the reigne of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared vnto me, when vnto me Daniel, after that which appeared vnto me at the first.

2 And I sawe in a vision, & when I sawe it,

Then I looked vp and sawe a
there stood before the riuier a
had two hornes: and these two re bie: but one was a hier then
the best came vp last.

I sawe the ram pushing aga
and against the North, and South: so that no beastes n

thoght I was by the riuier of Vlāi.
Then I looked vp and sawe, and beholde,
there stode before the riuier a <sup>1</sup> rāme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were hiebut one was <sup>2</sup> hier then another, &
the hieft came vp last.

I sawe the ram pushing against y West
and against the North, and against the South: so that no <sup>3</sup> beastes might stande
before him, nor colde deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listid, and beca-

And as I considered, beholde, <sup>4</sup> a goat came from the West ouer the whole earth, & touched not the ground: & this goat had an <sup>5</sup> horne that appeared betwene his eyes,
and he came vnto the ram that had the two hornes, whome I had sine standing by the riuier, and ranne vnto him in his fierce rage.

And I sawe him come vnto the ramme, &
being moued against him, he <sup>6</sup> smote the ramme, and brake his two hornes: & there was no power in the rāme to stand against him, but he cast him downe to the groude,
and stamped vpon him, & there was none
that colde deliuer the ramme out of his power.

Therefore y goat waxed exceedig great,
and when he was at the strongest, his great
horne was broken: and for it came vp four-that <sup>7</sup> appeared towarde the foure win-
des of the heauen.

And out of one of them came forth <sup>8</sup> a little horne, which waxed very great to-warde the <sup>9</sup> South, and towarde the <sup>10</sup> East,
and towarde the <sup>11</sup> pleasant land.

Yea, it grewe vp vnto the <sup>12</sup> hoste of hea-

of the starres to the grounde, and trode
vpon them.

And extolled him self against the prince of the hoste from whome the <sup>14</sup> daile sa-

Sanctuarie was cast downe.

And a time shalbe giue him over the dai-lie sacrifice for the iniquities: & it shal <sup>15</sup> cast
downe the trueth to the grounde, & thus shal it do, and prosper.

Then I heard one of the <sup>16</sup> Sainctes spea-

vision of the dailely sacrifice, and the iniquitie of the <sup>21</sup> desolation to tread bothe the

And <sup>23</sup> he answered me, Vnto the <sup>24</sup> euening and the morning, two thousand and thre hundredth: then shal the Sanctuarie be clefend.

Now when I Daniël had sent the vision, and sought for the meaning, beholde,
there stode before me <sup>25</sup> like the similitude
of a man.

And I heard a mans voyce betwene the bankes of Vlāi, which called and said, Ga-briël, <sup>26</sup> make this man to vnderstand the vision.

So he came where I stode: and when he came, I was astraied, and fel vpon my face:
but he said vnto me, Vnderstan <sup>27</sup> I, o sonne of man: for <sup>28</sup> in the last time shalbe the
vision.

Now as he was speaking vnto me, I
being a slepe fel on my face to the grounde: but he touched me, and I fer me vp in my place.

And he said, Beholde, I wil shewe thee
what shal be in the last <sup>29</sup> wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shal come.

The ramme which thou sawest hauing
two hornes, are the Kings of the Medes & Persians.

And the goat is the King of Grecia, &
the great horne that is betwene his eyes, is the first King.

And that that is broken, and foure stode vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which shal stand vp <sup>30</sup> of that nation, but not s in his strength.

And in the end of their kingdome, when the rebellious shalbe consumed, a King of
a fierce countenance, and vnderstanding
darke sentences, shal stand vp.

And his power shalbe mightie, but not in his strength: and he shal <sup>31</sup> destroe wonderfully, & shal prosper, and practise, and shal destroe the <sup>32</sup> mightie, and the holy people.

And through his <sup>33</sup> policie also, he shal
cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shal extoll him self in his heart, and by peace shal destroy many: he shal also stand vp against the <sup>34</sup> prince of princes,
but he shal be broken downe <sup>35</sup> without
hand.

And the vision of the <sup>36</sup> evening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore seale thou vp the vision, for it shalbe
after many daies.

And I Daniël was stricken & sicke a cer-

CHAR. IX.

Daniel desireth to haue that performed of God, which he had promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon. 5 A true confession. 20 Daniels prayer is heard. 21 Gabriel the Angel expoundeth vnto him the vision of the seuentie weekes. 24 The awyting of Christ. 25 The bygding againe of Ierusalem. 26 The death of Christ.

IN the first yere of Darius the sonne of Ahasuerus, of the Medes, which was made King ouer the realme of the Caldeans,

Even in the first yere of his reigne, I Daniel vnderstode by bookes the nombre of the yeres, whereof the Lord had spoken vnto Ieremiah the Prophet, that he wolde accomplish seuentie yeres in the desolation of Ierusalem.

And I turned my face vnto the Lord God, and fought by praier and supplications with fasting & sackcloth & ashes.

And I praied vnto the Lord my God, & made my confession, saying, Oh Lord God, which art great and feareful, and kepest couenant and mercie toward them which loue thee, & toward them y kepe thy commandments,

We haue sinned, & haue committed iniquitie & haue done wickedly, yea, we haue rebelled, and haue departed from thy precepts, and from thy iudgements.

For we wolde not obeye thy seruants the Prophetes, which spake in thy Name to our Kings, to our princes, & to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

O Lord, righteousnes belongeth vnto thee, and vnto vs open shame, as appeareth this day vnto euery man of Iudah, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem: yea, vnto all Israel, both nere and farr of, through all the countreys, whether thou hast driuen them, because of their offenses, that they haue committed against thee.

O Lord, vnto vs apperteineth open shame, to our Kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we haue sinned against thee.

Yet compassion and forgiveness is in the Lord our God, albeit we haue rebelled against him.

For we haue not obeyed thy voice of the Lord our God, to walke in his lawes, which he had laid before vs by the ministerie of his seruants the Prophetes.

Yea, all Israel haue transgressed thy Lawe, and are turned backe, and haue not heard thy voice: therefore the curse is powred vpon vs, & the othe that is written in the lawe of Moses the seruant of God, because we haue sinned against him.

And he hath confirmed his wordes, which he spake against vs, and against our iud-

ges that iudged vs, by bringing vpon vs a great plague: for vnder the whole heauen hath not bene the like, as hath bene brought vpon Ierusalem.

All this plague is come vpon vs, as it is written in the Lawe of Moses: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turne from our iniquities and vnderstand thy trueth.

Therefore hath the Lord made ready the plague, and brought it vpon vs: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his workes which he doeth: for we wolde not heare his voice.

* And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mightie hand, and hast gotten thee renoume, as appeareth this day, we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly.

O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseeche thee, let thine anger and thy wrath be turned away from thy citie Ierusalem thine holy Mountaine: for because of our finnes, & for the iniquities of our fathers, Ierusalem and thy people are a reproche to all that are about vs.

Now therefore, O our God, heare the prayer of thy seruant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine vpon thy Sanctuarie, that lyeth waste for the Lords sake.

O my God, encline thine eare and heare: open thine eyes, and beholde our desolations, and the citie whereupon thy Name is called: for we do not present our supplications before thee for our owne righteousness, but for thy great tender mercies.

O Lord, heare, O Lord forgive, O Lord consider, and do it: differ not, for thine owne sake, O my God: for thy Name is called vpon thy citie, and vpon thy people.

And whiles I was speaking & praying, and confessing my sinne, and the sinne of my people Israel, and did present my supplication before the Lord my God, for the holy Mountaine of my God,

Yea, while I was speaking in praier, euen the man Gabriell, whome I had sene before in the vision, came flying, and touched me about the time of the evening oblation.

And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to giue thee knowledge & vnderstanding.

At the beginning of thy supplications the commandement came forth, and I am come to shewe thee, for thou art greatly beloved: therefore vnderstand the matter and consider the vision.

a Who was also called Ahasuerus.

b For Cyrus led with ambition, we about waies in other countreys, and therefore Darius had the title of King of the world, though Cyrus was King in effect.

c For though he was an excellent Prophet, yet he daily increased knowledge by reading of Scriptures.

d He speaketh not of that ordinary praier, which he used in his house thrise a day, but of a rare and vehement praier, lest their finnes shoulde cause God to delay the time of their deliuerance.

e prophesied by Ieremiah, that is, hath all power in thy selfe to execute thy terrible iudgements against obstinate sinners, as Ieremiah the mercie, to comfort thee, which obey thy wordes & loue thee.

f Ezechiel.

g He sheweth that whensoever God punisheth, he doeth it for sinne: and thus godli neuer accuse him of rigour as the wicked do, but acknowledge sinne in themselves: there is iust cause, why he shoulde so intreat them.

h Ezechiel.

i He sheweth that they rebelle against God, which serue him not according to his commandments & wordes.

k As Deu. 32. 35. or the curse confirmed by an othe.

Seuentie & two weekes are determined vpon thine house, O Ierusalem, the wickednes, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal vpon the vision and to anoint the moste Holie.

Knowe therefore and vnderstand, from the going forth of the decree to bring againe the people to Ierusalem, vnto the Messiah shall be seuen weekes, and three weekes, & the strete shalbe builded, & the wall euen in a troublous time.

And after thre score & two weekes, the Messiah be slayne, and shall be buried: & the people of the prince that cometh, shal destroy the citie and the temple, and the end thereof shal be as flood: & vnto the end of the world shalbe destroyed by desolation.

And he shal confirme the covenante with many: & in the end of the weekes he shal cause the sacrifice to cease, & shall fill the land with the abomination, & shall make it desolate, euen vntil the cition determined shalbe powred.

desolate. Of the Temple, are 62 weekes, which make 434 years, from the building of the Temple vnto the destruction thereof. In this last week, he shall come and preache and suffer death. He shall be of anie estimation, as Ista 53. 2. He shall be despised, & despisers shall abuse him, who shall come and destroy both the Temple and the people: & he shall be brought to the hall of recoverie. By the preaching of the Messiah, first to the Tewes, and after to the Gentiles, shall be fulfilled this by his death and resurrection, and the Sanctuary shalbe utterly destroyed, & shall be their idolatrie: or some read that they shall all be aduised as them.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a man, in which sheweth him wherefore he was called.

IN the third yere of Cyrus the King of Persia, a thing was revealed vnto Daniel, whose name was called Belsaiath, and the worde was true, but pointed was long, and he vnderstood the thing, & had vnderstanding.

At the same time, I Daniel was in the house for thre weekes of daies.

I ate no pleasant bread, neither flesh, nor wine in my mouth, nor anointed my self at all, til thre weekes were fulfilled.

And in the foure & twentieth day of the first moneth, as I was by the side of the great riuer, euen Hiddekel,

I lifted vp mine eyes, and beholde, there was a man clothed in white, whose loynes were girded with golde of Vphaz.

His bodie also was like the sunne, and his countenance as lightning.

And he said vnto me, Daniel, be not afraid: for I am thine, and I have beene very much troubled with thy vision, and I am come to shewe thee the matter, and thou shalt be able to stand.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a man clothed in linen,
in which sheweth him wherefore he is sent.

In the third yere of Cyrus King of Persia, a thing was reueiled vnto Daniel (whose name was called Belteshazzar)
and the worde was true, but the time appointed was long, and he vnderstode the things, & had vnderstanding of the vision.
At the same time, I Daniel was in heau-
nes for thre weekes of daies.

I ate no pleasant bread, nether came flesh, nor wine in my mouth, nether did I anoint my self at all, til thre weekes of daies
were fulfilled.

And in the foure & twentieth day of the first moneth, as I was by the side of that great riuer, euen Hiddekel,

And I lift vp mine eyes, and looked, and beholde, there was a man clothed in linen, whose loynes were girded with fine
golde of y phaz.

His bodie also was like the Chrysolite,

Meaning of prophetic to haue the sight of this rier Tygris.

phetic.

and his face (to loke vpon) like the lightening, and his eyes as lampes of fyre, and his armes and his fete were like in colour to polished brasse, and the voyce of his wordes was like the voyce of a multitude.

And I Daniel alone sawe the visio: for the
me that were with me, sawe not the visio:
but a great feare fell vpon them, so that they fled away and hid themselves.

Therefore I was left alone, and sawe this great vision, & there remained no strenght
in me: for my strength was turned in me
into corruption, and I retrained no power.

Yet heard I the voyce of his wordes: and when I heard the voyce of his wordes, I slept on my face: and my face was toward
the ground.

And beholde, an hand touched me,
which set me vp vpon my knees and vpon
the palmes of mine hands,

And he said vnto me, O Daniel, a man
greatly beloved, vnderstand the wordes
that I speake vnto thee, and stand in thy place: for vnto thee am I now sent. And when he had said this worde vnto me, I stode trembling.

Then said he vnto me, Feare not, Daniel: for from the first daye that thou didest
set thine heart to vnderstand, and to humble thy self before thy God, thy wordes
were heard, and I am come for thy wor-des.

But the prince of the kingdome of Persia
withstode me one and twentie dayes:
but lo, Michael one of the chief princes,
came to helpe me, & I remained there by the Kings of Persia.

Now I am come to shewe thee what
shal come to thy people in the latter dayes:
for yet the vision is for manie daies.

And when he spake these wordes vnto
me, I set my face toward the ground, &
helde my tongue.

And beholde, one like the similitude
of the sonnes of man touched my lippes:
then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said vnto him that stode before me, O my Lord, by the vision my sorowes are returned vpon me, and I haue retrained no strength.

For how can the seruāt of this my Lord
talke with my Lord being such one: for as
for me, straight way there remained no strength in me, nether is there breth left
in me.

Then there came againe, and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and
he strengthened me,

And said, O man, greatly beloved, feare
not: peace be vnto thee: be strong and of

with him before in the similitude of a man. m I was fear and sorow, when I sawe the vision. n He declar-

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsel of Iero boam the sonne of Nebat, and in steed of his true seruice commanded by his worde worship per him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giuing them selues to moste vile idolatrie and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophetes to call them to repent an ceunt: but they grew euer worse and worse, and stil abused Gods benefices. Therefore now when their prophecie was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to cōdemne them of their ingratitude: and where as they thought them selues to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards and children borne in adulterie: and therefore sheweth them that God wolde take away their kingdome, and giue them to the Assyrians to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuentie yeres, though they remained stil in their vices & wickednes, & derided the Prophetes, & contemned Gods iudgements. And because they shulde neither be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter them selves by the sweetenes of Gods promises, he sheweth before them the two principal parties of the Law, which are the promises of saluation, and the doctrine of life: for the first parte he directeth the faithful to steadfastly whome onely they shulde haue true deliuerance: and for the seconde, he sheweth threat nings and menaces to bring them from their wicked maners and vices; & this is the chief scope of all the Prophetes, ether by Gods promises to allure them to be goodlie, els by threatnings of his iudge ments to feare them fro vice: & albeit that the whole Law containe these two pointes, yet the Pro phets morcouer note peculiarly bothe the time of Gods iudgements and the maner.

CHAP. I.

The time wherein Hosea prophesied. 2 The idolatrie of the people. 3 The calling of the Gentiles. 4 Christ is the head of all people.

He worde of the Lord that came vnto Hosea the sonne of Beerí, in the dayes of Vzziab, Iotham, Aház, & Heze kiáh Kings of Iudáh, & in the dayes of Ieroboám the sonne of Ioash King of Izreél.

At the beginning the Lord spake by Ho sea, and the Lord said vnto Hosea, Go, take vnto thee a wife of fornications, and children of fornicatiōs: for the land hath committed great whoredome, departing fro the Lord.

So he went, and toke a Gómer, the daugh ter of Diblám, which conceived and bare him a sonne.

And the Lord said vnto him, Call his na me Izreél: for yet a litle, and I wil visite the blood of Izreél vpon the house of Ie hu, and wil cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Izreél.

And at that day wil I also breake ybow of Izreél in the valley of Izreél.

She conceived yet againe, & bare a daugh ter, and God said vnto him, Call her name

Lo-ruhámah: for I wil no more haue pi tie vpon the house of Izreél: but I wil vter

he was more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, be cause of their relation with God; but that they were as bastards, & there fore called Israelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Ierel, the name of the ten tribes vnder Ahab where Iehouid was mu dered. And God turned him vp to execute his iudgements, yet for his owne ambitio, & not for the glorie of God, at the end de stroyed by that idolatrie, which he had destroyed. When the ten tribes were full, and I shal take vengeance and destroye all the house. That is, not obtaining mercie: whereby he fig ures that God was departed from them.

ly: take them away.

7 Yet I wil haue mercie vpon the house of Iudáh, and wil saue them by the Lord their God, and wil not saue the by bowe, nor by sworde nor by battel, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had wained Lo-ruhámah, she conceived, and bare a sonne.

9 Then said God, Call his name Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people: therefore wil I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the children of Is raél shalbe as the sand of the sea, which can not be measured nor tolde: and in the pla ce where it was said vnto them, Ye are not my people, it shal be said vnto them, Ye are the sonnes of the liuing God.

11 Then shal the children of Iu dáh, and the children of Izreél be gathered together, and appoint them selues one head, & they shal come vp out of the land: for great is the day of Izreél.

To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who shulde be the head boile of the Iewes and Gentiles. The calamitie and destruction of Ierel shalbe so great, that to restore them shalbe as a miracle.

CHAP. II.

The people is called to repentance. 2 He sheweth their idolatrie and threateneth them except they repent.

1 Say vnto your brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhámah,

The land shall mourne.

Hear the worde of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a cōtrouersie with y<sup>e</sup> inhabitants of the land because there is no truth, nor mercie nor knowledge of God in the land.

By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring they breake out, and blood toucheth blood.

Therefore shall the land mourne, and curse one that dwelleth therein, shall be cut off, with the beasts in the field, and with the fowles of the heauē, and also the fishes
of the sea shall be taken away.

Yet I will not reuke, nor reprove another:
for thy people are as they that reuke the Priest.

Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the Prophet shall fall with thee in y<sup>e</sup> night,
and I will destroye thy mother.

My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because thou hast refused knowledge, I will also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seing thou hast forgotten the Law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glorie into shame.

They eat vp the finnes of my people, &
lift vp their mindes in their iniquitie.

And there shall be like people, like a Priest:
for I will visit their wayes vpon them, &
rewards them their dedes.

For they shall eat, and not haue ynough:
they shall commit a dulterie, and shall not increase, because they haue left off to take hede to the Lord.

Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine
take away their heart.

My people aske counsel at their flockes,
and their staffe teacheth them: for the spirit of fornications hath caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whoring from vnder their God.

They sacrifice vpon the toppes of the mountaines, and burne incense vpon the hilles vnder the oaks, and the poplar tre,
and the elm, because the shadowe thereof
is good: therefore your daughters shall be harlots, and your spouses shall be whores.

I will not visite your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for they themselves are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doeth
not vnderstand, shall fall.

For Israel is rebellious as an vnruled heif-

laughter, though I haue bene a rebuker
of them all.

I knowe Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim thou art become an harlot, & Israel is defiled.

They will not giue their mindes to turne
vnto their God: for y<sup>e</sup> spirit of fornication is in the middes of them, & they haue not knowne the Lord.

And the pride of Israel doeth testifie to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquitie: Iudah also shall fall
with them.

They shall go with their shepe, and with their bullockes to seke the Lord: but they shall not finde him: for he hath withdrawe
him self from them.

They haue transgressed against the Lord:
for they haue begotten strange children:
now shall a moneth deuoure them wth their porcions.

Blowe ye the trumpet in Gibeath, & the shame in Ramah: crye out at Beth-auen,
after thee, O Benjamin.

Ephraim shall be desolate in y<sup>e</sup> day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel I haue I caused to knowe the truth.

The princes of Iudah were like the thorn
that remoueth the bondes: therefore will I powre
out my wrath vpon them like water.

Ephraim is oppressed, & broken in ind-gement, because he willingly walked after the commandement.

By the successeth shall knowe that I haue surely determined this. The hand turned vp side downe all political order, and all manner of religion.
To wit, after King Ieroboams commandment & did not rather follow God.

r God complaineth that Iudah is infected, and willeth them to leave by their example to returne in time. For albeit the Lord had honored this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatrie,
he wolde not that his people shoulde re-forther. He calleth Beth-el, that because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that no place is holie where God is not purely worshipped. God will so dispense them that they shall not remanne in any certain place. They are so impudent in receiving bribes, that they will commande men, so bring them vnto them. To carie them suddenly away.

taines.

Notwith-

seemed to be

ther to holie-

fices, yet here
he calleth
laughter in con-

Thogh I
admonished
them continually by my Prophecies,
they boasted
themselves fel-
lowes not onely
to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites,
because their King Ieroboam
came of that tribe.

their contem-
ning of all ad-
monitions.
That is their children are degenerate, so
y<sup>e</sup>re is in them
hope in them.
Their destruction is not farre off.

That is, all

hended, vnder this parce, signi-

destroyed.

The Lord woundeth & healeth. Hosēa. A cake not turned.

12 Therefore wil I be vnto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Iudah as a rottenness.
13 Whē Ephraim sawe his sickenes, and Iudah his wounde, then went Ephraim vnto Ashur, & sent vnto King Aráb: yet coulde he not heale you, nor cure you of your wounde.
14 For I wil be vnto Ephraim as a lion, and as a lions whelp to the house of Iudah: Ieuen I wil spoyle, and go away: I wil take away, and none shal rescue it.
15 I wil go, & returne to my place, til they acknowledge their faute, and seke me: in their affliction they wil seke me diligently.

CHAP. VI.

Affliction causeth a man to turne to God. 9 The wickednes of the Priests.

Come, & let vs a returne to the Lord: for he hath spoiled, and he wil heale vs: he hath wounded vs, and he wil binde vs vp.
After two dayes wil he reuiue vs, & in the thirde day he wil raise vs vp, and we shal liue in his sight.
Then shal we haue knowledge, and endeuor our selues to knowe the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shal come vnto vs as the raine, & as the latter raine vnto the earth.
O Ephraim, what shal I do vnto thee? O Iudah, how shal I entreat thee? for your goodnes as a morning cloude, and as the morning dewe it goeth away.
Therefore haue I cut downe by y<sup>e</sup> Prophets: I haue slaine them by the wordes of my mouth, and thy iudgements were as the light that goeth forth.
For I desired mercie, & not sacrifice, & the knowledge of God more then burnt offerings.
But thei like men haue transgressed y<sup>e</sup> couenant: there haue they trespassed against me.
Gilead is a citie of them that worke iniquitie, & is polluted with blood.
And as theues waite for a mā, so the companie of Priests murther in the way by consent: for they worke mischief.
I haue sene vilenie in the house of Israel: there is the whoredome of Ephraim: Israel is defiled.
Yea, Iudah hath set a plant for thee, whiles I wolde returne the captiuitie of my people.
That is, doeth imitate thine idolatrie and hath taken graffes of thy trees.

CHAP. VII.

Of the vices & wantonnes of the people. 12 Of their punishment.

When I wolde haue healed Israel, the iniquitie of Ephraim was discovered, & the wickednes of Samaria:

for they haue delt falsely: and the thiefe cometh in, & the robber spoyleth without. And they consider not in their hearts, I remeber all their wickednes: now their owne inuencions haue beset them about: they are in my sight.

They make y<sup>e</sup> King glad with their wickednes, and the princes with their lies. Thei are all adulterers, & as a verie soue heated by the baker, which ceaseth from sing vp, & from kneading the dowe vntil it be leauened.

Thus in the day of our King: the princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to corners.

For thei haue made readie their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in waite: their baker slepeth all the night: in the morning a burneth as a flame of fyre.

They are all hore as an ouen, and haue deuoured their Iudges: all their Kings are fallen: there is none among them that careth vnto me.

Ephraim hath mixt him self among the people, Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

Strangers haue deuoured his strength, & he knoweth it not: yea, s<sup>e</sup> graue heeres are here and there vpon him, yet he knoweth not.

And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they do not returne to the Lord their God, nor seke him for all this.

Ephraim also is like a dowe deceived, without heart: they call to Egypt: they go to Ashur.

But whē they shal go, I wil spred my net vpon them, & drawe them downe as the fowles of the heauen: I wil chastise them as their congregation hath heard.

Wo vnto them: for they haue fled away from me: destruction shal be vnto them: because they haue transgressed against me: though I haue redeemed them, yet they haue spoken lies against me.

And they haue not cryed vnto me with their hearts, when they howled vpon their beds: in they assemble them selues for corne, & wine, and thei rebell against me.

Though I haue bounde, and strengthened their arme, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

Thei returne, but not to y<sup>e</sup> most high: they are like a deceitful bow: their prices shal fall by the sword, for the rage of their tongues: this shal be their derision in the land of Egypt.

seke their owne comoditie and welch, and passe not for me, because they boast of their owne strength, and putt out wholy against me and my seruants, Psal. 73.

CHAP. VIII.

The destruction of Iudah and Ephraim, because of their idolatrie.

The calfe of Samaria.

See the trumpet to thy nation. Some as an eggle against the Lord, because they haue couenant, & trespassed against Israel: shal crye vnto me, knowe thee.

Israel hath cast off the thine, the enimie shal pursue him: they haue set vp a King: they haue made princes: it not of their siluer and t: they made them idoles: thei be destroyed.

Thy calfe, O Samaria, hath min: anger is kindled against long wil they be without.

For it came euen from Israel: man made it, therefore it is the calfe of Samaria shal be ces.

For they haue sowne the seed: the whirlwinds shal bring forth the bud: the bud shal bring forth the fruit: the fruit shal be brought forth, the fruit shal be brought forth.

Israel is deuoured, now shal the Gentiles as a vessel wherof is sure.

For they are gone vp to As: as a wilde alle alone by him: in hath hired louers.

Yet though they haue hired, now wil I gather them: for as a litle, for the burden of the princes.

Because Ephraim hath tarst to sinne, his altars shal be: I haue written to them of my Law: but they were strange thing.

They sacrifice flesh for mine offerings, and eat it: but cepteth them not: how will their iniquitie, and visite shal returne to Egypt.

For Israel hath forgotte buylder temples, and Iud: fled strong cities: but I wil on his cities, and it shal deces thereof.

they made them idoles: therefore shal thei

Thy calfe, & Samaria, hathe cast thee of:

Yet thogh they haue hired amog the na-

sowre a lile, for the burde of the King,
& the princes.

Because Ephraim hathe made many altars to sinne, his altars shalbe to sinne.

I haue writen to them the great things
of my Law: but they were counted as a strange thing.

They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it: but the Lord ac-cepteth them not: how wil he remember their iniquitie, and visite their sinnes: they shal returne to Egypt.

For Israel hathe forgotten his maker, &
buyldeth temples, and Iudah hathe encrea-sed strong cities: but I wil send a fyre vpon
his cities, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

R Bioye not, O Israel for ioie: as othe
people: for thou hast gone a whoring
from thy God: thou hast loued a rewar-
de vpon euery corne floore.

The floore, and the wine presse shal not feede them, and the new wine shal faile in
her.

They wil not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim wil returne to Egypt, & they wil
eat vncleane things in Asshur.

They shal not offer wine to the Lord,
neither shal their sacrifices be pleasant vn-
to him: but thei shalbe vnto the as the bread of mourners: all that eat thereof, shal be polluted: for their bread for their soules
shal not come into the House of the Lord.

What wil ye do then in the solene day,
and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

For lo, they are gone from destruction:
but Egypt shal gather them vp, and Memphis shal burye them: the nettles shal posselle the pleasant places of their siluer, &
the thorne shalbe in their tabernacles.

The daies of visitacion are come: the daies of recompense are come: Israel shal
knowe it: the Prophet is a foole: the spiritual man is mad: for the multitude of rhine iniquitie: therefore the hatred is great.

The watchman of Ephraim shalbe with my God: but the Prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his waies, & hatred in y House of his God.

They are depely see: they are corrupt
as in the daies of Gibeath: therefore he wil remember their iniquitie, he wil visite their finnes.

I founde Israel like grapes in the wil-
dernes: I sawe your fathers as the first ripe
in the fig tre at her first time: but they went to Baal-Peor, and separated them selues
vnto that shame, and their abominacions
were according to their louers.

Ephraim their glorie shal flee away like a birde: fro the birth and from the wom-
be, and from the conception.

Thogh they bring vp their children, yet
I wil depriue them from being men: yea,
wo to them, when I departe from them.

Ephraim, as I sawe, is as a tre in y Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shal
bring forth his children to the murthe-rer.

O Lord, giue them: what wilt thou giue
them: giue them a baren wombe & drye
breasts.

All their wickednes is in y Gilgal: for there do I hate them: for the wickednes of their inuencions, I wil cast them out of mine House: I wil loue them no more: all their princes are rebelles.

Ephraim is smitten, their roote is dried
vp: they can bring no fruite: yea, thogh thei
bring forth, yet wil I slaie euen the dearest of their bodie.

My God wil cast the away, because they did not obey him: and they shal wander among the nations.

The calfe of Israël.

Hoséa. God did beare Israël.

Isrâel is a <sup>a</sup> emptie vine, yet hathe it brought forth the frute vnto it self, & according to the multitude of the frute thereof he hathe increased the altars: according to the <sup>b</sup> goodnes of their land they haue made faire images.

Their heart is <sup>c</sup> deuided: now shal they be founde faultie: he shal breake downe their altars: he shal destroye their images. For now they shal say, We haue no <sup>d</sup> King because we feared not the Lord: and what shulde a King do to vs?

They haue spoken wordes, swearing falsely in making <sup>e</sup> a couenante: thus <sup>f</sup> iudgement groweth as wormewood in the furrowes of the field.

The inhabitants of Samaria shal <sup>g</sup> feare because of the calfe of Beth-âuen: for the people thereof shal mourne ouer it, & the <sup>h</sup> Chemarims thereof, that reioyced on it for the glorie thereof, because it is departed from it.

It shalbe also brought to Ashûr, for a present vnto King Iaréb: Ephraïm shal receiue shame, & Israël shalbe ashamed of his owne counsell.

Of Samaria, the King thereof is destroyed, as the fume vpon the water.

The his places also of <sup>i</sup> Auen shalbe destroyed, <sup>j</sup> euen the sinne of Israël: the thorne and the thistle shal growe vpon their altars, and they shal say to the mountaines, <sup>k</sup> Couer vs, and to the hilles, Fall vpon vs.

O Israël, thou hast <sup>l</sup> sinned from the daies of Gibeâh: there they <sup>m</sup> stood: the battell in Gibeâh against the children of iniquitie did not <sup>n</sup> touche them.

It is my desire <sup>o</sup> that I shulde chastise them, & the people shalbe gathered against them, when they shal gather them selues in their two <sup>p</sup> furrowes.

And Ephraïm is <sup>q</sup> as an heifer vsed to delite <sup>r</sup> in threshing: but I wil passe by her <sup>s</sup> faire necke: I wil make Ephraïm to ride: Iudâh shal plowe, and Iakôb shal breake his cloddes.

Sowe to your selues in righteousness: reape after the measure of mercie: <sup>t</sup> breake vpon your fallowe ground: for <sup>u</sup> it is time to seke the Lord, til he come & raine righteousness vpon you.

But you haue plowed wickednes: ye haue reaped iniquitie: you haue eate the frute of lies: because <sup>v</sup> y didest trust in thine owne waies, <sup>w</sup> in the multitude of thy strong men,

Therefore shal <sup>x</sup> a tumult arise among thy people & all thy munitions shalbe destroyed, as <sup>y</sup> Shalmân destroyed Beth-arbel in the day of battell: the mother <sup>z</sup> with the child.

Because they are to despayre, I wil desire to destroy them. <sup>a</sup> There is, when they haue gathered all their strength together. <sup>b</sup> Wherein is pleasure, as in plowing is labour and pain. <sup>c</sup> I wil lay my yoke vpon her face necke. <sup>d</sup> Read Ierem 4.4. <sup>e</sup> I that is, Shalmân, at the destruction of this cite spared nothing kinde nor age.

CHAP. XI.

The benefites of the Lord toward Israël: & Their ingratitude against him.

When Israël <sup>a</sup> was a childe, then I loued him, <sup>b</sup> and called my sonne out of Egypt.

They called them, but they <sup>c</sup> went thus: they sacrificed vnto Baalim, & burnt incense to images.

I led Ephraïm also, <sup>d</sup> as one shulde beare them in his armes: but they knewe not that I healed them.

I led them with cordes <sup>e</sup> of a man, <sup>f</sup> euen with bandes of loue, and I was to them, as a he that taketh of the yoke from their iawes, and I laied the meat vnto them.

He shal no more returne into the land of Egypt: but Ashûr shalbe his <sup>g</sup> King, because they refused to conuert.

And the sworde shal fall on his cities, & shal consume his barres, and deuoure them because of their owne counsils.

And my people are bent to rebellion against me: though <sup>h</sup> they called them to the most hie, yet none at all wolde exalt him.

How shal I giue thee vp, Ephraïm: how shal I deliuer thee, Israël: how shal I make thee, as <sup>i</sup> Admâh: how shal I set thee, as Zebouim? mine heart is turned within me: my repentings are rouled together.

I wil not execute the fiercenes of my wrath: I wil not returne to destroy Ephraïm: for I am God, and not man, the holy one in the middes of thee, & I wil not enter into the cite.

They shal walke after the Lord: he shal roare like a lyon: when he shal roare, then the children of the West shal feare.

They shal feare as a sparowe out of Egypt, and as a doue out of the land of Ashûr, and I wil place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

Ephraïm cōpasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israël with deceit: but Iudâh yet ruleth <sup>j</sup> with God, and is faithful with the Saintes.

CHAP. XII.

He admonisheth by Iakôbs example to trust in God, and not in man.

Ephraïm is fed <sup>a</sup> with the winde, & foloweth after the Eastwinde: he encrauseth dailei lies and destruction, and they do make a couenant with Ashûr, & are caryed into Egypt.

He is <sup>b</sup> Canaan: the balance in his hand: he toucheth to the land of Egypt, yet will dwell in the tabernacles, of the solemne feast.

I haue also spoken by the prophets, & by the ministerie of the Priests: Is there <sup>c</sup> iniquitie in Gibeon: they sacrifice, and their altars are as turrowes of the field.

And Iakôb fled into Aram, and Israël serued for a wife he kept <sup>d</sup> shepe.

Therefore turne thou to thy God: kepe

He is<sup>n</sup> a Canaan: the balances of deceit are

And Ephraim said, Notwithstading I am

me, that were wickednes.

Thogh I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, yet wil I make thee to dwell in the tabernacles, as in<sup>o</sup> the dayes

I haue also spoken by the Prophetes, & I
haue multiplied visios, & vfed similitudes
by the ministerie of the Prophetes.

Is there<sup>p</sup> iniquitie in Gilead: surely they are vanitie: they sacrifice bullockes in Gil-

And thou wilt vanitie, that whatsoever they have, it co-

CHAP. XIII.

The abomination of Israel. s. And cause of their destruction.

When Ephraim spake, there was<sup>s</sup>
a trembling: he<sup>t</sup> exalted him self in Israel, but he hath sinned in Baal, and is dead.

And now they sinne more and more, and haue made them molten images of their silver, & idoles accordig to their owne vnderstanding: they were all the worke of y<sup>u</sup>
craftsmē: they say one to another whiles.

they sacrifice a<sup>v</sup> mā. Let the<sup>w</sup> kisse y<sup>x</sup> calues.

me: for there is no Sauour beside me.

CHAP. XIII.

The destruction of Samaria. s. He exhorteth Israel to turne to God, who requireth praise and thanks.

O Israel, a returne vnto the Lord thy iniquitie, and receiue us graciously: so wil

for in thee the fatherles findeth mercie.

I wil heale their rebellio: I wil loue the

I wil be as the dewe vnto Israel: he shal

THE ARGUMENT.

The Prophet Ioël firſt rebuketh them of Iuda, that being now puniſhed with a great plague of famine, remaine ſtil obſtinat. Secondly he threatneth greater plagues, becauſe they grew daily to a more hardeneſſe of heart, & rebellion againſt God notwithstanding his puniſhments. Thirdly he exhorteth them to repentance, ſhewing that it muſt be earneſt, and procede from the heart becauſe they had grievouſly offended God. And ſo doing, he promiſeth, that God wil be merciful, & not forget his covenant that he made with their fathers: but wil ſend his Chriſt who ſhal gather the ſcattered ſhepe, and reſtore them to life, and libertie, thogh they ſemed to be dead.

people to prayer, and ſaſſing for the miſerie that was at hand.

THE worde of the Lord

Hear ye this, o Elders,
and hearken ye all inhabitants of the land, whether ſuche a thing hathe
bene in your dayes, or yet in the dayes of your fathers.

<sup>3</sup> Tell you your children of it, and let your children ſhewe to their children, and their children to another generacion.

houle all ye drinkers of wine, becauſe of y

mouth.

<sup>6</sup> Yea, a nation cometh vpon my land,
mightie, and without number, whoſe teeth
are like the teeth of a lyon, and he hathe the iawes of a great lyon.

<sup>7</sup> He maketh my vine waſte, and pil-

and caſteth it downe: the branches thereof
are made white.

his people, Beholde, I wil send you corne,

he wil cause to come downe for you the hath delt marueilously with you: and my people shal neuer be ashamed.

27 Ye shal also knowe, that I am in the mid-

AMOS.

THE ARGUMENT.

Among many other Prophetes that God raised vp to admonish the Israelites of his plagues for their wickednes and idolatrie, he stirred vp Amós, who was an herdsman or shepherd of a poor estate, and gave him bothe knowledge and constancie to reprove all estates and degrees, and to demonstrate Gods horrible iudgements against them, except they did in time repent: shewing them, that if they were not the other nations about them, who had lived as it were in ignorance of God in respect of them, but for their sinnes wil punish them, that they coulde loke for nothing, but an horrible destruction, except they turned to the Lord by vnfeined repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godlie with hope of the coming of the Messiah, by whome they shoulde haue perfite deliuerance and saluacion.

CHAP. I.

The time of the prophesie of Amós. 3 The words of the Lord against Damascus. 6 The Philistines, Tyrus, Idu-ma and Ammon.

He wordes of Amós,
who was among the herd-
men at Tecoa, which he sawe vpon Israël, in the daies of Vzziáh King of Iudáh, and in the daies of Ieroboám the sonne of Ioásh King of Israël, two yere
before the earth quake.

And he said, The Lord shall roare from Zión, and utter his voyce from Ierusalem,
and the dwelling places of the shepherds shall perish, and the top of Carmél shall wither.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Damascus, and for foure I wil
not turne to it, because they haue threshed
Gileád with threshing instrumēt of yro.

Therefore wil I send a fyre into the house of Hazáel, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Ben-hadád.

I wil breake also the barres of Damascus,
and cut of the inhabitant of Biceath-á-uen: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-eden, & the people of Arám shall go into captiuitie vnto Kir, saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgres-
sions of Azzah, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they haue carried away prisoners the whole captiuitie to shut them vp in Edóm.

Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon the wallles of Azzáh, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

And I wil cut of the inhabitant from Aldód, and him that holdeth the scepter from Abukelón, and turne mine hand to Ekrón, and the remnant of the Philistines
shall perish, saith the Lord God.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they shut the whole captiuitie in Edóm, and haue not remember which he call' d here Kir. i. They joynd them selues with the Edomites, which carryed them away captiues.

bred the brotherlie couenant.

Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon the wallles of Tyrus, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgres-
sions of Edóm, and for foure I wil not tur-
ne to it, because he did pursue his brother
with the sword, and did cast of all pite,
and his anger spoiled him euermore, and
his wrath watched him alway.

Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon Temán,
and it shall deuoure the palaces of Bozráh.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of the children of Ammón, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they haue ript vp the women with childe of Gileád, y<sup>e</sup> they might enlarge their border.

Therefore wil I kindle a fyre in the wall
of Rabbáh, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof, with shouting in the daie of battel, & with a tempest in the day of the whirlwinde.

And their King shall go into captiuitie,
he and his princes together, saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord.

CHAP. II.

Against Moáb, Iudáh, and Israël.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgres-
sions of Moáb, and for foure, I wil
not turne to it, because it burneth the bones of the King of Edóm into lime.

Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon Moáb,
and it shall deuoure the palaces of Kerióth, & Moáb shall dye with tumult, with shouting, & with the sounde of a trumpeter.

And I wil cut of the Iudge out of the mid-des thereof, & wil slae all the princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgres-
sions of Iudáh, & for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they haue cast away y<sup>e</sup> Law
of the Lord, & haue not kept his cōmande-ments, & their lies caused the to erre after
the which their fathers haue walked.

Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon Iudáh,
and it shall deuoure the palaces of Ierusalem.

Thus saith y<sup>e</sup> Lord, For three transgressions of Israël, & for foure, I wil not tur-

day, saith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

He reproveth the house of Israel of ingratitude. 22 For the which God wil punish them.

Hear this worde that the Lord pronounceth againſt you, o children of Israel, enē against the whole familie which
I brought vp fro the land of Egypt, saying,
You alone haue I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I wil visite
you for all your iniquities.
Can two walke together except thei be agreed?
Will a lion roare in the forest, when he hath no pray? or wil a lions whelpē cry
out of his denne, if he haue taken nothing?
Can a bird fall in a snare vpon y<sup>e</sup> earth,
where no fouler is? or wil he take vp the snare from the earth, and haue taken nothing at all?
Or shal a trumpet be blown in the citie,
and the people be not afraied? or shal
there be euil in a citie, and the Lord hate not done it?
Surely the Lord God wil do nothing

but he breuileth his secret vnto his seruants
the Prophetes.

8 The lion hath roared: who will not be afrayed? the Lord God hath spoken: who can but in prophesie?

9 Proclame in the palaces at Aſſod, in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and in Aſſembly where ſeſues vpon the mountaine
of Samaria: ſo beholde the great tumults
in the middes thereof, and the oppreſſed in the middes thereof.

10 For thei knowe not to do right, ſaith the Lord: thei floure vp violence, and robbeth
in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, An aduerſarie ſhal come euen rounde about the countreie, and ſhal bring downe thy ſhrine
from ther, and thy palaces ſhal be ſpoiled.

12 Thus ſaith the Lord, As the ſhepherd taketh
out of the mouth of the lion two legges,
or a peece of an eare: ſo ſhal the children of Iſrael be taken out that dwell
in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus, as in a couche.

13 Heare, and teſtifie in the houſe of Iſa-kob, ſaith the Lord God, the God of hoſtes.

14 Surely in the day that I ſhal viſite the tranſgreſſions of Iſrael vpon him, I will

CHAP. V.

A lamentacion for the captiuitie of Israel.

Hear ye this worde, which I lift vp vpon you, euen a lamentacion of the house of Israel.

The virgin Israel is fallen, and shal no
more rise: she is left vpon her land, & there none to raise her vp.

For thus saith the Lord God, The cite
which went out by a thousand, shal leaue
an hundred: and that which went for-the by an hundred, shal leaue ten to the house of Israel.

For thus saith the Lord vnto the house
of Israel, Seke ye me, and ye shal liue.

But seke not Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and go not to Beer-sheva: for Gilgal
shal go into captiuitie, and Beth-el shal
come to naught.

Seke the Lord, and ye shal liue, lest he breake out like fyre in the house of Iosiph
and deuoure it, & there fe none to quenche
in Beth-el.

They turne a iudgement to wormewood,

Amós. Loue the good. 371

and leaue of righteousness in the earth.

He maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadowe of death into the morning, and he maketh the day darcke as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

He strengentheth the destroyer against the mightie: and the destroyer shal come against the fortresse.

They haue hated him, that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorre him that speaketh vprightly.

For asmuch then as your treading is vpon
the poore, and ye take from him burdens
of wheat, ye haue buylt houses of hewen
stone, but ye shal not dwell in them: ye haue planted pleasant vineyardes, but ye shal
not drinke wine of them.

For I knowe your manifold transgressions, and your mightie finnes: they afflict
the iust, they take rewardes, & they oppresse
the poore in the gate.

Therefore the prudent shal kepe silence
in that time, for it is an euil time.

Seke good and not euil, that ye may liue:
and the Lord God of hostes shalbe with
you, as you haue spoken.

Hate the euil, and loue the good, and establish iudgement in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hostes wil be merciful vnto the remnant of Ioseph.

Therefore the Lord God of hostes, the Lord saith thus, Mourning shalbe in all stre-
tes: and they shal say in all the hie waies, Alas, alas: and they shal call the housband-
man to lamentacion, & suche as can mour-
ne, to mourning.

And in all the vines shalbe lamentacion:
for I wil passe through thee, saith the Lord.

Wo vnto you, that desire the day of the Lord: what haue you to do with it?
the day of the Lord is darkenes and not light.

As if a man did flee from a lyon, and a beare met him, or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

Shal not the day of the Lord be darkenes, and not light: euen darkenes and no
light in it?

I hate & abhorre your feast daies, and I
wil not smel in your solemne assemblies.

Thogh ye offer me burnt offrings and meat offrings, I wil not accept them: nether wil I regarde the peace offering of your fat beasts.

Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs: for I wil not heare the melodie of thy viols.

And let iudgement runne downe as waters, and righte ousnes as a mightie riu-er.

OBADIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Idumeans, which came of Esau, were mortal enemies alway to the Israelites, which came of Iaakob, & therefore did not onely rexe them continually with sondry kindes of crueltie, but also stirred vp others to fight against them. Therefore when they were now in their greatest prosperitie, and did moste triumphe against Israel, which was in great affliction and miserie, God raised vp his Prophet to comfort the Israelites, & as muche as God had now determined to destroy their adversaries, which did so fore rexe them, and to send them suche as shulde deliuer them, and set vp the kingdome of Messia<sup>h</sup>, which he had promiss'd.

<sup>c</sup> Beholde, I haue made thee smale among the heathen: thou art vterly despised.

<sup>d</sup> The<sup>e</sup> pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee: thou that dwellest in the cleftes of the rockes, whose habitation is hie, that saith in his heart, Who shal bring me downe to the ground?

<sup>e</sup> Yea though thou exalt thy self as the eagle, & make thy nest among the starres, thence wil I bring thee downe, saith the Lord.

<sup>f</sup> Came thoues to thee or robbers by night? how wast thou brought to silence? wolde they not haue stolen, til they had ynough? if the grapegatherers came to thee, wolde they not leave some grapes?

Jonahs praier. Jonáh. A proclamation.

<sup>14</sup> Wherefore thei cryed vnto the Lord, & said, <sup>k</sup>We beseeche thee, O Lord, we beseeche thee, let vs not perish for this mans life, and laie not vpon vs innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee.

<sup>17</sup> Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swalowe vp Ionáh: and Ionáh was in the belly of the fish three daies, and three nights.

<sup>l</sup> They were touched with a certaine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God, by whome they sawe themselves so wonderfully deliuered: but this was done before he came out of a pure heart and affection, neither according to Gods worde. <sup>m</sup> Thus the Lord woulde chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, & hereby also confirmed him of his fauour and support in this his charge which was intained him.

CHAP. II.

Jonáh is in the fishs belly. 3 His prayer. 11 He is deliuered.

<sup>2</sup> Then Ionáh praied vnto the Lord this God out of the fishes belly, <sup>2</sup> And said, I cryed in mine affliction vnto the Lord, & he heard me: out of the belly <sup>b</sup> of hel cryed I, and thou heardest my voice.

<sup>3</sup> For thou haddest cast me into y bottome in the middes of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all thy furies, and all thy waues passed ouer me.

<sup>4</sup> Then I said, I am cast awaie out of thy sight: yet wil I lloke againe toward thine holy Temple.

<sup>5</sup> The waters compassed me about vnto the soule: the depth closed me rounde about, & the weedes were wrapt about mine head. <sup>6</sup> I went downe to the bottome of the mountaines: the earth with her barres was about me for euer, yet hast thou brought vp my life from the pit, O Lord my God.

<sup>7</sup> When my soule fainted within me, I remembered the Lord: and my praier came vnto thee, into thine holy Temple.

<sup>9</sup> But I wil sacrifice vnto thee with the voice of thanksgiuing, and wil paie that that I haue vowed: saluacion is of y Lord.

<sup>10</sup> And the Lord spake vnto the fish, and it cast out Ionáh vpon the drye land.

CHAP. III.

Jonáh is sent againe to Nineueh: 5 The repentance of the King of Nineueh.

<sup>a</sup> This is a great declaration of Gods mercie y he receiue him againe & sendeth him forth as his Prophet which had before shewed to great infirmities.

<sup>1</sup> And the worde of the Lord came vnto Ionáh the seconde time, saying, Arise, go vnto Nineueh that great citie, and preache vnto it the preaching, which I bid thee.

<sup>2</sup> So Ionáh arose and went to Nineueh according to the worde of the Lord.

According to the worde of the Lord: now Nineueh was a great and excellent citie of three daies iourney.

<sup>4</sup> And Ionáh began to entre into the citie a daies iourney, and he cryed, and said, Yet fortie daies, & Nineueh shalbe overthrown.

<sup>5</sup> So the people of Nineueh beleued God, and proclaimed a fast, & put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them euē to the least of them.

<sup>7</sup> And he proclaimed and said through Nineueh, (by the counsell of the King and his nobles,) saying, Let neither mā, nor beast, bullocke nor shepe tast any thing, neither fede nor drinke water.

<sup>8</sup> But let man and beast put on sackcloth, and cry mightily vnto God: yea, let euerie man turne from his euil waie, and from the wickednes that is in their hands.

<sup>9</sup> Who can tell if God wilt turne, and reprieue, and turne awaie from his fierce wrath, y we perish not.

<sup>10</sup> And God sawe their workes that they turned from their euil wayes: & God repented of the euil that he had said that he wolde do vnto them; and he did it not.

CHAP. IIIII.

<sup>2</sup> And he praied vnto the Lord, and said, I praie thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country: therefore I preuented it to flee vnto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slowe to angrie and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the euil.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore now O Lord, take, I beseeche thee, my life from me: for it is better for me to dye then to liue.

<sup>5</sup> So Ionáh went out of the citie and sate on the East side of the citie, and there made him a boothe, and sate vnder it in the shadowe: til he might se what shulde be done in the citie.

<sup>6</sup> And the Lord God prepared a gourd, & made it to come vp ouer Ionáh, that it might be a shadowe ouer his head, and deliuer him from his grief. So Ionáh was exceeding glad of the gourd.

<sup>7</sup> But God prepared a worme when the morning rose the next daie, and it smote the gourd, so that it withered.

<sup>8</sup> Which was a further meanes to couer him from the heat of the sunne, & he remained in his boothe.

the gourd, that it withered. <sup>8</sup> And when the sunne did shined, it was as a furnace of fire: so that he was ready to faint. And he said, It is better for me to die, than to liue.

<sup>9</sup> And God said vnto Ionáh, Wouldest thou be angrie for the gourd, which I made to come vp for thee? thou sayest, Yea: but thou art not angrie for the man, nor for the beast, nor for the fowle, which are all within the gourd.

<sup>10</sup> And he said, I am not angrie.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah ſerued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah and Iſrael, at the leaſt thirtiē yerres: at what time Iſaiah propheticd. He declared the deſtrution of the one kingdome, and then of the other, becauſe of their manifold wickednes, but chiefly for their idolatrie. And to this end he ſet forth the wickednes of the people, the crueltie of the princes and gouernours, and the permiſſion of the falſe prophetes, and the deluſion in them. Then he ſetteth forth the coming of Chriſt Ieſus kingdome, & the felicitie thereof. This Prophet was not that Micah which reſiſt Ahab, & all his falſe prophetes, as 1 King. 22, 8, but another of the ſame name.

CHAP. I.

The deſtruction of Iudah & Iſrael becauſe of their
idolatrie.

He worde of the Lord,
that came vnto Micah
the Morasſhite in the
dayes of Iorham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which he ſawe cocerning Samaria and Ie-
ruſalem.

Heare, all ye people: hearken thou, O
earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witnes againſt you, euen the Lord from his holie Temple.

For beholde, the Lord cometh out of his place, and wil come downe, & tread vpō
the high places of the earth.

And the mountaines ſhal melt vnder him
(ſo ſhal the vallis cleaue) as waxe before the fyre, & as the waters that are powred
downeward.

For the wickednes of Iaakob is all this, &
for the ſinnes of the houſe of Iſrael: what is the wickednes of Iaakob? Is not Samaria?
& which are the high places of Iudah?
Is not Ieruſalem?

Therefore wil I make Samaria as an heap
of ſtones, & for the planting of a vineyard, and wil cauſe the ſtones thereof
to tumble downe into the valley, & wil
diſcouer the foundations thereof.

And all the grauen images thereof ſhal be broken, and all the gifts thereof ſhal be burnt with the fyre, and all the idoles thereof wil I deſtroye: for he gathered it of the hyre of an harlot, and they ſhal retur-

ne to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore wil I worke & houle: wil
go without clothes, and naked: wil I make lamentacion like the dragons, & mourning as the oſtriches.

9 For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Iudah: the enemy is come vnto the gate of my people, vnto Ieruſalem.

10 Declare ye it not at Gath, nether wepe
ye: for the houſe of Aphrah roule thy ſelfe
in the duſt.

11 Thou that dwelleſt at Shaphir, go together naked with ſhame: ſhe that dwelleth
at Zaanan, ſhal not come forth in mourning
of Beth-ezel: the enemy ſhal receiue
of you for his ſtanding.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but euil came from the Lord vnto
the gate of Ieruſalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachiſh, binde the chariot to the beaſtes of price: ſhe is the beginning of the ſinne: to the daughter of Zion: for the tranſgreſſions of Iſrael were founde in thee.

14 Therefore ſhalt thou giue preſents to Moréſeth: Gath: the houſes of Achzi-
b ſhalbe as a lie to the Kings of Iſrael.

15 Yet wil I bring an heire vnto thee, O inhabitant of Mareſhah, he ſhal come vnto
Adullam, the glorie of Iſrael.

16 Make thee balde: and haue thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldenes as the eagle, for they are gone into captiuitie
from thee.

o Thou ſiſt receiueſt idolatrie of Ieroboam, & ſo diſt infect Ieruſalem. p Thou ſhalt brabe y Philitiſtine thy neighbours, but the y ſiſt alceme thee, as wel as thou of Ieruſalem. q He propheticd againſt his owne citie, & becauſe it ſignified an heritage, he ſaith y God wolde ſend an heire to poſſeſſe it. r For ſo they thought them ſelues for the ſtrength of their citie.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings againſt the wanton & dainty people.

Prophecie not. Micah. Couetousnes is cruel.

And they couet fields, and take them by violence, and houses, and take them away: so they oppresse a man and his house, even man and his heritage.

Therefore thus saith the Lord, Beholde, against this familie haue I deuised a plague, whereout ye shal not plucke your neckes, and ye shal not go so proudly, for this time is cuil.

In that day shal they take vp a parable against you, and lament with a doleful lamentation, & say, We be vterly wasted: he hathe changed the portion of my people: how hathe he taken it away to restore it vnto me: he hathe diuided our fields.

Therefore thou shalt haue none that shal cast a coard by lot in the Congregation of the Loīd.

They that prophesied, Prophecie ye not. Thei shal nor prophecie to them, neether shal they take shame.

O thou that art named the house of Iakob, is the Spirit of the Lord shortened: are these his workes? are not my wordes good vnto him? that walketh vprightly: But he that was yester day my people, is risen vp on the other side, as against an enemy: they spoyle the beautiful garment from the that passe by peaceably, as though they returned from the warre.

The women of my people haue ye cast out from their pleasant houses, & from their children haue ye taken away my glorie continually.

Arise and departe, for this is not your rest: because it is polluted, it shal destroye you, *eu*n with a sore destruction.

If a mā walke in the Spirit, & wolde lie falsely, saying, I wil prophecie vnto thee of wine, and of strong drinke, he shal be the Prophet of this people.

I wil surely gather the wholly, o Iakob: I wil surely gather the remnant of Israel: I wil put them together as the sheepe of Bozrah, *eu*n as the flocke in the middes of their folde: the cities shal be full of brute of the men.

The breaker vp shal come vp before them: they shal breake out, and passe by the gate, and go out by it, and their King shal go before them, and the Lord shal be vpon their heads.

CHAP. III.

Against the tyrannie of princes and false prophetes.

And I said, Heare, I pray you, o heads of Iakob, and ye princes of the house of Israel: shulde not ye knowe iudgement?

But they hate the good, & loue the euill: thei plucke of their skinned from them, & their flesh from their bones.

And they eat also the flesh of my people, and slay of their skinned from them, & they breake their bones, & chop them in pieces, as for the pot, & as flesh within the caldron.

Then shal they crye vnto the Lord, but he wil not heare them: he wil eue hide his face from them at that time, because they haue done wickedly in their workes.

Thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophetes that disceiue my people, and bite them with their teeth, and crye peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they prepare warre against him.

Therefore a night shal be vnto you for a vision, and darkenes shal be vnto you for a diuination, and the sunne shal go downe ouer the Prophetes, and the day shal be darke ouer them.

Then shal the Seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: yea, they shal all couer their lippes, for they haue none answer of God.

Yet notwithstanding I am full of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of iudgement and of strength to declare vnto Iakob his transgression, and to Israel his sinne.

Heare this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Iakob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhorre iudgement, and peruert all quietie.

They buyld vp Zion with blood, and Ierusalem with iniquitie.

The heads thereof iudge for reward, and the Priests thereof teache for hire: the Prophetes thereof prophesie for money: yet wil they leane vpon the Lord, & say, Is not the Lord among vs: no euill can come vpon vs.

Therefore shal Zion for your sake be plowed as a field, & Ierusalem shal be as a heape, and the mountaine of the house, as the lie places of the forest.

Of his vocatio by the Spirit of God, seetheth him self: the wicked, shewing how God sothe him self, habilitate him to discern betweene good & euill, and also conscience of the people and not to flatter them. They buylded by briberie, which he callith blood and iniquitie: they are the people of God, and abuse his Name as a pretence of hypocrisie. k Read Ieremie 23: 16, 17.

And he shal stand, and fede in strength of the Lord, & in the maiestie of the Name of the Lord his God, & they shal dwell still: for now shal he be magnified vnto the ends of the worlde.

THE ARGUMENT.

As they of Nineveh shewed them selues prompt and ready to receive the worde of God at Ionahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certaine time rather giuing the selues to worldlie meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begone, they cast of the care of religion, and so returned to their vomite, and provoked Gods iuste iudgement against them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineveh was destroyed, and Merodach-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nexsar) enioyed the empire of the Assyrians. But because God haith a continual care of his Church, he stirreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godlie, shewing that the destruction of their enemies shulde be for their consolation. And as it semeth, he prophesied about the time of Hecchiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Ieremes write.

The Lord is slowe to angre, but he is great in power, and wil not surely cleare
the wicked: the Lord hath his way in the whirle winde, and in the storme, and the

THE ARGUMENT.

The Prophet complaineth vnto God, considering the great felicitie of the wicked, and the miserable oppression of the godlie, which indure all kinde of affliction & crueltie, and yet can see none end. Therefore he had this reuelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans shoulde come and take them awaie againe, so that they coulde loke for none end of their troubles as yet, because of their slubbernes and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godlie shoulde despaire, seeing this horrible confusion, he comforteth them by this that God wil punish the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride and crueltie shalbe at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they shoulde comfort them selues.

CHAP. I.

A complaint against the wicked that persecute the iust.

He burden, which Habakkuk y Prophet did se. O Lord, how long shal I crye, and thou wilt not heare! euen crye out vnto thee: for violence, and thou wilt not helpe!

Why doest thou shewe me iniquitie, and cause me to beholde sorowe: for spoyling, and violence are before me: and there are that raise vp strife and contention.

Therefore the Law is dissolved, and iudgement doeth neuer go forth: for the wicked doeth compassie about the righteous: therefore wrong iudgement procedeth.

Beholde among the heathen, and regarde, & wonder, & marueil: for I wil worke a worke in your daies: ye wil not beleue it, though it be tolde you.

For lo, I raise vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which shal go vp o the breadth of the land to possesse the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

They are terrible & feareful: their iudgement and their dignitie shal procede of them selues.

Their horses also are swifter the leopards, and are more fierce then the wolues in the cuning: & their horsemen are many: & their horsemen shal come fro far re: they shal fle as y egle hasting to meat.

They come all to spoyle: before their faces shalbe an Eastwinde, and they shal gather the captiuitie, & as the sand.

And thei shal mocke the Kings, and the princes shalbe a skorne vnto them: thei shal deride euery strong holde: for they shal gather dust, and take it.

Then shal thei take a courage, & transgresse & do wickedly, imputing this their power vnto their god.

Art not thou of olde, & Lord my God mine holy one: we shal not dye: O Lord, y hast ordeined them for iudgement, and & God, thou hast established them for correction.

Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see euil: y canst not beholde wickednes: wherefore doest thou loke vpon the transgressors, & holdest thy tongue when the wicked deuoureth the man, that is more righteous then he?

And makest men as the fish of the sea, & as the creeping things, that haue no ruler ouer them.

Thei take vp all with the angle: thei catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, whereof they reioyce & are glad.

Therefore thei sacrifice vnto their mnet and burne incense vnto their yarne, because by them their porcion is fat & their meat plenteous.

Shal thei therefore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slaye a nation?

For y Iewes moare feared this winde, because it destroyed their frutes.

Thy shalbe so many in number.

They shal cast vp mountes against thei.

The Prophet comforteth the faithful that God wil also destroy the Babylonians, because they shal abuse thei.

He assureth the godlie of Gods protection, shewing that the enemye can do no more then God hath appointed, and also that their finnes required such a sharpe rod.

So that the great deuoureth the male and the Caldeans destroy all the worlde.

THE ARGUMENT.

Sing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendement, he demonstrateth the great iudgement of God, which was at hand, shewing that their countrei shoulde be ruined destroyed, and they caried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithful he prophesied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrrians and others, to assure them that God had a continual care over them. And as the wicked shoulde be punished for their sinnes and transgressions: so he exhorteth the godlie to pacience, and to rest to finde mercie by reason of the fre promises of God made vnto Abraham: and therefore quietly to abide til God shewe them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they shoulde be gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children.

The time of the prophetic of Haggai. An exhortation to buyld the Temple againe.

IN the secōde yere of King<sup>a</sup> Darius, in the sixt moneth, the first day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord (by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai) vnto<sup>b</sup> Zerubbabél the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudáh, and to Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, saying,

Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, saying, This people say, The time is not yet come, that the Lords House shulde be buylded.

Then came the worde of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

Is it time for you selues to dwell in your filled houses, & this House lie waste?

Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts.

Ye haue sowne muche, & bring in litle: ye eat, but ye haue not ynough: ye drinke, but ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warme: and he that carneth wages, pitteth the wages into a broken bagge.

Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts.

Go<sup>f</sup> vp to the mountaine, & bring wood, & buyld this House, & I will be fauorable in it, and I will be glorified, saith the Lord.

Ye looked for muche, and lo, it came to litle: and when ye brought it home, I did blowe it vpon it. And why, saith the Lord of hostes? Because of mine House that is waste, and ye runne euery man vnto his owne house.

Therefore the heauen ouer you staid it self from dewe, and the earth staid her frute.

And I called for a drought vpon the Iord, and vpon the mountaines, and vpon the corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the oyle, vpon all that the grounde bringeth forth: bothe vpon men and vpon cattel, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

When Zerubbabél the sonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest with all the remnant of the people, heard the voyce of the Lord their God, & the wordes of the Prophet Haggai (as the Lord their God had sent him) then the people did feare before the Lord.

Then spake Haggai the Lords messenger in the Lords message vnto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

And the Lord stirred vp the spirit of Zerubbabél, the sonne of Shealtiel a prince of Iudáh, and the spirit of Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the worke in the House of the Lord of hostes their God.

He sheweth that the glorie of the seconde Temple shall exceede the first.

IN the foure and twentieth daye of the sixt moneth, in the secōde yere of King Darius,

In the seuenth moneth, in the one & twentieth daye of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

Speake now to Zerubbabél the sonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudáh, & to Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, & to the residue of the people, saying,

Who is left among you, that sawe this House in her first glorie, & how do you see it now? Is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing?

Yet now be of good courage, & Zerubbabél, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort, & Iehoshúa, sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest: and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and do it for I am with you, saith the Lord of hostes.

According to the worde that I covenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt: so my spirit shal remaine among you, feare ye not.

For thus saith the Lord of hostes, Yet a litle while, and I will shake the heauens and the earth, and the sea, and the drye land:

The siluer is mine, and the golde is mine, saith the Lord of hostes.

The glorie of this last House shal be greater then the first, saith the Lord of hostes: and in this place will I giue peace, saith the Lord of hostes.

In the foure and twentieth daye of the ninth moneth, in the secōde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto the Prophet Haggai, saying,

Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Aske now the Priests concerning the Law, and say, If one beare a holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touche the bread, or the potage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meate, shal it be holy? And the Priests answered and said, No.

Then said Haggai, If a polluted person touche any of these, shal it be vnclane? And the Priests answered, & said, It shal be vnclane.

Then answered Haggai, and said, So

And againe the worde of the Lord came vnto Haggái in the foure & twentieth daye of the moneth, saying,

Speake to Zerubbabél the prince of Iudáh, and say, I wil shake the heauens and the earth,

And I wil ouerthrowe the throne of king domes, and I wil destroy the strength of the king domes of the heathen, & I wil ouerthrowe the charets, & those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shal come downe, euerie one by the sworde of his brother.

In that day, saith the Lord of hostes, wil I take thee, o Zerubbabél my seruant, the sonne of Shealtiel, saith the Lord, & wil make thee as a signet: for I haue chosen thee, saith the Lord of hostes.

He exhor- tet them to patience and to abide til harvest came, and then they shulde see Gods blessings.

ZECHARIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Two moneths after that Haggái had begonne to prophesie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, and to confirme the same doctrine. First therfore he putteth them in remembrance, for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth the, if they wil repent vnfeignedly, & not abuse this great benefite of God in their deliuerance, which was a figure of that true deliuerance: that all the faithfull shulde haue from death and sinne by Christ. But because they stil remained in their wickednes and coldenes to set forth the Gods glorie, & were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh the moste sharpely: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he ther mixeth the promes of grace, that they might by this meanes be prepared to receive Christ, in whom all shulde be sanctified to the Lord.

CHAP. I.

He exhorteth the people to returne to the Lord, & to forsake the wickednes of their fathers. He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple.

IN the eight moneth of the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo, the Prophet, saying,

The Lord hath bene sore displeased with your fathers.

Therefore say thou vnto the, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne ye vnto me, saith the Lord of hostes, & I wil turne vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes.

Be ye not as your fathers, vnto whom I former Prophets haue cryed, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne ye now from your euil wayes, & from your wicked

workes: but they wolde not heare, nor hearkened vnto me, saith the Lord.

Your fathers, where are they? and do the Prophets liue for euer?

But did not my wordes and my statutes, which I commanded by my seruants the Prophets, take holde of your fathers? & though they returned, & said, As the Lord of hostes hath determined to do vnto vs, according to our owne wayes, & according to our workes, so hath he delt with vs.

Vpon the foure and twentieth daye of the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Shebat, in the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

I sawe by night, and beholde a man rig As men astonished with my iudgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance. Which concerneth parte of Ianuarie and parte of Februarie. This vision signifieth the restitution of the Church, but as yet it shulde not appeare to mans eyes, which is here ment by the night, by the bottomes & by y mirre trees, which are blacke and giue a darke shadow: yet he compareth God to a King, who hath his postes and messengers abroad, by whom he still worketh his purpose and bringeth his matters to passe. Who was the chief among the rest of the horse men.

Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in punishing the ought stil to be before your eyes: & though the Prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for euer. 2. Pet. 1. 19. Seeing ye saw the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why do not ye feare I threat- nings contained in the same and declared by my Pro- phets?

to go, and passe through the world, and he said, Go passe through the world, and

Then cryed he vpon me, and spake vnto

And Hamath also shal border <sup>d</sup> thereby: Tyrus also and Zidon, though they be <sup>e</sup> verie wise.
For Tyrus did buyld her self a strong holde, and heaped vp silver as the dust, & golde as the myre of the freates.
Beholde, the Lord wil spoile her, and he wil smite her <sup>f</sup> power in the sea, & she shal be deuoured with fyre.
Ashkelon shal feare, and seare, and Azzah also shalbe verie forowful, and Ekron: for her countenance shalbe ashamed, and the King shal perish from Azzah, and Ashkelon shal nor be inhabited.
And the stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I wil cut of the pride of y<sup>e</sup> Philistines.
And I wil take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from betwene his <sup>h</sup> teeth: but he that remaineth, euē he shalbe for our God, & he shalbe as a prince in Iudah, but Ekron shalbe as a Iebusite.

And I wil campe about <sup>k</sup> mine House against the armie, against him that palleth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressour shal come vpon them anie more: for now <sup>l</sup> I haue I sene with mine eyes.

And the Lord shalbe sene ouer them, & his arrowe shal goe forthe as y<sup>e</sup> lightning, and the Lord God shal blowe the trumpet, and shal come forthe with the whirlewindes of the South.
The Lord of hostes shal defend them, & they shal deuoure them, and subdue them with sling stones, and they shal drinke, & make a noyse as thorowe wine, and they shalbe filled like bowles, & as the hornes of the altar.
And the Lord their God shal deliuer them in that day as the flocke of his people: for they shalbe as the <sup>u</sup> stones of y<sup>e</sup> crown lifted vp vpon his land.

For I fed the shepe of slaughter, euen the

Then said I, I wil not fede you: that that

And I toke my staffe, euen Beautie, and

And it was broken in that day: and so the

CHAP. XIII.

Of the doctrine that shal procede out of the Church, &
of the reſtauration thereof.

Enoche, the day of the Lord cometh,
And thy spoyle shal be a diuided in
the middes of thee.

For I wil gather all natiōs against Ierusa
lem to batell, and the citie shalbe taken, &
the houses spoyled, and the women defil
ed, & half of the citie shal go into capti uities, & the residue of the people shal not be cut of from the citie.

Then shal the Lord go forthe, and fight against those nations, as when he fought
in the day of batell.

And his fete shal stand in that day vpon
the mount of oliues, which is before Ieru
salem on the East side, and the mount
of oliues shal cleaue in the middes there of: toward the East & toward the West
there shalbe a very great valley, & halfe
of the mountaine shal remoue toward the North, and halfe of the mountaine tow
arde the South.

And ye shal flee vnto the valley of the
mountaines: for the valley of the mountai
nes shal reache vnto Azah: yea, ye shal flee
like as ye fled from the earthquake in the dayes of Vzziah King of Iudah: and the Lord my God shal come & all the Sain
tes with thee.

And in that day shal there be no cleare
light, but darke.

And there shalbe a day (it is knowen to y Lord) nether day nor night, but about
the euening time it shalbe light.

And in that day shal there waters of life
go out from Ierusalém, halfe of the tow
arde the East sea, & halfe of them toward the vttermost sea, & shalbe, bothe in so
mer and winter.

And the Lord shalbe King ouer all the earth in that day shal there be one Lord,
and his Name shalbe one.

All the land shalbe turned as a plaine
fro Geba to Rimmōn, toward the South of Ierusalém, and it shalbe lifted vp, & in habited in her place: from Beniamins ga te vnto the place of the first gate, vnto

the corner gate, and from the towre of Ha
naniél, vnto the Kings wine presses.

And men shal dwell in it, and there shal
be no more destruction, but Ierusalém
shalbe safely inhabited.

And this shalbe the plague, wherewith
the Lord wil smite all people, that haue fought against Ierusalém: their flesh shal consume away, though thei stand vpon their fete, and their eyes shal consume in their holes, & their tōgue shal consume in their mouth.

But in that day a great tumult of the Lord shalbe among them, and euerie one shal take the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shal rise vp against the hand of his neighbour.

And Iudah shal fight also against Ieru
salem, and the arme of all the heathen
shalbe gathered round about, with gol
de and siluer, and great abundance of ap parel.

Yet this shalbe the plague of the hor se, of the mule, of the camel and of the asse
and of all the beasts that be in these tentes
as this plague.

But it shal come to passe that euerie one that is left of all the nations, which came against Ierusalém, shal go vp from yere
to yere to worship the King the Lord of hostes, and to kepe the feast of Taber nacles.

And who so wil not come vp of all the families of the earth vnto Ierusalém to worship the King the Lord of hostes, euen
vpon them shal come no raine.

And if the familie of Egypt go not vp,
and come not, it shal not raine vpon them.
This shalbe the plague wherewith y Lord
wil smite all the heathen, that come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

This shalbe the punishment of Egypt,
& the punishment of all the nations that come not vp to kepe the feast of Taber

In that day shal there be writen vpon the bridels of y horses, The holines vnto the

MALACHI.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Prophet was one of the three, which God raised up for the comfort of his Church after the captivity, and after him there was no more until Iohn Baptist was sent, which was either token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they shoulde with more fervent desires looke for the comming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former do, but chiefly he reproveth the Priests for their covetousnes, and for that they served God after their owne fantasie, and not according to the prescript of his worde. He also noteth certain peculiar sinnes, which were then among them, as marrying of idolatrous and manie wives, murmurings against God, impudencie, and such like. Notwithstanding for the comfort of the godlie he declareth that God wolde not forget his promes made vnto their fathers, but wolde send Christ his messenger, in whome the covenant shoulde be accomplished, whose comming shoulde be terrible to the wicked, and bring all consolation and ioye vnto the godlie.

CHAP. I.

A complaint against Israel chiefly the Priests.

Read the 13th.

HE is burde of the worde of y Lord to Israel by y ministerie of Malachi.

I haue loued you, saith the Lord: yet ye say,

Wherein hast thou loued vs? Was not Esau

Isaakobs brother, saith y Lord: yet I loued Isaakob,

And I hated Esau, and made his mountaines waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons.

Thogh Edom say, We are impouerished, but we wil returne and buyld the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hostes, they shal buyld, but I wil destroye it, and they shal call them, The border of wickednes, and the people, with whome the Lord is angrie for euer.

And your eyes shal se it, and ye shal say, The Lord wil be magnified vpon the border of Israel.

A sonne honoureth his father, and a seruant his master. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? & if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lord of hostes vnto you, & Priests, that despise my Name? and ye say, Wherein haue we despised thy Name?

Ye offer vncleane bread vpon mine altar, & you say, Wherein haue we polluted thee? In that ye say the table of the Lord is not so to be regarded.

And if ye offer the blinde for sacrifice, it is not euil: and if ye offer the lame and sicke, it is not euil: offer it now vnto thy prince, wil he be content wth thee, or accept thy person, saith the Lord of hostes?

And now, I pray you, pray before God, that he may haue mercie vpon vs: this hath bene by your meanes: wil he regard your person, saith the Lord of hostes?

Who is there euen among you, that wolde shut the doore, and kinde not fire vpon mine altar in vaine, I haue no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hostes, nether wil I accept an offering at your hand.

For from the rising of the sunne vnto the going downe of the same, my Name is great among the Gentiles, and in euerie place incense shalbe offered vnto my Name, and a pure offering: for my Name is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hostes.

But ye haue polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is polluted, and the frute thereof, euen his meat is not to be regarded.

Ye said also, Beholde, it is a weariness, and ye haue snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hostes, and ye offered that which was torne & the lame and the sicke: thus ye offered an offering: shulde I accept this of your hand, saith the Lord?

But cursed be the deceiuer, which hath in his flocke a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth vnto y Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, saith the Lord of hostes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

And this haue ye done as touching the altar of y Lord, weeping and with mourning ye haue offered, and with mourning ye haue offered, and with mourning ye haue offered acceptably at your hand. Yet ye say, Wherein? Beholde, the bene witness betweene y Lord and y wife of thy youth, again

Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this loue, which was so euident, in that he chose Abraham from out of all y worlde, and next chose Isaakob the younger brother of whome they came, and lest Esau the elder. For besides that the signes of mine hatred appeared euen when he was made seruant vnto his younger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterward in that he was put fro his birthright, yet euen now before your eyes the signes hereof are euident, in that y his country lieth waste, & he shal neuer returne to inhabit it, where at y people whom y enemy hated more then they are by my grace and loue towards you, declared, read Rom 9. 13.

Besides the rest of the people he condemneth y Priests chiefly because they shoulde haue repressed others for their hypocrisie, & obstinacie against God, & not haue hardened them by their example to greater euils. He noteth their grosse hypocrisie, w<sup>ch</sup> wolde not se their fautes, but most rudely couered them, & so were blinde guides. Ye receaue all manner offerings for your owne greedines, and do not examine whether they be according to my Law or no. Not that they said thus, but by their doing they declared no lesse. You make it no fault, whereby he condemneth this, y<sup>e</sup> think it sufficient to serue God partly, as he hath commanded, & partly after mans fantasie, & so come not to that purenes of religion, which he requireth, & therefore in reprobac he sheweth the y<sup>e</sup> a mortal man wolde not be content to be so serued.

CHAP. II.

Threatenings against the Priests being seducers of the people.

And now, O ye Priests, this commandement is for you.

Priests charge.

If ye wil not heare it, nor your heart to giue glorie to me, saith y Lord of hostes, a curse vpon you, and wil curse yea, I haue cursed the cause ye do not consider it in. Beholde, I wil corrupt y doctrine vpon your faces, & of your solemne feasts, and vnto it.

And ye shal knowe, that I commandement vnto you, nant, which I made with Leuithe the Lord of hostes.

My covenant was with hiepe, and I gaue him feare, and was afraid before me. The law of truth was in there was no iniquitie found, he walked with me in peace, and did turne manie a iniquitie.

For the Priests lippes knowledg, and they shulde at his mouth: for he is the the Lord of hostes.

But ye are gone out of the caused manie to fall by the broke the couenat of Leuithe, of hostes.

Therefore haue I also despised, and vile before all, cause ye kept not my wayes, nor partial in the Law.

Haue we not all one father, one God made vs? why doth euerie one against his brother the couenat of our father?

Iudah hath transgressed, nation is committed in Ierusalem: for Iudah hath defiled the Lord, which he loued, & he hath defiled the daughter of a strong man.

The Lord wil cut off the this: both the master and the tabernacle of Isaakob shall offereth an offering vnto hostes.

And this haue ye done as touching the altar of y Lord, weeping and with mourning ye haue offered, and with mourning ye haue offered acceptably at your hand. Yet ye say, Wherein? Beholde, the bene witness betweene y Lord and y wife of thy youth, again

The Prophet accuseth the Priests for that they were all become as the house of Isaac, & had elected them to be his holie people. Whereby y people are of another religion. They haue y<sup>e</sup> people to lament, because that God they haue to sacrifice in vaine. I haue therefore said, that they brake the

And ye ſhal knowe, that I haue ſent this

ſaith the Lord of hoſtes.

My ſeruit was with him of life and peace, and I gaue him feare, & he feared
me, and was aſtraide before my Name.

The law of truth was in his mouth, &
there was no iniquitie founde in his lip-

For the Prieſts lip-

But ye are gone out of the way: ye haue

Therefore haue I alſo made you to be deſpiſed, and vile before all the people, be-

Haue we not all one father? hath not

Iudáh hath tranſgreſſed, and an abomination is committed in Iſrael, and in Ieru-

of the Lord, which he loved, and hath ma-

The Lord wil cut off the man that doeth
this: bothe the maſter and the ſeruāt out of the tabernacle of Iſaakób, and him that offereth an offering vnto the Lord of hoſtes.

And this haue ye done againe, and co-

weeping and with mourning: becauſe the

APOCRYPHA.

THE ARGUMENT.

These booke that follow in order after the Prophetes vnto the Newe testament, are called Apocrypha, that is booke, which were not received by a comūne consent to be red and expounded publicly in the Church, nether yet serued to proue any point of Christian religion, save in as muche as they had the consent of the other Scriptures called Canonical to confirme the same, or rather whose they were grounded: but as booke proceeding from godlie men, were received to be red for the advancement and furtherance of the knowledge of the historie, & for the instruction of godlie maners: which booke declare that at all times God had an especial care of his Church and lest them not withoute of teachers and meanes to confirme them in the hope of the promised Messias, and also witnesseth that those calamities that God sent to his Church, were according to his providence, who had bothe so threatened by his Prophetes, and so brought it to passe for the destruction of their enemies, and for the tryal of his children.

1 Iosias appointeth Priests, and kepeth the Passeouer.
7 Offring for the Priests and the people. 11 The order of the Levites. 23 The upright life of Iosias. 25 His death and the occasion thereof, and the lamentation for him. 34 Iosias appointed King. 35 The destru-
tion of Ierusalem.

And Iosias kept the Passeouer to his Lord in Jerusalem, and offered the Passeouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth,

And appointed y Priests
in order according to their dailie courses,
being clothed with long garments in the Temple of the Lord.

And he spake to the Levites the holy ministers of Israel, that they shulde sanctifie
them selues to the Lord, to set the holy Arke of the Lord in the House, which Salomon the sonne of King Dauid had buylt,

And said, Ye shal no more beare the Ar-
ke vpon your shulders: now therefore ser-
ue the Lord your God, and take the charge of his people of Israel, and prepare according to your families and tribes,

After the writing of Dauid King of Israel, and according to the maiestie of Salomon his sonne, and stand in the Temple (according to the ordre of the dignitie of your fathers the Levites) which were appointed before your brethren the children of Israel.

Offer in ordre the Passeouer, and make readie the sacrifices for your brethré, and kepe the Passeouer after the Lords commandment giuen to Moyses.

And Iosias gaue to the people that was present, thirtie thousand lambes and kid-
des with thre thousand calves.

These were giuen of the Kings possessions according to the promes, to the people, and to the Priests, and to the Leui-

tes. Then gaue Helkias and Zacharias & Syelus the gouernours of the Temple, to the Priests for the Passeouer two thousand shepe, and thre hundred calves.

Furthermore, Iechonias, and Samarias,
and Nathanaiel his brother, and S'ebias,
and Chielus, and Ioram captaines gau-
to the Levites for the Passeouer five thousand shepe and seven hundred calves.

And when these things were doge, the Priests and the Levites stode in orde, hauing vnlcauned bread according to y
tribes,

And after the ordre of the dignitie of their fathers, before the people to offre to the Lord, as it is written in the booke of Moyses: and thus they did in the morning.

And they roasted the Passeouer with fyre
as appertained, & they sod their offerings
with perfumes in caldrons and pottes,

And set it before all them that were of the people, and afterward they prepared for them selues, and for the Priests their
brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

For the Priests offred the fatte vnto the euenig, and the Levites did make ready
for them selues, and for the Priests their
brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

And the holy fingers, the sonnes of Asaph, were in their orders, accordig to the appointed ordinances of Dauid, to wit, Asaph, and Azarias, and Eddimus, which were of the Kings appointment.

And the porters were at euerie gate, so that it was not lawfull, y anie shulde passe his ordinarie watche: for their brethré the Le-uites made readie for them.

And in that day those things which appertained to the sacrifice of the Lord, were accomplished, that they might offre the Passouer,

18 And offre sacrifices vpon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of King Iofias.

19 So the children of Israel, which were present at that time, kept the Passouer and the feast of vnleauened bread seuen daies.

20 And there was not suche a Passouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the Prophet.

21 And all the Kings of Israel did not offre suche a Passouer, as did Iofias, and the Priestes, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and all Israel, which were founde to remaine in Ierusalem.

22 In the eghthenth yere of the reigne of Iofias was this Passouer kept.

23 The workes of Iofias were vpriht before his Lord with a heart ful of godlines.

24 And concerning ſ things which came to passe in his time, they are written before, to wit, of those that sinned & did wickedly against the Lord aboue euerie nacion and kingdome, and grieved him with ſensible things, so that the wordes of the Lord stode vp against Israel.

2. Chro. 35. 20.

25 ¶ Now after all these actes of Iofias it came to passe that when Pharaos King of Egypt came to moue warre at Carchamis vpon Euphrates, Iofias went out against him.

26 But ſ King of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to do with thee, o King of Iudea?

27 I am not sent of the Lord God against thee: but my warre is vpon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with me, and the Lord hasteneth me forward: departe from me, and be not against the Lord.

28 But Iofias wolde not turne backe his chariot fro him, but prepared him self to fight with him, not regarding the wordes of Ieremias the Prophet by the mouth of the Lord.

29 But he set him self in battel aray against him in the field of Megeddo, & the princes came downe to King Iofias.

30 And the King said to his seruants, Conuaye me out of the battel, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants broght him out of the battel.

31 So he gate vp on his seconde chariot, and being come againe to Ierusalem he changed his life, and was buried in his fathers graue.

32 And in all Iudea was Iofias bewailed, yea, Ieremias the Prophet did lament for Iofias, and the gouernours and their wiues did lament him vnto this day: & this was ordeined in all the kinred of Israel to be done continually.

33 But these things are written in the boke

of the stories of the Kings of Iudea, and cuerie one of the actes ſ Iofias did, & his glorie, and his knowledge in the lawe of the Lord, and the things which he did before, and the things now reherſed are registred in the boke of the Kings of Israel and Iudea.

34 Then they of the nacion toke* Ioachaz the sonne of Iofias, and made him King in steade of his father Iofias, when he was thre and twentie yere olde.

35 And he reigned in Iudea and in Ierusalem thre moneths: for the King of Egypt depofed him from reigning in Ierusalem.

36 He taxed also the people of an hundredth talents of siluer, & one talent of gold.

37 And the King of Egypt made Ioachim his brother King of Iudea & Ierusalem.

38 And he bounde Ioachaz and his gouernours: but when he had taken Zaraces his brother, he led him away into Egypt.

39 Twentie and fve yere olde was Ioachim, when he reigned in Iudea and Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.

40 Wherefore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, who when he had boude him with a chaine of brasse, led him away into Babylon.

41 Then Nabuchodonosor toke of the holie vessels of the Lord, & caryed the away, and set them in his temple at Babylon.

42 But all his actes, and his prophanation, and his reproche are written in the Chronicles of the Kings.

43 And Ioachim his sonne reigned for him: and when he was made King, he was eighrene yere olde.

44 And he reigned thre moneths and ten dayes in Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.

45 ¶ So a yere after Nabuchodonosor sent and broght him to Babylon with the holie vessels of the Lord.

46 And he made Sedecias King of Iudea and Ierusalem when he was one and twentie yere olde, & he reigned elueen yeres.

47 And he did euil in ſ sight of the Lord, nether did he feare the wordes spoken* by Ieremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord.

48 For after that he was sworne to King Nabuchodonosor, he forswore him self by the Name of the Lord and fel away, and hardened his necke and his heart, and transgressed the Lawes of the Lord God of Israel.

49 Also the gouernours of the people, and the Priestes comitted many things against the lawes and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Ierusalem.

The Lord raiſed vp the ſpirit of Cyrus King of the Perſians, and he made procla-
macion through out all his kingdome, e-
uen by expreſſe lettres,

Saying, Thus ſaith Cyrus King of the Perſians, The Lord of Iſrael, euen the moſte high Lord, hath made me King o-

And he hath commanded me to buylde him an Houſe in Ieruſalem, which is in Iudea.

If there be anie therefore of you of his people, let the Lord, euē his Lord be with him, & let him go vp to Ieruſalem, which is in Iudea & buylde the Houſe of y Lord
of Iſrael: he is the Lord which dwelleth

Iudea, and of the tribe of Benjamin, and the Priests & Leuites, & all whoſe minde
the Lord had moued to go vp, and buylde
an Houſe to the Lord in Ieruſalem.

And thoſe that were about them, helped
them in all things with ſiluer and golde,
horſes, and cattel, and with diuers vowes
of many whoſe mindes were ſtirred vp.

Alſo King Cyrus broght out the holy veſſels of the Lord, which Nabuchodonoſor had caryed out of Ieruſalem, and had conſecrated them in the Temple of his idoles.

Now when Cyrus King of the Perſians

THE KING ARTAXERXES OVR
LORD,

Thy ſeruants, Rathumus the writer of things that come to paſſe, and Semellius
the ſecretarie, and the reſt of their coun-
ſel, & the iudges which are in Coeloſyria and Phenice.

Be it now therefore knowne to our lord
the King, that the Iewes which came vp
from you, are come to vs into Ieruſalem,
that rebellious and wicked citie, & buylde
the marked places, and make vp the walles thereof, and laye the fundacions of the Temple.

Therefore if this citie be buylt, and the walles be finiſhed, they wil not onely not indure to paye tribute, but wil alſo reſiſt

mete to passe ouer suche a thing,
 21 But to declare it to our lord the King, that if it be thy pleasure, it may be sought out in the booke of thy fathers,
 22 And thou shalt finde in the Chronicles the writings concerning these things, and shalt knowe that this citie did alwaies rebel, & did trouble bothe Kings and cities,
 23 And that the Iewes are rebellious, raising alwaies warres therein: for the which cause also this citie was made desolate.
 24 Now therefore, o lord the King, we declare it, that if this citie be buyld and the walles thereof repared, you shal haue no more passage into Coelosyria, nor Phenice.
 25 ¶ Then the King wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to passe, and to Beelthermus, and to Semellius the secretarie, and to the rest of those that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria and Phenice, these things that followe.
 26 I haue red the epistle, which ye sent to me: therefore I commanded, that it shulde be sought out, and it was founde, that this citie hath alwaies practised against Kings,
 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and warres, and how that mightie Kings and fierce haue reigned in Ierusalem, which toke tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice.
 28 Now therefore I haue commanded to forbid these men to buyld vp the citie, and that it be taken hede that no more be done,
 29 And that those wicked things, w<sup>ch</sup> shulde molest the King, go not forward.
 30 Then when Rathumus, & Semellius the secretarie and the rest, which were ioyned with them, had red the things, which King Artaxerxes had writen, they moued their tents with speede to Ierusalem with horses and men in araye, 31 And began to let them which buyld, so that the buylding of the Temple in Ierusalem ceased vnto the seconde yere of the reigne of Darius King of the Persians.

CHAP. III.

The feast of Darius. 16 The three wise sentences.

Now when Darius reigned, he made a great feast to all his subiects & to all those of his owne house, and to all the princes of Media and Persia,
 And to all the gouernours & captaines, and lieutenants that were with him, from India vnto Ethiopie of an hundred and seuen and twentie prouinces.
 And when they had eaten and drunke, & were satisfied, they departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and slept, til he wakened againe.

¶ In the meane time thre yong men of the garde, keepers of the Kings bodie, said one to another.
 Let euerie one of vs speake a sentence, & he that shal ouercome, and whose sentence shal appeare wiser then the others, Darius the King shal giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie.
 As to weare purple & to drinke in golde, and to slepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of golde, an head tyre of fine linc, and a chaine about his necke.
 And he shal sit next to Darius for his wisdom, and shalbe called Darius counsellor.
 Then euerie man wrote his sentence and sealed it, and put it vnder the pillowe of King Darius,
 And said, when the King rose, thei wolde giue him the writing, and whose sentence the King and the thre princes of Persia shulde iudge to be wisest, to him shulde the victorie be giuen, as it was appointed.
 One wrote, The wine is strongest.
 The other wrote, The King is strongest.
 The other wrote, women are strongest, but trueth ouercometh all things.
 ¶ And when the King rose, they toke the writings and gaue them to him, and he red them,
 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernours & the captaines, and lieutenants, and the consuls,
 And sate him downe in the counsel, and the writing was red before them.
 Then he said, Call the yong men, that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them, and they came in.
 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first began, which had spoken of the strength of wine,
 And said on this maner, O ye men, how strong is wine! it deceiueth all men that drinke it.
 It maketh the minde of the King and of the fatherles bothe one, of the bonde man and of the fre man, of the poore man and of the riche man.
 It turneth also euerie thought into ioye and gladnes, so that one remembreth no maner of sorow, nor det.
 It maketh euerie heart riche, so that one remembreth nether King nor gouernour, & causeth to speake all things by talents.
 When men haue drunke, they haue no minde to loue ether friends or brethren, and a litle after they drawe out swordes.
 But when they are from the wine, they do not remember what they haue done.
 O ye men, is not wine strongest, which couereth all things?

CHAP. IIII.

Of the strength of a King. 13 Of the strength of women. 24 Of the strength of trueth, which sentence is approued, 47 And his petition granted.

Then the seconde which had spokē of the strēth of the King, began to say,
O ye men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them!

But the King is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, & is lord of them, so that they do all things which he commadeth them.

If he bid the make warre one against another, they do it: if he send them out against the enemies, they go and breake downe mountaynes and walles and towres.

They kil & are killed, & do not passe the comandement of the King: if they ouercome, they bring all to the King, as wel the spoyles as all other things,

And those also which go not to warre & battel, but til the earth: for when they have sown it againe, thei reape it, & bring it to the King, and copell one another to paye tribute to the King.

Yet he is but one man: if he bid, Kil, they kill: if he say, Spare, they spare.

If he bid, Smite, they smite: if he bid the, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Buylde, they buyld.

If he bid, Cut of, they cut of: if he bid, Plante, they plante.

So all his people & all his armies obey one mā: in the meane while he sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh and slepeth.

For these kepe him rounde about: nether can any one go & do his owne busines, nether are they disobedient vnto him.

O ye men, how shulde not the King be strongest, seeing he is thus obeyed! So he helde his tongue.

Then the thirde which had spoken of women & of the trueth (this was Zorobabel) began to speake,

O ye men, nether the mightie King, nor many men nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them or hath dominion ouer the! are they not women!

Women haue borne the King & all the people which beare rule by sea & by land.

Euen of them were they borne, and they nourished them, which planted the vines, of which the wine is made.

They also make mens garments & make men honorable, nether can men be without women.

And if thei haue gathered together gold & siluer, or any goodlie thing, do they not loue a faire and beautiful woman!

Do they not leaue all those things & giue the selues wholly vnto her, & gape, and gaze vpon her, & all men desire her more then gold, or siluer, or any precious thing!

A man leaueth his owne father which haue nourished him, & his owne countrei, and is ioyned with his wife.

And for y woman he ieopardeth his life, and nether remembreth father nor mother nor countrey.

Therefore by this ye may knowe that y women beare rule ouer you: do ye not labour and trauail, and giue and bring all to the women?

Yea, a man taketh his sworde and goeth forth to kil & to steale, and to saile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers,

And he seeth a lion & goeth in darkenes, & when he hath stolen, rauished & spoiled, he bringeth it to his loue.

Wherefore a man loueth his owne wife more then father or mother.

Yea, many haue runne mad for women, and haue bene seruants for them.

Many also haue perished & haue erred and sinned for women.

Now therefore do you not beleue me: is not the King great in his power? do not all regions feare to touche him?

Yet I sawe him & Apame, the Kings concubine, the daughter of the famous Barchus, sitting on the right hand of the King.

And she toke the crowne of the Kings head, & put it vpon her owne, and strooke the King with her left hand.

Yet in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: & if she laughed at him, he laughed: & if she were angrie with him, he did flatter her: that he might be reconciled with her.

How then, O ye men, are not women more strong, seeing they do thus?

Then the King and the princes looked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.

O ye men, are not women stronger: great is the earth, & the heauen is hie, and the sonne is swift in his course: for he turneth rounde about heaue in one day, & runneth againe into his owne place.

Is not he great that maketh these things? therefore the trueth is greater and stronger then all.

All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesseth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, nether is there any vnjust thing with it.

The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, women are wicked, & all the children of men are wicked, and all their wicked workes are suche, and there is no trueth in the, and they perish in their iniquitie.

But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for euer, and liueth and reigneth for euer and euer.

I. Esdras.

39 With her there is no receiuing of persons nor difference: but the doeth y things which are iuste, & absteineeth from vniust & wicked things, and all men fauour her workes.

40 Nether is there any vniust thing in her iudgement, and she is the strength and the kingdome and the power, and maiestie of all ages. Blessed be the God of truerth.

41 So he ceased to speake, and then all the people cryed & said then, Truerth is great and strongest.

42 The King said vnto him, Aske what thou wilt besides y which is appointed, & we wil giue it thee, because thou art founte the wisest, and thou shalt haue libertie to sit by me, and shalt be called my cousin.

43 ¶ Then he said to the King, Remembre the vowe that thou hast vowed to buylde Ierusalem, in the day that thou tokest the kingdome,

44 And to send againe all the vessels y were taken out of Ierusalem, which Cyrus set a parte when he made a vowe to cut of Babylon, & vowed to send them thither.

45 Thou also hast vowed to buylde the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt whē Iudea was destroyed by the Chaldeans.

46 And now, O Lord the King, this is that which I desire & require of thee, & this is the magnificence, which I require of thee: I require therefore that thou woldest accomplish the vowe which thou hast vowed with thine owne mouth to do to the King of heauen.

47 Then King Darius rising vp, kissed him, & wrote him letters to all the stewar-des and lieutenants, and captaines, and gouernours, that they shulde bring on y waye to he him, & all that were with him, which went vp to buylde Ierusalem.

48 And he wrote letters to all the lieutenant-s in Coelosyria and Phenice, & to the that were in Libanus, that they shulde bring cedre wood from Libanus to Ierusalem, and buylde the citie with him.

49 And he wrote for all y Iewes, which wēt vp out of his kingdome vnto Iudea, concerning their libertie, that no price, nor lieutenant, nor gouernour, nor steward shulde enter into their dores,

50 And that all the region which they kept, shulde paye no tribute, and that the Idumeans shulde let go the villages of the Iewes which they helde,

51 And that euerie yere there shulde be giuen for the buylde of the Temple twentie talents vntill it were buylt,

52 And to mainteine y burnt offerings vpon the altar euerie day (as they had a commandement to offer seuentene) other ten talents euerie yere.

53 And that all they which went from Babylon to buylde y citie, shulde haue libertie, aswel they as their posteritie, and all the Priests that went away.

54 He wrote also touching the charges and the Priests garment, wherein they shulde minister.

55 And he wrote that they shulde giue the Leuites their charges vntill the House were finished, and Ierusalem buylt.

56 Also he wrote that they shulde giue pensions & wages to them that kept the citie.

57 And he sent away all the vessels which Cyrus had set aparte out of Babylon, and whatsoever Cyrus had commanded to do, he also commanded to do it, and to send to Ierusalem.

58 And when the yong man was gone forth, he lift vp his face to heauen towards Ierusalem, and gaue thanks to the King of heauen,

59 Saying, Of thee is the victorie, & of thee is wisdom, & of thee is glorie, and I am thy seruant.

60 Blessed be thou which hast giue me wisdom: for vnto thee I acknowledge it, O Lord of our fathers.

¶ So he toke y letters & went out & came to Babylon & telled all his brethren.

62 And thei blessed y God of their fathers, because he had giue thei fredome & libertie

63 To go vp & to buylde Ierusalem, & the Temple, where his Name is renoumed, & they reioyced with instruments of musike and ioye, seuen daies.

46 And the Priests and the Leuites and the people dwelt in Ierusalem and in the countrei, & the holie singers & the porters and all Israel in their villages.

47 ¶ But * when the seventh moneth was nere, and when the children of Israel were euerie one at home, they were all gathered together with one accorde into the open place of the first gate, which is towards the East.

48 Then Iesus the sonne of Iosedec and his brethren the Priests with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel & his brethren, rising vp, made ready y altar of the God of Israel,

49 To offe burnt offrings vpon it according as it is written in the boke of Moyse the man of God.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is * ordeined in the Law, & offred sacrifices euerie day, as was requisite,

52 And afterwarde, the continual oblations and offrings of the Sabbaths & of the new moneths & of all holy feasts.

56 And in the second yere and second moneth came into the Temple of God in Ierusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and their brethren, and the Priests & Leuites, and all they that came out of captiuitie into Ierusalem,

59 And the Priests stode clothed with their long garments with musical instruments & trumpets, and the Leuites the sonnes of Asaph with cymbales, 60 Singing & blessing y Lord, according to the ordinance of Dauid King of Israel.

61 And they sung with loud voice songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercie and glorie is for euer in all Israel.

62 Then all the people blew trumpets, and cryed with loud voice, praising y Lord for the raising vp of the House of the Lord.

Then Zorobabel sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec stode vp, and began to buylde the House of the Lord, w

being with them, & helping them.

In that time Sisinnes the gouernour of Syria, and Phenice, and Sathrabouzaues
with his companions came vnto them,

And said vnto them, By whose comandement buyld you this House & this buyl-

and who are the buylders that enterprife
suche things?

But the Ancients of the Iewes had grace

That they were not letted to buyld, vntil
it was signified vnto Darius of these mat-

Darius.

It may please the King our master plainely to vnderstand, that when we came to the countrey of Iudea, and entred into the citic of Ierusalem, we found in the citie
of Ierusalem the Ancients of the Iewes
that were of the captiuitie,

Buylding an House to the Lord, great &
newe, of hewen stones, and of great price,
and the timber all ready laid vpon the walles.

And these workes are done with great
spede, yea, and the worke hath good suc-
cesse in their hands, so that it wil be finished with all glorie & diligence.

Then we asked their Ancients, saying,
By whose commandement buyld you this House & lay y fundacion of these workes?

We asked them these things to the intēt
to notifie them to thee, and to write to thee the men that gouerned it: therefore we demāded the names of the gouernours
in writing.

But they answered, saying, We are the seruants of the Lord, which hath created
the heauen and the earth.

And this House was buyld vp manie yeres ago by a King of Israel great & strōg,
and was finished.

But when our fathers, prouoking God to wrath, sinned against the Lord of Israel,
which is in heauē, he deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon of the Chaldeans,

Who brake downe the House & burnt it,
& caryed the people captiue to Babylon.

But in the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus ouer the countrey of Babylon, King Cyrus wrote that this House shulde be buyld vp.

And y holie vessels of golde & of siluer,
which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of the House at Ierusalem, & had dedicated them in his owne Temple, Cyrus the King toke out of the Tēple at Babylon, &
they were giuen to Zorobabel, and to Sanabassar ruler.

And a cōmandement was giue vnto him,
y he shulde cary away those vessels, & put thē in y Tēple at Ierusalē, & that this Tēple of y Lord shulde be buyld in this place.

The same Sanabassar, being come hether, layed the fundacions of the House of the Lord at Ierusalem, and since that time til now, it is in buylding, & is not finished.

Now therefore if it please the King, let it be sought vp in the Kings libraries concerning Cyrus.

And if it be found that the buylding of y
House of the Lord at Ierusalem hath bene done by the cōsent of King Cyrus, & if it seme good to the lord our King, let him
make vs answer cōcerning these things.

Then King Darius commanded to fear-
che in the Kings libraries, that were in Babylon, and there was founde in Ecabatane,
which is a towre in the region of Media, a place where suche things were layed vp
for memorie.

34 *I Darius the King haue ordeined that it shulde be diligētly executed according to these things.

15 Because he had turned the counsel of the King of the Assyrians towards them to strengthen their hands in the works of the Lord God of Israel.

And

And after these things when Artaxerxes King of the Persians reigned, Esdras the sonne of Saraias, the sonne of Ezerias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Salum,

The sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob,
the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of Ezias, the
sonne of Memeroth, the sonne of Zariaias,
the sonne of Sauias, the sonne of Boccas,
the sonne of Abisum, the sonne of Phinees,
the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron was the hie Priest.

This Esdras went out of Babylon, & was a scribe wel taught in the Law of Moyfes,
giuen by the Lord God of Israel.

Also the King gaue him great honour, &
he founde grace in his sight in all his re-questes.

With him also there departed some of the children of Israel, and of the Priests and Leuites, and of the holy singers, and of the porters, and of the ministers of the Temple vnto Ierusalem,

In the seuenth yere of the reigne of Artaxerxes, & in the first moneth: this was the seuenth yere of the King (for thei went out of Babylō in the first day of the first moneth,

And came to Ierusalem according as the Lord gaue them speed in their iournay)

For Esdras had gotten great knowledge,
so that he wolde let nothing passe that was in the Law of the Lord, and in the cōmandements, and he taught all Israel all the ordinances and iudgements.

So the commissiōn written by King Artaxerxes was giuen Esdras the Priest and reader of the Law of the Lord: the copie thereof followeth.

King Artaxerxes to Esdras the Priest, &
reader of the Law of the Lord, Salutaciō.

Forasmuche as I consider things with pitie, I haue commanded that they that wil and desire of the naciō of the Iewes,
and of the Priests and Leuites, which are
in our kingdome, shulde go with thee vn-
to Israel.

Therefore as many as be willing, let them departe together, as it hath semed
good to me and my seuen friends the coun-
sellers,

That they may visite the things that are in Iudea and Ierusalem diligently, as it is conteinēd in the Law of the Lord,

And cary the gifts to the Lord of Israel in Ierusalem, which I and my friends
haue vowed: also all the golde and siluer,
which shal be founde in the countrey of Babylon apperteyning to the Lord in Ieru-salem,

With that which is giuen of the people
to the Temple of the Lord their God,
that it might be brought to Ierusalem, af-
wel siluer as golde, for bulles, and rams, &

lambs, and things thereunto pertaineing,
That they may offer sacrifices to the Lord vpon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Ierusalem.

And whatsoeuer thou and thy brethren
wil do with the golde or siluer, accomplishe
it according to the wil of thy God.

And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are giuen thee for the vse of the Temple
of thy God, which is in Ierusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Ierusalem.

And what other things soeuer thou shalt remember for the vse of the Temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of 5 Kings treasure.

And I also King Artaxerxes haue commanded the treasurers of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoeuer Esdras, the Priest & reader of the Law of the hieft God, shal
send for, they shulde giue it him with all speede, euē to the some of an hundred talents of siluer,

And likewise vnto an hundred cores of corne, and an hundred pieces of wine and other things in abundance.

Let all things be done to the hieft God
according to the Law of God with diligence, that wrath come not vpon the king-
dome of the King and of his sonnes.

Also to you it is commanded, that of none of 5 Priests or Leuites, or holy singers,
or porters or ministers of the Temple, or
of the workemen of this Temple, no tribute nor taxe be taken, nor that any haue
power to taxe them in any thing.

Thou also, Esdras, according to the wis-dome of God, ordeine iudges and gouer-nours, that they may iudge in all Syria & Phenice all those which are wel instructed in the Law of thy God, and teache those,
which are not instructed.

And let all those which shal transgresse
the Law of God & the King, be diligently punished, ether with death, or other punishment, ether with penaltie of money,
or banishment.

¶ The Esdras the scribe said, Blessed be the onelie Lord God of my fathers, which hath put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his House which is in Ierusalem,

And hath honoured me before 5 King,
and the counsellers, and all his friends and gouernours.

¶ Therefore I was encouraged by the helpe of the Lord my God, and gathered
men of Israel to go vp with me.

These are the guides after their families
and order of dignities, which came vp with me out of Babylon in the reigne of Artaxerxes the King.

32 Of the sonnes of Salomō, Abeliacnias the sonne of Zacharias, and with him two hundredth men.

33 Of the sonnes of Zachoe, Sechenias the sonne of Iezolus, & with him thre hundredth men: of the sonnes of Adin, Obeih sonne of Ionathas, and with him two hundredth and fiftie men.

34 Of the sonnes of Elam Iefias, sonne of Gortholias, and with him seuentie m.n.

35 Of the sonnes of Saphatias, Zarias sonne of Machael, and with him seuentie men.

36 Of the sonnes of Ioab Badias sonne of Iezelus, and with him two hundredth and twelue men.

37 Of the sonnes of Banid, Assalimoth sonne of Iosaphias, and with him an hundredth and threfcore men.

38 Of the sonnes of Babi, Zacharias sonne of Bebai, and w him twentie & eight mē.

39 Of the sonnes of Aftath, Iohannes sonne of Acatan, & with him an hundredth & tē.

40 Of the sonnes of Adonicam the last: & these are the names of them, Eliphalt, Ieouel and Maia, and with them seuentie men: of the sonnes of Bagouthi sonne of Icacourus, & with him seuentie men.

41 ¶ And I gathered them together to the flood called Theras, & pitched our tents there three daies, and nombred them.

42 But when I had founde there none of the Priests nor Leuites,

43 I sent to Eleazar, and beholde, there came Maafman, and Alnathan, & Samaian, and Toribon, & Nathan, Ennatan, Zacharian, & Mosolloman the chief, & best learned.

44 And I bad them to go to Daddeus the captaine, which was in the place of the treasure,

45 With charge to bidde Daddeus and his brethren, & the treasurers that were there, to send to vs them, which shulde offer sacrifice in the House of our Lord.

46 And they broght vnto vs by the mightie hand of our Lord learned men of the sonnes of Molis, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel, to wit, Cisebebran & his sonnes, and his brethren being eightene.

47 And Asebia, and Annon, & Osaian his brethren of the sonnes of Canaineus with their sonnes, twentie persones.

48 And of the ministers of the Temple, w Dauid gaue, & those which were rulers ouer the worke of the Leuites, to wit, ministers of the Temple, two hundredth & twētie, of whome all the names were registred.

49 ¶ And there I proclaimed a fast for the yong men before the Lord to aske of him a good iourney bothe for vs, and for them that were with vs, for our childrē, & for our cattel.

50 For I was ashamed to aske the King for men, or horsemen, or conduct for safeguarde against our enemies,

51 Because we had said to the King, that the power of our Lord shulde be with the that fought him to direct them in all things,

52 Wherefore we praied our Lord againe, according to these things, whome we trusted fauorable.

53 Then I chose from among the chief of 7 tribes & of the Priests, twelue men, to wit, Eskubias and Assanias, and with them ten of their brethren.

54 And I weighed them the siluer and the golde, & the holy vessels of the House of our Lord, which the King and his counsellors, & his princes, & all Israel had giue.

55 And I weighed the, six hundredth & fifty talents of siluer, & siluer vessels of an hundredth talēts, & an hundredth talēts of golde,

56 And twentie golden basins, & twelue vessels of brasse, of fine brasse shining like golde.

57 And I said to them, You are also holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the golde, and the siluer is a vowe to the Lord, of our fathers.

58 Watch and kepe them, til that you giue the to the heads of the families of the Priests, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Israel in Ierusalem in the chambers of the House of our God.

59 So the Priests & Leuites toke the siluer and the golde, & the vessels, & caryed the to Ierusalem to the Temple of the Lord.

60 And we departed fro the flood Theras, in the twelue day of the first moneth, & came to Ierusalem, according to 7 mightie power of our Lord with vs: and the Lord deliuered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So we came to Ierusalem.

61 And thre daies being past there, in the fourth day the siluer that was weighed, & the golde was deliuered in the House of our Lord to Marmoth the Priest the sonne of Iouri,

62 And with him to Eleazar 7 sonne of Phinees: & there were with them, Iosibad the sonne of Iesus, & Moeth sonne of Sabbanus, Leuites: all was deliuered them by number and weight.

63 And all the weight of them was written that same houre.

64 Afterwards those that were come out of the captiuitie, offered sacrifices to the Lord God of Israel, euen twelue bulles for all Israel, rams foure score and sixtē,

65 Lābs thre score & twelue, twelue goats for saluacion, all in sacrifice to the Lord.

66 And they presented the commandments of the King to the Kings stewards, & to 7

67 ¶ When these things were done, the gouernours came to me, saying, The people of Israel, the princes and the Priests, &
the Leuites haue not separated from them
the strange people of the land,

68 Nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Cananites, and Cherites, and Pheresites, and Iebusites, and Moabites,
and Egyptians, and Idumeans.

69 For they haue dwelt with their daugh-

haue bene partakers of this wickednes fro

I fate verie sad til the euening sacrifice.

bowed my knees and stretched for the mine
hands to the Lord,

73 An I said, ¶ O Lord, I am ashamed, & cō-

74 For our finnes are increasid aboute our heades, & our ignorances are lifted vp to
heauen.

75 Yea, euen from the time of our fathers
we are in great sinne vnto this day.

76 For our finnes therefore, and our fathers
we with our bretheren, with our Kings and Priests haue bene giuen vp to the Kings
of the earth, to the sworde and to capti-
uities, and for a pray with all shame vnto
this day.

77 And now how great hathethy mercie
bent, O Lord, that there shulde be left vs a roote, and name in the place of thine ho-lines!

78 And that thou shuldest reueale to vs a light in the House of the Lord our God,
and giue vs meat in the time of our seruitudel.

79 For when we were in bondage, we were not left of our God, but he gaue vs fauour
before the Kings of the Persians, that they
shulde giue vs meat,

80 And that they shulde honour the Temple of our Lord, and raise vp Sion that is desolate, and giue vs assurance in Iudea &
in Ierusalem.

81 An I saw, O Lord, what shal we say, bu-ing in. Ife things: for we haue transgressed thy commandments, which thou hast

giuen by the hands of thy seruants the Pro-
phetes, saying,

82 ¶ Because the land, which ye go to inhe- Deut. 20.
rite, is a land polluted by the pollutions
of the strangers of the land, which haue
filled it with their filthines,

83 Therefore now ye shal not ioine their daughters with your sonnes, nether giue
your daughters to their sonnes,

84 Nether shal you desire to haue peace
with them for euer, that ye may be made strong, and eat the good things of the lād,
and leaue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.

85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great finnes: yet, Lord, thou hast forborne
our finnes,

86 And hast giuen vs suche a roote: but we again haue turned backe to transgresse thy Law, & to mixe vs with the vncleennes of the people of the land.

87 Mightest thou not be angrie with vs to destroie vs, so that thou shuldest nether
leau vs roote nor sede nor name?

88 But, O Lord of Israel, thou art true:
for there is a roote left, giuen vnto this day.

89 Beholde, we are now before thee with our iniquities, nether can we indure before thee for these things.

90 ¶ And as Esdras prayed and confessed Ezra. 10. 1.
and wept, and laye vpon the ground before the Temple, a verie great multitude was gatlered vnto him out of Ierusalem
of men and women, and yong children: for there was great lamentation among the multitude.

91 Then Iechonias y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Iehoiachin Ezra. 10. 2.
sones of Israel, crying out said, O Esdras,
we haue sinned against the Lord: for we haue taken in marriage strange women of the nations of the land.

92 And now all Israel is douteful: therefore let vs make an othe concerning this to the Lord to put away all our wives, which are strangers, with their children.

93 If it seme good to thee, and to all them that obey the Law of the Lord, rise vp and put it in execution.

94 For to thee doeth it apperteyne, & we are
with thee to make thee strong.

95 Then Esdras arose, & made all the chief of the families of the Priests and Leuites
of all Israel to sweare, that they wolde do
thus: and they sware.

3 And there was a proclamation in all Iudea and Ieruſalem to all them, that were of the captiuitie, that they ſhulde be gathered to Ieruſalem,

4 And that all they which ſhulde not mete there within two or three dayes, according to the ordinance of the Elders, which bare rule, ſhulde haue their cattel confiſcate to the Temple, and he caſt out from among them of the captiuitie.

5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Iuda and Benjamin, came together within three dayes into Ieruſalem: this was the ninth moneth and twentieth day of the moneth.

6 And all the multitude ſate in the broad place of the Temple ſhaking, becauſe of the extreme winter.

7 Then Eſdras aroſe and ſaid to them, Ye haue ſinned: for ye haue married ſtrange wiues, ſo that ye haue augmented the ſinnes of Iſrael.

8 Now therefore confeſſe and gloriſie the Lord God of our fathers,

9 And do his wil, and ſeparate your ſelues from the people of the land, and from the ſtrange wiues.

10 Then all the multitude cryed out and ſaid with a loude voyce, We wil do ſo as thou haſt ſaid.

11 But becauſe the multitude is great, and the time is winter, ſo that we can not ſtand without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, ſeing that manie of vs haue ſinned in this matter,

14 Then Ionathas Aſaels ſonne, and Ezecias ſonne of Thecan were appointed concerning theſe things, and Moſollam and Sabateus did helpe them.

15 And they which were of the captiuitie, did after all theſe things.

16 Eſdras the Priest alſo choſe him certaine men, chief of their families, all by name: & they ſate together in the firſt day of the tenth moneth to examine this matter.

17 And they made end of the things pertaining to them that had married ſtrange wiues in the firſt day of y firſt moneth.

18 And there were founde of the Priests, which had married ſtrange wiues,

33 And of the ſonnes of Aſom, Altaneus, & Matthias, and Bannaia, Eliphalar, & Manafſas, and Semei.

34 And of the ſonnes of Maani, Ieremias, Momdis, Omairus, Inel, Mamai, and Paelias, and Amos, Carabaſion and Euſtibus, and Mannimatanaia, Eliſaſis, Vamus, Eliſi, Samis, Selemias, Nathania, & of the ſonnes of Ozoras, Seliſ, Eſril, Azailus, Samaras, Sambis, Ioliſphus.

35 And of the ſonnes of Ethna, Mazitias, Zabadias, Ethes, Inel, Banaia.

36 All theſe married ſtrange wiues, and put them away with their children.

37 And the Priests & the Leuites dwelt in Ieruſalem, & in the countrey, the firſt day of the ſeuenth moneth, and the childre of Iſrael in their owne houſes.

Medes, in the reigne of Artaxerxes King of Persia.

4 * And the worde of the Lord came vnto
me, saying,

5 Go, and shewe my people their sinnes, & their children their wickednes, which they haue comitted against me, that they may

6 For the sinnes of their fathers are increa-

me, and haue offred vnto strange gods.

7 Haue not I brought them out of the land of Egypt from the house of bondage? but they haue prouoked me vnto wrath, and despised my counsels.

8 Pull thou of then the heere of thine head,
and cast all euil vpon them: for they haue

 31 I Esdras receiued a charge of the Lord

upon the mount Horeb, that I shoulde go vnto them of israel, but when I came to them, thei cast me of, and despised the co-
 mandment of the Lord.
 34 And therefore I say vnto you, o ye heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Wait for your shepherd, who shal giue you euerla-
 sting rest: for he is nere at hand, that shal
 come in the end of the worlde.
 35 Be ready to the rewarde of the kingdo-
 me: for the euerlasting light shal shine vpō
 you for euermore.
 36 Fie the shadowe of this worlde: receiue
 y ioye of your glorie: I testifie my Sauour openly.
 37 Receiue the gift that is giuen you, and
 be glad, giuing thanks vnto him, that ha-
 the called you to the heauenlie kingdome.
 38 Arise, and stand vp, and beholde the nōber of those that are sealed for the feast of
 the Lord,
 39 Which are departed from the shadowe
 of the worlde, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.
 40 Take thy number, o Sion, and shut vp
 them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Law of the Lord.
 41 The nōber of thy children whome thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseeche y power of the Lord, that thy people which haue bene
 called frō the begining, may be sanctified.
 42 *I Esdras sawe vpō mount Sion a great Regul. 7. 9.
 people whome I colde not number, and they all praised the Lord with songs.
 43 And in the middes of them there was a yong man hie in stature th n them all, &
 vpō euerie one of their heads he set crow-nes, and was hier then the others, which I muche maruelled at.
 44 So I asked the Angel, and said, Who are
 these, my lord?
 45 Who answered, and said vnto me, These
 be they, that haue put of the mortal clothing, and haue put on the immortal, and haue cōfessed the Name of God: now are
 they crowned, and receiue the palmes.
 46 Then said I vnto y Angel, What yong man is it, that setteth crownes on them, &
 giueth them the palmes in their hands.
 47 An he answered, & said vnto me, It is the sonne of God, whome they haue confessed in the worlde. Then began I greatly to commende them, that had stād so strongly for the Name of the Lord.
 48 Then the Angel said vnto me, Go thy way, and tel my pe ple, what, and how great wonders of the Lord God thou hast fene.

CHAP. III.

4 The wonderous workes, which God did for the people,
 are recited. 31 Esdras marueleth that God suffreth
 the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people, which yet are sinners also.

II. Esdras.

- IN the thirtieth yere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, and my thoughts came vp to mine heart,
- Because I sawe the desolacion of Sion, & the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.
- So my spirit was sore moued, so that I beganne to speake fearful wordes to the most High, and said,
- O Lord, Lord, thou spakest at the beginning when thou alone plantedst the earth, and gauest cōmmandement vnto the people,
- Gen. 2.7.* *And a bodie vnto Adam, without foule, who was also the workmanship of thine hands, and hast breathed in him the breath of life, so that he liued before thee,
- And leddest him into Paradise, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth brought forth.
- for, went forward.* Euen then thou gauest him commandement to loue thy way: but he transgressed it, and immediatly thou appointedst death to him and his generacion, of whome came nacions, tribes, people and kinreds out of number.
- Gen. 6.12.* *And euerie people walked after their owne wil, and did wonderful things before thee, and despised thy commandements.
- Gen. 7.10.* *But at thy time appointed thou broughtest the flood vpon those y dwelt in the worlde and destroyedst them,
- So that by the flood, that came to euerie one of them, which came by death vnto Adam,
- 1. Pet. 3.20.* Yet thou lesteft one, euen *Noe, with his housholde, of whome came all righteous men.
- And when they that dwelt vpon y earth, began to multiplie, and the number of the children, people and many nacions were increased, they began to be more vngodlie then the first.
- Gen. 12.1.* Now when they liued wickedly before thee, *thou didest chose thee a man from among them, whose name was *Abraham.
- Gen. 17.1.* Whome thou louedst, and vnto whome onely thou shewedst thy wil,
- And madeest an euerlasting couenāt with him, promising him that thou woldest neuer forsake his sede.
- Gen. 27.2.* *And vnto him thou gauest Isahac, *vnto Isahac also thou gauest Iacob and Esau,
- Gen. 25.25.* *and didest chose Iacob, and cast of Esau, and so Iacob became a great multitude.
- Malac. 1.1.* And whē thou leddest his sede out of Egypt, *y broughtest the vp to mount Sina,
- Exod. 19.1.* And enclinedst the heauens and bowedst downe the earth, and didest moue the ground, and cause the depths to shake, and didest astonish the worlde.
- Gen. 4.10.* And thy glorie went thorowe foure gates of fyre, with earthquakes, winde and colde, that thou mightest giue the Law vnto the sede of Iacob, and that which the generacion of Israel shulde diligently obserue.
- Yet tokest thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Law might bring forth the frute in them.
- For *Adam first hauing a wicked heart, Gen. 3.1. was ouercome and vauquished, & all they that are borne of him.
- Thus remained weakens joyned with the lawe in the hearts of the people, with the wickednes of the roote: so that the good departed away, & the euil abode still.
- So the times passed away, and the yeres were brought to an end, *til thou didest raise thee vp a seruant called Dauid,
- *Whome thou commandedst to buyld a citie vnto thy Name, to call vpon thee therein with incense and sacrifice.
- Whē this was done many yeres, the inhabitants forsoke thee,
- Following the waies of Adam and all his generacion: for they also had a wicked heart.
- Therefore thou gauest thy citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.
- But do they that dwell at Babylon, any better, that they shulde haue the dominio of Sion?
- For when I came thether, and sawe their wicked dedes without number (for this is the thirtieth yere that I se many trespassing) I was discouraged.
- For I sawe, how thou sufferedst them that sinne, and sparedst the wicked doers, where as thou hast destroyed thine owne people, and preserued thine enemies, and thou hast not shewed it.
- I can not perceiue how this cometh to passe. Are the dedes of Babylon better then they of Sion?
- Or is there any other people y knoweth thee besides Israel? or what generacion hathe so beleued thy Testimonies, as Iacob?
- And yet their rewarde appeareth not, and their labour hathe no frute: for I haue gone here & there thorow out the heathes, and I se them flourish, and thinke not vpon thy commandements.
- Weigh y therefore our wickednes now in the balance, and theirs also that dwell in the worlde, and no mention of thee shal be founde but in Israel.
- Or when is it that they that dwell on the earth, haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hathe so kept thy commandements?
- Thou shalt surely finde that Israel by name hathe kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIIII.

The Angel reprooueth Eſtrus because he ſeemed to entretaine profane iudgements of God.

1 And the Angel that was ſent vnto
me, whose name was Vriel, answered,

2 And ſaid, Thine heart hath taken to much vpon it in this worlde, and thou thinkeſt to comprehend the waies of the Hieſt.

3 The ſaid I, Yea, my lord. And he answered me, and ſaid, I am ſent to ſhewe thee
three waies, and to ſet forth the three ſimilitu-
des before thee,

4 Whereof if thou canſt declare me one,
I will ſhewe thee alſo the way, that thou deſireſt to ſee, and I will ſhewe thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.

5 And I ſaid, Tell on, my lord. Then ſaid he vnto me, Go thy way: weigh me the weight of the fyre, or meaſure me y<sup>e</sup> blaſt
of the winde, or call me againe the daye
that is paſt.

6 Then answered I, and ſaid, What man is borne, that can do that, which thou requi-
reſt me, concerning theſe things?

7 And he ſaid vnto me, If I ſhulde aſke thee how depe dwellings are in the mid-des of the ſea, or how great ſprings are in the beginning of the depth, or how great ſprings are in the ſtretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Pa-
radife,

8 Peradventure thou woldeſt ſay vnto me,
I neuer went downe to the depe, nor yet
to the hell, neither did I euer clime vp to
heauen.

9 But now haue I aſked thee but of fyre &
winde, and of the day, whereby thou haſt
paſſed, and from the which things thou canſt not be ſeparated, and yet canſt thou
giue me none answer of them.

10 He ſaid moreouer vnto me, Thine owne things, and ſuche as are growen vp with thee, canſt thou not knowe:

11 How ſhulde thy veſſel then be able to comprehend the wayes of the Hieſt, and now outwardly in the corrupt worlde, to vnderſtand the corruption, that is euident
in my ſight?

12 Then ſaid I vnto him, It were better
that we were not at all, the that we ſhulde liue in wicke<sup>n</sup>es, and to ſuſter, and not to knowe wherefore.

13 And he answered me, & ſaid, I came to a foreſt in the plaine where the trees helde
a counſel,

14 And ſaid, Come, let vs go fight againſt
the ſea; that it may giue place to vs, and that we may make vs more woods.

15 Likewise the floods of the ſea roke cou-
ſel and ſaid, Come, let vs go vp and fight
againſt the trees of the wood, that we may get another countrey for vs.

16 But the purpoſe of the wood was vaine:
for the fyre came and conſumed it.

17 Likewise alſo the purpoſe of the floods
of the ſea: for the ſand ſtode vp and ſtop-
ped them.

18 If thou were iudge betweene theſe two,
whome woldeſt thou iuſtifie, or whome
woldeſt thou condemne?

19 I answered and ſaid, Verely it is a foo-
liſh purpoſe, that thei bothe haue deuifed:
for the grounde is appointed for y<sup>e</sup> wood,
and the ſea hath his place to beare his floods.

20 Then answered he me, and ſaid, Thou
haſt giuen a right iudgement: but why iud-
geſt thou not thy ſelf alſo?

21 For like as the grounde is appointed for the wood, and the ſea for his floods, ſo
they that dwell vpon earth, can vnder-
ſtand nothing, but that which is vpon earth:
& they that are in the heauens, the things that are about the height of the heauens.

22 Then answered I, & ſaid, I beſeeche thee,
O Lord, let vnderſtanding be giuen me.

23 For I did not purpoſe to inquire of thine
hie things, but of ſuche as we dailey miedle with all, namely wherefore Iſrael is made a reproche to the heathen, and for what
cauſe the people, whome thou haſt loued,
is giuen ouer to wicked nations, and why
the Law of our fathers is aboliſhed, and the writen ceremonies are come to none
effect,

24 Why we are toſſed to and fro through the worlde as the greſhoppers, and our life
is a very feare; and we are not thought wor-
thie to obtaine mercie.

25 But what will he do to his Name, which is called vpon ouer vs? Of theſe things
haue I aſked the queſtion.

26 Then answered he me, and ſaid, The more thou ſearcheſt, the more thou ſhalt
maruel: for the worlde haſteth faſt to paſſe
away,

27 And can not cōprehend the things, that are promiſed to the righteous in time to come: for this worlde is ful of vnrighte-
ouſnes and weakenes.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou aſkeſt, the euil is ſowen, but the de-ſtruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If the euil now that is ſowen, be not turned vp ſide downe, and if the place where the euil is ſowen, paſſe not away, then can not the thing come, that is ſowen w<sup>o</sup> good.

30 For the corne of euil ſede hath bene
ſowen in the heart of Adam from the beginning, & how muche vngodlines hath
he brought vp vnto this time? & how much ſhal he bring forth vntill the harueſt come?

31 Pondre with thy ſelf, how muche frute
ſhal it be.

- of wickednes the corne of euil seide bring-
eth forth,
- 32 And when the stalkes shalbe cut downe,
which are without number, how great an haruest must be prepared.
- 33 Then I answered, and said, How, & when
shal these things come to passe? wherefore
are our yeres fewe and euil?
- 34 And he answered me, saying, Hastenot
to be aboute y<sup>e</sup> moste High: for thou labor-est in vaine to be aboute him, thogh thou indeuer neuer so mache.
- 35 Did not the soules also of the righteous
aske question of these things in their chā-bers, saying, How long shal I thus hope? & when cometh the frute of my barne and
our wages?
- 36 And vpon this Ieremiel the Archangel answered, and said, When the number of y<sup>e</sup> sedes is filled in you: for he hathe weighed the worlde in the balance.
- 37 The measure of the times is measured:
the ages are counted by number, and they
shal not be moued or shaken, til the measure thereof be fulfilled.
- 38 Then answered I, & said, O lord, lord,
we are all euen full of sinne,
- 39 And for our sake paraduenture the haruest of y<sup>e</sup> righteous is not fulfilled, because of the sinne of them that dwell vpon earth.
- 40 So he answered me, and said, Go, & alke
a woman with childe, when she hathe fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may kepe the birth anie longer within her.
- 41 Then said I, No, lord, she cannot. And he said vnto me, In the graue the places of soules are like the wombe.
- 42 For as she that is with childe, hasteth
to escape the necessitie of the trauail, so do these places hast to deliuer those things that are committed vnto them.
- 43 That which thou desirest to se, shalbe
shewed thee from the beginning.
- 44 Then answered I, and said, If I haue
founde grace in thy sight, and if it be possible, and if I be mete therefore,
- 45 Shewe me whether there be more to come then is past, or more things past, then
are to come.
- 46 What is past, I knowe, but what is to come, I knowe not.
- 47 And he said vnto me, Stand on the right side, and I wil expounde thee this by example.
- 48 So I stode, and beholde, a whote burning ouen passed before me: and when the flame was gone by, I looked, & beholde,
the smoke had the vpper hand.
- 49 After this there passed before me a wa-
terie cloude, and sent downe muche raine
with a storme: and when the stormie raine
was past, the droppes came after.
- 50 Then said he vnto me, Consider with thy self, as the raine is more the droppes,

and as fyre exceedeth the smoke, so the
porcion that is past, hathe the vpper hand,
& the droppes and the smoke were muche.

51 Then I praied, & said, Maie I liue, thinkest thou vntil that time: or what shal come to passe in those daies?

52 He answered me, and said, Of the tokens whereof thou askest me, I can tell thee a parte: but I am not sent to shewe thee of thy life: for I do not knowe it.

CHAP. V.

*In the latter times truth shalbe hid. 6 Vnrighteousnes

wilde beasts shal change their places, and 20 And I fasted seuen daies, mourning and weeping, as Vriel the Angel had comman-

21 And after seuen daies the thoughts of mine heart were very grievous vnto me againe.

22 And I had a desire to reason againe, and I beganne to talke with the moste High
againe,

23 And said, O Lord, Lord: of euerie forest
of the earth, and of all the trees thereof
thou hast chosen thee one onely vine-yarde.

24 And of all lands of the worlde thou hast chosen thee one pit, & of all the flours
of the grounde thou hast chosen thee one lilie.

25 And of all y depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one riuer, and of all buylded cities thou hast sanctified Sion vnto thy self.

26 And of all the foules that are created,
thou hast named thee one doue, and of all
the cattel that are made, thou hast appointed thee one shepe.

27 And among all the multitude of people
thou hast gotten thee one people, and vn-
to this people whome thou louedst, thou gauest a Law, that is proued of all.

28 And now, o Lord, why hast thou giuen
this one people ouer vnto many? and vpon
one roote thou hast set others, & hast sca-tred thine onelic people among many.

29 They treade them downe, which haue withstand thy promyses, and beleue not thy testimonies.

30 And if thou didest somuche hate thy people, they shulde haue bene punished with thine owne hands.

31 Now when I had spoken these wordes,
y Angel that came to me the night afore,
was sent vnto me,

32 And said vnto me, Heare me, and I wil
teache thee, & hearkē that I may instruct thee further.

33 And I said, Speake on, my lord. Then said he vnto me, Thou art sore vexed and troubled for Israels sake. Louest thou the better, then he doeth that made them?

34 And I said, No, lord: but of very sorow
haue I spokē: for my raines paine me eue-rie houre, while I labour to comprehend
the way of the moste High, & to seeke out parte of his iudgement.

35 And he said vnto me, Thou canst not.
And I said, Wherefore, lord, wherefore
was I borne? or why was not my mothers
wombe then my graue? so had I not sene
the trouble of Iacob, and the grief of the stocke of Israel.

36 And he said vnto me, Number vnto me
the things that are not yet come, or gā-ther me the droppes, that are scatred, or make me the withered floures grene a-
gaine.

37 Open me the places that are closed, and bring me forthe the windes, that are shut
vp therein: shewe me the image of a voy-
ce, and then wil I declare thee the thing,
that thou askest and laborest to knowe.

38 And I said, O Lord, Lord, who cā knowe
these things, but he that hathe not his dwelling with men?

39 But I that am ignorant, how can I speake of these things, whereof thou askest
me?

40 Then said he vnto me, Like as thou canst
do none of these things, that I haue spoken of, so canst thou not finde out my iud-gement, nor the least benefite, that I haue promised vnto my people.

41 Then I said, Beholde, o Lord, the last things are present vnto thee, and what shal they do that haue bene before me, or we that be now, or they that shal come after vs?

42 And he said vnto me, I wil compare my iudgemēt vnto a ring: as there is no slack-nes of the last, so is there no swiftnes of the first.

43 Then I answered, and said, Coldest thou not make at once those y haue bene, those that are now, & those that shal come, that thou mightest shewe thy iudgement the soner?

44 The answered he me, The creature, said
he, can not preuent the Creator, nether can the worlde holde them at once, that shalbe created therein.

45 And I said, As thou hast taught thy seruant, that thou, which giuest strength to all,
hast giuen life at once to all the worke
created by thee, and hast susteyned it, so might it now also containe all men at once.

46 And he said vnto me, Aske the wombe
of a woman, and say vnto her, Why must thou haue time before thou bringest
forth: require her to bring forthe ten at once.

II. Esdras.

47 And I said, Surely she can not, but by distance of time.

48 Then said he vnto me, So haue I deuided
the number of the earth by times when sede is sown vpon it.

49 For as a yong child begetteth not that that belongeth to the aged, so haue I ordeined the time which I haue created.

So I asked againe, and said, Seeing thou hast now shewed me y way, I wil procede
to speake before thee: for our mother, who-
me thou hast tolde me is yong, draweth
she nere vnto age?

31 He answered me, and said, Aske a woman
that traueileth, and she wil tell thee.

32 Say vnto her, Wherefore are not they (whome thou hast now broght forth) like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature?

53 And she shal answer thee, Some were borne in y<sup>e</sup> floure of youth, others were borne
in the time of age, when the wombe failed.

54 Consider now thy self, how that ye are lesse of stature, then those that were before you,

55 And so are they that come after you, les-se then ye, as the creatures which now beginne to be olde, and haue passed ouer the strength of youth.

56 Then said I, Lord, I beseeche thee, if I
haue founde fauour in thy sight, shewe thy seruant, by whome doest thou gouerne thy workmanship?

CHAP. VI.

God hath foreſene all things in his ſecret counſel. and is author thereof, and hath created them for his childrẽ.
25 The felicitie of the age to come.

AND he said vnto me, In the beginning when the rounde worlde was made, and before the borders of the worl-
de were set, and before the windes blew
one against another:

2 Before the noyce of thundres founded,
before the bright lightening did shine for-
the, before the fundacions of Paradiſe
were laide:

Before the faire flourcs did appeare, before the moucable powers were stablished, before the innumerable armies of Angels were gathered:

A Before the heights of the aire were lifted vp, before ſy meafures of the heauens were named, before the chimncis in Sion were hote:

5 Before the present yeres were sought out,
and before the afflictions of them that now
sinne, were turned away, and they that haue laid vp the treasure of faith, were sealed.

6 Then did I purpose these things, & they were made by me alone, and by none other: by me also they shalbe ended, and by none other.

7 Then answered I, and said, What shalbe the diuision of times? or when shalbe the end of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?

8 And he laid vnto me, From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Iacob and Esau were borne of him, * Iacobs hand helde first the Gaule heile of Esau.

9 For Elau is the end of this worlde, and Iacob is the beginning of it that followeth

10 The hand of man is betwixt the heile
and the hand. Other thing, Esdras, aske thou not.

11 ¶ I answered the, & said, O Lord, Lord,
if I haue founde fauour in thy sight,

12 I beseeche thee, make an end to shewe
thy seruāt thy tokens, whereof thou shew-
edst me parte the last night.

13 So he answered me, and said, Stand vpon thy fete, and heare a mightie sounding voyce.

14 There ſhal come as an earthquake, but the place where thou ſtandeſt, ſhal not be moued.

15 And therefore when he speaketh, be not
afraied: for of the end shal be the worde, & of the fundacion of the earth shal it be vnderstand.

16 Therefore while one speaketh of the, it
trembleth and is moued: for it knoweth
that it must be changed at the end.

17 And when I had heard it, I stode vp vpon
my fete, and hearkened, and beholde, there was a voyce that spake, and the sounde of it was like the sounde of many waters:

18 And it said, Beholde, the daies come, that I wil come & inquire of them that dwell
vpon the earth,

19 And when I beginne to inquire of them,
who by their vnrighteousnes haue hurt
others, and when the affliction of Sion shal
be fulfilled,

20 And the worlde, that shal vanish away
shalbe sealed, the wil I shewe these signes
the bokes shalbe opened before the hea-
uen, and they shal se all it together.

31 And the children of a yere olde shal speake with their voyces: the womē with child shal bring forth the vntimelie child
of thre or foure moneths olde, and they
shal liue that are raised vp.

23 Then suddely shal the sower places ap-
peare as the vnsowre, & the ful store houses shal suddenly be founde emptye.

23 And the trumpet shal sounde, and all they
that heare it, shalbe suddenly afraied:

34 At that time shal friends fight with friends, as with enemies, and the earth
shal feare with them: the springs of the welles shal stand still, & in thre houres they shal not renne.

For euil shal be put out, and disceate shal
be quenched,

But faith shal flourish: corruption shal be ouercome, and the trueth which hathe be-

And when he talked with me, beholde,
I looked a lile vpon him before whome I stode.

And these wordes said he vnto me, I am
come to shewe thee the time of the night
to come.

If thou wilt pray againe, and fast seuen
daies more, I wil tel thee more things, & greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.

For thy voyce is heard before y Highest:
surely y mightie hathe sene thy righteous
dealing: he hathe sene also thy chastitie,
which thou hast kept since thy youth.

Therefore hathe he sent me to shewe thee
all these things, and to say vnto thee, Be of good comfort, and feare not,

And haste not in the vaine consideration of the first times, nor make haste to the later times.

And after this I wepte againe and fast-ed seue daies in like maner, that I might fulfil the thre weekes, which he had appointed me.

And in the eight night was mine heart troubled within me againe, and I began to speake before the moste High.

For my spirit was greatly set on fyre, &
my soule was in distresse,

And I said, o Lord, thou spakest expres-
ly in the first creation (euen the first day)
and commandedst* that the heauen and the earth shulde be made, and the worke followed thy worde.

And then was there the spirit, and the darknes was on euerie side with silence:
there was no mans voyce as yet created of
thee,

Then commandedst thou a bright light
to come forth out of thy treasures, that it might giue light to thy worke.

Vpon the second day thou createdst the heauenlie ayre, and commandedst it, that,
going betwene, it shulde make a diuision
betwene the waters, that the one parte might remaine aboue, and the other beneath.

Vpon the third day thou commandedst,
that y waters shulde be gathered together
in the seueith parte of y earth: six partes di-

dest thou drye, & kept them to the intent
that of these there shulde be that shulde
serue thee, being sownen of God and tilled.

As sone as thy worde went forth, the worke was incontinently made.

For immediatly great and innumerable frute did spring vp, and manie diuerse
pleasures for the taste, and floures of vn-
changeable colour, and odours of a moste
wonderful smel & these things were created the third day.

* Vpó the fourth day thou createdst the light of the sunne, and of the moone, and
the order of the starres,

And gauest them a charge, to do* seruice
euen vnto man that was for to be made.

And vpon the fift day thou saidest vnto
the seuenith parte* where the waters were gathered, that it shulde bring forth the beasts,
as foules and fishes: and it was so.

For the dôme waters, and without life
brought forth the liuing things at the commandement of God that the nations might praise thy wonderous workes.

Then didest thou prepare two liuing
things: the one thou calledst Behemoth, &
the other thou calledst Leuiathan,

And didest separate the one from the other: for the seueith parte, where the water was gathered, colde not holde them.

Vnto Behemoth thou gauest one parte,
which was dryed vp the third day, that he shulde dwell in the same parte, wherein
are a thousand hilles:

But vnto Leuiathan thou gauest y seueith
parte, that is wet, and hast prepared him
to deuoure what thou wilt, and when thou wilt.

Vpon the sixt day thou gauest coman-
dement vnto the earth, that before thee it shulde bring forth the beasts, catel and creeping things.

And besides this Adam, whome thou
madest lord ouer all the workes which y
hast created, of him come we all, and the people also, whome thou hast chosen.

All this haue I spoké before thee, o Lord,
because thou hast created the worlde for
our sakes.

As for the other people, which also come of Adam, thou hast declared them that they are nothing before thee, but be like
vnto spittle, and hast compared their riches
vnto a drop that falleth from a vessel.

And now, o Lord, beholde these heathen
which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begonne to be lords ouer vs, and to deuoure vs.

And we thy people (whome thou hast
called the first borne, the onely begotten,
and thy seruent louer) are giuen into their hands.

If the worlde then be created for our sakes, why haue we not the inheritance thereof in possession, nor how long shal we suffer these things?

CHAP. VII.

Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduertiseth all in time. 18 The coming and death of Christ. 22 The resurrection and last iudgement. 43 After the which all corruption shal cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodness of God.

AND when I haue made an end of these wordes, there was sent vnto me an Angel, which had bene sent downe to me the nights afore.

And he said vnto me, Vp, Esdras, and heare the wordes that I am come to tell thee.

And I said, Speake on, my God. Then said he vnto me, The sea is set in a wyde place, that it might be deepe and great.

But presuppose that the entrance thereof were narrow, and like the riuers,

Who colde go into the sea to loke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorow the narrowe, how colde he come into the broad?

There is also another thing: a citie is buylded and set vpon a broad field, and is ful of all good things:

The entrance thereof is narrowe and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fyre at the right hand, and a deepe water at the lefte,

And there is but one path betwixt them, even betwene the fyre and the water, so that there colde but one man go there.

If this citie were giuen vnto a man for an inheritance, if he neuer went thorow the peril before it, how colde he receaue his inheritance?

And I said, It is so, Lord. Then said he, So is the portion of Israel.

Surely for their sakes haue I made the worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statutes, then came this thing to passe.

Then were the entrances of the worlde made narrowe, full of sorowe and trauail: they are but fewe and euil, and full of perils, and very painefull.

For the entrances of the fore worlde were wyde and sure, and broght immortal frute.

If then they that are liuing, labour not to enter by these strait and brittle things, they can not atteine to those things that are hid.

Why then disquietest thou thy self, seing thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, seing thou art mortal?

And why hast thou not considered in thy minde the things to come, rather then them that are present?

Then said I, O Lord, Lord, seing thou hast ordeined in thy Law, that the righteous shulde inherite these things, and that the vngodly shulde perishe,

Shulde the righteous suffer straitnes in hoping for large things, yet they that haue liued vngodly and suffered straitnes, shal not see the large things.

Then he said vnto me, There is no iudge more iuste then God, and there is none more wise then the moste High.

For manie perishe in this life, because they despise the Law of God that is appointed.

For God hathe diligently admonished suche as came, so oft as they came, what they shulde do to haue life, and what they shulde obserue, to auoid punishment.

Nevertheles, they were not obedient vnto him, but spake against him, and imagined vaine things,

And deceiued them selues by their wicked dedes, & denied the power of the moste High, and regarded not his waies.

But they despised his Law, and refused his promises: they haue vnfaithfully broken his ordinances, and haue not performed his workes.

And therefore, Esdras, vnto the emptie are emptie things, & to the full ful things. Beholde, the time shal come, that these tokens which I haue tolde thee, shal come to passe, and the bride shal appeare, and she shal come forth, and be sene that now is vnder the earth.

And whosoever shal escape these euils, he shal see my wonders.

For my sonne Iesus shal appeare with those that be with him, and they that remaine, shal reioyce within foure hundred yeres.

After these same yeres shal my sonne Christ dye, and all men that haue life.

And the worlde shalbe turned into the olde silence for seuen dayes, as in the fore iudgements, so that no man shal remaine.

But after seuen dayes, the worlde that is yet a slepe, shalbe raised vp: and that shal dye, that is corrupt.

Then the earth shal restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shal the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shal deliuer the soules that were committed vnto them.

And the most High shal appeare vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shal vanish away, and long suffering shal haue an end.

Iustice onely shal continue: the truth shal remaine, and faith shal be strong.

The worke shal followe, and the reward shalbe shewed: the good dedes shalbe of force, and vnrighteousnes shal beare no more rule.

Then said I, * Abraham the Sodomites, and Moyses that sinned in the wilderness.

Then said I, * Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and Moyses for the fathers
that sinned in the wilderness,

And they that came after him, for Israel
in the time of Achaz, and Samuel,

Euē so now, seeing vice is increased, &
wickednes aboundeth, and the righteous
haue prayed for the vngodlie, wherefore
shall not the same effect followe also now?

Then he answered me, & said, This present life is not the end: oft times honour is retained in it: therefore haue they prayed
for the weak.

But the day of iudgement shall be the end of this worlde, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein all corruption shall cease.

Intemperancie shall passe away: infideli-
tie shall be cut off: righteousness shall growe
vp, and the veritie shall spring vp.

The shall no mā be able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppress him that hathe
gotten the victorie.

I answered then, and said, This is my first and last saying, that it had bene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adā,
or when it was giuen him, to haue kept
him that he shulde not haue sinned.

For what profit is it for men in this present life to be in heauines, and after death
to feare punishment?

O Adam, what hast thou done? * for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redoundeth vnto
vs that come of thee.

For what profit is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortal life, when we do
the workes that bring death?

And that an euēlasting hope shulde be promised vs, seeing that we bite our fellows to deadlie vanities?

And that there shulde be appointed vs
dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue
liued wickedly?

And that the glorie of the moste High
shulde be kept to defende the which haue led a pacient life, if we haue walked in the wicked wayes?

And that an eternal Paradise shulde be shewed, whose frute remaineth incorruptible, wherein is safetie and health, if we will not enter into it?

(For we haue bene conuersant in vnplea-sant places)

And that the faces of them, which haue
abstained, shulde shine more then starres,
if our faces be blacker then darckenes?

For while we liued, we did not remēber
whē we did vnrighteously, that we shulde
suffer after death.

Then answered he me, and said, This is the maner of the battel, which man, that is borne in the earth, shall fight,

That if he be overcome, he shulde suffer
as thou hast said: but if he get the victo-rie, he shulde receaue the thing that I said.

For this is the life, whereof Moyses spake vnto the people, while he liued, saying, * Chuse thee life that thou maist liue.

Neuertheles, they beleued him not,
neither the Prophetes after him, nor me
also which haue said vnto them,

That heauines shulde not so be to their destruction, as ioye shulde come vnto the,
to whome saluacion is perswaded.

I answered then and said, I know, Lord,
that the moste High is called merciful, in that he hathe mercie vpon them, which are not yet come to that worlde,

And yet he hathe pitie on those that walke
in his Law,

And that * he is pacient: for he long suf-
fereth those yet haue sinned as his creatures,

And that he is liberall: for he wil giue as much as nedeth,

And that he is of great mercie: for he ouercometh in mercie those that are present, and that are past, and them which are
to come.

For if he were not abundant in his mercies, the worlde coulde not continue, nor they
that haue the possession thereof.

He pardoneth also: for if he gaue not of his goodnes that they, which haue done
euil, might be relieved from their wicked-
nes, the ten thousand parte of men shulde,
not remaine aliue.

And if he, being iudge, forgave not those
that be healed with his worde, and toke
away the multitude of sinnes,

There shulde peraduenture be verie fewe
left in an vnnumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

God are excellent. 20 Esdras prayer for him and for his people. 29 The promise of saluation to the iuste.
35 The destruction of the vnjust.

And he answered me, saying; The most High made this worlde for mane, but the worlde to come for fewe.

I wil tel thee a similitude, O Esdras. As whē
thou askst the earth, it shall say vnto thee,
that it giueth muche earthlie matter to make portes; but little dust that golde co-
meth of, so is it with the worke of this

II. Esdras.

Mat. 20. 16.

3 * There be manie created, but fewe shalbe saued.

4 Then answered I, and said, The swalowe vp the wit, & my soule, and deuoure vnderstanding.

5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophetic: for thou hast no longer space, but the life giuen thee.

6 O Lord, if thou sufferest not thy seruant, that we may intreat thee, that thou maist giue sede vnto our heart, and prepare our vnderstanding, that there may come frute of it, whereby euerie one which is corrupt, may liue, who ca set him self for man.

7 For thou art alone, and we all are one workmanship of thine hands, as thou hast said.

8 For when the bodie is facioned now in the wombe, & thou hast giue it members, thy creature is preserved by fyre & water, and the worke, created by thee, doeth suffer nine moneths the creature, which is facioned in it.

9 But the thing that containeth, and that which is contained, shal bothe be preserved, and when time is come, the wombe, being preserved, deliuereth y things that grew in it.

10 For thou hast commended the members, euē the breasts, to giue milke vnto y frute appointed to the breasts,

11 That the thing, which is created, may be nourished for a time, til thou disposest it to thy mercie.

12 Thou bringest it vp with thy righteoufnes, nurturest it in thy Law, & reformest it with thy iudgement.

13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, & giuest it life as thy worke.

14 Seing then that thou destroyest him, which with so great labours is facioned, it is an easie thing to appoint by thy comma demēt, that the thing also which is made, might be preserved.

15 Now therefore, O Lord, I wil speake (as touching men in general thou shalt rather prouide) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am forie,

16 And for thine inheritance for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whome I am woful, and for Iacob, for whose sake I am grieved.

17 For them wil I pray before thee, as wel for my self, as for them: for I see our fautes that dwell in the land.

18 ¶ But I haue heard the sudden coming of the iudge, which is to come.

19 Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstand my wordes, which I wil speake before thee. The beginning of y wordes of Esdras, before he was taken vp.

20 O Lord, that liuest for euer, which be- holdest from aboue that which is aboue,

and in the ayre,

21 Whose throne is inestimable, & his glorie incomprehensible, before whome the holte of the Angels stand with trembling,

22 Whose keeping is turned in winde and fyre, whose worde is true, and sayings sted fast, whose commandement is strong, and gouernement terrible,

23 Whose loke dryeth vp the depths, and wrath maketh y mountaines to melt away as the thing beareth witness.

24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receiue into thine eares the petition of thy creature.

25 For while I liue, I wil speake, and so long as I haue vnderstanding, I wil answer.

26 Loke not vpon the finnes of thy people, rather then thy faithful seruants.

27 Haue not respect vnto the wicked dedes of men, rather then to them that haue thy test. monies in afflictions.

28 Thinke not vpon those that haue walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reuerence thy wil.

29 Let it not be thy wil to destroye them, which haue liued like beasts, but loke vpon them that haue clearly taught thy Law.

30 Take not displeasure with them, which appeare worse then beasts, but loue them, that alway put their trust in thy righteoufnes and glorie.

31 For we and our fathers haue all the same sickness: but because of vs that are sinners, thou shalt be called merciful.

32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercie vpon vs, thou shalt be called merciful towards vs which haue no workes of righteoufnes.

33 For the righteous, which haue laid vp manie good workes, let them receiue the rewarde of their owne dedes.

34 But what is man, that thou shouldest take displeasure at him? or what is this mortal generacion, that thou shouldest be so grieved towards it?

35 ¶ For verely there is no man among them that be borne, but he hath done wickedly, nor anie that doeth confesse thee, which hath not done amisse.

36 For in this, O Lord, thy righteoufnes and thy goodnes shal be praised, if thou be merciful vnto them, which haue not the substance of good workes.

37 ¶ Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according vnto thy wordes it shalbe.

38 For I wil not verely consider the workes of them, before the death, before the iudgement, before destruction.

39 But * I wil reioyce in the wayes of the righteous, and I wil remember the pilgrimage, the saluation and the rewarde that they shal haue.

40 Like as I haue spoken me to passe.

41 For as the housbād mēde vpon the grounde trees, & yet alway the t cometh not vp in time all that is plāced, take ro thei all that are brogh saued.

42 I answered then & said grace, let me speake.

43 Like as the housbār sheeth, if it come not vp raine in due season, or with to muche raine,

44 So perishest man, wh thine hands, & thou art because he is created to whose sake thou hast m lickened him vnto the sede.

44 I answered then & said, If I haue founde grace, let me speake.

45 Like as the housbād mans seede perisheth, if it come not vp, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it be destroyed with too muche raine,

46 So perisheth man, which is created with thine hands, & thou art called his patern, because he is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and likened him vnto the housbandmans seede.

47 Benot wroth with vs, o Lord, but spare thy people & haue mercie vpō thine inheritance: for thou wilt be merciful vnto thy creature.

48 Then answered he me, and said, The things present are for the present, and the things to come for suche as be to come.

49 For thou art farre off that thou shuldest loue my creature aboute me: but I haue oft times drawn nere vnto thee and vnto it, but neuer to the vnrighteous.

50 In this also thou art maruelous before the Highest,

51 In that thou hast humbled thy self, as it becometh thee, and hast not iudged thy self worthie to boast thy self greatly amōg the righteous.

52 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them that shal liue in the latter time, because thei shal walke in great pride.

53 But learne thou for thy self, and seke out the glorie for suche as be like thee.

54 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tre of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plenteousnes made ready: the citie is buylded, and rest is prepared, perfite goodnes and absolute wisdom.

55 The roote of euil is sealed vp from you: the weakenes and moth is destroyed from you, and into hell fleeth corruption to be forgotten.

56 Sorowes are vanished away, and in the end is shewed y treasure of immortalitie.

57 Therefore alke thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish.

58 For when thei had libertie, thei despised the most High: they contemned his Law & forsoke his wayes.

59 Moreouer, they haue troden downe his righteousnes.

60 Saying in their heart, that there was no

God, though they knewe that they shulde dye.

59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made readie for you: so is thirst and peine prepared for them: for God wolde not that man shulde perish:

60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the Name of him that made them, & are vnthankful vnto him, which prepared life for them.

61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hād.

62 These things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a fewe like thee: then I answered, and said,

63 Beholde now, o Lord: thou hast shewed me the many wonders, which thou art determined to do in y last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

1 All things in this worlde haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for the wicked after this life. 15 The number of the wicked is more then of the good. 20 The lewes ingratitude: 36 Therefore they perish. 38 The vision of a woman lamenting.

1 HE answered me then, & said, Measure the time with it self, & when thou seest that one parte of the tokens come to passe, which I haue tolde thee before,

2 Then shalt thou vnderstand, that it is the time wherein the moste High will begin to visite the worlde which he made.

3 Therefore whē there shalbe sene an' other-quake in the worlde, and an vproare of the people,

4 The shalt thou vnderstand that the moste High spake of those things, frō the daies that were before thee, euen from the beginning.

5 For as all that is made in the worlde, hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest,

6 So the times also of the most High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes, and end in effect and miracles.

7 And euerie one that shal escape safe, & shalbe deliuered by his workes, and by the faith wherein ye haue beleued,

8 Shalbe preserved from the said perils and shal se my saluacion in my land, and within my borders: for I haue kept me holy frō the worlde.

9 Then shal they haue pitie of them selues, which now haue abused my waies: & thei that haue cast them out dispitely, shal dwell in peines.

10 For suche as in their life haue receiued benefites, and haue not knowen me,

11 But haue abhorred my Law, while they were yet in libertie, and when they had yet leasure of amendement, and wolde not vnderstand but despised it,

12 They must be taught it after death by peine.

13 And therefore be thou no more careful, to knowe how the vngodlie shalbe punished, but inquire how the righteous shalbe saued, and whose the worlde is, and for whome it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and said,

15 I haue afore said that which I say now & wil speake it hereafter, that there be many mo of them which perish, then of the that shalbe saued,

16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the field is, so is also the fede: as the floures be, so are the colours also: suche as the workema is, suche is the worke: and as the hous badman is, so is his hous badrie: for it was the time of the worlde.

18 Surely whe I prepared the worlde, which was not yet made for the to dwell in that now liue, no man spake against me.

19 For then euerie one obeyed, but now the maners of them that are created in this worlde, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetual fede, & by a Law, whereout they can not rid them selues.

20 So I considered the worlde, & beholde, there was peril, because of the deuises, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I sawe it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, and a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore y multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape be kept, and my plant, which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 ¶ Neuertheles, if thou wilt cease seuen daies mo/ but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt go into a faire field, where no house is buydded, & shalt eat onely of the floures of the field, and eat no flesh, nor drinke wine, but the floures onely.

25 And pray vnto y moste High continually) then wil I come, and talke with thee.

26 So I went my waye, as he had commanded me, into the field, which is called Ardath, & there I sate among the floures, & did eat of the herbes of the field, and the meat of the same satisfied me.

27 And after seuen dayes, as I sate vpo the grasse, and mine heart was vexed within me, as afore,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the moste High, and to say,

29 O Lord, when thou woldest shewe thy self vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy self vnto our fathers in the wildernes, in a place where no man dwelleth, in a baren place, when they came out of Egypt,

30 And expressly spakst vnto the, saying, Heare me, o Israel, and marke my wordes, thou sede of Iacob.

31 For beholde, I sawe my Law in you, that it may bring forth the frute in you, and that

ye may be honored by it for euer.

32 But our fathers, which receiued the Law, kept it not, nether obserued thine ordinances, nether did the frute of the Law appeare, nether colde it, for it was thine.

33 * For they that receiued it, perished be. Exod. 17. cause they kept not the thing y was sowed in them.

34 And so, it is a custome when the ground receiueh sede, or the sea a ship, or a vessel meat and drinke, if that perish where in a thing is sowe, or wherein anything is put,

35 Likewise the thing that is sowed, or is put therein, and the things that are receiued, must perish: so the things that are receiued, do not remaine with vs: but in vs it cometh not so to passe.

36 For we that haue receiued the Law, perish in sinne, and our heart also which receiued it.

37 But the Law perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 ¶ And when I spake these things in mine heart, I looked about me, & vpon the right side * I sawe a woman, which mourned sore, and lamented with a loud voice, and was grieued in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpon her head.

39 Then I left my thoughts, wherein I was occupied, and turned me vnto her,

40 And said vnto her, wherefore wepest thou? why art thou so sory in minde?

41 And she said vnto me, Syr, let me alone, that I may bewaile my self, and increas forowe: for I am sore vexed in my minde, and broght verie lowe.

42 Then I said vnto her, What aileth thee tel me.

43 And she said vnto me, I thy seruant haue bene baren, & haue had no childe, hauing an hous band thirtie yeres.

44 And every houre, & every day these thirtie yeres I pray to the moste High day & night.

45 And after thirtie yeres God heard me thine handmaid, & looked vpo my miserie, considered my trouble, & gaue me a sonne, & I was glad of him: so was mine hous bad also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almighty.

46 And I nourished him with great traual.

47 So when he grewe vp, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

And am not purposed to returne into the
citic, but to remaine here, and nether to eat
nor drinke, but continually to mourne &
fast, vntil I dye.

Then left I my purpose wherein I was,
and spake to her angerly, and said,

Thou foolish womā aboute all other, seest
thou not our heauines, and what cometh
vnto vs?

For Sion our mother is all woful and is fore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.

Seing we be all now in heauines, and make our mone (for we be all sorowful) art
thou sorie for one sonne?

Demande the earth, and she shal tell thee
that it is she which oght to mourne for the fall of so manie that growe vpon her.

For frō the beginning all men are borne
of her, and other shal come, and beholde,
they walke almoste all into destruction, &
the multitude of them shal be destroyed.

Who shulde then rather mourne, she
that hath lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sorie but for one?

But if thou woldest say vnto me, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the frute of my wo-be, which I broght forth with heauines, &
bare with sorowes,

But the earth is according to the maner
of the earth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)

Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with traual, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her frute vnto man, euen
to him that labored her.

Now therefore withholde thy sorow in thy self, and beare constantly that which cometh vnto thee.

For if thou allowest Gods purpose, and receiuest his counsel in time, thou shalt be commended therein.

Go thy way then into the citie to thine
hous band.

¶ Then she said vnto me, I wil not, I wil
not go into the citie, but here wil I dye.

So I continued to speake more with her,
and said,

Do not so, but be coufised: for how manie failles hath Sion? Be of good comfort
because of the sorowe of Ierusalem.

For thou seest y our Sanctuarie is layed
waite: our altar is broken downe: our Tēple is destroyed.

Our psalterion fainteth, and the song
ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away,
and the light of our candelsticke is quenched, and the Arke of our couenant is takē away, and our holie things are defiled, and the Name that is called vpō ouer vs, is al-moste dishonored, and our children are put to shame, and our Priests are burnt, & our Leuites are caryed into captiuitie, and our virgines are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men spoyled, &

our children destroyed, and our yong men
are brought in bondage, and our strong mē
are become weake,

And, which is the greatest of all, Sion the scale hath lost her worship: for she is de-liuered into the hands of them that hate vs.

And therefore shake of thy great hea-
uines, and put away the multitude of sorowes, that the Almighty may be merciful vnto thee, and that the moste High may
giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.

And when I was talking with her, her face
and beautie shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was a-frayed of her & mused what it might be.

And beholde, immediately she cast out a great voyce, very fearful, so y the earth
shoke at the noyce of the woman.

And I looked, and beholde, the woman
appeared vnto me no more: but there was a citic buylded, and a place was shewed frō
the grounde and fundacion. Then was I afrayed, and cryed with a loude voyce,
and said,

Where is Vriel the Angel * which came Chap. 4.
to me at the first: for he hath caused me
to come into manie and depe consideraciōs, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.

And as I was speaking these wordes, be-holde, he came vnto me, and looked vpon
me.

And lo, I laye as one dead, and mine vn-
derstanding was altered, and he toke me
by the right hand and comforted me, and
set me vpon my feete, and said vnto me,

What aileth thee? and why is thine vn-
derstanding vexed? and the vnderstan-
ding of thine heart? & wherefore art thou sorie?

And I said, Because thou hast forsaken me, and I haue done * according vnto thy wordes: I went into the field, and there haue I sene things, & se that I am not able to expresse.

Then said he vnto me, Stand vp manly,
and I wil giue thee exhortacion.

Then said I, Speake vnto me, my lord,
and forsake me not, lest I dye through raffines.

For I haue sene that I knewe not, and heare that I do not knowe.

Or is mine vnderstanding disceiued, or
doeth my minde, being haucie, erre?

Now therefore I beseeche thee that thou wilt shewe thy seruant of this wondre.

Thē he answered me, and said, Heare me,
and I wil informe thee, & tel thee wherefore thou art afayed: for the moſte High hathe reuiled manie ſecret things vnto

thee.
39 He hath ſene thy good purpoſe, that thou art ſorie continually for thy people, and makeſt great lamentacion for Sion.
40 This therefore is the vnderſtanding of the viſio, which appeared vnto thee a litle
while ago.
41 Thou ſaweſt a womā mourning, & thou
beganneſt to comfort her:
42 But now ſeeſt thou the likenes of the woman no more, but there appeared vnto
thee a citie buylded.
43 And where as ſhe tolde thee of the death
of her ſonne, this is the ſolution, 44 This woman, which thou ſaweſt, ſhe is Sion: and where as ſhe tolde thee (euen ſhe
which thou ſeeſt now as a citie buylded)
45 And as touching that ſhe ſaid vnto thee,
that ſhe was barren thirtie yeres, this was concerning that, there was euen thirtie
yeres wherein there was no offering offred
in her.
46 But after thirtie yeres, Salomon buylt
the citie, and offred offerings: then bare the barren a ſonne.
47 And where as ſhe tolde thee, that ſhe
nouriſhed him with labour, that was the inhabiting of Ieruſalem.
48 But where as ſhe tolde thee that her ſonne,
as his chance was, dyed when ſhe came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Ieruſalem.
49 And when thou ſaweſt her like one that mourned for her ſonne, thou beganneſt
to comfort her: of theſe things which haue cha-
ced theſe are to be opened vnto thee.
50 For now the moſte High ſeeeth, that thou art ſorie in thy mind, & becauſe thou ſuffe-
reſt with all thine heart for her, he ſhewed thee the clerenes of her glorie, and the fai-
renes of her beautie.
51 And therefore I bad thee remaine in the field where no houſe was buylt.
52 For I knowe that the moſte High wolde
ſhewe theſe things vnto thee.
53 Therefore I commaunded thee to go into ſfield, where no fundacio nor buylding is.
54 For the worke of mans buylding can not ſtand in that place where the citie of the moſte High ſhulde be ſhewed.
55 And therefore feare not, nether let thine
heart be afayed, but go in, and ſe the beau-
tie & greatnes of the buylding as muche
as thou art able to ſe with thine eyes.
56 And after this ſhalt thou heare, as muche
as thine eares may comprehend.
57 For thou art bleſſed aboue manie, & art
called with ſy moſte High among the few.
58 But to morow at night thou ſhalt remaine
here,
59 And the moſte High ſhal ſhewe thee vi-

ſiōs of high things, which the moſte High wil down to them that dwell vpon earth, in the laſt dayes. So I ſlept the ſame night &
another, as he had commanded me.

CHAP. XI.

*The viſion of an egle coming forth of the ſea, and
of her feathers. 17 Of a lyon coming out of the ſouth.*
Then ſaw I a dreame, & beholde, there came vp from the ſea an egle, which had twelue feathered wings & thre heads.
2 And I ſawe and beholde, ſhe ſpred her wings ouer all the earth, & all the windes
of the ayre blew on her, and gathered
them ſelues.
3 And I behelde, & out of her feathers grew out other contrarie feathers, and they became litle feathers and ſmale.
4 But her heads remained ſtil, & the head
in the middes was greater then the other heads, yet reſted it with them.
5 Moreouer, I ſawe that the egle ſlewe with his feathers and reigned vpon earth & ouer
them that dwelt therein.
6 And I ſawe that all things vnder heauen
were ſubiect vnto her, and no man ſpake againſt her, no not one creature vpon earth.
7 I ſawe alſo that the egle ſtode vp vpon
her claws, & ſpake to her feathers, ſaying,

And there was no more vpon the egles

Then sawe I also that two wings deu-

So I looked, & beholde, the vnderwings

And the second were soner gone then

And whē they so thought, beholde, there

And beholde, the head was turned with

But this head put the whole earth in fea-

dwelt vpon earth with much labour, & it had the gouernace of the worlde, more then

Heare thou, I wil talke with thee, & the nes, and ouer the whole compasse of the earth with moste wicked oppresion, and that dwelleth so long time in all y<sup>e</sup> worlde

with discete.

¶ For y<sup>e</sup> hast not iudged the earth wth trueth.

Seing thou hast troubled the meke, thou hast hurte the peaceable, and thou hast loued lyers, and destroyed the dwellings of them that brought forth the frute, & hast cast
downe the walles of such as did thee no
harme,

Therefore is thy wrongful dealing come vp vnto the moste High, and thy pride
vnto the Mightie.

The moste High also hath looked vpon
the proude times, & beholde, they are ended, and their abominacions are fulfilled.

Therefore appeare no more, thou egle,
nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked
feathers, nor thy malicious heads, and thy wicked clawes, nor all thy vaine bodie,

That all the earth may be refreshed, &
come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence, & that she may hope for the iud-gement and mercie of him that made her.

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former visions.

And when the lion spake these wor-
des to the egle, I sawe,

And beholde, the head that had the v-pper hand, appeared no more, nether did
the foure wings appeare any more, that came to it, and set vp them selues to reigne, whose kingdome was small and full of vproares.

And I sawe, and beholde, they appeared
no more, and the whole bodie of the egle
was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and trance of my minde, and fro the great
feare, and said vnto my spirit,

Lo, this hast thou done vnto me in that thou searchest out the waies of the moste High.

Lo, yet am I wearie in my minde, and very weake in my spirit, and litle strength is there in me, for the great feare that I re-ceiued this night.

Therefore now I wil beseeche the moste
High that he wil cōfort me vnto the end.

And I said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue soude
grace before thy sight, & if I am iustified
with thee before many other, and if my praier in dede be come vp before thy face,

Comfort me, and shewe me thy seruant
the interpretation and difference of this horrible sight, that thou maist perfectly comfort me my soule,

Seing thou hast iudged me worthie to
shewe me the last times.

¶ Then he said vnto me, This is the interpretacion of this vision,

The egle, whome thou sawest come vp from the sea, is the kingdome which was sene in the vision of thy brother Daniel.

But it was not expounded vnto him: therefore now I declare it vnto thee.

Beholde, the daies come, that there shal

rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shalbe feared aboue all kingdomes that were before it.

14. In it shal twelue Kings reigne one after another,

15 Whereof the seconde shal begiune to reigne and shal haue more time then the twelue.

16 And this do the twelue wings signifie, which thou sawest.

17 As for the voice that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the middes of the bodie thereof, this is the interpretation,

18 That after the time of that kingdome there shal arise great strife, & it shalbe in danger to fall, but it shal not then fall, but shalbe restored againe to his beginning.

19 Concerning the eight vnderwings, which thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretation,

20 In him shal arise eight Kings, whose time shal be but smale, and their yeres swift, and two of them shal perish.

21 But when the midde time cometh, there shalbe foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it may be ended, but two shalbe kept vnto the end.

22 And where as thou sawest thre heads resting, this is the interpretation,

23 In his last dayes shal y<sup>e</sup> moste High raise vp thre kingdomes, and shal call againe manie things into the, and they shal haue the dominion of the earth,

24 And of those that dwell therein, with muche grief aboue all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the egles.

25 For they shal accomplish his wickednes, and shal finish his last end.

26 And where as thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shal dye vpon his bed, and yet with peine.

27 For the two that remaine, the sworde shal deuoure them.

28 For the sworde of the one shal deuoure the other: but at the last, shal he fall by the sworde him self.

29 And where as y<sup>e</sup> sawest two vnderwings, that went of towarde the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretaciō,

30 These are they whome y<sup>e</sup> moste High hathe preferred for their end, whose kingdome is litle, and ful of trouble as thou sawest.

31 And the lyon whome thou sawest rising vp out of the wood and roaring, and speaking vnto the egles, and rebuking her for her vnrighteousnes with all the wordes that thou hast heard,

32 This is the winde which the moste High hathe kept for them, and for their wickednes vnto the end, & he shal reprove them,

and cast before them their spoiles.

33 For he shal set them aloue in the iudgement, and shal rebuke them and correct them:

34 For he wil deliuer the residue of my people by affliction, which are preferred vpon my borders, and he shal make them ioyful, vntil the coming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and these are the interpretations.

36 Thou onely hast bene mete to know this secret of the moste High.

37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast sene, in a booke and hide them,

38 And teache them the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend and kepe these secrets.

39 But waite thou here yet seven daies mo, that it may be shewed thee whatsoeuer it pleaseth the moste High to declare vnto thee: and with that he went his way.

40 And when all the people perceived, that the seven daies were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them all together, from the least vnto the moste, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying,

41 What haue we offended thee? or what euil haue we done against thee, that thou forsakest vs, and fittest in this place?

42 For of all the people thou onely art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, & as an hauen or shippe preferred from the tempest.

43 Are not the euils which are come vnto vs, sufficient?

44 If thou then forsake vs, how muche better had it bene for vs, that we had bene burnt also as Sion was burnt?

45 For we are no better then they that dyed there: and they wept with a loude voyce. Then answered I them, and said, 46 Be of good comfort, O Israel, and be not heauie, thou house of Iacob.

47 For the moste High hathe you in remembrance, & the Almighty hathe not forgotten you in temptation.

48 As for me I haue not forsake you, neither am I departed from you, but am come into this place to praye for the desolation of Sion, that I might seke mercie for the low estate of your Sanctuarie.

49 And now go your way home euerie mā, and after these daies wil I come vnto you.

50 So the people went their way into the citie, as I commanded them:

51 But I remained stil in the field seven daies, as he had commanded me, and did eat onely of the floures of the field, & had my meat of the herbes in those daies.

CHAP. XIII.

The vision of a winde coming forth of the sea, which became a man. 5 His propertie & power against his enemies. 21 The declaration of this vision.

And after the seven daies I dreamed a dreame by night.

And I beholde, there arose a winde fro the sea, and it moued all the waues thereof.

And I looked, & beholde, there was a mighty man with the thousands of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to loke, all the things trembled that were sene vnder him.

And when the voyce wet out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voyce, as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fyre.

After these things I sawe, and beholde, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of nobel, fro the foure windes of the heauē, to fight against the man that came out from the sea.

And I looked, and beholde, he graued him self a great mountaine, and flewe vp vpon it.

But I wolde haue sene the countrei or place whereout the hil was grauen, and I coude not.

I sawe after these things, and beholde, all they which came to fight against him, were fore afraied, and yet they durst fight.

Nevertheless, when he sawe the fiercenes of the multitude that came, he lifted not vp his hand: for he helde no sworde nor any instrument of warre,

But onely, as I sawe, he sent out of his mouth, as it had bene a blaste of fyre, and out of his lippes the winde of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes.

And they were all mixt together, even this blast of fyre, the winde of the flame, and the great storme, and fell with violence vpon the multitude, which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing sene, but onely dust, and smel of smoke. When I sawe this, I was afraied.

Afterwards sawe I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.

And there came many vnto him, some with ioyful countenance, & some with sad: some of the were bound, and some brought of them that were offred: and I was flicke thorow great feare, and awaked, and said,

Thou hast shewed thy seruāt these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted me worthe to receiue my praiser.

Shewe me now therefore the interpretation of this dreame.

For thus I consider in mine vnderstanding, wo vnto them y<sup>e</sup> shalbe left in those

daies, and muche more wo vnto them that are not left behinde.

For they that were not left, were in heauines.

Now vnderstand I the things that are laid vp in the latter daies, which shal come bothe vnto them, and to those that are left behinde.

Therefore are they come into great perils and many necessities, as these dreames declare.

Yet is it easier, that he that is in danger, shulde fall into these, & forese the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloude out of the worlde.

¶ Then answered he me, & said, The interpretation of the vision wil I shewe thee, and I wil open to thee the thing that thou hast required.

Where as thou hast spoken of them that are left behinde, this is the interpretation,

He that shal beare the danger in that time, he shal kepe him self. They that be fallen into danger, are suche as haue workes and faith toward the moste Mightie.

Knowe therefore, that they which be left behinde, are more blessed the thei that be dead.

These are the meanings of the vision, Where as thou sawest a man comming vp from the middes of the sea,

The same is he whome the moste High hath kept a great season, who by his owne self shal deliuer his creature, & he shal order them that are left behinde.

¶ And where as thou sawest, that out of his mouth there came as a blast with fyre and storme,

And y<sup>e</sup> he nether helde sworde nor weapon, but that by his fiercenes he destroyed the whole multitude, that came to fight against him, this is the interpretation,

Beholde, the daies come that the moste High wil beginne to deliuer the that are vpon the earth:

And he shal astonish the hearts of them that dwell vpon the earth:

And one shal prepare to fight against another, citie against citie, & place against place, and nation against nation, & realme against realme.

When this commeth to passe, then shal the tokens come, that I shewed thee before, & then shal my Sonne be reuicled, whome thou sawest go vp as a man.

And when all the people heare his voyce, euerie mā shal in their owne lond leaue the battel that they haue one against another.

And an innumerable multitude shalbe gathered as one, as they that be willing to come, and to fight against him.

II. Esdras.

33. But he shal stand vpon the toppe of mount Sion.

36 And Sign shal come, and shalbe shewed to all, being prepared and buylded, as thou sawest the hil grauen forthe without any hands.

37 And this my Sonne shal rebuke the wicked inuencions of those nacions, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempest,

38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they shalbe tormented: and without any labour wil he destroy them; even by the Law, which is compared vnto the fyre.

39 And where as thou sawest that he gathered another peaceable people vnto him,

40 Those are the ten tribes which were carryed away captiues out of their owne lād, * in the time of Oseas the King, whome Salmanasar the King of the Assyrians toke captiue, and carryed them beyonde the riuier: so were they broght into another land.

41 But they toke this counsell to the selues, that they wolde leaue the multitude of the heathen, and go forthe into a further countrie, where neuer mankinde dwelt,

42 That they might there kepe their statutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.

43 And they entred in at the narrow passages of the riuier Euphrates.

44 For the moste High then shewed the signes, * and stayed the springs of the flood til they were passed ouer.

45 For thorow y country there was a great iourney, euen of a yere and an halfe; and the same region is called Arsareth.

46 Then dwelt they there vntil the latter time: and when they come forthe againe,

47 The moste High shal holde still the springs of the riuier againe, that they may go thorow: therefore sawest thou the multitude peaceable.

48 But thei that be left behinde of thy people, are those that be founde within my borders.

49 Now when he destroyeth the multitude of the nacions that are gathered together, he shal defende the people that remaine,

50 And then shal he shewe great wonders vnto them.

51 Then said I, O Lord, Lord, shewe me this, wherefore haue I sene the man coming vp from the middes of the sea?

52 And he said vnto me, As thou canst neither seeke out, nor knowe these things; that are in the deepe of the sea, so can no man vpon earth see my Sonne, or those that be with him, but in the time of that day.

53 This is the interpretation of the dream which thou sawest, and whereby thou onely art lightened.

54 For thou hast forsaken thine owne Law, and applied thy diligence vnto mine, and sought it.

55 Thy life hast thou ordered in wisdom, & hast called vnderstanding thy mother.

56 Therefore haue I shewed thee y rewardes with the moste High: and after three other daies I wil speake other things vnto thee, and wil declare the great and wonderful things.

57 Then went I forthe vnto the field, glorifying and praising the moste High for the wonders which he did in time,

58 Which he gouerneth, and such things as come in their seasons: and there I sate three dayes.

How God appeared to Moses in the bush. 10 All things decline to age. 15 The latter times worse then the former. 20 The ingratitude of Israel. 31 Transgression and iudgement.

Vpon the thirde day I sate vnder an oke, and beholde, there came forthe a voyce vnto me out of the bush, & said, Esdras, Esdras?

And I said, Here am I, Lord, & stood vpon my feet.

Then said he vnto me, * In the bush I reueiled my self, and spake vnto Moyses, when my people serued in Egypt:

And I sent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him vpon the mount Sinai, & I helde him with me a lōg season.

And I tolde him many wōders, & shewed him the secrets of the times and the end, and commanded him, saying,

These wordes shalt thou declare, & these shalt thou hide.

And now I say vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the signes that I haue shewed, and the dreames that thou hast sene, & the interpretations which thou hast heard.

For thou shalt be taken away from all, and thou shalt remaine hence forthe with my counsell, & with such as be like thee, vntil the times be ended.

For the worlde hath lost his youth, & the times beginne to waxe olde.

For the worlde is deuided into twelue partes, & ten partes of it are gone already and halfe of the tenth parte.

31 And for so muche as he is a righteous

32 And now are ye here, and your brethren

43 But in the night they did eat bread, but I spake by day, & helde not my tongue by

44 In fortie daies, they wrote two hun-

45 And when the fortie dayes were fulfil-

gues vpon all the worlde, the sworde, famine, death, and destruction:

6 Because that iniquitie hath fully polluted all the earth, and their wicked workes are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, saith the Lord, I wil holde my tongue no more for their wickednes, (they do vngodlie) neither wil I suffer the in the things, that they do wickedly.

8 Beholde, * the innocent and righteous blood cryeth vnto me, and the soules of the iust crye continually.

9 I wil surely auenge them, saith the Lord, and receiue vnto me all y<sup>e</sup> innocent blood from among them.

10 Beholde, my people is led as a flocke to the slaughter: I wil not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt,

11 But I wil bring them out with a mightie hand, and a stretched out arme, & smite it with plagues as afore, & wil destroie all the land thereof.

12 Egypt shal mourne, and the fundacions thereof shalbe smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shal bring vpon it.

13 The plowmen that till the grounde, shal mourne: for their sedes shal faile thorow the blasting and haile, and by an horrible starre.

14 Wo to the worlde, & to them that dwell therein.

15 For the sworde and their destruction draweth nere, and one people shal stand vp to fight against another with swordes in their hands.

16 For there shalbe sedicion among men, & one shal inuade another: they shal not regard their King, & the princes shal measure their doings by their power.

17 A man shal desire to go into a citie, and shal not be able.

18 Because of their pride the cities shalbe troubled, the houses shalbe afraied, & men shal feare.

19 A man shal haue no pitie vpon his neighbour, but shal destroye their houses with the sworde, & their goods shalbe spoyled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.

10. 17. 8.

20 Beholde, saith God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence me, which are from the East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon the, & to repay the things, that they haue done to them.

21 As they do yet this day vnto my chosen, so wil I do also, and recompense them in their bosome: thus saith the Lord God,

22 My right had shal not spare the sinners, neither shal the sworde cease from them, that shed innocent blood vpon earth.

23 The fyre is gone out from his wrath, and hath consumed the fundacions of the earth, and the sinners like the strawe, that is kindled.

24 Wo to them that sinne, and kepe not my commandements, saith the Lord.

25 I wil not spare them: departe, & childe, from the power: defile not my Sanctuarie.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth he them vnto death and destruction.

27 For now are the plagues come vpon the worlde, and ye shal remaine in them: for God wil not deliuer you, because ye haue sinned against him.

28 Beholde, an horrible vision cometh from the East,

29 Where generacions of dragons of Arabia shal come out with manie charers, and the multitude of them shalbe caryed as the winde vpon the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble.

30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath, shal go forth as the bores of the forest, and shal come with great power, and stand against them in battell, and shal destroye a porcion of the land of the Assyrians.

31 But after this shal the dragons haue the vpper hand, and remember their nature, and shal turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.

32 Then these shalbe troubled, and kepe silence by their power, and shal flee.

33 From the land of the Assyrians shal the enemy besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their hoste shalbe feare & dread, and strife among their Kings.

34 Beholde cloudes from the East, & from the North, vnto the South, and they are verie horrible to loke vpon, ful of wrath and storme.

a strong archer?

¶ The mightie Lord sendeth the plagues,
and who can driue them away? the fyre is gone forth in his wrath, and who can

3 I Tobit haue walked all my liue long in

manie things liberally to the brethren, w
were of my nation, and came with me to Niniue into the land of the Assyrians.

4 And when I was in mine owne countrei

the tribe of Nephthalim my father fell chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes shulde sacrifice there, where

6 But I (as it was ordeined to all Israel by an euerlasting decre) went alone often to Ierusalem, bringing the first frutes, and the tenth of beasts, with that which was first thorne, and offred them at the altar to the Priests the children of Aaron.

7 The first tenth parte I gaue to y Priests

8 The thirde tenth parte I gaue vnto them

4 Then I returned and washed, and ate my meat in heauenes,

5 Remembting that prophecie of* Amos, which said, your solē feasts shalbe turned into mourning, & your ioyes into wailing.

6 Therefore I wept, & after y<sup>e</sup> going downe of y<sup>e</sup> sunne I wet & made a graue & buried him.

7 But my neighbours mocked me, and said, Doeeth he not feare, to dye for this cause, who* fled away, and yet, lo, he buryeth the dead againe.

8 The same night also when I returned fro the buryal, & slept at y<sup>e</sup> wall of mine house because I was polluted, & hauing my face vncouered,

9 And I knewe not y<sup>e</sup> sparowes were in the wall, & as mine eyes were open, the sparowes cast downe warme dogue into mine eyes, & a whiteness came in mine eyes, & I went to the phisicians who helped me. Moreouer Achiacharus did nourish me, vntil I went into Eilmias.

10 And my wife Anna did take womens woakes to do.

11 And whē she had sent them home to the owners, thei paid the wages, & gaue a kid.

12 Which whē it was at mine house, and began to bleat, I said vnto her, From whence is this kid? is it not stolen? render it to the owners: for it is not lawfull to eat anie thing that is stolen.

13 But she said, It was giue for a gifte more the y<sup>e</sup> wages: but I did not beleue, & bade her to reder it to y<sup>e</sup> owners, & I did blinsh, because of her. Furthermore she said, * When thei are thine almes, & thy righteousnes beholde, they all now appeare in thee.

CHAP. III.

1 The prayer of Tobit. 7 Sarra Raguels daughter, & the things that came vnto her. 12 Her prayer heards. 19 The Angel Raphael sent.

1 THē I, being sorowful, did wepe, & in my sorowe prayed, saying,

2 O Lord, thou art iuste, & all thy workes, & all thy wayes are mercie & trueth, and thou iudgest truly & iustly for euer.

3 Remēber me & loke on me, nether punish me accordig to my sins or mine ignorāces or my fathers, who haue sinned before thee.

4 For thei haue not obied thy cōmandmēts: wherefore y<sup>e</sup> hast deliuered vs for a spoile, & vnto captiuitie, and to death, and for a prouerbe of a reproche to all them among whome we are disperfed, and now

5 thou hast manie and iuste causes, To do w<sup>e</sup> me accordig to my finnes, & my fathers, because we haue not kept thy cōmandmēts, nether haue walked in trueth before thee.

6 Now therefore deale with me as semeth best vnto thee, & cōmande my spirit to be takē fro me, y<sup>e</sup> I may be dissolued, & become earth: for it is better for me to dy thē to liue, because I haue heard false reproches,

& am verie sorowful: cōmande that I may be dissolued out of this world, and go into the euerlasting light, nor thy face away from me.

7 ¶ It came to passe the same day, that Raguel a citie of Media Saughter of Raguel was also reuerend, his fathers maides,

8 Because she had bene married bands, whome Asmodeus the son of the serpent had killed, before that they had her. Doeest thou not knowe, saith Raguel, thou hast strangled thine house, thou hast now seuen housebads, thou named after anie of them.

9 Wherefore doeest thou bear with them, if they be dead, go thy wayes home, that we may neuer se of thee or daughter.

10 When she heard these things, she was verie sorowful, so that she strangled her self. And she had onely daughter of my father, & I shal slander him, and shal be to the graue with sorowe.

11 Then she prayed towarde the Lord, & said, Blessed art thou, o Lord, and thine holie & glorious Name, and honorable for euer: let thy praise be for euer.

12 And now, o Lord, I sit mine face toward thee,

13 And say, Take me out of the world, may heare no more anie reproche.

14 Thou knowest, o Lord, that I am free from all sinne with man,

15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father, of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, nether hath he caused to be his houre, nether anie nor or childe borne of him, to w<sup>e</sup> keepe my self for a wife: my seuen daughters are now dead, & why shulde I please not thee that I shulde be deto loke on me, and to piteie me no more heare reproche.

16 So the prayers of them both were heard before the maiestie of the great God.

17 And Raphael was sent to heale the, that is, to take away y<sup>e</sup> white bitis eyes, & to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias, & to binde Asmodeus because he belonged to Tobias. The self same time came Tobias cured into his house, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe to him.

not thy face away from me.

¶ I came to passe the same day that in Ecbatane a citie of Media Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maides,

Because she had bene maryed to seuē hous-
bands, whome Asmodeus the euil spirit
had killed, before that they had lien with her. Doeſt thou not knowe, said they, that thou haſt ſtrangled thine housbands? thou haſt had now ſeuē housbāds, nether waſt
thou named after anie of them.

Wherefore doeſt thou beaſt vs for them?
if they be dead, go thy wayes hence to the,
that we may neuer ſe of thee ether ſonne
or daughter.

¶ When she heard these things, she was verie sorrowful, so that she thought to haue strangled her self. And she said, I am the only daughter of my father, & if I do this I shal ſclander him, and ſhal bring his age
to the graue with sorrowe.

¶ Then she prayed towards the windowe
& said, Blessed art thou, o Lord my God,
and thine holie & glorious Name is bleſ-
sed, and honorable for euer: let all thy wor-
kes praise thee for euer.

¶ And now, o Lord, I ſet mine eyes, & my face toward thee,

¶ And ſay, Take me out of the earth, that I may heare no more anie reproche.

¶ Thou knoweſt, o Lord, that I am pure
from all ſinne with man,

¶ And that I haue neuer polluted my name,
nor the name of my father in the land
of my captiuitie: I am the only daughter of my father, nether haſte he anie mā child
to be his hire, nether anie nere kiſſin
or child borne of him, to whome I may
kepe my ſelf for a wife: my ſeuē housbands are now dead, & why ſhulde I liue? But if it pleaſe not thee that I ſhulde dye, cōmā-de to loke on me, and to pittie me that I do
no more heare reproche.

¶ So the prayers of them bothe were heard before the maiestie of the great God.

¶ And Raphael was ſent to heale them bo-
the, that is, to take away y whitenes of To-bits eyes, & to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the ſonne
of Tobit, & to binde Asmodeus y euil ſpirit
becauſe he belonged to Tobias by right.
The ſelf ſame time came Tobit home, and entred into his houſe, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe fro her chāber.

CHAP. IIII.

¶ Precept and exhortations of Tobit to his ſonne.

¶ IN that day Tobit remēbred * y ſiluer,
in which he had deliuered to Gabael in Rages a citie of Media,

¶ And ſaid with him ſelf, I haue wiſhed for death: wherefore do I not call for my ſon-ne Tobias that I may admoniſh him before I dye?

¶ And when he had called him, he ſaid, My ſonne, after that I am dead, bury me, & deſpiſe not thy mother, but honour her all the dayes of thy life, & do that which ſhal
pleaſe her, and anger her not.

¶ Remēber, my ſonne, how manie dangers
ſhe ſuſtained when thou waſt in her wōbe,
and whē ſhe dyeth, burye her by me in the
ſame graue.

¶ My ſonne, ſet our Lord God alwayes before thine eyes, & let not thy will be ſet
to ſinne or to tranſgreſſe the cōmandements of God. Do vprightly all thy life long, and followe not the wayes of vnrighteouſnes:
for if y deale truly, thy doings ſhal proſeperouſly ſuccede to thee, & to all the which liue iuſtly.

¶ Giue almes of thy ſubſtance: and when thou giueſt almes, let not thine eye be en-
uious, nether turne thy face fro anie poore,
leſt that God turne his face from thee.

¶ Giue almes according to thy ſubſtance:
if thou haue but a litle, be not afraid to
giue a litle almes.

¶ For thou laiſt vp a good ſtore for thy
ſelf againſt the day of neceſſitie,

¶ * Becauſe that almes doeth deliuer from death, & ſuffreth not to come into darknes.

¶ For almes is a good gift before the mo-
ſte High to all them which vſe it.

¶ Beware of all * whoredome, my ſonne, &
chiefly take a wife of y ſede of thy fathers, & take not a ſtrange womā to wife which is not of thy fathers ſtocke: for we are the childre of the Prophets. Noe, Abraham, Iſaac and Iacob are our fathers from the beginning. Remember my ſonne that thei maryed wiues of their owne kinred, and were bleſſed in their children and their
ſede ſhal inherite the land.

¶ Now therefore, my ſonne, loue thy brethren, & deſpiſe not in thine heart y ſonnes & daughters of thy people in not taking a wife of the: for in pride is deſtruction, and much trouble, & in fiercenes is ſcarcetrie, & great pouertie: for fiercenes is the mother of famine.

¶ Let not the * wages of anie man, w haſte
wrought for thee, tarie with thee, but giue him it out of hād: for if thou ſerue God, he wil alſo paye thee: be circumspect, my ſon-
ne, in all things that thou doſt, and be wel
inſtructed in all thy conuerſation.

¶ Do that to no mā w thou hateſt: drinke
nor wine to make thee drunken, nether let drunkennes go with thee in thy iourney.

¶ Giue of thy bread to y hungry, & of thy garmēts to the y are naked, & of all thine
abundance giue almes, & let not thine eye
be enuious, when thou giueſt almes.

20 *Furthermore I signifie this to thee, that I deliuered ten talents to Gabael the son- ne of Gabrias at Rages in Media.

21 And feare not, my sonne, for asmuche as we are made poore: for thou hast manie things, if y feare God, & flee frō sinne, & do y thing which is acceptable vnto him.

CHAP. V.

Tobias sent to Rages, & He meeteth with the Angel Raphael, which did condukt him.

Tobias then answered & said, Father, I wil do all things which thou hast commanded me.

But how can I receiue the siluer, seing I knowe him not?

Then he gaue him the hand writing, and said vnto him, Seke thee a man, which may go with thee, whiles I yet liue, and I wil giue him wages, and go and receiue the money.

Therefore when he was gone to seke a man, he founde Raphael the Angel.

But he knewe not, & said vnto him, May I go with thee into the land of Media: and knowest thou those places wel?

To whome the Angel said, I wil go with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Gabael.

Then Tobias said to him, Tarie for me, til I tell my father.

Then he said vnto him, Go, and tary not: so he went in & said to his father, Beholde, I haue founde one, which wil go with me.

Then he said, Call him vnto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be faithful to go with thee.

So he called him, and he came in, & they saluted one another.

Then Tobias said vnto hī, Brother, shewe me of what tribe and familie thou art.

To whome he said, Doeſt y seke a stocke or familie, or an hired man to go with thy sonne? Then Tobias said vnto him, I wolde knowe thy kindred and thy name.

Then he said, I am of the kindred of Azarias & Ananias y great, & of thy brethrē.

Then Tobias said, Thou art welcome: be not now angrie with me, because I haue enquired to knowe thy kindred, and thy familie: for thou art my brother of an honest and good stocke: for I knewe Ananias and Ionathas, sonnes of that great Samaias: for we went together to Ierusalem to wor- ship, and offered the first borne, & the tēths of the frutes, and they were not deceiued with y errour of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a great stocke.

But tel me, what wages shal I giue thee? wilt thou a grote a day & things necessarie, as to mine owne sonne?

Yea, moreouer if ye returne safe, I wil adde some thing to the wages.

So thei agreed. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thy self for the iourney, and go you on Gods Name. And whē his sonne had prepared all things for the iourney, his father said, Go thou with this man, & God which dwelleth in heauen, prosper your iourney, and the Angel of God kepe you companie. So they went forth bothe and departed, and the dogge of the yong man with them.

But * Anna his mother wept, and said to Tobias, Why hast thou sent away our sonne? is he not the staffe of our hand to mini- ster vnto vs?

Wolde to God we had not laid money vpo money, but that it had bene cast away in respect of our sonne.

For that which God hath giuen vsto liue with, doeth suffice vs.

Then said Tobias, Be not careful, my si- ster: he shal returne in safetie, & thine eyes shal se him.

For the good Angel doeth kepe him co- panie, and his iourney shal be prosperous, and he shal returne safe.

Then she made an end of weping.

CHAP. VI.

Tobias deliuered from the fish. & Raphael sheweth him certeine medicines. 10 He condukteth him to Sara and Sarra.

And as they went on their iourney, they came at night to the flood Tygris, and there abode.

And when the yong man went to wash him self, a fish leaped out of the riuer, and wolde haue deuoured him.

Then the Angel said vnto him, Take the fish. And the yong man toke the fish, and drewe it to land.

To whome the Angel said, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

So the yong man did as the Angel com- manded him: & when they had roited the fish, they ate it: then they bothe went on their way, til they came to Ecbatane.

that she may be giuen thee for a wife.

For to thee doeth the right of her per-

And the maid is faire and wise: now the-

Then the yong man answered the Angel,
I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this maid hathe bene giuen to seuen men, who
all dyed in the mariage chamber:

And I am the onely begotten sonne of my father, and I am afraid, lest I go into

Then the Angel said vnto him, Doeſt

heare me, o my brother: for she shal be thy

And when thou shalt go into thy bed,
thou shalt take of the hote coles for per-

things, he loued her, and his heart was effectually ioyned to her.

CHAP. VII.

Tobias marryeth Sarra Raguels daughter.

And when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Ra-guel: and Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she broght them
into the house.

Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this yong man to Tobit my coulin?

And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brether? To whome thei said, that thei were of the tribe of Nephtholim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.

The he said to them, Do ye knowe To-bit, our kinsman? And they said, We knowe him. Then said he, Is he in good health?

And they said, He is bothe aliuē, and in good health: and Tobias said, He is my father.

Then Raguel leaped, and kissed him, and wept,

And blessed him, & said vnto him, Thou
art the sonne of a good and honest man:
but when he had heard that Tobit was
blinde, he was sorowful and wept.

And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra
his daughter wept. Moreouer they recei-ued them with a readie minde, and after
that they had killed a ram of the flocke,
thei set muche meat on the table. The said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forth the things whercof thou spakest
in the waye, that this busines may be dispatched.

So he communicated the matter with Raguel, and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat,
and drinke and make merry.

For it is mete that thou shuldest marie
my daughter: neuer theles, I wil declare vn-
to thee the truth.

I haue giuen my daughter in mariage to seuen men, who dyed that night which thei came in vnto her: neuer theles, be thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias said, I wil eat nothing here, vntill ye

Tobias driueth away the euil spirit. 4 He prayeth to God with his wife. 11 Raguel prepareth a graue for his sonne in law. 16 Raguel blesteth the Lord.

And when they had supped, they broght Tobias in vnto her.

And as he went, he remembered the wordes of Raphael, & toke coles for perfumes, and put the heart and liuer of the fish thereupon, and made a perfume.

The which smel when the euil spirit had smelled, he fled into the vtmost partes of Egypt, whome the Angel bounde.

And after that they were bothe shut in, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God wolde haue pitie on vs.

Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holic and glorious Name for euer: let the heauens blesse thee, and all thy creatures.

Thou madest Adam, and gauest him Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay of them came mankinde: thou hast said, It is not good, that a man shulde be alone: let vs make vnto him an aide like vnto him self.

And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for fornication, but vprightly: therefore graunte me mercie, that we may become aged together.

And she said with him, Amen.

So they slept bothe that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue,

Saying, Is not he dead also?

But when Raguel was come into his house,

He said to his wife Edna, Send one of the maides, and let them se whether he be aliuie: if not, that I may burye him, & none knowe it.

So the maid opened the dore, and went in, and founde them bothe a slepe,

And came forth, and tolde them that he was aliuie.

Then Raguel praised God, & said, O God, thou art worthe to be praised with all pure, & holic praise: therefore let thy Saintes praise thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels and thine ele & praise thee for euer.

Thou art to be praised, O Lord: for thou hast made me ioyful, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast deale with vs according to great mercie.

Thou art to be praised because thou hast had mercie of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: graunte them mercie, O Lord, & finish their life in health with ioye and mercie.

Then Raguel bade his seruants to fil the graue.

And he kept the wedding feast fourtene daies.

For Raguel had said vnto him by an othe, that he shulde not departe before that the fourtene daies of the mariage were expired,

And then he shulde take the halfe of his goods and returne in safetie to his father, and shulde haue the rest, when he and his wife were dead.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias mariage.

Then Tobias called Raphael, & said vnto him,

Brother Azarias, take with thee a seruant and two camels, and go to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring me the money and bring him to the wedding.

For Raguel hath sworn that I shal not departe.

But my father counteth the daies: and if I tary long, he wil be verie fory.

So Raphael went out and came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who broght forth the bagges which were sealed vp, and gaue them to him.

And in the morning they went forth, bothe together, and came to the wedding. And Tobias begate his wife with child.

Therefore he was verie fory.

Then his wife said to him, My sonne is dead, seing he tarieth: and she began to bwaile him, and said,

Now I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes.

CHAP. XI.

The returne of Tobias to his father. 9 How he was re-

After these things Tobias went his away, praising God that he had giuen
him a prosperous iournay, and blessed Ra-guel and Edna his wife, and went on his way til he drew nere to Nineue.

Then Raphael said to Tobias, Thou knowest, brother, how thou didst leaue thy
father,

Let vs haste be fore thy wife, and prepare
the house,

And take in thine had the gall of the ffish.
So they went their way, & the dogge fol-

Now Anna sate in the way loking for her
sonne,

Whome when she sawe coming, she said
to his father, beholde, thy sonne cometh, &
the man that went with him.

Then said Raphael, I knowe, Tobias, that thy father shal receiue his sight.

Therefore anoint his eyes with the gall,
and being pricked therewith, he shal rube
and make the whitenes to fall away, and shal se thee.

Then Anna rane forth, and sel on the neck of her sonne, and said vnto him, Se-

forthe I am content to dye, and they wep-

Tobit also went forth, towards the do-

to him,

And toke holde of his father & sprinkled
of the gall on his fathers eyes, saying, Be
of good hope, my father.

And when his eyes began to pricke, he rubbed them.

And the whitenes pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when he sawe his sonne, he fel vpon his necke,

And he wept and said, Blessed art thou,
O Lord, & blessed be thy Name for euer,
and blessed be all thine holie Angels.

For thou hast scourged me, and hast had pitie on me: for beholde, I se my sonne Tobias: and his sonne, being glad went in, & tolde his father the great things that had come to passe in Media.

Then Tobit went out to mete his daughter in law, reioycing and praising God
to the gate of Nineue: and they, which sawe him go, marueiled, because he had receiued his sight.

But Tobit testified before them all that God had had pitie on him. And when he came nere to Sarra his daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome,
daughter: God be blessed, which hath brought thee vnto vs, & blessed be thy father:
and there was great ioye among all his brethren which were at Nineue.

And Achibachus & Nafbas his brothers
sonne came.

And Tobias mariage was kept seuen

Then Tobit called his sonne Tobias, and said vnto him, Provide, my sonne, wages for the man, which wēt with thee, and thou must giue him more.

And he said vnto him, O father, it shal not griue me to giue him halfe of those thigs
which I haue brought.

For he hath brought me againe to thee
in safetic, and hath made whole my wife,
and hath brought me the money, & hath likewise healed thee.

Then the olde man said, It is due vnto
him.

So he called the Angel, & said vnto him,
Take halfe of all that ye haue brought, and
go away in safetic.

But he toke them bothe a parte, and said
vnto them, Praise God, and confesse him,
and giue him the glorie, and praise him
for the things which he hath done vnto
you before all them that lue. It is good to praise God, and to exalte his Name,
and to shewe forth his euident workes
with honour: therefore be not wearie to confesse him.

SO Tobit made an end of praising
God.

And he was eight and fiftie yere olde,
when he lost his sight, which was restored
to him after eight yere, and he gaue almes, and he continued to feare the Lord
God, and to praise him.

And when he was verie aged, he called his sonne, and six of his sonnes sonnes, and said to him, My sonne, take thy children (for beholde, I am aged, and am ready to departe out of this life)

Go into Media, my sonne: for I beleue
that those things which Ionas the Prophet
spoke of Nineue, that it shal be destroyed, & for a time peace shal rather be in Media,
and that our brethren shal be scattered in
the earth from that good land, & Ierusalé shal be desolate, and the House of God in it shal be burned, and shal be desolate
for a time.

Yet againe God wil haue pitie on them
and bring them againe into the lād where they shal buylde a Temple, but not like to

fro euerie place out of captiuitie, & buylde
vp Ierusalem gloriously, and the House of God shal be buylt in it for euer with a

And all nations shal turne, and feare the

So shal all nations praise the Lord, & his people shal confesse God, and the Lord

shal exalte his people, and all those which loue the Lord in trueth and iustice, shal

And now, my sonne, departe out of Ni-

Prophet Ionas spake, shal surely come to

But kepe thou the Law, & the commandements, & shewe thy self merciful & iust
that it may go wel with thee.

And burye me honestly, and thy mother with me: but tarie no lóger at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, how a man handled Achiacharus that broght him vp, how out of light he broght him into darkenes, and how he rewarded him againe: yet Achiacharus was faued, but the other had his re-
warde: for he went downe into darkenes.
Manasses gaue almes, & escaped the snare

Aman fell into the snare and perished.

Wherefore now, my sonne, cōsider what almes doeth, and how righteoufnes doeth deliuer. Whē he had said these things, he

And when Anna was dead, he buried her wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel

his father in lawe.

Where he became olde with honour, and
he buried his father and mother in lawe honorably, & he inherited their substance
and Tobits his father.

And he dyed at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundredth and seuē & twentie yere olde.

But before he dyed, he heard of the de-

countrey of Arioch the King of the Elymeans, and verie manie nations assembled them selues to the battel of the sonnes of Chelod.

7 And Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, & to all that dwelt in the West, & to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,

8 And to the people, that are in Carmel, & Galaad, and the hier Galile, and the great field of Esdrelam,

9 And to all that were in Samaria, & the cities thereof, & beyonde Iorden vnto Ieru sale, & Betane, & Chellus, & Cades, & the riuer of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Rameffe and all the land of Gesem,

10 Vnto one come to Tanis, & Memphis, & to all the inhabitants of Egypt, & to one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of this countrey did not passe for the commandement of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, nether wolde they come with him to the battel, for they did not feare him: yea, he was before them as one man: therefore they sent away his ambassadours from them without effect, and with dishonour.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angrie with all this countrey, and sware by his throne and kingdome that he wolde surely be auenged vpon all those coastes of Cilicia and Damascus, and Syria, and that he wolde slay with the sworde all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Iudea, and all that were in Egypt, til one come to the borders of the two seas.

13 Then he marched in battel aray with his power against King Arphaxad in the fiftenth yere, and he preuailed in his battel: for he ouerthrowe all the power of Arphaxad, and all his horse men, and all his chariots.

14 And he wanne his cities, and came vnto Ecbatane, and toke the towres, and spoiled the stetes thereof, and turned the beautie thereof into shame.

15 He toke also Arphaxad in the mountaines of Ragau, & smote him through with his dartes and destroyed him vtterly that daye.

16 So he returned afterwarde to Nineue, bothe he and all his companie with a verie great multitude of men of warre, and there he passed the time, and banketed, bothe he, and his armie an hundredth and twentie dayes.

CHAP. II.

1 Nabuchodonosor commanded presumptuously that all people shoulde be brought in subiection. 6 And to destroy those that disobeyed him. 15 The preparation of Olofernes armie. 25 The conquest of his enemies.

1 And in the eightenth yere, the twentieth day of the fift month, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, that he shoulde aduenge him selfe on all the earth, as he had spoken.

2 So he called vnto him all his officers and all his nobles, and communicated with the his secret counsell, and set before them with his owne mouth all the malice of the earth. 3 Then they decreed to destroye all flesh, that had not obeyed the commandement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsell, Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians called Olofernes his chief captaine, and which was next vnto him, and said vnto him,

5 Thus saith the great King, the lord of the whole earth, Beholde, thou shalt go forth from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of footemen, an hundredth and twentie thousand, & the number of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,

6 And thou shalt go against all the West countrey, because they desobeyed my commandement.

7 And thou shalt declare vnto them, that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I wil go forth in my wrath against them, and wil couer the whole face of the earth with the fere of mine armie, and I wil giue them as a spoyle vnto them,

8 So that their wounded shal fill their valleys, & their riuers, & the flood shal ouerflowe, being filled with their dead.

9 And I wil bring their captiuitie to the vnmest partes of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore shalt departe hence, and take vp for me all their countrey: and if they yelde vnto thee, thou shalt reserve the for me vntil the day that I rebuke the.

11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eye spare the, but put the to death, & spoyle them where soeuer thou goest.

12 For as I liue, and the power of my kingdome, what soeuer I haue spoken, that wil I do by mine hand.

13 And take thou hede that thou transgresse not any of the commandements of thy Lord, but accomplish them fully, as I haue commanded thee, and disferre not to do them.

14 ¶ Then Olofernes went forth from the presence of his lord, and called all the gouernours, and captaines, and officers of the armie of Assur,

15 And he mustred the chosen men for the battel, as his lord had commanded him, vnto an hundredth & twentie thousand, and twelue thousand archers on horsebacke.

16 And he set them in aray according to the manner of setting a great armie in aray.

17 And he toke camels & asses for their burdens,

dens, a very great number, and oxen, & goates without number, and pouison,

18 And vitails for euerie man, and very muche golde & siluer for the Kings house.

19 Then he went forth, and came before in the viage of Nabuchodonosor, & to couer all the earth Westwarde, with their horsemen, and chosen footmen.

20 A great multitude also of came with them like grasshoppers, the grauel of the earth: for was without number.

21 And they went forth on daies iorney toward the coast, and pitched on the mountaine which is at the vpper Cilicia.

22 Then he toke all his armie and horsemen, and charrets, and thence into the mountaines,

23 And he destroyed Phud and spoiled all the children of Reuben, the wilderness at the South of the Iordan.

24 Then he went ouer Euphrate through Mesopotamia, & destroyed his cities that were vpon the river, vntil one come to the sea.

25 And he toke the borders of the South and ouer against the borders of Iapheth, which

26 He compassed also all the children, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoiled their lodges.

27 Then he went downe into Damascus, in the time of the year, and burnt vp all their fields, their flocks and the herds: his cities, and spoiled their cities, and more all their yong men with the sworde.

28 Therefore feare and trembling came on all the inhabitants of the sea, and were in Sidon and Tyrus, and dwelt in Sur & Ocina, & all Iemnaan: & they that dwelt in Ascalon feared him greatly.

- 8 And the children of Israel did as Ioachim the hie Priest had commanded them with the Ancients of all the people of Israel, which dwelt at Ierusalem.
- 9 Then cryed euerie man of Israel to God with great seruencie, and their soules with great affection.
- 10 Bothe they, and their wiues, & their children, and their cattel, and euerie stranger, and hirling, and their boght seruants put sackcloth vpon their loynes.
- 11 Thus euerie man & woman, and the children, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell before the Temple, & sprinkled ashes vpon their heades, and spred out their sackcloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackcloth about the altar,
- 12 And cryed to the God of Israel, all with one consent mosse earnestly, that he wolde not giue their children for a pray, and their wiues for a spoyle, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, & the Sanctuary to pollution and reproche, and vnto derision to the heathen.
- 13 So God heard their prayers, and looked vpon their affliction: for the people fasted many daies in all Iudea and Ierusalem before the Sanctuary of the Lord almightie.
- 14 And Ioachim the hie Priest, and all the Priests that stode before the Lord, & ministred vnto y Lord, had their loynes girt with sackcloth, and offred the continual burnt offering, with praies and the fre giftes of the people,

CHAP. V.

Achior the Ammonite doeth declare to Olofernes of the maner of the Israelites.

- 1 Then was it declared to Olofernes the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut the passages of the mountaines, and had walled all the topes of the hie hilles, and had laied impediments in the champion country.
- 2 Wherewith he was very angrie, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captaines of Ammon, and all the gouernours of the sea coast.
- 3 And he said vnto the, Shewe me, o ye sonnes of Chanaan, who is this people y dwell in the mountaines? and what are the cities that they inhabite? and what is the multitude of their armie? and wherein is their strength and their power? and what

King or captaine is raised among them ouer their armie?

4 And why haue they determined not to come to mete me, more then all the inhabitants of the West?

5 ¶ Then * said Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the worde of the mouth of his seruant, and I wil declare vnto thee the truethe concerning this people, that dwell in these mountaines, nere where thou remainest: & there shal no lie come out of the mouth of thy seruant.

6 This people come of the stocke of the Chaldeans.

7 And they dwelt before in Mesopotamia, because they wolde not follow the gods of their fathes, which were in the land of Chaldea.

8 But they went out of the way of their ancestres and worshipped the God of heauē, the God whome they knewe: so they call them out from the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, & sojourned there many daies.

9 Then * their God commanded them to departe fro the place where they sojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan, where they dwelt, and were increased with golde and siluer, and with very muche cattel.

10 But when a famine couered all the land of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, and dwelt there til they returned, and became there a great multitude, so that one colde not number their linage.

11 * Therefore the King of Egypt rose vp against them, and vsed deceit against them, and broght them lowe with laboring in bricke, and made them selauens.

12 Then they cryed vnto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the * Egyptians cast them out of their sight.

13 And * God dryed the red Sea in their presence, and

14 And * broght them into mount Sina and Cades barne, and cast forthe all that dwell in the wilderness.

15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Eschbon, and passing ouer Iordan, they inherited all the mountaines.

16 And they * cast forthe before them the Chanaanites & the Pherezzites, and the Jebusites, and them of Sichem, and all the Gergesites, and they dwell in that country many daies.

17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hated iniquitie, was with them.

18 But * when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were destroyed in many battels after a wonderful forte, & were led captiues was not theirs: & the Temple was cast to the ground & taken by the enemies.

19 But * now they are turned & are come vp fro the scatter they were scattered, and hath Ierusalem, where their Temple was, in the mountaines which we see. Now therefore, my lord, if there be anie faute in that they haue sinned against thee, let vs consider that this shall be our punishment, and let vs go vp, and we shall see them.

20 But if there be none iniquitie, let my lord passe by, let us defend them, and their God, and we become a reproche to the world.

21 ¶ And when Achior had sayings, all the people, standing about the tent, murmured: & Olofernes, and all that were in Moab, spake to kill him.

22 For say they, we feare not the children of Israel: for lo, it is a people no strength nor power against our armie.

23 Let vs therefore go vp, Olofernes, and they shal be meat for our armie.

Achior blasphemeth God whome he hath delivered into the hands of the Ammonites.

1 And when the tumult that were about the camp, Olofernes, the chief captaine of Assur, said vnto Achior, all the people of the strangers, all the children of Moab, & were hired of Ephraim, because thou hast prophesied to day, and hast said that Ierusalem is able to fight, * God wil defend them: and we shall see Nabuchodonosor.

2 He wil send his power, and shall smite them from the face of the earth: God shal not deliuer them: he wil destroye them as they are not able to susteine our horses.

3 For we wil tread them vnder their feet, and their mountaines shall be filled with their blood, and they shall be filled with their dead bodies: for they shal not be able to stand: but they shal utterly be destroyed.

& are come vp frō the scattering wherein they were scattered, and haue possessed Ie-

CHAP. VI.

*Asimes blasphemeth God whome Achior confessed.
1. Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Be-thulia. 2. The Bethulians crye vnto the Lord.*

1 AND when the tumulte of the men
that were about the counsell, was ceased, Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, said vnto Achior before
all the people of the strangers, and before all the children of Moab, & of them that were hired of Ephraim,

2 Because thou hast prophesied among vs
to day, and hast said that the people of Ie-rusalem is able to fight, * because their God wil defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?

3 He wil send his power, and wil destroye them from the face of the earth, and their God shal not deliuer them: but we his ser-uants wil destroye them as one man: for they are not able to susteine the power of our horses.

4 For we wil tread them vnder fete with them, and their mountaines shalbe drunken with their blood, and their fields shal
be filled with their dead bodies, and their foresleppes shal not be able to stand before vs: but they shal vicerly perish.

5 The King Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth, hathe said, euen he hathe said,

None of my wordes shalbe in vaine.

6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon,
because thou hast spoken these wordes in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt se
my face no more from this day vntil I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.

7 And then shal the yron of mine armie,
and the multitude of them that serue me,
passe through thy sides, and thou shalt fall
among their slayne, when I shal put them
to flight.

8 And my seruants shal cary thee into the mountaines, and they shal leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, til thou be destroyed with them.

9 And if thou persuaide thy self in thy minde, that they shal not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spoken it, and
none of my wordes shalbe in vaine.

10 Then commanded Olofernes them cōcerning Achior, that they shulde bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.

11 So his seruants toke him, and broght him out of the campe into the plaine: and they went out from the middes of the plaine
into the mountaines, and came vnto the fountaines that were vnder Bethulia.

12 And when the men of the citie sawe thē
from the toppes of the mountaine, they to-ke their armour, and went forth of the citie vnto the toppes of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from comming vp, by casting stones
against them.

13 But they went priuely vnder the hill, &
bounde Achior, and left him lying at the
foote of the hill, & returned to their lord.

14 Then the Israelites came downe from their citie, and stode about him, and lofed
him & broght him into Bethulia, & presented him to the gouernours of their citie,

15 Which were in those daies, Ozias the sonne of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon,
and Chabris the sonne of Gorthaniel, &
Charmis the sonne of Melchiel.

16 And they called together all the Ancients of the citie, and all their youth ranne
together, and their women to the assmble: and they set Achior in the middes of all their people. Then Ozias asked him
of that which was done.

17 And he answered & declared vnto them
the wordes of the counsell of Olofernes,
and all the wordes that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur, and whatsoever Olofernes had spoken proudely against the house of Israel.

18 Then the people fel downe and worshipped God, and cryed vnto God, saying,

pride, and haue mercie on the basenes of our people, and beholde this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.

20 Then they comforted Achior, & praised him greatly.

21 And Ozias toke out of the assemblie into his house, & made a feast to the Elders, and they called on the God of Israel all that night for helpe.

CHAP. VII.

1 Olofernes doeth besiege Bethulia. 2 The counsel of the Idumeans and other against the Israelites. 3 The Bethulians murmure against their gouernours for lacke of water.

THe next day, Olofernes commanded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his parte, that thei shulde remoue their campes against Bethulia, and that they shulde take all the streites of the hill, and to make warre against the children of Israel.

2 Then their strong men remoued their camps in that daye, and the armie of the men of warre was an hundred thousand and seuentie foremen, & twelue thousand horseme, beside the baggage & other men that were afote among them, a very great multitude.

3 And they camped in the plaine nere vnto Bethulia, by the fountaine, and thei spread abroad toward Dothaim vnto Belbaim, and in length from Bethulia vnto Ciamô, which is ouer against Esdraelom.

4 Now the children of Israel, when they sawe y multitude, were greatly troubled, & said euerie one to his neighbour, Now wil they shut vp all the whole earth: for neither the hic mountaines nor the vailleis, nor y hilles are able to abide their burden.

5 Then euerie one toke his weapôs of warre, and burning fyres in their towres, they remained and watched all that night.

6 But in the secôde day, Olofernes brought forth the all his horsemen in the fight of the childrê of Israel, which were in Bethulia,

7 And viewed the passages vp to their citie, and came to the fountaines of their waters, & toke the & set garisons of men of warre ouer the, and remoued toward his people.

8 Then came vnto him all the chief of the children of Esau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, & all the captains of the sea coast, and said,

9 Let our captain now heare a worde, lest an inconuenience come in thine armie.

10 For this people of the children of Israel do not trust in their speares, but in the height of the mountaines, wherein they dwell, because it is not easy to come vp to the toppes of their mountaines.

11 Now therefore, my lord, fight not against them in battel array, and there shal not so much as one man of thy people perish.

12 Remaine in thy campe, and kepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy men kepe still the water of the countrey, that cometh forth at the fore of the mountaine.

13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water thereof: so shal thirst kill the, and they shal giue vp their citie: and we and our people wil go vp to the toppes of the mountaines that are nere, & wil campe vpon them, & wathe that none go out of the citie.

14 So thei & their wiues, & their children shalbe consumed with famine, & before the sworde come against the, thei shalbe ouerthrowen in y stretes where thei dwell.

15 Thus shalt thou rêder them an euil reward, because thei rebelled & obeyed not thy persone peaceably.

16 And these wordes pleased Olofernes & all his soldiers, and he appointed to do as they had spoken.

17 So the campe of the children of Ammon departed, & with them six thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, & toke the waters, and the fountaines of the waters of the childrê of Israel.

18 Then the children of Esau went vp with the children of Ammon, & camped in the mountaines ouer against Dothaim, & thei sent some of the selues toward the South, and toward the East, ouer against Rebel, which is nere vnto Chusi, that is vpon the riuer Mochmur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the field, and couered the whole land: for their tents & their baggage were pitched in a wonderful great place.

19 Then the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord their God, because their heart failed: for all their enemies had compassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.

20 Thus all the companie of Assur remained about them, bothe their foremen, chariots and horsemen, foure and thirtie dayes: so that euê all the places of their waters failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

21 And the cisterns were emptie, and they had not water ynough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.

22 Therefore their children swoned, and their wiues & yong men failed for thirst, and fel downe in the stretes of the citie, & by the passages of the gates, and there was no strength in them.

23 Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the citie, bothe yong men and women, and children, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said before all the Elders,

24 The Lord iudge betwene vs & you: for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that ye haue

haue not required peace of Assur.

people assembled to Ozias,
hief of the citie, bothe yong
men, and children, and cryed
voyce, and said before all the

udge betwene vs & your: for God
vs great iniurie, in that ye

haue not required peace of the children of Assur.

For now we haue no helper: but God ha-
the folde vs into their hands, that we shul-de be thrown downe before them with thirst and great destruction.

Now therefore call them together, & deli-
uer the whole citie for a spoile to y<sup>e</sup> people of Olofernes, and to all his armie.

For it is better for vs to be made a spoile
vnto the, then to dye for thirst: for we wil
be his seruants that we may liue, & not se
y<sup>e</sup> death of our infants before our eyes, nor
our wiues, nor our children to dye.

We take to witnes against you the heauē
and the earth, & our God and Lord of our fathers, which punissheth vs, according to our sinnes & the finnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.

Then there was a great crye of all y<sup>e</sup> one cōsent in y<sup>e</sup> middes of the assemblie, & thei
cryed vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lord God wth a loude voyce.

Then said Ozias to the, Brethren, be of good courage: let vs waite yet five daies,
in the which space the Lord our God may turne his mercie toward vs: for he wil not forsake vs in the end.

And if these daies passe, and there come not helpe vnto vs, I wil do according to your worde.

So he separated the people, euerie one vn-
to their charge, & thei wet vnto the walles
and towres of their citie, & sent their wiues & their children into their houses, and they were very lowe broght in the citie.

CHAP. VIII.

The parentage, life & conuersation of Iudeth. 11 She rebiketh the faintenes of the gouernours. 12 She sheweth that they shoulde not tempe God, but wait vpon him for succours. 33 Her enterprise against the enemies.

Now at that time, Iudeth heard thereof, which was the daughter of Me-
tati the sonne of Ox, the sonne of Ioseph,
the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Elcia, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Gedeō, the sonne of Raphaim, the sonne of Acito, the sonne of Eliu, the sonne of Eliab, the sonne of Nathanael, the sonne of Samael, y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Salasadai, the sonne of Israel.

And Manasses was her housband, of her stocke and kindred, who dyed in the barely haruest.

For as he was diligēt ouer the that boude sheaues in y<sup>e</sup> field, the heat came vpon his head, & he fel vpon his bed, & dyed in the citie of Bethulia, & thei buryed him with his fathers in the field betwene Dorthaim and Balamo.

So Iudeth was in her house a widowe thre
yeres and foure moneths.

And she made her a tente vpon her house,
and put on sackcloth on her loynes, and
ware her widowes apparel.

And she fasted all y<sup>e</sup> daies of her widow-

hode, saue the day before the Sabbath and the Sabbaths, and the day before the newe
moones, & in the feastes & solemne daies
of the house of Israel.

She was also of a goodlie countenance &
very beautiful to beholde: & her housband Manasses had left her golde & siluer, and men seruants, and maide seruants, and cat-
tel, and possessions, where she remained.

And there was none y<sup>e</sup> colde bring an euil
reporte of her: for she feared God greatly.

Now when she heard y<sup>e</sup> euil wordes of the people against the gouernour, because thei fainted for lacke of waters (for Iudeth had heard all the wordes y<sup>e</sup> Ozias had spoken
vnto them, and that he had s<sup>o</sup> sworne vnto
the to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrians
within five daies)

Then she sent her maide y<sup>e</sup> had the governement of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis the Ancients of the Citie.

And they came vnto her, and she said vnto them, Heare me, y<sup>e</sup> gouernours of the inhabitantes of Bethulia: for your wordes y<sup>e</sup>
ye haue spokē before the people this day,
are not right, touching this othe which ye
made & pronounced betwene God & you, & haue promised to deliuer y<sup>e</sup> citie to the enemies, vnles within these daies the Lord
turne to helpe you.

And now who are you that haue temptred
God this day, & set your selues in the place
of God among the children of men?

So now you seke the Lord almightie, but you shal neuer knowe any thing.

For you can not finde out y<sup>e</sup> depth of the heart of mā, nether can ye perceiue y<sup>e</sup> things
y<sup>e</sup> he thinketh: the how can you search out God, that hath made all these things, and knowe his minde, or comprehend his purpose? Nay my brethren, prouoke not the Lord our God to anger.

For if he wil not helpe vs within these five daies, he hath power to defend vs
when he wil, euen euerie day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.

Do not you therefore binde y<sup>e</sup> counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man
that he may be threatned, nether as y<sup>e</sup> son-
ne of man to be broght to iudgement.

Therefore let vs waite for saluacion of him & call vpon him to helpe vs, & he wil
heare our voyce if it please him.

For there appeareth none in our age, nether is there any now in these daies, nether tribe, nor familie, nor people, nor citie a-mōg vs, which worship y<sup>e</sup> gods made with hands, as hath bene afore time.

For y<sup>e</sup> which cause our fathers were giue
to the sworde, & for a spoile, & had a great
fall before our enemies.

But we knowe none other God: therefore we trust that he wil not despise vs, nor any of our linage.

21 Nether when we shalbe taken,shal Iudea be so famous: for our Sanctuarie shalbe spoiled, and he wil require the prophana- tion thereof at our mouth,

22 And the feare of our brethren, and the captiuitie of the cuntry,& the desolatio of our inheritance wil he turne vpon our heads amog the Gentiles,wherefoeuer we shalbe in bondage, & we shalbe an offen- ce & a reproche to all the that possesse vs.

23 For our seruitude shal not be directed by fauour, but the Lord our God shal turne it to dishonour.

24 Now therefore, o brethren, let vs shewe an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs,& the Sanctuarie, & the House, and the altar rest vpon vs.

25 Moreouer, let vs giue thanks to the Lord our God, which tryeth vs euen as he did our fathers.

Gen. 12.1.

26 Remember what things he did to Abraham, and how he tryed Isaac, and all that he did to Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria when he kept the shepe of Laban his mothers brother.

Gen. 27.1

27 For he hathe not tryed vs as he did them to the examination of their hearts,nether doeth he take vengeance on vs, but the Lord punisheth for instruction them that come nere to him.

28 ¶ Then said Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to resist thy wordes.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisdom is known, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue known thy wisdom: for the deuce of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirstie, and compelled vs to do vnto them, as we haue spoken, & haue broght vs to an othe which we may not transgresse.

31 Therefore now pray for vs, because thou art an holy woma, that the Lord may send vs rayne to fill our cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then said Iudeth vnto them, Heare me, and I wil do a thing, which shalbe declared in all generations, to the children of our nation.

33 You shal stand this night in the gate, and I wil go forth with mine handmaid: and within the daies that ye haue promised to deliuer the citie to our enemies, the Lord wil visit Israel by mine hand.

34 But inquire not you of mine acte: for I wil not declare it vnto you, til the things be finished that I do.

35 Then said Ozias & the princes vnto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wardes.

CHAP. IX.

1 Iudeth humbleth her self before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliuerance of her people. 7 Against the pride of the Assyrians. 11 God is the hope of the humble.

2 THEN Iudeth fel vpon her face, and put ashes vpon her head, and put of the sackcloth wherewith she was clothed. And about the time that the incense of that euening was offred in Ierusalem in the House of the Lord, Iudeth cryed with a loude voyce, and said,

3 O Lord God of my father Simon, to whom thou gauest a sword to take vengeance of the strangers which opened the wombe of the maide, and defiled her, and discouered the thigh with shame, and polluted the wombe to reproche (for thou hast commanded that it shoulde not so be,

4 Yet thei did things for the which thou gauest their princes to the slaughter, for they were deceiued & washed their beds with blood) and hast stricken the seruants with the gouernours, and the gouernours vpon their thrones,

5 And hast giuen their wiues for a pray and their daughters to be captiues, & all their spoiles for a bootie to thy children that thou loudest: which were moued with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, & called vpon thee for aide, o God, o my God, heare me also a widdowe.

6 For thou hast wrought the things afore, & these, and the things that shalbe after, and thou considerest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

7 For the things which I doe purpose, are present, & say, Beholde, we are here: for all thy waies are ready, & thy iudgements are foreknown.

8 Beholde, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they haue exalted the schutes with horses & horsemen: they glorie in the strength of their sotemen: they trust in shield, speare and bowe, and sling, and do not knowe that thou art o Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

9 Breake thou their strength by thy power, and breake their force by thy wrath: for they haue purposed to defile thy Sanctuarie, & to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, and to cast downe with weapons the hornes of the altar.

10 Beholde their pride, and send thy wrath vpon their heads: giue into mine hand which am a widow, strength which I haue conceiued.

11 Smite by the deceit of my lippes the seru- ant with the prince, and the prince with the seruant: abate their height by the hand of a woman.

12 For thy power standeth not in the multitude, nor thy might in strong men: but thou,

o Lord, art the helpe of the little ones, the defender of the protectors of them that are wretched, the Saviour of them that are wretched. Surely, surely thou art the Lord, & the God of thy inheritance, the Lord of heauen and earth, the Lord of the waters, the King of the world, heare thou my prayer, And grant me wordes & clemencie, and a stroke against the cruel things against thy con- trary thine holy House, & against the people of Sion, and against the possession of thy children. Shewe evidently among all the tribes, that they knowe thou art the God of all power, & that there is none other God, the people of Israel, but thou.

CHAP. X.

1 Iudeth decketh her self & goeth forth to take of the watch of the Assyrian sentinels.

2 NOW after she had ceased to the God of Israel, the end of all these wordes, She rose where she had fallen, called her maide, & went to the house, in the which she abode, bath daies and in the feast. And putting away the sackcloth with the was clad, & putting on ornaments of her widowhood, she bathed her body with water, & anointed her with ointment, & dressed the head, and put attire vpon it, and put on ornaments of gladnes, wherewith she used during the life of Manasse. And she put slippers on her feet, & bracelets, & sleeves, and rings, all her ornaments, and she decked brauely to allure the eyes of the men that shoulde see her.

3 Then she gaue her maide a pottle, and a pot of oyle, and a bag of flour, & with drye figs, & bread: so she lapped vp all together and laid them vpon the ground. Thus they went forth to the citie of Bethulia, and found Ozias, and the ancients of the citie, and Charnis.

4 And when they sawe her changed, & that her garments were changed, they maruelled greatly at her beaurie, and said vnto her, The God, o God of our fathers, hath fauoured, and accomplished thy prayer, to the glorie of the children of Israel, to the exaltation of Ierusalem, and to the worship of God.

CHAP. X.

Iudeth decketh her self & goeth forth to the citie. 11 She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians and brought to Olo-fernes.

NOW after she had ceased to crye vn-
to the God of Israel, and had made
an end of all these wordes,

2 She rose where she had fallen downe, and called her maide, & went downe into the house, in the which she abode in the Sabbath daies and in the feast daies,

3 And putting away the sackcloth where-
with she was clad, & putting of the gar-

body with water, & anointed it with muche
ointment, & dressed the hewe of her head,
and put attire vpon it, and put on her garments of gladnes, wherewith she was clad
during the life of Manasses her housbād.

4 And she put slippers on her fete, & put on bracelets, & sleues, and rings, & earrings, &
all her ornaments, and she decked her selfe brauely to allure the eyes of all men that shulde see her.

5 Then she gaue her maide a bottel of wine, and apot of oyle, and filled a scrippe
with floure, & with drye figges, & with fine bread: so she lapped vp all these things together and laid them vpon her.

6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the citie of Bethulia, and found standing there Ozias, and the ancients of the citie, Cha-bris and Charmis.

7 And whē they sawe her that her face was changed, & that her garment was chāged,
they marueiled greatly at her wonderful
beautie, and said vnto her,

8 The God, y God of our fathers giue thee
fauour, and accomplish thine enterprises
to the glorie of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Ierusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And she said vnto them, Cōmande the gates of the citie to be opened vnto me, that I may go forth to the accomplish the things which you haue spoken to me. So they cōmanded the yong men to open vnto her,

as she had spoken.

10 And when they had done so, Iudeth wēt out, she and her maide with her, and the men of the citie looked after her, vntil she was gone downe the mountaine, and til
she had passed the valley, and colde see her
no more.

11 Thus they went streight forth in the valley, and the first watche of the Assyriās
met her,

12 And toke her, & asked her, Of what people art thou? and whēce comest thou? and whether goest thou? And she said, I am a womā of the Hūbrewes, and am fled from them: for they shalbe giuen you to be consumed.

13 And I come before Olofernes, the chief
captaine of your armie, to declare him
true things, and I wil shewe before him
the way wherby he shal go and winne all
the mountaines, without losing the bodie
or life of anie of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her wordes, & beheld her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beautie, and said vnto her,

15 Thou hast saued thy life, in that thou hast hastened to come downe to the presence of our lord: now therefore come to his tente, and some of vs shal cōduct thee
vntil thei haue deliured thee into his hands.

16 And when y standest before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but shewe vnto him
according as thou hast to say, and he wil
intreat thee wel.

17 Then they chose out of the an hundredth men, and prepared a charet for her and her maide, and brought her to the tent of Olofernes.

18 Then there was a running to and fro,
throughout the campe: for her comming
was bruted among the tentes: & thei came
and stode rounde about her: for she stode
without the tent of Olofernes vntil they had declared vnto him concerning her.

19 And they marueiled at her beautie, and wondered at the children of Israel because of her, & euerie one said vnto his neighbour, Who wolde despise this people, that haue among the suche women: surely it is not good that one mā of them be left: for if thei shulde remaine, they might deceiue
the whole earth.

20 Then Olofernes garde went out, and all his seruantes, and they brought her into the tente.

21 Now Olofernes rested vpon his bed vn-
der a canopie, which was wouen with purple and golde and emeraudes, and precious stones.

Iudeth.

- 22 So they shewed him of her, and he came forthe vnto the entrie of his tent, and they caried lampes of siluer before him.
 23 And when Iudeth was come before him and his seruants, they all marueiled at the beautie of her countenance, and she fel downe vpon her face, & did reuerence vnto him, & his seruants toke her vp.

CHAP. XI.

Olofernes comforteth Iudeth. 3 And asketh the cause of her comming. 5 She deceiueth him by her faire wordes.

Then said Olofernes vnto her, Womā, be of good comfort: feare not in thine heart: for I neuer hurt any that wolde serue Nabuchodonosor y King of all the earth.

Now therefore if thy people that dwelleth in the mountaines, had not despised
 me, I wolde not haue lifted vp my speare against them: but they haue procured these things to them selues.

But now tel me wherefore thou art fled
 from them, and art come vnto vs: for thou
 art come for safegard: be of good confort,
 thou shalt liue fro this night, & hereafter.

For none shal hurt thee, but intreat thee
 wel, as they do the seruants of King Na-buchodonosor my lord.

Then Iudeth said vnto him, Receiue the wordes of thy seruāt, & suffer thine handmaide to speake in thy presence, and I wil
 declare no lie to my lord this night.

And if thou wilt follow the wordes of thine handmaide, God wil bring the thing
 perfectly to passe by thee, & my lord shal
 not faile of his purpose.

As Nabuchodonosor King of all y earth
 liueth, and as his power is of force, who hath sent thee to reforme all persones, nor onely men shal be made subiect to him by thee, but also the beastes of the fields, & the cattel, & the fowles of the heauen shal liue
 by thy power vnder Nabuchodonosor &
 all his house.

For we haue heard of thy wisdom and of thy prudent spirit, & it is declared through the whole earth, that thou onely art excellent in all the kingdom, and of a wonderful knowledge, and in feates of warre
 marueilous.

Chap. xi. Now as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in thy counsel, we haue
 heard his wordes: for the men of Bethulia
 did take him, & he declared vnto them all that he had spoken vnto thee.

Therefore, o lord & gouernour, reiect
 not his wordes, but set it in thine heart, for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, nether can the sworde preui-le against them, except they sinne against their God.

Now therefore lest my lord shulde be frustrate, and voide of his purpose, & that death may fall vpon them, and that they may be taken in their sinne whiles they prouoke their God to anger, which is so oft times as they do that which is not be-seming,

(For because their vittails faile, and all their water is wasted, they haue determined to take their cattel, and haue purposed
 to consume all things that God had for-bidden them to eat by his Lawes:

Yea, they haue purposed to consume the first frutes of the wheat, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oile which they had reserved and sanctified for the Priests that serue in Ierusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawfull for
 anie of the people to touche w their hāds.

Moreover they haue sent to Ierusalem,

Now when they shal bring them wordes,

Wherefore I thine handmaide, knowing all this, am fled from their presence, and God hath sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shal wonder, &
 whosoever shal heare it.

For thy seruāt seareth God, and worshipeth the God of heauē day and night,
 and now let me remaine with thee, my lord, and let thy seruāt go out in the night into the valley, and I wil pray vnto God, that he may reueile vnto me when they shal commit their sinnes,

And I wil come and shewe it vnto thee:
 then thou shalt go forthe with all thine ar-

 resist thee.

And I wil lead thee through the middes
 of Iudea, vntil thou come before Ierusa-

 thereof, and thou shalt driue them as shepe
 that haue no shepherd, and a dogge shal
 not barke with his mouthe against thee:
 for these things haue bene spokē vnto me,
 & declared vnto me accordig to my fore-
 knowledge, and I am sent to shewe thee.

¶ Then her wordes pleased Olofernes,
 and all his seruants, and they marueiled at
 her wisdom, and said,

There is not suche a woman in all the
 worlde, bothe for beautie of face, and wis-

Likewise Olofernes said vnto her, God
 hath done this, to send thee before y people, that strength might be in our hāds, and destruction vpo the that despise my lord.

And now thou art bothe beautiful in thy

CHAP. XII.

1 Iudeth made not pollute her self with the meat of the Gentiles. 2 She maketh her request that she might go by night so pray. 11 Olofernes causeth her to come to the banquet.

Then he commanded to bring her in where his treasures were layed, and bade that they shulde prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she shulde drin-

3 But Iudeth said, *I may not eat of them, lest there shulde be an offence, but I can suffice my selfe with the things that I ha-

4 Then Olofernes said vnto her, If the things that thou hast, shulde faile, how shul-
de we giue thee the like? for there is none
with vs of thy nation.

5 Then said Iudeth vnto him, As thy sou-

not spend those things that I haue, before the Lord worke by mine hand the things
that he hath determined.

6 Then the seruants of Olofernes broght
her into the rent, and she slept vntil midnight, and rose at the morning watche,

7 And sent to Olofernes, saying, Let my lord comāde that thine hādmaide may go forth vnto prayer.

8 Then Olofernes commanded his garde
that thei shuld not stay her: thus she abode
in the campe three dayes, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her self in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.

9 And when she came out, she prayed vnto
the Lord God of Israel, that he wolde direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.

10 So she returned, & remained pure in the rent, vntil she ate her meat at euening.

11 And in the fourthe day, Olofernes made a feast to his owne seruants onely, and called none of them to the bāket, that had
the affaires in hand.

12 Thē said he to Bagoas the eunuche who had charge ouer all that he had, Go and persuade this Hebrew woman, which is
with thee, that she come vnto vs and eat, &
drinke with vs.

13 For it were a shame for vs, if we shulde
let suche a womā alone, & not talke wth her,
& if we do not allure her, she wil mocke vs.

14 Then wēt Bagoas frō the presence of Olofernes, & came to her, & said, Let not this faire maide make difficultie to go into my lord, & to be honored in his presence, and to drinke wine with vs ioyfully, & to be interred as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

15 Then said Iudeth vnto him, Who am I now, that I shulde gaine say my lord? Surely whatsoeuer pleaseh him, I wil do spe-
dely, and it shalbe my ioye vnto the day
of my death.

16 So she arose & trimmed her w<sup>g</sup> garments,
and with all y<sup>e</sup> ornaments of women, & her maide wēt, & spred for her skannes on the groude ouer against Olofernes, which she had receiued of Bagoas for her daily vsē,
that she might sit and eat vpon them.

17 Now when Iudeth came & sat downe, Olofernes heart was rauished with her,
and his spirit was moued, and he desired
greatly her companie: for he had waited for the time to deceiue her from the day
that he had sene her.

18 Then said Olofernes vnto her, Drinke
now, and be mery with vs.

19 So Iudeth said, I drinke now, my lord,
because my state is exalted this day more
then euer it was since I was borne.

20 Thē she toke, & ate & drake before him
the things, that her maide had prepared.

21 And Olofernes reioyced because of her & drake muche more wine thē he had drūke
at anie time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iudeth praith for strength. 2 She smiteth of Olofernes ne-
cke. 10 She returneth to Bethulia & reioyeth her people.

Now whē the euening was come, his seruants made haste to departe, and Bagoas shut his tent without, & dismissed
those that were present, from the presence
of his lord, & they went to their beddes:
*for they were all wearie, because the feast
had bene long. Ecc. 3. 18.

2 And Iudeth was left alone in the rent, & Olofernes was stretched along vpon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

3 Now Iudeth had comāded her maide to stād without her chāber, & to waite for her comīng forth as she did daily: for she said, she wolde go forth to her prayers, &
she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

4 So all went forth of her presence, & none was left in the chāber, nether litle nor great: thē Iudeth standing by his bed, said
in her heart, O Lord God of all power, be-

hands for the exaltation of Ierusalem.

all her might, and she toke away his head from him,

9 And roled his bodie downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie from the pillars, and anone after she went forth, & gaue Olofernes head to her maid,

10 And she put it in her scrippe of meat: so they twaine went together according to their custome vnto prayer, and preising through the tentes, went about by that valley, and went vp the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates therof.

11 ¶ The said Iudeth asfarre of to the watchmen at the gates, Open now the gate: God, euen our God is with vs to shewe his power yet in Ierusalem, and his force against his enemies, as he hath euen done this day.

12 Now whē the men of her citie heard her voyce, thei made haste to go downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the citie.

13 And thei ranne all together bothe smale and great: for it was about their expectation, that she shulde come. So they opened the gate & receiued her, & made a fyre for a light, & stode rounde about the twaine.

14 Then she said to the with a loude voyce, Praise God, praise God: for he hath not taken away his mercie from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.

15 So she toke the head out of the scrippe & shewed it, and said vnto them, Beholde the head of Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, and beholde the canopie, wherein he did lie in his drunkenes, & the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.

16 As the Lord liueth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceived him to his destruction, & he hath not committed sinne with me by anie pollution or vilenie.

17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed them selues, and worshipped God, and said with one accorde, Blessed be thou, O our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

18 Then said Ozias vnto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the moste his God aboue all the women of the earth, and blessed be the Lord God, which hath created the heauens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting of of the head of the chief of our enemies.

19 Surely this thine hope shal neuer departe out of the heartes of men: for they shal remember the power of God for euer.

20 And God turne these things to thee for a perpetual praise, and visite thee with good things, because thou hast not spared thy life, because of the affliction of our nation, but thou hast holpen our ruine, walking a streight way before our God. And all the people said, So be it, so be it.

5 But before you do these things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may see, and knowe him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when he was come and sawe the head of Olofernes in a certeine mans hand in the assemblie of the people, he fell downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, he fel at Iudeths fete, & reuerenced her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacle of Iuda, and in all nations, which, hearing thy name, shalbe astonished.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Assyrians are afraied and flee. 2 The Israelites pursue them. 3 Ioachim the hie Priest cometh to Be-thulia to se Iudeth and to praise God for her.

And whē thei that were in the tents,
heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.

And feare and trembling fel vpon them,
so that there was no man that durst abide
in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amased, thei fled by euerie way of the plaine and of the mountaines.

They also that had camped in the moun-taines rounde about Bethulia, were put to flight: the children of Israel, eueryone
that was a warrior among them, rushed out vpon them.

Then sent Ozias to Bethomasthem, and to Bebaj, and Chobaj, and Chola and to all the coastes of Israel, suche as shulde declare vnto them the things that were done, and that all shulde rush: forthe vp-
on their enemies to destroy them.

Now when the children of Israel heard
it, they all fell vpon them together vnto
Choba: likewise also thei that came from Ierusalem & from all the mountaines: for men had tolde the what things were done
in the campe of their enemies, and they
that were in Galaad and in Galilee chased them with a great slaughter vntil they came to Damascus and to the coastes thereof.

And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia,
fel vpon the campe of Assur and spoiled
them, and were greatly enriched.

And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter, had the rest: & the villages & the cities that were in the moun-
taines & in the plaine, had a great bootie:
for the abundance was verie great.

Then Ioachim the hie Priest, and the Ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Ierusalem, came to confirme the benefites that God had shewed to Israel, and to se Iudeth, and to salute her.

And when they came vnto her, thei blef-
sed her with one accorde, & said vnto her,
Thou art the exaltacion of Ierusalem:
thou art the great glorie of Israel: thou
art the great reioycing of our nation.

Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done muche good to Israel, & God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the almightie Lord for euer-
more: and all the people said, So be it.

And the people spoyled the campe the space of thirtie daies, and thei gaue vnto Iudeth Olofernes tent, and all his siluer & beddes, and basins, and all his stuffe, & the toke it and laied it on her mules, & made readie her charets, & laied them thereon.

Then all the women of Israel came together to se her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her, and the toke branches in her hand, and gaue also to the women that were with her.

They also crowned her with oliues, and her that was with her, and she went before the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour, with crownes and with songs in their mouthes.

*Iudeth praiseth God with a song. 19 She offereth to the Then Iudeth began this confession in all Israel, and all the people sang this song with a loude voyce.

And Iudeth said, Beginne vnto my God
with tymbrels: sing to my Lord with cymbales: tune vnto him a psalme: exalt his praise, and call vpon his Name.

For God breaketh the battels, and pitched

5 He said that he wolde burne vp my borders & kill my yong men with the sworde, and dash the sucking children against the ground, & make mine infants as a pray, and my virgines a spoile.

6 But the almightie Lord hathe brought them to naught by the hand of a woman.
7 For the mightie did not fall by the yong men, nether did the sonnes of Tiran smite him, nor the hie gyants inuade him, but Iudeth the daughter of Merari did discomfort him by the beautie of her countenance.

8 For she put of the garment of her widowhode, for the exaltacion of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bounde vp her heere in a coife, and toke a linen garment to deceiue him.

9 Her slippers rauished his eyes: her beautie toke his minde prisoner, and the fauchin passed through his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldenes, and the Medes were troubled with her hardines.

11 But mine afflicted reioyced, & my feble ones shewted: then they feared, they lifted vp their voyce and turned backe.

12 The children of maides perced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battel of the Lord.

13 I wil sing vnto the Lord a song and praise, O Lord, thou art great and glorious, maruelous and inuincible in power.

*Gm. 1. 24.
psal. 33. 9.*

14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: * for thou hast spoken and they were made: thou hast sent thy Spirit, and he made them vp: & there is none that can resist thy voyce.

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their fundacions with the waters: the rockes melt at thy presence like waxe: yet thou art mercifull to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is to litle for a swete sa-

uour, and all the fat is to litle for thy burne offering: but he that feareth the Lord, is great at all times.

17 Wo to the nacions that rise vp against my kinred: the Lord almightie wil take vengeance of them in the day of iudgement, in sending fyre and wormes vpon their flesh, and they shal fele them & wepe for euer.

18 ¶ After, when they went vnto Ierusalem, they worshipped the Lord, and aslone as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their fre offerings, and their giftes.

19 Iudeth also offered all the stuffe of Olofernes, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopie which she had taken of his bed, for an oblation to the Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Ierusalem by the Sanctuarie, for the space of thre moneths, and Iudeth remained with them.

21 After this time, euerie one returned to his owne inheritance, and Iudeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honorable in all the countrey.

22 And manie desired her, but none had her companie all the dayes of her life after that Manasses her housband was dead, & was gathered to " his people.

23 But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed olde in her housbands house, being an hundreth and fise yere olde, & made her maid fre: so she dyed in Bethulia, and they buryed her in the graue of her housband Manasses.

24 And * the house of Israel lamented her seuen daies, & before she dyed, she did distribute her goods to all them that were next of kinred to Manasses her housband, and to them that were the next of her kinred.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel anie more afraied in the daies of Iudeth, nor a long time after her death.

WHEN Mardocheus said,
God hath done these things.

For I remember a dreame, which I sawe concerning these matters, and there was nothing there of omitted.

A little fountaine which became a flood, and was a light, and as the sunne, & as much water, this flood was Esther whome the King married, and made Queene.

And the two dragons are I and Aman.

And the people are they that are assembled to destroye the name of the Iewes.

And my people is Israel, which cryed to God, and are saued: for the Lord hath saved his people, and the Lord hath deliuered vs from all these euils, and God hath wrought signes, and great wonders, which haue not bene done among the Gentiles.

Therefore hath he made two lottes, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

And these two lottes came before God for all nations, at the houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

So God remembered his owne people, & iustified his inheritance.

Therefore those dayes shall be vnto thee in the moneth Adar y<sup>e</sup> fortenth and fifteth day of the same moneth, with an assemblie and ioye, and with gladnes before God, according to the generations for euer among his people.

In the second yere of the reigne of great Artaxerxes in the first day of the moneth Nisan Mardocheus the sonne of Iarus, the sonne of Semei the sonne of Cis of the tribe of Benjamin had a dreame,

A Iewe dwelling in the citie of Susis, a nobleman, that bare office in y<sup>e</sup> Kings court. He was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon brought from Ierusalem with Iechonias.

And this was his dreame, Beholde a noice

of a tempest with thunders, and earth quakes, and vproare in the land.

Beholde two great dragons came forth ready to fight one against another.

Their crye was great, whereby all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

And the same day was full of darkenes & obscuritie, & trouble, & anguish: yea, aduersitie, and great affliction was vpon y<sup>e</sup> earth.

For then the righteous fearing their afflictions, were amazed, and being ready to dye, cryed vnto God.

And while they were crying, the litle wel grewe into a great riuer, and flowed ouer with great waters.

The light & the sunne rose vp, & y<sup>e</sup> lowlie were exalted, & deuoured the glorious.

Now when Mardocheus had sene this dreame, he awoke and rose vp and thought in his heart vntill y<sup>e</sup> night, what God wolde do, & so he desired to know all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

AT the same time dwelt Mardocheus in the Kings court with Bagathas, and Thara, the Kings eunuches & keepers of the palace.

*But when he heard their purpose, and their imaginacion, he perceived that they went about to lay their hands vpon the King Artaxerxes, and so he certified the King thereof.

Then caused the King to examine y<sup>e</sup> two eunuches with torments, and when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

This the King caused to be put in the Chronicles. Mardocheus also wrote the same thing.

So the King comanded that Mardocheus shulde remaine in the court, and for the aduertisement, he gaue him a rewarde.

But Ama the sonne of Amadathus y<sup>e</sup> Agagite, who was in great honour and reputacion with the King, went about to hurt Mardocheus & his people, because of the two eunuches of y<sup>e</sup> King y<sup>e</sup> were put to death.

chap. 6.

- 2 When I was made lord ouer manie people, & had subdued the whole earth vnto my dominion, I wolde not exalte my self by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway and getelines to gouerne my subiects, and wholly to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdome vnto traquillitie, that me might safely go thorow on euerie side, and to renew peace againe, which all men desire.
- 3 Now when I asked, my counsellers how these things might be broght to passe, one that was conuersant with vs, of excellent wisdom, and constant in good wil, and shewed him self to be of sure fidelitie, which had the seconde place in the kingdome, euen Aman,
- 4 Declared vnto vs, that in all naciōs there was scatered abroad a rebellious people, that had Lawes contrarie to all people, and haue alway dispised the commandments of Kings, and so that this general empire, that we haue begonne, can not be gouerned without offence.
- 5 Seing now we perceiue, that this people alone are altogether contrarie vnto euerie man, vsing strange and other maner of lawes, and hauing an euil opinion of our doings, and go about to stablishe wicked matters, that our kingdome shulde not come to good estate,
- 6 Therefore haue we commanded, that all they that are appointed in writing vnto you by Aman (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, & is as our seconde father) shal all with their wiues and childre be destroyed and rooted out with the sword of their enemies without all mercie, and that none be spared the fortieth day of the twelfth moneth Adar of this yere,
- 7 That they which of olde, and now also haue euer bene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thruste downe into the hell, to the intente that after this time our affaires may be without troubles, and wel gouerned in all pointes.
- 8 Then Mardocheus thoght vpon all the workes and of the Lord, and made his prayer vnto him,
- 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the King almighty (for all things are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man that can withstande thee.
- 10 For thou hast made heauen and earth, and all the wonderous things vnder the heauen.
- 11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.
- 12 Thou knowest all things, & thou knowest, Lord, that it was nether of malice, nor presumption, nor for anie desire of glorie, that I did this, and not bowe downe to proude Aman.

13 For I wolde haue bene content with good wil for the saluation of Israel, to haue kist the sole of his fere.

14 But I did it, because I wolde not preferre the honour of a man aboue the glorie of God, and wolde not worship anie but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.

15 And therefore, O Lord God and King, haue mercie vpon thy people: for they imagine how they may bring vs to naught, yea, they wolde destroye the inheritance, that hath bene thine fro the beginning.

16 Dispise not the portion, which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne self.

17 Heare my prayer, and be merciful vnto thy portion: turne our sorowe into ioye, that we may liue, O Lord, and praise thy Name: shut not the mouthes of them that praise thee.

18 All Israel in like maner cryed most earnestly vnto the Lord, because that death was before their eyes.

1 QUENE Esther also, being in danger of death, resorted vnto the Lord,

2 And laid away her glorious apparel, and put on the garments of sighing, and mourning. In the stead of precious ointment, she scatered ashes, and dongue vpon her head: and she humbled her bodie greatly with fasting, and all the places of her ioye filled she with the heere that she plucke of.

3 And she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou only art our King: helpe me desolate womā, which haue no helper but thee.

Remember, ſaith he, the daies of thy lowe

And vpon the thirde day when ſhe had

And dede her ſelf goodly, after that ſhe
had called vpon God, which is the beholhandmaidens with her.

Vpon the one ſhe leane her ſelf, as one
that was tender.

And the other followed her, and bare the
traine of her veſture.

The ſhine of her beautie made her face
roſe coloured: and her face was chearful & amiable, but her heart was ſorowful for great feare.

Then ſhe went in thorow all the dores,
and ſtode before the King, and the King

in his goodlie araye, all glittering with

Then he liſt vp his face, that ſhone with

For wonderful art thou, o lord, and thy

- from men, but in pride & presumption, as they that be vnmindeful of benefices, they thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things, & is contrary to euil.
- 5 And oft times manie, which be set in office, and vnto whome their friends causes are committed, by vaine intisements do wrappe them in calamities, that can not be remedied: for they make them partakers of innocent blood,
- 6 And disceitfully abuse the simplicitie, & gentleness of princes with lying tales.
- 7 This may be proued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things that are before our eyes, and are wickedly committed of such pestilences as are not worthe to beare rule.
- 8 Therefore we must take hede hereafter, that we may make y<sup>e</sup> kingdome peaceable for all mē, what chāge so euer shal come,
- 9 And discern the things that are before our eyes, to withstand the with gentleness.
- 10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being in dede a stranger from the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnes, was receiued of vs,
- 11 And hadde proued the friendship that we beare towards all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honored of euery man, as the next persone vnto the King.
- 12 But he coldenot vse him self soberly in this great dignitie, but wet about to depriue vs of the kingdome, & of our life.
- 13 With manifolde disceite also hadde he desired to destroye Mardocheus our preseruer, which hath done vs good in all things, and innocent Esther the partaker of our kingdome, with all her nation.
- 14 For his minde was (when he had taken them out of the way) to lay waite for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kingdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.
- 15 But we finde that the Iewes (which were accused of this moste wicked mā that thinke might be destroyed) are no euil doers, but vse moste iust Lawes,
- 16 And that they be y<sup>e</sup> children of the moste high and almightie and euer liuing God, by whome the kingdome hadde bene preserued vnto vs, and our progenitours in verie good ordre.
- 17 Wherefore ye shal do wel, if ye do not put in execution those letters, that Aman the sonne of Amadathus didd write vnto you.
- 18 For he that inuented them, hāgeth at Susis before the gates with all his familie, & God (which hadde all things in his power) hadde speedely rewarded him after his deseruing.
- 19 Therefore ye shal publishe the copie of this letter in all places, that the Iewes may frely liue after their owne Lawes.
- 20 And ye shal aide them, that vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar they may be aduenged of them, which in the time of their trouble wolde haue oppressed them.
- 21 For almightie God hadde turned to ioye the day, wherein the chosen people shulde haue perished.
- 22 Moreover, among other solemne daies ye shal kepe this day with all gladnes,
- 23 That bothe now & in time to come this day may be a remembrance of deliuerance for vs and all suche as loue the prosperitie of the Persians, but a remembrance of destruction to those that be sedicious vnto vs.
- 24 Therefore all cities and countreies that do not this, shal horribly be destroyed with sworde and fyre, and shal not onely not be inhabited of men, but be abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules for euer.

Seke not death in the errour of your life:
deſtroye not your ſelues thorow the wor-
kes of your owne hands.

For God hahe not made death, nether
hahe he pleaſure in the deſtruction of the liuing.

For he created all things, that thei might haue their being: and the generacions of the worlde are preſerued, and there is no
poſſion of deſtruction in them, & the king-
dome of hell is not vpon earth.

For righteouſnes is immortal, but vn-
righteouſnes bringeth death.

And the vngodlie call it vnto them bo-
the with hands and wordes: and while they thinke to haue a friend of it, they come to naught: for they are confederate with it:
therefore are they worthie to be partakers
thereof.

CHAP. II.

The imaginacions and deſires of the wicked, & their coun-
ſels againſt the faithfull.

For the vngodlie ſay, as they falſely
imagine with them ſelues, * Our life
is ſhorte and tedious: and in the death of a man there is no recouerie, nether was any known that hahe returned from the grauē.

For we are borne at all aduenture, and we
ſhalbe hereafter as thogh we had neuer
bene: for the breth is a ſmoke in our noſtrels, and the wordes as a ſparke raiſed out of our heart.

Which being extinguiſhed, the body is turned into aſhes, and the ſpirit vaniſheth
as the ſoft aire.

Our liſe ſhal paſſe away as the trace of a cloude, & come to naught as the miſt that is druen away with y beaumes of the fun-
ne, and caſt downe with the heat thereof.
Our name alſo ſhalbe forgotten in time,

and no man ſhal haue our workes in remembrance.

* For our time is as a ſhadowe that paſſeth
away, and after our end there is no returning: for it is faſt ſealed, ſo that no man
cometh againe.

* Come therefore, and let vs enioye the pleaſures, that are preſent, & let vs chere-
fully uſe the creatures as in youth.

Let vs fill our ſelues with coſtly wine
and ointements, and let not the ſloure of life paſſe by vs.

Let vs crowne our ſelues with roſe bud-
des afore they be withered.

Let vs all be partakers of our wantonnes: let vs leaue ſome token of our plea-
ſure in euerie place: for that is our porciō,
and this is our lotte.

Let vs oppreſſe the poore, that is righteous: let vs not ſpare the widdowe, nor re-uerence the white heeres of the aged, that haue liued many yeres.

Let our ſtrength be the lawe of vnright-eouſnes: for the thing that is feble, is re-
proued as vnprofitable.

Therefore let vs deſraude the righteous:
for he is not for our proſite, & he is cōtra-
rie to our doings: he checketh vs for offending againſt the Lawe, and blaſmeth vs as transgreſſours of diſcipline.

He maketh his boaste to haue the knowledge of God: and he calleth him ſelf the ſonne of the Lord.

He is made to reprove our thoghts.

It grieueth vs alſo to loke vpon him: for his liſe is not like other mens: his waies are of another facion.

He counteth vs as baſtardes, and he with-draweth him ſelf from our waies as from filthines: he commendeth greatly the latter end of the iuſt, and boasteeth that God
is his father.

Let vs ſe then if his wordes be true: let vs
proue what end he ſhal haue.

For if the righteous mā be the * ſonne of God, he wil helpe him, & deliuer him fro
the hands of his enemies.

Let vs * examine him with rebukes and
tormēts, that we may knowe his mekenes,
and proue his pacience.

Let vs condemne him vnto a ſhameful
death: for he ſhal be preſerued as he him
ſelf ſaith.

Suche things do they imagine, and go
aſtraye: for their owne wickednes hahe
blinded them.

And they do not vnderſtād the myſteries
of God, nether hope for the rewa de of righteouſnes, nor can diſcerne the honour
of the ſoules that are fauteles.

For God created man without corruption, and made him after the * image of his owne likenes.

CHAP. IIIII.

Of vertue and the commoditie thereof. 10 The death of the righteous, and the commendation of the vnfaithfull.

1 Better is barrennes with vertue: for the memorial thereof is immortal: for it is known with God and with men.

2 When it is present, me take example thereat, and if it go away, yet they desire it: it is alway crowned and triumpheth, and winneth the battel and the vndefiled rewardes.

3 But the multitude of the vngodlie which abunde in children, is vnprofitable: & the bastard plates shal take no depe roote, nor laye any fast fundacion.

4 For though they budde forth in the branches for a time, * yet they shal be shaken with the winde: for they stand not fast, and thorowe the vehemie of the winde they shalbe rooted out.

5 For the vnperfect branches shalbe broke, & their frute shalbe vnprofitable & fower to eat, and mete for nothing.

6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shalbe witness of the wickednes against their parents when they be asked.

7 But though the righteous be preuented with death, yet shal he be in rest.

8 For the honorable age is not that which is of long time, neither that which is measured by the number of yeres.

9 But wisdome is the graye heere, and an vndefiled life is the olde age.

10 *He pleased God, & was beloued of him, so that where as he liued among sinners, he is translated him.

11 He was take away, lest wickednes shoulde alter his vnderstanding, or deceit beguile his minde.

12 For wickednes by bewitching obscurereth the things that are good, & the vnstedfastnes of concupiscence peruertereth the simple minde.

13 Though he was sone dead, yet fulfilled hee muche time.

14 For his soule pleased God: therefore hastened he to take him away from wickednes.

15 Yet the people se & vnderstand it not, & consider no suche things in their hearts, how that grace and mercie is vpon his Saintes, and his prouidence ouer the elect.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead, commendeth the vngodlie which are liuing: & the youth that is sone brought to an end, the long life of the vnrighteous.

1 The constantnes of the righteous before their persecutors.
2 The hope of the vnfaithfull vaine. 3 The blessed-
nes of the saintes and godlie.

1 Then shal the righteous stand in great boldenes before the face of suche as

haue tormented him, and taken away his horrible feare, and shal be amased for his

3 And shal change their mindes, and sigh

had in derision, and in a parable of repro-
che.

4 * We foolles thought his life madnes, and
his end without honour.

5 How is he counted among the children
of God, and his porcion is among the Saintes!

6 Therefore we haue erred from the waye
of truth, and the light of righteousness

hath not shined vnto vs; and the sunne of vnderstanding rose not vpon vs.

7 We haue wearied our selues in the waye
of wickednes and destruction, and we haue

gone through dangerous waies: but we haue
not known the way of the Lord.

8 What hath the pride profited vs? or what profite hath the pompe of riches brought vs?

9 All those things are * passed away like a shadow, and as a poste that passeth by:

10 As a shippe that passeth ouer the waues
of the water, which when it is gone by, the

trace thereof can not be founde; nether
the path of it in the floods:

11 Or as * a bird that fleeth thorowe in the aire, and no man can se anie token of her passage, but onely heare the noise of her wings, beating the light winde; parting the aire thorow the vehemencie of her going, & fleeth on shaking her wings,

whereas afterwarde no token of her way
can be founde:

12 Or as when an arrowe is shot at a marke,
it pareteth the aire, which immediatly con-

meth together againe, so that a man can not knowe where it went thorowe.

13 Euen so we, as sone as we were borne, we beganne to drawe to our end, and haue

shewed no token of vertue, but are confu-
med in our owne wickednes.

14 For the hope of the vngodlie is like the dust that is blowne away with the winde,

and like a thinne some that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoke,

which is disperfed with the winde, and as
the remembrance of him passeth, that ca-

High hath the care of them.

16 Therefore shal they receiue a glorious kingdome, and a beautiful crowne of the Lords hand: for with his right hand shal

he couer them, and with his arme shal he defende them.

17 He shal take his ielousie for armour, &
shal arme the creatures to be reuenged of
the enemies.

18 He shal put on righteousness for a brest-plate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmet.

19 He wil take holines for an inuincible shield.

20 He wil sharpe his fierce wrath for a swor-
de, and the worlde shal fight with him against the vnwise.

21 Then shal the thunder boltes go streight out of the lightnings, and shal flee to the

marke as out of the bent bowe of clouds,
and out of his angre that throweth stones,

shal thicke haile be cast, and the water of the sea shal be wrothe against them, & the floods shal mightely ouerflowe.

22 And a mightie winde shal stand vp against them, and like a storme shal scatter them abroad. Thus iniquitie shal bring

all the earth to a wildernes, and wickednes
shal ouerthrowe the thrones of the migh-

8 But for the mightie abideth y<sup>e</sup> forer tryal.
9 Vnto you therefore, o tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisdome, and not go amisse.
10 For they that kepe holines holily, shalbe holie, and they that are learned there, shal finde a defence.
11 Wherefore set your delite vpon my wordes & desire them, & ye shalbe instructed.
12 Wisdome shineth & neuer fadeth away, and is easily fene of them that loue her, & founde of suche as seke her.
13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that she may first shewe her self vnto them.
14 Whoso awaketh vnto her betimes, shal haue no great trauail: for he shal finde her sitting at his dores.
15 To thinke vpon her then is perfit vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shalbe sone without care.
16 For the goeth about, seekinge suche as are mete for her, and sheweth her self cherefully vnto them in the wayes, and meteth them in euerie thought.
17 For the moste true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue.
18 And loue is the keeping of her lawes: and the keeping of the lawes is the assurance of immortalitie.
19 And immortalitie maketh vs nere vnto God.
20 Therefore the desire of wisdome leadeth to the kingdome.

23 Nether wil I haue to do with consuming enuie: for suche a man shal not be partaker of wisdome.
24 But the multitude of the wise is the preservation of the worlde, and a wise King is the staye of the people.
25 Be therefore instructed by my wordes, & ye shal haue profite:

CHAP. VII.

Wisdome ought to be preferred aboue all things.

1 I My self am also mortal and a man like all other, and am come of him that was first made of the earth.
2 And in my mothers wombe was I facioned

to be flesh in ten moneths: I was * brought together into blood of the seede of man, and by the pleasure that cometh with slepe.
3 And when I was borne, I receiued the comune aire, and fel vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying & weeping at the first as all other do.
4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, and with cares.
5 For there is no King that had anie other beginning of birth.
6 All men then haue one entrance vnto life, and a like going out.
7 Wherefore I praied, and vnderstanding was giuen me: I called & the Spirit of wisdome came vnto me.
8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones, & counted riches nothing in comparison of her.
9 * Nether did I compare precious stones vnto her: for all golde is but a litle grauel in respect of her, and siluer shalbe counted but clay before her.
10 I loued her about health and beautie, & purposed to take her for my light: for her light can not be quenched.
11 All good things therefore came to me together with her, and innumerable riches thorow her hands.
12 So I was glad in all: for wisdome was the autor thereof, & I knewe not that she was the mother of these things.
13 And I learned vnfaignedly, & communicated without enuie, and I do not hide her riches.
14 For she is an infinite treasure vnto men, which whoso vse, become partakers of the loue of God, & are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.
15 God hathe granted me to speake according to my minde, and to iudge worthely of the things, that are giuen me: for he is the leader vnto wisdome, and the director of the wise.
16 For in his hand are bothe we and our wordes, and all wisdome, & the knowledge of the workes.
17 For he hathe giue me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I knowe how the worlde was made, and the powers of the elements.
18 The beginning and the end, & the middes of the times: how the times alter, and the change of the seasons.
19 The course of the yere, the situation of the starres,
20 The nature of liuing things, and the seruicenes of beasts, the power of y<sup>e</sup> windes, and the imaginations of men, the diuersities of plants, and the vertues of rootes.
21 And all things bothe secret and knowne do I knowe: for wisdome the worker of all

all things, hathe taught
22 For in her is the spirit which is holie, the one folde, subtil, moueable, euident, not hurtful, louely, which can not be letted.
23 Courteous, stable, sure, using all power, circumcising and passing through all and subtil spirits.
24 For wisdome is nimble things: she goeth thorow to all things, because of this.
25 For she is y<sup>e</sup> breth of the Father, and a pure influence that glorie of the Almighty defiled thing come vnto
26 For she is the brighte lasting light, the vnder the maiestie of God, and goodnes.
27 And being one, she can remaine in her self, according to the ages she holie soules, and maketh of God and Prophetes.
28 For God leueth none with wisdome.
29 For she is more beautifull and is aboue all the oracles and the light is not to her.
30 For night cometh vpon can not ouercome wisdome.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of wisdome.

1 He also reacheth from
2 Other mightely, and order all things.
3 I haue loued her, and so youth: I desired to marry had I vnto her beautie.
4 In that she is conuersa commendeth her nobilitie of all things loueth her.
5 For she is the scholemaster of ledge of God, and the workes.
6 If riches be a possession this life, what is richer than worketh all things?
7 For if prudence work among all things, that worketh she?
8 If a man loue righteousness are vertuous: for the teaching, righteousness are the moste profitable can haue in this life.
9 If a man desire great expell the things that are p things to come: the know

all things, ha the taught me it.

- 21 For in her is the spirit of vnderstanding, which is holie, the onely begotten, manifolde, subtil, moueable, cleare, vnde-filed, euident, not hurtful, louing the good, sharpe, which can not be letted, doing good,
- 22 Courteous, stable, sure, without care, hauing all power, circumspect in all things, and passing through all, intellectuall, pure and subtil spirits.

23 For wisdom is nimble then all nimble things: she goeth thorow and atteineth to all things, because of her purenes.

24 For she is y breth of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glorie of the Almightye: therefore can no defiled thing come vnto her.

25 For she is the brightnes of the euermourning light, the vnde-fild mirroure of the maiestie of God, and the image of his goodnes.

26 And being one, she can do all things, and remaining in her self, reneweth all, and according to the ages she entreth into the holie soules, and maketh them the friends of God and Prophetes.

27 For God loueth none, if he dwell not with wisdom.

28 For she is more beautiful then the sunne, and is aboute all the order of the starres, and the light is not to be compared vnto her.

29 For night cometh vpō it, but wickednes can not overcome wisdom.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of wisdom.

1 She also reacheth from one end to another mightely, and comely doeth she order all things.

2 I haue loued her, and sought her from my youth: I desired to marrye her, suche loue had I vnto her beautie.

3 In that she is conuersant with God, it commendeth her nobilitie: yea, the Lord of all things loueth her.

4 For she is the scholemastres of the knowledge of God, and the choier out of his workes.

5 If riches be a possession to be desired in this life, what is richer then wisdom, that worketh all things?

6 For if prudence worketh, what is it among all things, that worketh better then she?

7 If a man loue righteousnes, her labours are vertuous: for she teacheth sobernes & prudence, righteousnes and strenght, which are the moste profitable things that men can haue in this life.

8 If a man desire great experience, she can tell the things that are past, and discern things to come: she knoweth the subtilties of wordes, and the solutions of darke sentences: she foreseeeth the signes and wonders, or euer they come to passe, and the successe of seasons and times.

9 Therefore I purposed to take her vnto my companie, knowing that she wolde counsel me good things, and comfort me in cares and griefs.

10 For her sake shal I haue glorie among the multitude and honour among the Elders thogh I be yong.

11 I shal be founde of sharpe iudgement, so that I shal be marueilous in the sight of great men.

12 When I holde my tongue, they shal abide my leasure: when I speake, they shal heare diligently, & if I talke muche, they shal laye their hands vpon their mouth.

13 Moreover, by her I shal obtaine immortalitie, and leaue an euermourning memorial among them that come after me.

14 I shal gouerne the people, and the nations shal be subdued vnto me.

15 Horrible tyrants shal be afraied when they heare me: among the multitude I shal be counted good, and mightie in battell.

16 When I come home, I shal rest with her: for her companie hath no bitternes, and her felowshippe hath no tediousnes, but mirthe and ioye.

17 Now when I considered these things by my self, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to be ioyned vnto wisdom is immortalitie,

18 And great pleasure is in her friendship, and that in the workes of her hands are infinite riches, and that in the exercise of talking with her is prudence, and glorie by communing with her, I went about, seeking how I might take her vnto me.

19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.

20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an vnde-fild bodie.

21 Neuertheles, when I perceived that I colde not enioye her, except God gaue her (and that was a pointe of wisdom also, to knowe whose giste it was) I went vnto the Lord, and besought him, and with my whole heart I said,

CHAP. IX.

A prayer of Salomon to obtaine wisdom.

1 O God of fathers, and Lord of mercie, which hast made all things with thy worde,

vnto them, and a light of starres in the night.

12 She brought the thorow the red sea; and

13 caryed them through the great water,

14 But she drowned their enemies, and

15 brought the out of the botome of the depe.

16 So the righteous toke the spoiles of the 17 vngodlie, & praised thine holy Name, O

18 Lord, and magnified thy victorious hand

19 with one accorde.

20 For wisdom openeth the mouth of the 21 domme, and maketh the tongues of babes

22 eloquent.

CHAP. XI.

1 The miracles done for Israel. 13 The vengeance of sinners. 22 The great power and mercie of God.

1 She prospered their workes in the hāds of thine holy Prophet.

2 They went through the wildernes that

3 was not inhabited, and pitched their ten-

4 tes in places where there lay no way.

5 They stode against their enemies, & we-

6 re aduenged of their aduersaries.

7 When they were thirsty, they called vpo

8 thee, and water was giuen them out of the 9 hie rocke, and their thirst was quenched

10 out of the hard stone.

11 For by the things whereby their ene-

12 mies were punished, by the same were the 13 Israelites helped in their nede.

14 For in steade of a fountaine of running

15 water, the enemies were troubled at the 16 corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the 17 commandement of the killing of the chil-

18 dre, but thou gauest vnto thine owne abun-

19 dance of water vnlooked for,

20 Declaring by the thirst that was at that

21 time how thou hadest punished thine

22 aduersaries.

23 For when they were tryed and chastised

24 with mercie, they knewe how the vn-

25 godlie were iudged and punished in 26 wrath.

27 For these hast thou exhorted as a father,

28 and proued them: but thou hast condem-

29 ned by other as a righteous King, whē thou

30 didest examine them.

31 Whether they were absent or present,

32 their punishment was alike: for their

33 grief was double with mourning, and the 34 remembrance of things past.

35 For when they perceiued that through

36 their tormentes good came vnto them, they

37 felt the Lord.

38 And seeing the things that came to passe,

39 at the last they wondered at him, whome

40 afore they had cast out, denied and deri-

41 ded: for they had another thirst then the 42 iuste.

43 Because of the foolish deuises of their

44 wickednes wherewith they were deceiued,

45 and worshiped serpents, that had not the

vse of reason, & vile beastes, thou sendidst a multitude of vnreasonable beastes vpon them for a vengeance, that they might knowe, that wherewith a man sinneth, by the same also shal he be punished.

14 For vnto thine almightie hand, y made the worlde of naught, it was not vnpossible to send among them a multitude of beares, or fierce lyons.

15 Or furious beastes newly created, and vnknown, which shulde breathe out blastes of fyre, and cast out smoke as a tempest, or shoote horrible sparkes like lightnings out of their eyes.

16 Which might not onely destroye them with hurting, but also to kill them with their horrible sight.

17 Yea, without these might they haue bene cast downe with one winde, being persecuted by thy vengeance, and scattered abroad thorow the power of thy Spirit: but thou hast ordered all things in measure, number & weight.

18 For thou hast euer had great strength & might, and who can withstand the power of thine arme?

19 For as the small thing that the balance weigheth, so is the worlde before thee, & as a droppe of the morning dewe, that falleth downe vpon the earth.

20 But thou hast mercie vpon all: for thou hast power of all things, and makest as though thou sawest not the sinnes of men, because they shulde amende.

21 For thou louest all the things that are, & hatest none of them whome thou hast made: for thou woldest haue created nothing that thou hadest hated.

22 And how might anie thing endure, if it were not thy wil? or how coulde anie thing be preserved, except it were called of thee?

23 But thou sparest all: for they are thine, O Lord, which art the louer of soules.

CHAP. XII.

1 The mercie of God to ward sinners. 12 The workes of God are unprouable. 19 God giueth leasure to repent.

1 For thine incorruptible spirit is in all things.

2 Therefore thou chastenest the measurably that go wrong, and warnest the by putting them in remembrance of the things wherewith they haue offended, that leauing wickednes they may beleue in thee, O Lord.

3 As for those olde inhabitants of the holy land, thou didest hate them.

4 For they committed abominable workes, as forceries and wicked sacrifices,

5 And slaying of their owne children without mercie, and eating of the bowels of mans flesh in banqueting, where the raging

Priests shed abominable blood.

6 And the fathers were the chief murderers of the soules, destitute of all helpe, whome thou woldest destroy by the hands of our fathers,

7 That the land which thou louest aboute all other, might be a mere dwelling for the children of God.

*Exod. 33. 2.
deut. 3. 22.*

8 * Neuertheles, thou sparedst them also, as men, and sendedst the forerunners of thine hoste, euen hornettes to destroye them by litle and litle,

9 Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodlie vnto the righteous in battel, or with cruell beastes, or with one rough worde to destroye them together.

10 But in punishing them by litle and litle, thou gauest the space to repent, knowing wel, that it was an vnrighteous nacion & wicked of nature, & that their thoght coulde neuer be altered.

11 For it was a cursed sede from the beginning: yet hast thou not spared them when they sinned, because thou feared any man.

Rom. 9. 31.

12 For who dare say, * What hast thou done? or who dare stand against thy iudgement? or who dare accuse thee for the nations that perish, whome thou hast made? or who dare stand against thee to reuenge the wicked men?

1. Pet. 1. 7.

13 For there is none other God but thou, * that carest for all things, that y maist declare how y thy iudgement is not vnright.

14 There dare nether King nor tyrant in thy sight require accounts of them whome thou hast punished.

15 For so muche then as thou art righteous thy self, thou ordrest all things righteously, * thinking it not agreeable to thy power to condemne him, that hath not deserved to be punished.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousness, and because thou art Lord of all things, it causeth thee to spare all things.

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfite power, thou declarest thy power, and reproveest the boldenes of the wise.

18 But thou ruling the power, iudgest with equitie, & gouernest vs with great fauour: for thou maist shew thy power when thou wilt.

19 By suche workes now hast thou taught thy people, that a man shulde be iust and louing, and hast made thy children to be of a good hope: for thou giuest repentance to sinners.

20 For if thou hast punished the enemies of thy children that had deserued death with so great consideration, and requesting vnto them, giuing them time & place that they might change from their wickednes,

21 With how great circumspection wilt thou punish thine owne childre, vnto whose fathers thou hast sworne and made covenants of good promises?

22 So when thou dost chasten vs, thou punishest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that when we iudge, we shulde diligently consider thy goodness, and when we are iudged, we shulde hope for mercie.

23 Wherefore thou hast tormented the wicked that haue liued a dissolute life by their owne imaginations.

24 * For they went astray verie farre in the wayes of errour, and esteemed the beasts, which their enemies dispised, for gods, being abused after the manner of childre, that haue none vnderstanding.

25 Therefore hast thou sent this punishment that they shulde be in derision as children without reason.

26 But they that wil not be reformed by those scorneful rebukes, shal sele the worthie punishment of God.

27 For in those things when they suffered, they disdeined: but in these whome they counted godlie when they sawe the selues punished by them, they all acknowledged y true God whome afore they had denied to knowe: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

2 * But thei thought the fyre, or the winde, or the swift aire, or the course of the starres, or the raging water, or the lights of heauen to be gouernours of the worlde, and gods.

3 Thogh they had suche pleasure in their beautie that they thought them gods, yet shulde they haue knownen, how muche more excellent he is that made them: for the first autor of beautie hath created these things.

4 Or if they marueiled at the power, and operation of them, yet shulde they haue perceiued thereby, how muche he that made these things, is mightier.

5 For by the greatnes of their beautie, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be considered.

6 But yet the blame is lesse in these, that seke God and wolde finde him, & yet peradventure do erre.

7 For * they go about by his workes to seke him, and are perswaded by the sight, because the things are beautiful that are sene.

idolatrie.

A Gaine, another man purposing to
saile, and intending to passe thorow
the raging waues, calleth vpon a stocke
more rotten then the shippe that carieth
him.

For as for it, couetousnes of money hath founde it out, and the craftsman made it
by cunning.

But thy providence, o father, gouerneth
it: for thou hast made away, euen in the sea, and a sure path among the waues,

Declaring thereby, that thou hast power
to helpe in all things, yea, though a man wet
to the sea without meanes.

Neuertheles thou woldest not, that the
workes of thy wisdom shulde be vaine,
and therefore do men commit their liues
to a smale piece of wood, and passe ouer
the stormie sea in a shippe, and are sau-
ed.

*For in the olde time also whē the proude
giants perished, the hope of the worlde went into a shippe which was gouerned by thine hand, and so lest sede of generacion
vnto the worlde.

For blessed is the tre whereby righteouf-
nes commeth.

But that is cursed that is made with hāds,
bothe it, & he that made it: he because he
made it, and it being a corruptible thing,
because it was called god.

*For the vngodlie, and his vngodlines are bothe like hated of God: so truly the worke & he that made it, shal be punished
together.

Therefore shal there be a visitation for
the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abominacion, & stumbling blockes vnto the soules of men, & a snare for the fete of the vnwife.

For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.

For they were not from the beginnings,
nether shal they continue for euer.

The vaine glorie of men brought them
into the worlde: therefore shal they come shortly to an end.

When a father mourned grieuoussly for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, he made an image for him & was once dead,
whome now he worshipeth as a god, & ordeined to his seruants ceremonies and sacrifices.

Thus by proces of time this wicked cu-
stome preuailed, and was kept as a law, and idoles were worshipped by the commandement of tyrants.

As for those that were so frare of that men might not worship them presently,
they did conterfer the visage that was far-
re of, and made a gorgeous image of a King, whome they wolde honour, that thei might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as though he had bene present.

Again the ambition of the craftsman thrust forward the ignorāt to increase the superstition.

For he peraduenture willing to please a noble man, labored with all his cunning
to make the image of the best facion.

And so thorowe the beautie of the wor-
ke the multitude was allured, and so toke
him now for a god, which a litle afore was but honored as a man.

lamitie and tyrannie ascribed vnto stones and stockes the name, which ought not to be communicate vnto anie.

Moreover, this was not ynough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they liued in great warres of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

*Deu. 18, 10.
& 19, 4.*

For ether they slewe their owne childre in sacrifice, or vsed secret ceremonies, or raging dissolutenes by strange rites, And so kept nether life nor mariage cleane: but ether one slewe another by treason, or els vexed him by adulterie.

So were all mixt together, blood and slaughter, theste & deceit, corruption, vnfaithfulness, tumultes, periurie, Disquieting of good men, vnthankfulness, defiling of soules, changing of birth, disordre in mariage, adulterie & vnclenes.

For the worshiping of idoles that ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause and the end of all euil.

For either they be mad when they be merie, or prophetic lies, or liue vngodlie, or els lightly forswear them selues.

For in so much as their trust is in the idoles, which haue no life, thogh they sweare falsely, yet they thinke to haue no hurt.

Therefore for two causes shal they iustly be punished, because they haue an euil opinion of God, adding them selues vnto idoles, and because they sweare vniuistly to deceiue, and despise holines.

For it is not the power of them by whome they sweare, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodlie.

CHAP. XV.

The voyce of the faithfull, praising the mercie of God by whose grace they serue his idoles.

BUt thou, O our God, art gracious and true, long suffering, and governeest all things by mercie.

Thogh we sinne, yet are we thine: for we knowe thy power: but we sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.

For to knowe thee, is perfite righteousnes, and to knowe thy power is the roote of immortalitie.

For nether hath the wicked inuention of men disceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image spotted with diuers colours.

Whose sight stirreth vp the desire of the ignorant: so that he coueteth the forme that hath no life, of a dead image.

They that loue suche wicked things, are worthy to haue suche things to trust to, and they that make them, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.

Rom. 9, 20.

The potter also tempereth soft earth, & facioneth euerie vessel with labour to our

vse: but of the same clay he maketh bothe the vessels, that serue to cleane vses, and the contrarie likewise: but whereto euerie vessel serueth, the potter is the iudge.

So by his wicked labour he maketh a vaine god of the same claye: euen he, which a litle afore was made of earth him self, and within a litle while after goeth thither againe whence he was taken, when he shal make accounte for the lone of his life.

Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour he taketh, nor that his life is short, but he striueth with the golde smithes, and siluer smithes, and counterfaiteth the coper smithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceiuable things.

His heart is ashes, and his hope is more vile then earth, and his life is lesse worthie of honour then claye.

For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had power & breathed in him the breth of life.

But they counte our life to be but a pastime, and our conseruation as a marker, where there is gain: for they say we ought to be getting on euerie side, thogh it be by euil meanes.

Now he that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth him self to offend aboute all other.

All the enemies of thy people, that holde them in subiection, are mooste vniust, & more miserable then the verie fooles.

For they iudge all the idoles of the nations to be gods, which neither haue eye fight to se, nor noses to smell, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hands to grope, & their feet are slowe to go.

For man made them, and he that hath but a borrowed spirit, facioned them: but no man can make a god like vnto him self.

For seing he is but mortal him self, it is but mortal that he maketh with vnrighteous hands: he him self is better then they whome he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.

Yea, they worshipped beasts also, which are their mooste enemies, & which are the worst, if they be compared vnto others, because they haue none vnderstanding.

Nether haue they anie beautie to be desired in respect of other beasts: for they are destitute of Gods praise, and of his blessings.

the ſtings of cruel ſerpents,

Thy wrath endured not perpetually, but they were troubled for a litle ſeaſon, that they might be reformed, hauing a ſigne
of ſaluacion, to remember the commandement of thy Law.

For he that turned toward it, was not healed by the thing that he ſawe, but by thee,
o Saviour of all.

So in this thou ſhewedſt our enemies,
that it is thou, which deliuerest from all euil.

* For the biting of greſhoppers and flies
killed them, and there was no remedie fo-

to be puniſhed by ſuche.

But the teeth of the venomous dragons

For nether herbe nor plaſter healed them,
but thy worde, o Lord, which healeth all
things.

For thou haſt the power of life & death,
and leadest downe vnto the gates of hel,
and bringest vp againe.

A man in dede by his wickednes may ſlaie another: but when the Spirit is gone
forthe, it turneth not againe, nether can he
call againe the ſoule that is taken away.

But it is not poſſible to eſcape thine
hand.

* For the vngodlie that wolde not knowe thee, were puniſhed by the ſtrength of thine arme, with ſtrange raine and with hail, and were purſued with tempeſt; that they colde not auoide, & were conſumed
with fyre.

For it was a wonderous thing that fyre
might do more then water, which quen-ceth all things: but the worlde is the ad-
uenger of the righteous.

For ſome time was the fyre ſo tame, that the beaſts, which were ſent againſt the vn-godlie, burnt not: and that, because they

ſhulde ſe and knowe, that they were perfe-
cured with the puniſhment of God.

19 And ſome time burnt the fyre in y mid-des of the water about the power of fy-re, that it might deſtroie the generacion
of the vniuſt land.

that the fyre burning in the hayle, & ſpar-
keling in the raine, deſtroyed the frute of
the enemies.

23 Againe it forgate his owne ſtrength, that
the righteous might be nourished.

24 For the creature that ſerueth thee which art the maker, is fierce in puniſhing the vnrighteous: but it is eaſie to do good
vnto ſuche as put their truſt in thee.

25 Therefore was it changed at the ſame
time vnto all facions to ſerue thy grace,
which nourifeth all things, according to
the deſire of them that had nede thereof.

26 That thy children whome thou loueſt, o Lord, might knowe, * that it is not the increase of frutes that fedeth men, but that it is thy worde, which preſerueth the that

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgements of God againſt the wicked.

1 For thy iudgements are great, and can not be expreſſed: therefore men
do erre, that wil not be reformed.

2 For when the vnrighteous thought to haue thine holie people in ſubiection, thei
were bounde with the bands of darkenes,
and long night, and being ſhut vp vnder
the roſe, did lie there to eſcape the euerlaſting providence.

3 And while they thoght to be hid in their darke ſinnes, thei were ſcattered abroad in the darke couering of forgetfulnes, fearing horribly and troubled with viſions.

4 For the denne that hid them, kept them
not from feare: but the ſoundes that were about them, troubled them, and terrible

visions and sorrowful sights did appeare.

5 No power of the fyre mighte giue light, nether might the clere flames of the starres lighten the horrible night.

6 For there appeared vnto them onely a sudden fyre, verie dredful: so that beinge affraied of this vision, "which they colde not se, they thought the things, which they sawe, to be worke.

That is, the mightie visio.

Exod. 9. 12. & 17.

7 * And y<sup>e</sup> illusions of the magical artes were broght downe, and it was a molte shameful reproche for the boasting of their knowledge.

8 For they that promised to drive away feare and trouble from the sicke persone, were sicke for feare, & worthie to be laughed at.

9 And thogh no feareful thing did feare them, yet were they affraied at the beastes which passed by them, and at the hyssing of the serpents: so that they dyed for feare, and said they sawe not the ayre, which by no meanes can be auoided.

10 For it is a feareful thing, when malice is condemned by her owne testimony: and a conscience that is touched, doeth euer forecast cruel things.

11 For feare is nothing els, but a betraying of the succours, which reason offreth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doeth he esteeme the ignorance of the thing, that tormenteth him, great.

13 But they that did endure the night that was intolerable, and that came out of the dungeon of hell, which is insupportable, slept the same slepe,

14 And sometimes were troubled with monstrous visions, and sometime they fowned, as thogh their owne soule shulde betray them: for a sudden feare not looked for, came vpon them.

15 And thus, whosoeuer fel downe, he was kept and shut in prison, but without chaines.

16 For whether he was an housband man, or a shepherd, or one that was set to worke alone, if he were taken, he must suffer this necessitie, that he colde not auoide:

17 (For with one chaine of darkenes were they all boude) whether it were an hyssing winde, or a swere song of the birds among the thicke branches of the trees, or the vehemencie of hastie running water,

18 Or a great noyce of the falling downe of stones, or the running of skipping beastes, that colde not be sene, or the noyce of cruel beastes that roared, or the sounde that answereth againe in the holow mountaines: these feareful things made them to frowne.

101. 2. 44.

19 For all the worlde shined with clere light, and no man was hindred in his labour.

20 Onely vpon them there fel an heauie

night, an image of that darkenes that was to come vpon them: yea, they were vnto them selues more greivous then darkenes.

3 * Therefore thou gauest them a burning pillar of fyre to lead them in the vnknown way, & madest the sunne that it hurried not them in their honorable iourney. Exod. 13. 21. 22. Psal. 136. 7. 11. 12.

7 Thus thy *people receiued the health of the righteous, but the enemies were destroyed. Exod. 14. 30.

8 For as thou hast punished the enemies, so hast thou glorified vs whome thou hast called.

9 For the righteous children of the good men offered secretly, and made a law of righteousness by one consent, that y<sup>e</sup> Saintes shulde receiue good and euil in like manner, and that the fathers shulde first sing praises.

10 But a disagreeing price was heard of the enemies, and there was a lamentable noyce for the children that were bewailed.

11 For the *master and the seruant were punished with like punishment, & the common people suffered alike with the King. Exod. 11. 4. 12.

1 A S for the vngodlie, the wrath came

they lamented by the graues of the dead,

had cast out afore with prayer.

4 For the destinie, wherof they were wor-

sed them to forget the things that had come to passe, that they might accomplish
the punishment, which remained by tor-

7 For the cloude ouershadowed their ten-

was a way without impediment, and the great depe became a grene field.

which were done in the land where they
dwelt, how the groude broght forth the flies

11 *But at the last they sawe a new genera-

came vpon the sinners not without signes
that were giuen by great thundrings: for they suffred worthely according to their wickednes, because they shewed a cruel
hatred towarde strangers.

13 For the one sorte wolde not receiue the
whē thei were present, because they knewe
them not: the other sorte broght the strangers into bondage y had done the good.

14 Beside all these things some wolde not suffer, that anie regarde shulde be had of them: for thei handeled the strangers dis-pitefully.

15 Others that had receiued the with great banketing, and admitted them to be partakers of the same lawes, did afflict them
with great labours.

16 Therefore thei were strikē with blind-nes, as in olde time ceiteine were at the dores of the *righteous, so that euerie one being compassed with darknes, sought the entrance of his dore.

17 Thus the elements agreed among them
selues in this change, as when one tunc is

and the melodie stil remaineth, which may easily be perceiued by the sight of the

THE WISDOME OF Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

This argument was founde in a certaine Greke copie.

THIS Iesus was, the sonne of Sirach, and Sirachs father was also called Iesus, and he liued in the latter times, after the people had bene led away captiue, and brought home againe, and almoste after all the Prophetes. Now his grandfather, as he him self witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisdom among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the good sentences of wise men, that had bene before him, but he him self also spake manie ful of great knowledge and wisdom. So this first Iesus dyed, and left this which he had gathered, and Sirach afterwards left it, to Iesus his sonne, who toke it and put it in order in a booke, and called it WISDOME, intitling it bothe by his owne name, his fathers name, and his grandfathers: thinking by this title of wisdom to allure the reader to read this booke with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this booke containeth wise sayings, and darke sentences, and similitudes with certaine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, euen of men that were approved of God, and certaine prayers, and songs of the autor him self: moreover, what benefites the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, and what plagues he had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisdom and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was in dede.

The prologue of the Wisdom of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

WHERE as manie, and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law, and the Prophetes, and by others that haue followed them, (for the which things Israel ought to be comended by the reason of doctrine and wisdom, whereby the readers ought not onely to become learned them selues, but also may be able by the diligent studie thereof to be profitable vnto strangers bothe by speaking & writing) after that my grand father Iesus had giuen him self to the reading of the Law, and the Prophetes, & other booke of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write some thing pertaining to learning and wisdom, to the intent that they which were desirous to learne, & wolde giue them selues to these things, might profite muche more in liuing according to the Law. Wherefore, I exhorte you to receiue it lovingly, and to read it with diligence, and to take it in good worthe, though we seme to some in some things not able to attaine to the interpretation of suche wordes as are hard to be expressed: for the things that are spoken in the Hebrew tongue, haue another force in them selues then when they are translated into another tongue, and not one

ly these things, but other things also, as the Law it self, & the Prophetes, & other booke haue no small difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yere, when I came into Egypt vnder King Euergetes, and continued there, I founde a copie ful of great learning, and I thought it necessarie, to bestowe my diligence, and trauaile to interpret this booke. So for a certaine time with great watching and studie I gaue my self to the finishing of this booke, that it might be published, that they which remaine in banishment, and are desirous to learne, might applie them selues vnto good maners, and liue according to the Law.

The feare of the Lord maketh a mery

She filleth their whole house with [all]

wisdom, and her branches are long life."

25 [In the treasures of wisdom is vnder-
standing, and holie knowledge, but wisdom
is abhorred of sinners.]

26 The feare of the Lord driueth out sin-

way anger.

27 ¶ For wicked angre can not be iustified:
for his rashnes in his angre shalbe his de-

then shal he haue the rewarde of ioye.

30 In the treasures of wisdom are the se-

thee, [and wil fil her treasures.]

32 For the feare of the Lord is wisdom and

Lord, and come not vnto him with a dou-

16 And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remembered: thy sinnes also shal melt away as the yce in the faire wether.

CHAP. V.

In riches may we not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God ought to be feared, and repentance may not be deferred.

- 1 TRuſt not vnto thy riches, and ſay not, I haue ynough for my life: [ for it ſhal not helpe in y<sup>e</sup> time of vengeance and indignation. ]
- 2 Followe not thine owne minde and thy ſtrength to walke in the wayes of thine heart:
- 3 Nether ſay y<sup>e</sup>, [ How haue I had ſtrength? ] or who wil bring me vnder for my workes: for God the aduenger wil reuenge the wrong done by thee.
- 4 And ſay not, I haue ſinned, and what euil hath come vnto me: for the Almightye is a patient rewarder, but he wil not leaue thee vnpuniſhed.
- 5 Becauſe thy ſinne is forgiven, be not without feare, to heape ſinne vpon ſinne.
- 6 And ſay not, The mercie of God is great: he wil forgiue my manifold ſinnes: for mercie & wrath come from him, & his indignacion cometh downe vpon ſinners.
- 7 Make no taryng to turne vnto the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for ſuddenly ſhal the wrath of the Lord breake forth, & in thy ſecuritie thou ſhalt be deſtroied, and thou ſhalt periſh in time of vengeance.
- 8 Truſt not in wicked riches: for they ſhal not helpe thee in the day of puniſhment [ and vengeance. ]
- 9 Be not caryed about with euerie winde, and go not into euerie way: for ſo doeth the ſinner that hath a double tongue.
- 10 Stand faſt in thy ſure vnderſtanding [ & in the way and knowledge of the Lord ] & haue but one maner of worde, [ & followe the worde of peace and righteouſnes. ]
- 11 Be humble to heare the worde of God, that thou maiſt vnderſtand it, and make a true anſwere with wiſdome. ]
- 12 Be ſwift to heare good things, and let thy life be pure, & giue a patient anſwer.
- 13 If thou haſt vnderſtanding, anſwer thy neighbour: if not, laye thine hand vpon thy mouth, [ leſt thou be trapped in an vndiſcrete worde, and ſo be blamed. ]

- 14 Honour and ſhame is in the talke, & the tongue of a man cauſeth him to fall.
- 15 Be not counted a talebearer, & lie not in waite with thy tongue: for ſhame [ and repentance ] followe the thief, and an euil condemnation is ouer him that is double tōgued: [ but he that is a backebiter, ſhall be hated, enuid and confounded. ]
- 16 Do not raſhly, nether in ſmall things nor in great.

CHAP. VI.

It is the propertie of a ſinner to be euil tongued. 8 Of friendſhip. 33 Deſire to be taught.

- 1 BE not of a friend [ thy neighbours ] enemy: for ſuche [ ſhal haue an euil name, ſhame and reproche, and he ſhal be in infamie as the wicked that hath a double tongue. ]
- 2 Be not proude in the deuiſe of thine owne minde, leſt thy ſoule rent thee as a bull;
- 3 And eat vp thy leaues, and deſtroie thy frute, and ſo thou be leſte as a drye tree [ in the wildernes. ]
- 4 For a wicked ſoule deſtroieth him that hath it, and maketh him to be laughed to ſcorne of his enemies, [ and bringeth him to the porcion of the vngodlie. ]
- 5 A ſwete talke multiplieth the friends [ & paciſieth them that be at variance, ] and a ſwete tōgue increaſeth muche good talke.
- 6 Holde friendſhip with manie, neuertheles haue but one counſeler of a thouſand.
- 7 If thou getteſt a friēd, proue him firſt, & be not haſtie to credit him.
- 8 For ſome man is a friend for his owne occaſion, and wil not abide in the day of thy trouble.
- 9 And there is ſome friend that turneth to enimitie, and taketh parte againſt thee, & in contention he wil declare thy ſhame.
- 10 Againſt ſome friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction he continueth not.
- 11 But in thy proſperitie he wil be as thou thy ſelf, and wil uſe libertie ouer thy ſeruants.
- 12 If thou be broght low, he wil be againſt thee, and wil hide him ſelf from thy face.
- 13 Depart from thine enemies, and beware of thy friends.
- 14 A faithfull friend is a ſtrong defence, and he that findeth ſuche one, findeth a treaſure.
- 15 A faithfull friend ought not to be changed for any thing, and the weight [ of golde & ſiluer ] is not to be compared to the goodnes [ of his faith. ]
- 16 A faithfull friend is the medicine of life [ and immortalitie, ] & thei that feare the Lord, ſhal finde him.

CHAP. X.

of Kings and iudges: 7 Pride and couetousnes are to be abhorred. 28 Labour is praised.

A Wise iudge wil instruct his people with discretiō: the gouernance of a prudent man is wel ordered.

As the iudge of the people is him self, so
are his officers, and what maner of man
the ruler of the citie is, suche are all they
that dwell therein.

An vnwise King destroyeth his people,
but where they that be in autoritie, are men of vnderstāding, there the citie prospereth.

The gouernement of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquitie of the nations is to be abhorred,] and when time is, he wil set vp a profitable ruler
ouer it.

In the hand of God is the prosperitie of man, and vpon the scribes wil he laye his honour.

Be not angrie for any wrong, with thy neighbour, and do nothing by iniurious
practises.

Pride is hateful before God and man, &
by bothe doeth one commit iniquitie.

* Because of vnrighteous dealing and wrongs and riches gotten by deceit, the kingdome is translated from one people
to another.

There is nothing worse then a couetous man: [why art thou proude, o earth and ashes? there is not a more wicked thing,
then to loue money:] for suche one wolde
euen sel his soule, & for his life euerie one
is compelled to pul out his owne bowels.

[All tyrannie is of smale indurance, and the disease that is hard to heale, is grie-
uous to the physicion.]

The physiciō curteth of y sore disease, &
he that is to day a King, to morow is dead.

Why is earth & ashes proude, seeing that when a man dyeth, he is the heire of serpents, beastes and wormes?

The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, & to turne away his heart
from his maker.

For pride is the original of sinne, and he
that hathe it, shal powre out abominacion,
til at last he be ouerthrowen: therefore the Lord bringeth the persuaious [of the wicked] to dishonour, and destroyeth them in the end.

The Lord harhe cast downe the thrones
of the [proude] princes, & set vp the meke
in their steade.

The Lord plucketh vp the rootes of the [proude] nations, and planteth the lowlie
with glorie among them.

The Lord ouerthroweth the lands of the heathen, and destroyeth the vnto y funda-
cions of y earth: he causeth the to wither away, & destroyeth them, and maketh their memorial to cease out of the earth.

[God destroyeth the memorial of the proude, & leaueth the remembrance of the humble.]

Pride was not created in mē, nether wrath
in the generacion of women.

There is a sede of mā, which is an hono-

But foolish men wil not take holde vpō

For she is farre frō pride [and disceite],

men of trueth shal haunt her, & shal pro-

Praise is not semelic in the mouth of the sinner: for that is not sent of the Lord.

But if praise come of wisdom, [and be pleceous in a faithful mouth] the Lord
wil prosper it.

Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I turne backe: for thou oughtest not to do
the things that he hateth.

error:] and they that feare God, wil lo-

mandements, and testifie thy good wil.

He hathe set water and fyre before thee:
stretche out thine hand vnto which thou
wilt.

Before man is life and death, [good &
euil:] what him liketh, shal be giuen him.

For the wisdom of the Lord is great, &
he is mightie in power, and beholdeth all things [continually.]

them that feare him, and he knoweth all
the workes of man.

He hathe commanded no man to do vn-
godlie, nether hathe he giuen anie man
licēce to sinne: [for he desireth not a mul-

CHAP. XVI.

Of vnhappie, and wicked children. 17 No man can hide him self from God. 24 An exhortacion to the re-ceiuing of instruction.

Desire not the multitude of vnprofi-
table children, nether delite in vn-godlie childre: though thei be manie; reioyce not in the, except the feare of the Lord
be with them.

Trust not thou to their life, nether rest
vpon their multitude.

For one that is iuste, is better then a thousand suche, and better it is to dye without children, then to leaue behinde him vn-godlie children.

For by one that hathe vnderstanding, shal
the citie be inhabited: but the stocke of the wicked shal be wasted incontinently.

Manie suche things haue I sene with mine eyes, and mine eare hathe heard greater things then these.

In the congregaciō of the vngodlie shal
a fyre be kindeled, and among vnfaitful
people shal the wrath be set on fyre.

He spared not the olde gyants; w were rebellious, trusting to their owne strength;

Nether spared he where as Lot dwelt,
those whome he abhorred for their pride.

He had no pitie vpon the people that were destroyed, & puffed vp in their sins.

And so he preferred the six hundred thousand footemen, that were gathered in the hardnes of their heart, in affliction the & pitying them, in smiting them & healing the, with mercie, & with chastisemē:

Therefore if there be one stifte necked
among the people, it is marueil if he scape vnpunished: for mercie and wrath are with him: he is mightie to forgieue, & to powre
out displeasure.

As his mercie is great, so is his punishment also: he iudgeth a man according to his workes.

The vngodlie shal not escape with his spoil, and the pacience of the godlie shal
not be delayed.

He wil giue place to all good dedes, &
euerie one shal finde according to his wor-kes, [and] after the vnderstanding of his pilgrimage.]

The Lord hardened Pharaō, that he shul-
de not knowe him, and that his workes
shulde be known vpon the earth vnder
the heauen.

His mercie is knowen to all creatures:
he hathe separate his light from the darknes with an adamant.

Say not thou, I wil hide my self from the Lord: for who wil thike vpō me frō aboue?

I shal not be known in so great an heape of people: for what is my soule among suche an infinite number of creatures?

18 Beholde, the heauen, and the heauen of heauens, which are for God, the depth, and the earth, and all that therein is, shal be moued when he shal visite.

19 All the worlde which is created and made by his wil, the mountaines also, and the fundacions of the earth shal shake for feare, when the Lord loketh vpon them.

20 These things doeth no heart vnderstand worthily, [but he vnderstandeth euery heart.]

21 And who vnderstandeth his wayes? and the storme that no man can see for the moste parte of his workes are hid.

22 Who can declare his workes of his righteousness? or who can abide them? for his ordinance is farr of, and the trying out of all things faileth.

23 He that is humble of heart, wil consider these things: but an vnwise and erroneous man casteth his minde vpon foolish things.

24 My sonne, hearken vnto me, and learne knowledge, and marke my wordes with thine heart.

25 I wil declare thee weightie doctrine, & I wil instruct thee exactly in knowledge.

26 The Lord hath set his workes in good order fro the beginning, & parte of them hath he sundred from the other when he first made them.

27 He hath garnished his workes for euer, and their beginnings so long as they shal indure, they are not hungrie nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.

28 None of them hindreth another, nether was anie of them disobedient vnto his wordes.

29 After this the Lord looked vpon the earth and filled it with his goods things.

30 With all manner of liuing beasts hath he couered the face thereof, and they returne into it againe.

1 The creation of man, and the goodnes that God hath done vnto him. 20 Of almes, 26 And repentance.

1 The Lord hath created man of the earth, and turned him vnto it againe.

2 He gaue him the number of dayes & certaine times, and gaue him power of the things, that are vpon earth.

3 He clothed them with strength, as they had neede, and made them according to his image.

4 He made all flesh to feare him, so that he had the dominion ouer the beasts, and foules.

5 [He created out of him an helper like vnto him self,] and gaue them discrecion and tongue, and eyes, eares, and an heart to vnderstand, and sixtly he gaue them a spirit, and seuently he gaue them speache to declare his workes.

6 And he filled them with knowledge of vnderstanding, and shewed them good and euil.

7 He set his eye vpon their hearts, declaring vnto them his noble workes,

8 And gaue them the occasion to reioyce perpetually in his miracles, that they shoulde prudently declare his workes, & that the elect shoulde praise his holic Name together.

9 Beside this, he gaue them knowledge, and gaue them the Law of life for an heritage, that they might now knowe that they were mortall.

10 He made an euerlasting couenant with them, and shewed them his iudgements.

11 Their eyes sawe the maiestie of his glorie, and their eares heard his glorious voyce.

12 And he said vnto them, Beware of all vnrighteous things. *He gaue euery man also a comendement concerning his neighbour.

13 Their wayes are euer before him, and are not hid from his eyes.

14 Euery man fro his youth is giue to euil, and their stonie hearts can not become flesh.

15 He appointed a ruler vpon euery people, when he deuided the nations of the whole earth.

16 *And he did chuse Israel, as a peculiar people to him self, whome he nourisheth with discipline as his first borne, and giueth him moste louing light, and doeth not forsake him.

17 All their workes are as the sunne before him, and his eyes are continually vpon their wayes.

18 None of their vnrighteousnes is hid fro him, but all their sinnes are before the Lord.

19 And as he is mercifull, and knoweth his worke, he doeth not leaue them nor forsake them, but spareth them.

20 *The almes of a man, is as a thing sealed vpon before him, and he kepeth the good dedes of man as the apple of the eye, and giueth repentance to their sonnes, and daughters.

21 *At the last shal he arise, & rewarde them, and shal repay their rewarde vpon their heads.

22 *But vnto them that wil repée, he giueth them grace to returne, and exhorteth suche as faile, with patience, [and sendeth them the portion of the veritie.]

23 *Returne then vnto the Lord, and forsake thy sinnes: make thy prayer before his face and take away the offence.

24 Turne againe vnto the most High: for he wil bring thee from darkenes to wholsome light:

25 [Knowe the righteousness of God: stand in the power thereof for thee, and in the most high God, & go in the holic worlde with suche as confesse God.]

30 How great is the louing kindness of our God, and his compassions vnto him in the world.

31 For all things can not be seen: the sonne of man is not in the world: they take pleasure in the vanities of the world.

32 What is more cleare than the sunne? shal it faile.

33 Become not a begger by making bankets of that that thou hast borrowd, and so leaue nothing in thy purse: elsy shuldest sclanderously lie in waite for thine owne life.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Wine & whoredome bring men to pouertie. 6 In thy wordes vse discretion. 22 The difference of the wisdom of God and man. 27 Whereby thou maist knowe what is in man.

1 A Laboring man that is giuen to drūkennes, shal not be riche: & he that cōtēmneth smale things, shal fall by little and litle.

Gen. 19. 33. & 1 king. 11. 1.

2 ¶ Wine and women leade wise men out of the way, [and put men of vnderstanding to reprove.]

3 And he that companieth adulterers, shal become impudent: rottennes and wormes shal haue him to heritage, and he that is to bolde, shal be taken away, and be made a publicke example.

1 Is. 22. 12.

4 ¶ He that is hastie to giue credit, is light minded, and he that erreth, sinneth against his owne soule.

5 Whoso reioyceth in wickednes, shal be punished: [he that hateth to be reformed, his life shal be shortened, and he that abhorreth babling of wordes, quencherh wickednes:] but he that resisteth pleasures, crowneth his owne soule.

6 He that refraineth his tongue, may liue with a troublesome man, and he that hateth babling, shal haue lesse euil.

7 Rehearse not to an other, that which is tolde vnto thee: so y<sup>e</sup> shalt not be hindred.

8 Declare not other mens maners, nether to friend nor foe: and if the sinne apperteine not vnto thee, reueile it not.

9 For he wil hearken vnto thee, and marke thee, and when he findeth opportunitie, he wil hate thee.

Chap. 22. 18. & 27. 17.

10 ¶ If thou hast heard a worde [against thy neighbour,] let it dye with thee, & be sure, it wil not burst thee.

11 A foole trauaileth when he hath heard a thing, as a woman that is about to bring forth a childe.

12 As an arrowe that sticketh in ones thigh, so is a worde in a fooles heart.

Leui. 19. 17. & mat. 18. 13.

13 ¶ Reproue a friend lest he do euil, and if he haue done it, that he do it no more.

14 Reproue a friend that he may kepe his tongue: and if he haue spoken, that he say it no more.

15 Tell thy friend his faute: for oft times a sclander is raised, and giue no credence to euerie worde.

16 A man falleth with his tongue, but not with his wil: and who is he, that hath not offended in his tongue? Lam. 11.

17 Reproue thy neighbour before thou threaten him, & being without anger, giue place vnto the Law of the moste High.

18 The feare of the Lord is the first degree to be receiued of him, and wisdom obtiēneth his loue.

19 The knowledge of the commandemēt of the Lord is the doctrine of life, & they that obey him, shal receiue the frute of immortalicie.

20 The feare of the Lord is all wisdom, and the performing of the Law is perbre wisdom, & the knowledge of his almightie power.

21 If a seruant say vnto his master, I wil not do as it pleaseth thee, thogh afterward he do it, he shal displease him that nourisheth him.

22 The knowledge of wickednes is not wisdom, nether is there prudencie where as the counsel of sinners is: but it is euen execrable malice: and the foole is void of wisdom.

23 He that hath smale vnderstanding, and feareth God, is better then one that hath muche wisdom, & transgresseth the Law of the moste High.

24 There is a certaine subtiltie that is fine, but it is vnrighteous: & there is that walteth the open and manifest Law: yet there is that is wise and iudgeth righteously.

25 There is some that being about wicked purposes, do bowe downe them selues, and are sad, whose inward partes burne altogether with deceit: he loketh downe with his face, and faineth him self deafeyr before thou perceiue, he wil be vpon thee to hurt thee.

26 And thogh he be so weake that he can do thee no arme, yet when he may finde opportunitie, he wil do euil.

27 ¶ A man may be knowen by his loke, and one that hath vnderstanding, may be perceiued by the marking of his countenance.

28 ¶ A mans garment, and his excelsiue laughter, and going declare what person he is.

CHAP. XX.

Of correction & repentance. 6 To speake & kepe silence in time. 17 The fall of the wicked. 23 Of lying. 24 The thief & the murderer. 28 Giftes blinde the eyes of the wise.

1 There is some rebuke that is not comelie: againe, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.

2 It is, muche better to reprove, then to heare

beare euil wil: and he that his faute, shal be preferred. As whē a gelded mā tēdefile a maide, so is he tē in iudgement.

3 How good a thing is it reprovēd, to shewe reproofe: thou escape wilful sinne.

4 Some man kepeth his wife, and some by muche meeth hateful.

5 Some man holdeth his tongue, he hath not to answer silence, waiting a conuēnt.

6 ¶ A wise man wil holde his opportunitie: but a tripe regarde no time.

7 He that vseth manie wordes, he hath not to answer silence, he that taketh himself, shal be hated.

8 Some man hath oft time wicked things, and some time founde, bringeth losse.

9 There is some gift that is for thee, and there is some ward: is double.

10 Some man humbleth himselfe sake, and some by humbly vp the head.

11 Some man byeth muche for the which he payeth siluer.

12 ¶ A wife man with his him self to be loued, but fooler shal be powred out.

13 The gift receiued of thee no good, nether yet his importunitie: for he hath manie things for one: he vpbraideth muche: he of the like a towne crier: to to morowe asketh he agayne.

14 The gift receiued of thee no good, nether yet his importunitie: for he hath manie things for one: he vpbraideth muche: he of the like a towne crier: to to morowe asketh he agayne.

15 The foole saith, I haue no thanke for all my good: that eat my bread, speake.

16 How oft, and of howe be laughed to scorne: for death not by right iudgement: bath: & it is all one as thou.

17 The fall on a pavement: so shal y<sup>e</sup> fall of the wicked.

18 A man without grace is which is oft tolde by the ignorant.

19 A wise sentence loseth ground out of a fooles mouth: he hath not in due season.

20 Some man sinneth not but alone, and yet is not grieued.

21 Some man there is that owne soule, because he is the regarde of persones lo

beare euil wil: and he that acknowledgeth his faute, shalbe preserued from hurt.

As whē a gilded mā throwe lust wolde defile a maide, so is he that vseth violence in iudgement.

How good a thing is it, when thou art reprovēd, to shewe repentance! for so shalt thou escape wilful sinne.

Some man kepeth silence, and is founde wife, and some by muche babling becometh hatefull.

Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hath not to answer: and some kepeth silence, waiting a convenient time.

A wife man wil holde his tongue til he se opportunitie: but a trifler & a foole wil regarde no time.

He that vseth manie wordes, shal be abhorred, and he that taketh autoritie to him self, shalbe hated.

Some man hath of times prosperitie in wicked things, and some time a thing that is founde, bringeth losse.

There is some gift that is not profitable for thee, and there is some gift, whose reward is double.

Some man humbleth him self for glories sake, and some by humbles lifteth vp the head.

Some man byeth muche for a litle price: for the which he payeth seven times more.

A wise man with his wordes maketh him self to be loued, but the mery tales of foolles shal be powred out.

The gift receiued of a foole, shal do thee no good, nether yet of the enuius for his importunitie: for he loketh to receiue manie things for one: he giueth litle, & he vnderstandeth muche: he openeth his mouth like a towns crier: to day he lendeth, to morowe asketh he againe, and suche one is to be hated of God and man.

The foole saith, I haue no friend: I haue no thanke for all my good dedes: and they that eat my bread, speake euil of me.

How oft, and of how manie shal he be laughed to scorn: for he comprehendeth not by right iudgement that which he hath: & it is all one as though he had it not.

The fall on a pavement is verie sudden: so shal y fall of the wicked come hastily.

A man without grace is as a fool: shal which is oft tolde by the mouth of the ignorant.

A wise sentence loseth grace, when it cometh out of a foolles mouth: for he speaketh not in due season.

Some man sinneth not because of povertie, and yet is not grieved when he is alone.

Some man there is that destroyeth his owne soule, because he is ashamed, and for the regarde of persons loseth it.

Some man promisseth vnto his friend for shame, and getteth an enemie of him for naught.

A lie is a wicked shame in a mā: yet is it oft in the mouth of the vnwife.

A thief is better, then a man that is accustomed to lye: but they bothe shal haue destruction to heritage.

The condicions of liars are vnheist, and their shame is euer with them.

A wife man shal bring him self to honor with his wordes, and he that hath vnderstanding, shal please great men.

He that tilleth his land, shal increase his heape: [he that worketh righteousness, shalbe exalted,] and he that pleaseeth great me, shal haue pardō of his iniquitie.

Rewar des and giftes blinde the eyes of the wise, and make them dōme, that they can not reprove fautes.

Wisdomē that is hid, and treasure that is horded vp, what profite is in the bothe?

Better is he that kepeth his ignorance secret, then a man that hideth his wisdomē.

The necessarie patience of him, that followeth the Lord, is better then he that gouerneth his life without the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reprovēd. 17 The mouth of the wise man. 26 The thought of the foole.

MY sonne, halt thou sinned: do so no more, but pray for the fore sinnes [that they may be forgiven thee.]

Flee from sinne, as from a serpent: for if thou comest to nere it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lyon, to slay the soules of men.

All iniquitie is as a two edged sworde, the woundes whereof can not be healed.

Strife & iniuries waste riches: so the house of the proude shalbe desolate.

The prayer of the poore going out of the mouth, cometh vnto the eares of the Lord, and iustice is done him incontinently.

Who so hateth to be reformed, is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord, conuerteth in heart.

An eloquent talker is knowne as farre off: but he that is wise, perceiuet when he falleth.

Who so buyldeth his house with other mens money, is like one that gathereth stones to make his grave.

The congregation of the wicked is like towne wrapped together: their end is a flame of fyre to destroye them.

The waye of sinners is made plaine with stones, but at the end thereof is hel, darkness and paines.]

He that kepeth the Law of the Lord, ruleth his owne affections thereby: and

the increase of wisdom is the end of the fear of God.

12 He that is not wise, wil not suffer him self to be taught: but there is some wit that increaseth bitterness.

13 The knowledge of the wise shal abounde
like water that runneth ouer, and his counsel is like a pure fountaine of life.

Chap. 32.

14 * The inner partes of a foole are like a broken vessel: he can kepe no knowledge
whiles he liueth.

15 When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wise worde, he wil comend it, and increaseth
it: but if an ignorant man heare it, he wil
disallowe it, and cast it behinde his backe.

16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way, but there is comelines in the talke of a wise man.

17 Thei inquire at the mouth of the wise man in the congregacion, and they shal
ponder his wordes in their heart.

18 As is an house that is destroyed, so is wis-dome vnto a foole, and the knowlege of
the vnwise is as wordes without order.

19 Doctrine vnto fooles is as fetters on the fett, and like manicles vpon the right had.

Chap. 19.

20 * A foole listeth vp his voyce with laughter, but he that is wise doeth scarce smile
secretly.

21 Learning is vnto a wise man a jewel of golde, and like a bracelet vpon his right
arme.

22 A foolish mans fote is sone in [his neighboures] house: but a man of experience is ashamed to loke in.

23 A foole wil pepe in at the dore into the house: but he that is wel nurtered, wil stand without.

24 It is the point of a foolish mā to hearkē
at the dore: for he that is wise, wil be grie-
ued with such dishonour.

25 The lippes of talkers wil be telling suche
things as pertaine not vnto the, but y<sup>e</sup> wor-des of such as haue vnderstanding, are weighed in the balance:

26 The heart of fooles is in their mouth:
but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

27 When the vngodlie curseth Satan, he curseth his owne soule.

Chap. 22.

28 * A backebiter defileth his owne soule, &
is hated wherfoeuer he is: [but he that kepeth his tongue, and is discrete, shal come to honour.]

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of the sluggard. 22 Not to speake muche to a foole.

16 A good conscience feareth not.

1 A slothful man is like a filthie stone,

which euerie man mocketh at for
his shame.

2 A slothful man is to be compared to the
doughe of oxē, & euerie one that taketh it
vp, wil shake it out of his hand.

3 An euil nurtered sonne is the dishonour

of the father: & the daughter is least to be esteemed.

4 A wise daughter is an heritage vnto her
houfband: but she that liueth dishonestly,
is her fathers heauines.

5 She that is bolde, dishonoreth bothe her father and her houfband, [and is not inferior to the vngodlie,] but they bothe shal disprize her.

6 A tale out of time is as musick in mourning: but wisdom knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.

7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a potcherde together, and as he
that waketh one that slepeth, from a soun-
de slepe.

8 If children liue honestly, & haue wherewith, they shal put away the shame of their parents.

9 But if children be proude, with hautines
and foolishnes they defile the nobilitie of their kinred.

10 Who so telleth a foole of wisdom, is as a man, which speaketh to one y<sup>e</sup> is a slepe:
whē he hath tolde his tale, he saith, What is the matter?

11 * Wepe for the dead, for he hath lost the light: so wepe for the foole, for he wanteth vnderstanding: make smale weping for the dead, for he is at rest: but the life of the foole is worse then the death.

12 Seue dayes do men moune for him that is dead: but the lamentacion for the foole, & vngodlie [shulde endure] all the dayes
of their life.

13 Talke not muche with a foole, & go not to him that hath no vnderstanding: * beware of him, lest it turne thee to paine,
and lest thou be defiled when he shaketh him self. Depart from him, & thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not receiue sorowe by his foolishnes.

14 What is heauier then lead? and what other name shulde a foole haue?

15 * Sad and salt, and a lump of yron is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish and vngodlie man.]

16 As a frame of wood ioyned together
in a buylding can not be losed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by ad-
uised counsel, shal feare at no time.

17 The heart that is confirmed by discrete wisdom, is as a faire plaistering on a plaine wall.

18 As reedes that are set vp on hie, can not abide the winde, so the feareful heart with foolish imaginacion can indure no feare.

19 He that hurteth the eye, bringeth forth
teares, & he that hurteth y<sup>e</sup> heart, bringeth forth the affliction.

20 Who so casteth a stone at y<sup>e</sup> birdes, fraieth them away: & he that vpbraideth his friend, breaketh friendship.

21 Thogh

11 Thogh thou drestest a friend, yet dispaire not: for returning to fauour.

12 If thou haue opened thy thy friend, feare not: for reconciliation, so that vp-
de or disclosing of secre-
woulde do not let: for by ric friend wil departe.

13 Be faithful vnto thy friend, that thou maist reioiperitie. Abide stedfast vnto me of his trouble, that thou
with him in his heritage
not alwayes to be contenche that is foolish, to be ration.

14 As the vapour, and smok-
may goeth before the fyre,
rebukes & threatenings
of sheding.

15 I wil not be ashamed to nether wil I hide my self:
he shulde do me harme:
reth it, shal beware of him.

and a seale of wisdom vpon
that I fall not suddenly by my tongue destroye me not.

10 Thogh thou drewest a sworde at thy friend, yet dispaire not: for there may be a returning to fauour.

11 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may be a reconciliation, so that vpbraiding or pride or disclosing of secrets or a traiterous woude do not let: for by these things euerie friend wil departe.

12 Be faithfull vnto thy friend in his pouertie, that thou maist reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou maist be heire with him in his heritage: for pouertie is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the riche that is foolish, to be had in admiration.

13 As the vapour, and smoke of the chimney goeth before the fyre, so euil wordes, [rebukes & threatenings] go before bloodshedding.

14 I wil not be ashamed to defende a friēd: neither wil I hide my self from him, though he shulde do me harme: whoseuer heareth it, shal beware of him.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prayer of the autor. 13 Of othes, blasphemie, and vaine communication. 16 Of three kindes of sinnes. 18 Manie sinnes procede of adulterie. 27 Of the feare of God.

1 O Lord, father & gouernour of all my whole life, leaue me not to their counsel, and let me not fall by them.

2 Who wil correct my thoght, and put the doctrine of wisdom in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorāce, neither let their fautes passe?

3 Lest mine ignorances increase, and my sinnes abounde to my destruction, and lest I fall before mine aduersarie, and mine enemies reioyce ouer me, whose hope is farre from thy mercie.

4 O Lord, father & God of my life, [leaue me not in their imagination] neither giue me a proude looke, but turne away from thy seruants a stoute minde.

5 Take from me vaine hope, and concupiscence, and reteine him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.

6 Let not thy griedines of the bellie, nor lust of the flesh holde me, and giue not me thy seruant ouer into an impudent minde.

7 Heare, o ye children, the instruction of a mouth that shal speake truth: who so keepeth it, shal not perishe thorow his lippes, [nor be hurte by wicked workes.]

8 The sinner shalbe taken by his owne lippes: for the euil speaker and the proude do offende by them.

9 *Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: [for in it there are many falles,] neither take vp for a custome the naming of the Holy one: [for thou shalt not be vnpunished, for suche things.]

10 For as a seruant which is oft punished, can not be without some skarre, so he that sweareth and nameth God continually, shal not be fauteles.

11 A man that vseth much swearing, shalbe filled with wickednes, and the plague shal neuer go from his house: when he shal offend, his faute shalbe vpon him, and if he knowledge not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if he sweare in vaine, he shal not be innocent, but his house shalbe full of plagues.

12 There is a worde which is clothed with death: God grante that it be not founde in the heritage of Iacob: but they that feare God, eschewe all suche, & are not wrapped in sinne.

13 Vse not thy mouth to "ignorant rashnes: for therein is the occasion of sinne. For, inordinate swearing.

14 Remember thy father and thy mother when thou art set among great men, lest thou be forgotten in their sight, and so through thy custome become a foole, and with that thou hadest not bene borne, and curse the day of thy natiuitie.

15 *The man that is accustomed to opprobrious wordes, wil neuer be reformed all the daies of his life. Sam. 16. 7.

16 There are two sortes [of me] that abounde in sinne, and the third bringeth wrath [and destruction:] a minde hote as fyre, that can not be quenched til it be consumed: an adulterous man that giueth his bodie no rest, til he haue kindled a fyre.

17 (All bread is swete to a whoremonger: he wil not leaue of til he perishe.)

18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, & thinketh thus in his heart, *Who seeth me? I am compassed about with darkenes: the wales couer me: no bodie seeth me: whome ne de I to feare? the moste High wil not remember my sinnes. Ist. 29. 15.

19 Suche a man onely feareth the eyes of men, & knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter than the sunne, beholding all the waies of me, [and the ground of the deepe,] and considereth the moste secret partes.

20 He knewe all things or euer they were made, and after they be broght to passe also he lokech vpon them all.

21 *The same man shalbe punished in the streates of the cite, [ & shalbe chased like a yong horsefoale,] and when he thinketh not vpon it, he shalbe taken: [thus shal he be put to shame of euerie man, because he wolde not vnderstand the feare of the Lord.] Leu. 20. 10. deut. 22. 28.

self onely, but for all them that seeke wis-dome.

CHAP. XXV.

Of three things which please God, and of three which he hateth. 7 Of nine things that be not to be suspect.
12 Of the malice of a woman.

Three things reioyce me, and by them
I am beautified before God & men:
the vnitie of brethren, the loue of neighbours, a man and wife that agre together.

* Three sortes of men my soule hateth, &
I utterly abhorre the life of them: a poore man that is proude: a riche man that is a liar, and an olde adulterer that doteth.

If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, what canst thou finde in thine age?

(Oh, how pleasant a thing is it whē graie headed men minister iudgement, & when
the elders can giue good counsel!)

Oh, how comelie a thig is wisdom vnto
aged men, and vnderstanding and pruden-
cie to men of honour!

The crowne of olde me is to haue muche experience, and the feare of God is their glorie.

* There be nine thigs, which I haue iudged in mine heart to be happie, and the tenth wil I pronounce with my tongue:
a man that while he liueth, hath ioye of his children, and seeth the fall of his enemies.

[ Wel is him that dwelleth with a wife
of vnderstanding, * and that hath not fallen with his tongue, and that hath not serued suche as are vnworthe of
him.

9 Wel is him that findeth prudencie, and he that can not speake in the eares of them
that wil heare.

10 ¶ Oh, how great is he that findeth wisdo-
me! yet is there none about him, that feareth the Lord.

11 The feare of the Lord passeth all things
in clerenes.

12 [Blessed is the man, vnto whome it is granted to haue the feare of God.] Vnto whome shal he be likened that hath attained it?

13 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of his loue, and faith is the beginning to be ioyned vnto him.

14 [¶ The greatest heauines is the heauines of the heart, and the greatest malice is
the malice of a woman.]

15 Giue me any plague, saue onely the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:

16 Or any assalt, saue the assalt of them
that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemie.

17 There is not a more wicked head then
the head of the serpent, and there is no
wrath about the wrath of an enemie.

18 * I had rather dwell with a lion and dragon, then to kepe house with a wicked wife.

19 The wickednes of a woman chāgeth her face, and maketh her countenance blacke
as a sacke.

20 Her housband is sitting among his neighbours: because of her he sigheth sore
or he beware.

21 All wickednes is but litle to the wicked-
nes of a woman: let the portion of the sinner fall vpon her.

22 As the climbing vp of a sandie way is to the fete of the aged, so is a wife ful of wor-
des to a quiet man.

23 * Stumble not at the beautie of a woman, and desire her not for thy pleasure.

24 If a woman nourish her housband, she is angrie and impudent and ful of repro-
che.

25 A wicked wife maketh a sorie heart, an heauie countenance, and a wounded min-
de, weake hands and feble knees, and can not comfort her housband in heauines.

26 Of the * woman came the beginning of sinne, and thorow her we all dye.

27 Giue the water no passage, [no not a litle,] nether giue a wicked woman liber-
tie to go out.

28 If she walke not in thine obedience, [she
shal confound thee in the sight of thine
enemies.] Cut her of then from thy flesh:
* Giue her, and forsake her.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The praise of a good woman. 5 Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth. 6 Of the ielous and drunken woman. 22 Of two things that cause sorrow, and of the thirde which moueth wrath.

Blessed is the man that hathe a vertuous wife: for the number of his yerres shalbe double.

2 An honest womā reioyeth her housbād, and she shal fill the yerres of his life with peace.

3 A vertuous womā is a good portiō which shalbe giuen for a gift vnto suche as feare the Lord.

4 Whether a man be riche or poore, he hathe a good heart toward the Lord, & they shal at all times haue a chereful countenance.

5 ¶ There be three things that mine heart feareth, & my face is afraied of the fourth: treason in a citie: the assemblie of the people, and false accusation: all these are heauier then death.

6 ¶ But the sorrow and grief of the heart is a woman that is ielous ouer another: and she that communeth with all, is a scourge of the tongue.

7 An euil wife is as a yoke of oxen y drawe diuerse waies: he that hathe her, is as thogh he helde a scorpion.

8 A drunken woman and such as can not be tamed, is a great plague: for she can not coouer her owne shame.

9 The whoredome of a womā may be knowen in the pride of her eyes, and eyeliddes.

Chap. 42, 17.

10 ¶ If thy daughter be not shamefast, holde her straitly, lest she abuse her self thorow ouer muche libertie.

11 Take hede of her that hathe an vnshamefast eye: & marueile not if she trespace against thee.

12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirstie, so shal she open her mouth, and drinke of euerie next water: by euerie hedge shal she sitte downe, & open her quier against euerie arowe.

13 The grace of a wife reioyeth her housband, and fedeth his bones with her vnderstanding.

14 A peaceable woman and of a good heart is a gift of the Lord, and there is nothing so muche worthe as a womā wel instructed.

15 A shamefast & faithfull woman is a double grace, and there is no weight to be compared vnto her continēt minde.

16 As the sunne when it ariseth in the high places of the Lord, so is the beautie of a good wife the ornament of her house.

17 As the clere light is vpon the holic candlestick, so is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.

18 As the golden pillers are vpon the sockets of bluer: so are faire sete with a constant minde.

19 [Perpetual are the fundaciōs that be laide vpon a strong rocke: so are the commandements of God in the heart of an holie woman.]

20 My sonne, kepe the strength of thine age stable, and giue not thy strength to strangers.

21 When thou hast gotten a frutefull posses- sion through all the fields, sowe it with thine owne seede, trusting in thy nobilitie.

22 So thy stocke that shal liue after thee, shal growe, trusting in the great liberalitie of their nobilitie.

23 An harlot is compared to a sowe: but the wife that is married, is counted as a towre against death to her housband.

24 A wicked womā is giuen as a reward to a wicked man: but a godlie woman is giue to him that feareth the Lord.

25 A shameles woman contemneth shame: but a shamefast woman wil reuerence her housband.

26 A shameles woman is compared to a dogge: but she that is shamefast, reuerenceth the Lord.

27 A woman that honoreth her housband, shalbe iudged wise of all: but she that despi- seth him, shalbe blased for her pride.

28 A lowde crying woman and a babler let her be fought out to drue away y enemies: the minde of euerie man that liueth with such, shalbe conuersant among the troubles of warre.

29 There be two things that grieve mine heart, and the thirde maketh me angrie: a mā of warre that suffreth pouertie: and mē of vnderstanding that are not set by: & whe one departeth from righteousness vnto sinne: the Lord appointeth such to y sword.

30 [There be two things, which me thinke to be hard and perilous.] A marchant can not lightly kepe him from wrong, and a vitailer is not without sinne.

CHAP. XXVII.

3. Of the poore that wolde be riches. 5. The probation of the man that feareth God. 13 The vnconscience of a foole. 16 The secrets of friends are not to be re- uelad. 26 The wicked imagineth euil which turneth vpon him self.

Because of pouertie haue manie sin- ned: and he that seketh to be riche, turneth his eyes aside.

2 As a nail in the wall sticketh fast betwe- ne the ioyntes of the stones, so doeth sinne sticke betwe- ne the selling and the buying. If he holde him not diligently in the fea- re of the Lord, his house shal sone be out- thrown.

4 As when one sisterh, the filthines remaineth in the siue, so the filth of man remaineth in his thoght.

5 The fornace proueth the potters vessel:

so doeth [tentacion] tr

6 The frute declareth if it be trimmed: so the worde of a man hathe in his heart.

7 Praise no man except thou haue heard his talke: for this is the truth.

8 ¶ If thou followest right, thou shalt get her, & put her in thy ment, [and shalt dwell with her] shal defend thee for euery thing of knowledge thou shalt haue.

9 The birdes resort vnto the tree: and the truth turne vnto the righteous in her.

10 As the lyon waiteth for his praye, so doeth sinne vpon them that are righteous.

11 The talking of him that is wise, is all wisdom: as for a foole, as the moone.

12 If thou be among the wise, kepe the time, but haunte not with them that are wise.

13 The talking of foolles is all vnprofitable: their sporte is in the play.

14 ¶ The talke of him that is wise, maketh the heere to stand: but the talke of him that is foolish, stoppeth the eares.

15 The strife of the proud is all vnprofitable: and their skoulders are to beare.

16 ¶ Who so discouereth his secret, & findeth no friend, he is a fool.

17 Love thy friend, & be faithful to him: but if thou bewrayest his secret, thou shalt not get him againe.

18 For as a man destroyeth his house, so doeth thou destroy the house of thy neighbour.

19 As one that letteth a big game, so if thou giue ouer thy friend, thou shalt not get him againe.

20 Followe after him no more: for he is as a roe of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]

21 As for woundes, they may be healed: but an euil word, which is spoken, is not to be recalled: but who so bewrayeth the secret of a friend, hathe lost all his friends.

22 ¶ He that winketh with his eye, he hateth his friend: and he that knoweth his secret, he hateth him alone.

23 When thou art present with the wise, sweete, and praise thy wisdom: but when thou art with the foolish, last he wil turne his tale, saying.

24 Manie things haue I heard of thee, but thou art as an euil as such one: for thou turnest him.

25 Who so casteth a stone at a man, he casteth it vpon his owne head: and who so giueth guile, maketh a greater guile.

26 ¶ Who so diggeth a pit for another, he shall fall therein: and he that buildeth a wall, he shall be destroyed.

10 doeth [tentacion] trye mens thoughts.

11 The frute declareth if the tre haue bene trimmed: so the worde [declareth] what man hathe in his heart.

12 Praise no man except thou haue heard his talke: for this is the tryal of men.

13 If thou followest righteousness, thou shalt get her, & put her on as a faire garment, [and shalt dwell with her, and she shall defend thee for euer: and in the daye of knowledge thou shalt finde stedfastnes.]

14 The birdes resorte vnto their like: so doeth the truth turne vnto them, that are practised in her.

15 As the lyon waiteth for the beast, so doeth sinne vpon them that do euil.

16 The talking of him that feareth God, is all wisdom: as for a foole, he changeth as the moone.

17 If thou be among the vndiscrete, obserue the time, but haunte stil the assemblie of them that are wise.

18 The talking of fooles is grievous, and their sporte is in the plaister of sinne.

19 The talke of him that sweareth muche, maketh the heere to stand vp: & to strue with such, stoppeth the eares.

20 The strife of the proude is blood shedding, and their skouldings are grievous to heare.

21 Who so discouereth secrets, lesseth his credit, & findeth no friend after his wil.

22 Loue thy friēd, & be faithful vnto him: but if thou bewrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.

23 For as a man destroyeth his enimie, so doest thou destroye the friendship of thy neighbour.

24 As one that letteth a birde go out of his hand, so if thou giue ouer thy friēd, thou canst not gette him againe.

25 Followe after him no more, for he is to farte of: he is as a roe escaped out of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]

26 As for woundes, they may be bounde vp againe, and an euil worde may be reconciled: but who so bewrayeth the secrets of a friend, harbe lost all his credit.

27 He that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euil: and he that knoweth him, wil let him alone.

28 When thou art present, he wil speake sweetly, and praise thy wordes: but at the last he wil turne his tale, and sclander thy saying.

29 Manie things haue I hated, but nothing so euil as such one: for the Lord also hateth him.

30 Who so casteth a stone on hie, casteth it vpon his owne head: and he that smiteth with guile, maketh a great wounde.

31 Who so diggerh a pit, shall fall therein,

[and he that laieth a stone in his neighbours way, shall stamble thereon,] and he that laieth a snare for another, shall be takē in it him self.

32 He that worketh euil, shall be wrapped in euil, and shall not knowe from whence they come vnto him.

33 Mockerie & reproche followe the proude, and vengeance lurketh for them as a lyon.

34 They that reioyce at the fall of y righteous, shall be taken in the snare, & anguish shall consume them before they dye.

35 Dispise & angre are abominable thinges, and the sinful man is subiect to the bothe.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 We ought not to desire vengeance, but to forgive the offence. 13 Of the vices of the tongue, and of the dangers thereof.

2 HE* that seeketh vengeance, shall finde vengeance of the Lord, and he wil surely kepe his finnes.

3 Forgiue thy neighbour the hurt that he hathe done to thee, so shall thy finnes be forgiven thee also, when thou praieest.

4 Shulde a man beare hatred against man, and * desire forgiveness of the Lord?

5 He wil shewe no mercie to a man, which is like him self: and wil he aske forgiveness of his owne finnes?

6 If he that is but flesh, nourishe hatred, [and aske pardone of God,] who wil intreate for his finnes?

7 Remember the end, & let enimitie passe: imagine not death and destruction to another through angre, but perseuere in the commandements.

8 Remember the commandements: so shalt thou not be rigorous against thy neighbour: [consider diligently] the covenant of the moste High, and forgiue his ignorance.

9 * Beware of strife, & thou shalt make thy finnes fewer: for an angrie man kindleth strife.

10 And the sinful man disquieteth friends, and bringeth in false accusations among them that be at peace.

11 * As the matter of the fyre is, so it burneth, and mans angre is according to his power: and according to his riches his angre increaseth, and the more vehement the angre is, the more is he inflamed.

12 An hastie brauling kindleth a fyre, and an hastie fighting sheddeth blood: [a tongue that beareth false witnes, bringeth death.]

13 If thou blowe the sparke, it shall burne: if thou spit vpon it, it shall be quenched, and bothe these come out of the mouth.

14 * Abhorre the sclanderer and double tongued: for such haue destroyed many that were at peace.

16 Whoso hearkeneth vnto it, shal neuer finde rest, and neuer dwell quietly.

17 The stroke of the rodde maketh markes in the flesh, but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

18 There be manie that haue perished by the edge of the sword, but not so manie as haue fallen by the tongue.

19 Wel is him that is kept fro an euil tongue, and cometh not in the angre thereof, which hath not drawn in that yoke, neither hath bene bounde in the bandes thereof.

20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of yron, and the bands of it are bandes of bras.

21 The death thereof is an euil death: hell were better then suche one.

22 It shal not haue rule ouer them that feare God, neither shal they be burnt with the flame thereof.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 To lend money, and do almes 15 Of a faithfull man answering for his friend. 24 The poore mans life.

2 HE that wil shewe mercie, lendeth to his neighbour: and he that hath power ouer him self, kepeth the commandements.

3 Lend to thy neighbour in time of his neede, and pay thou thy neighbour againe in due season.

4 Kepe thy worde and deale faithfully with him, and thou shalt alwaye finde the thing that is necessarie for thee.

5 Manie when a thing was lent them, rekened it to be founde, & grieved them that had helped them.

6 Til they receiue, they kisse his hands, and for their neighbours good they humble their voyce: but when they shulde paie againe, they prolong the terme, and giue a

carles answer, and make excuses by reason of the time.

6 And though he be able, yet giueth he scarce the halfe againe, and rekeneth the other as a thing founde: els he deceiue him of his money, & maketh him an enemy without a cause: he paieth him with cursing & rebuke, & giueth him euil wordes for his good dede.

7 There be manie which refuse to lend because of this inconuenience, fearing to be defrauded without cause.

8 Yet haue thou pacience with him that humbleth him self, & differre not mercie from him.

9 Helpe the poore for the commandements sake, and turne him not away, because of his pouertie.

10 Lest thy money for thy brothers and neighbours sake, and let it not rust vnder a stone to thy destruction.

11 *Bestowe the treasure after the commandement of the moste High, & it shal bring thee more profite then golde.

12 Lay vp thine almes in thy secret chambers, & it shal kepe thee from all affliction. 13 [A mans almes is as a purse with him, and shal kepe a mans fauour as the apple of the eye, and afterwarde shal it arise, and paye euerie man his rewarde vpon his head.]

14 It shal fight for thee against thine enemies, better then the shield of a strong man, or speare of the mightie.

15 An honest man is suretie for his neighbour: but he that is impudent, forsaketh him.

16 Forget not the friendship of thy suretie: for he hath laied his life for thee.

17 The wicked despiseth the good dede of his suretie.

18 The wicked wil not become suretie: and he that is of an vnthankful minde, forsaketh him that deliuered him.

19 [Some man promisseth for his neighbour: and when he hath lost his honestie, he wil forsake him.]

20 Suretieshippe hath destroyed manie a riche man, & remoued them as the waves of the sea: mightie men hath it driuen away from their houses, and caused them to wander among strange nations.

21 A wicked man, transgressing the commandements of the Lord, shal fall into suretieshippe: and he that medleth much with other mens busines, is intangled in controuersies.

22 ¶ Helpe thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thy self fall not.

Remember that an euil eye is a shrewe: & what thing created is worse then a wicked eye: for it wepeth for euerie cause.

Stretch not thine hand wherefoeuer it loketh, and thrust it not with it into the dish.

Consider by thy self him that is by thee, and marke euerie thing.

Eat modestly that which is set before thee, and deuoure not, lest thou be hated.

Leaue thou of first for noutrours sake, & be not insaciabie, lest thou offend.

When thou sittest among many, reache not thine hand out first of all.

[Psal. 104. 15.] [Prov. 31. 4.] Wine soberly dronken, is profitable for the life of mā: what is his life that is overcome with wine?

Wine was made [from the beginning] to make men glad, [and not for drunkennes.] Wine mesurably dronken and in time, bringeth gladnes and cherefulness of the minde.

But wine dronken with excesse, maketh bitterness of minde with braulings and skouldings.

Drunkennes increaseth the courage of a foole, til he offend: it diminisheth his strength and maketh woundes.

*Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, [Chap. 31.] and dispise him not in his mirth: giue him no dispitiful wordes, and presse not vpon him with contrarie wordes.

Speake thou that art the elder: for it becometh thee, but with sounde iudgement, and hinder not musicke.

Powre not out wordes, where there is no audience, *and shewe not forthe wisdom out of time.

The consent of musiciens at a banquet is as a signet of carbuncle set in golde.

Thou that art yong, speake if nede be, and yet fearfully when thou art twice asked.

Comprehende muche in fewe wordes: [in manie things be as one that is ignorant:] be as one that vnderstandeth, and yet holde thy tongue.

If thou be among great men, compare not thy self vnto them: and when an elder speaketh, bable not muche.

Before the * thonder goeth lightning, [Iob. 34.] and before a shamefast man goeth fauour.

Stand vp betimes, and be not the last: but get thee home without delay,

And there take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt, so that thou do none euil, or vse proude wordes.

But about all things, giue thanks vnto him that hathe made thee, and replenished thee with his goods.

*Who so feareth the Lord, wil receiue his doctrine, and they that rise early, shal finde fauour.

He that seketh the Law, shal be filled therewith: but the hypocrite wil be offended therat.

They that feare the Lord, shal finde that which is righteous, and shal kinde iustice as a light.

An vngodlie man wil not be reformed, but findeth out excuses according to his wil.

A man of vnderstanding dispiseth not counsel:

[My sonne,] do nothing in a moment: so shal it not repen dede.

Go not in the way where thou knowest not where thou maist stonde, neither trust thou in plaine.

And beware of thine [and take hede of them that haue holden.]

¶ There shal no euil come vnto him that feareth the Lord: but when he is in tentation, he wil deliuer him a-

¶ A wise man hateth not the Law: but he
that is an hypocrite therein, is as a shippe
in a storme.

¶ A man of vnderstanding walketh faithfully in the Law, and the Law is faithful
vnto him.

¶ As the question is made, prepare the answer, and so shalt thou be heard: be sure of the matter, and so answer.

¶ The heart of the foolish is like a cart-wheele: and his thoughts are like a rolling axeltre.

¶ As a wilde horse neieth vnder euerie one that sitteth vpon him, so is a scornful
friend.

¶ Why doeth one day excell another, seing
that the light of the daies of the yere co-

¶ The knowledge of the Lord hathe parted
them a sondre, and he hathe by them disposed the times and solemne feastes.

¶ Some of them hathe he chofen and sanctified, & some of them hathe he put among the daies to nomber.

¶ And all men are of the *grounde, and Adam was created out of the earth: but the Lord hathe deuided them by great knowledge, and made their waies diuers.

¶ Some of them hathe he blessed and exalted, and some of them hathe he sanctified,
and appropriate to him self: but some of
the hathe he cursed, and brought the lowe,
and put them out of their citate.

¶ As the claye is in the potters hand, to order it at his pleasure, so are men also in the hand of their creator, so that he may rewarde them as liketh him best.

¶ Against euil is good, and against death
is life: so is the godlie against the sinner,
and the vngodlie against the faithfull.

¶ So in all the workes of the moste High thou maist se that there are euē two, one against another.

¶ I am awaked vp last of all, as one that gathereth after them in the vintage. In the blesing of the Lord I am increased, and haue filled my wine presse, like a grape gatherer.

¶ Beholde, how I haue not labored one-
ly for my self, but for all them that seke knowledge.

¶ Heare me, & ye great men of the people, & hearken with your eares, ye rulers of the congregation.

¶ Giue not thy sonne and wife, thy brother and friēd, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intraat for the same againe.

¶ As long as thou liuest, and hast breth,
giue not thy self ouer to anie persone.

¶ For better it is that thy children shulde
pray vnto thee, then that thou shouldest lo-
ke vp to the hands of thy children.

¶ In all thy workes be excellent, that thine honour be neuer stained.

¶ At the time when thou shalt end thy dayes, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.

¶ ¶ The fodder, the whippe and the burden
belong vnto the asse: and meate, correctiō
and worke vnto thy seruant.

¶ If thou set thy seruant to labour, thou shalt finde rest: but if thou let him go idle,
he shal seke libertie.

¶ The yoke & the whippe bow downe the hard necke: so tame thine euil seruāt with the whippes and correction.

¶ Send him to labour, that he go not idle:
for idlenes bringeth much euil.

¶ Set him to worke, for that belongeth vnto him: if he be not obedient, ¶ put on more heauie fetters.

¶ But be not excessiue toward anie, and without discrecion do nothing.

¶ ¶ If thou haue a faithfull seruant, let him be vnto thee as thine owne soule: for in blood hast thou gotten him. If thou haue a seruant, intreat him as thy brother: for thou hast nede of him, as of thy self. If thou in-treat him euil, and he runne away, wile
thou seke him?

Dreames.

THe hope of a foolish man is vaine & false, & dreames make fooles to haue wings.

Who so regardeth dreames, is like him that wil take holde of a shadowe, and followe after the winde.

Euen so is it with the appearings of dreames, as the likenes of a face is before another face.

Who can be clenfed by the vncleane? or what trueth can be spoken of a lier?

Soth sayings, witchcraft, and dreaming is but vanitie, and a minde that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman that trauaileth.

Where as suche visōs come not of y<sup>e</sup> moste High to trye thee, set not thine heart vpon them.

For dreames haue disceiued many, and thei haue failed that put their trust therein.

The Law shalbe fulfilled without lies, & wisdom is sufficient to a faithful mouth: [what knowledge hathe he that is not tryed?]

A man that is instructed, vnderstandeth muche, and he that hathe the good experiēce, can talke of wisdom.

He that hathe no experience, knoweth litle, and he that erreth, is ful of craftie.

Whē I wandered out and fro, I sawe many things, and mine vnderstanding is greater then I can expresse.

I was oft times in danger of death, yet I was deliuered by these things.

The spirit of those that feare the Lord, shal liue: for their hope is in him that can helpe them.

The feare of the Lord.

Who so feareth the Lord, feareth no man, nether is he afraied: for he is his hope.

Blessed is the soule of him that feareth y<sup>e</sup> Lord: in whome putteth he his trust: who is his strength.

Psal. 33. 18.

Psal. 91. 2.

*For the eyes of the Lord haue respect vnto them, that loue him: he is their mightie protection, and strong grounde, a defence from the heat, and a shadowe for the noone day, a succour fro stombling, & an helpe from falling.

He setteth vp the soule, & lighteneth the eyes: he giueth health, life and blessing.

Psalm. 117.

He that giueth an offering of vnrighteous goods, offreth a mocking sacrifice, & the giftes of the vnrighteous, please not him.

[But y<sup>e</sup> Lord is theirs onely, that patiently abide him in the way of trueth & righteousness.]

The offerings of the wicked & their prayer

Psalm. 11. 2.

The moste High doeth not alowe the offering of the wicked, nether is he pacified for sinne by the multitude of sacrifice.

Who so bringeth an offering of the goods of y<sup>e</sup> poore, doeth as one that sacrificeth y<sup>e</sup> sonne before the fathers eyes.

The bread of the nedeful is the life of the poore: he that defraudeth him thereof, is a murderer.

He y<sup>e</sup> taketh away his neighbours liuing, slayeth him, & he that defraudeth the labourer of his hyre, is a bloodshedder.

When one buyldeth, and another breaketh downe, what profite haue they then but labour?

When one prayeth and another curseth, whose voyce wil the Lord heare?

He that washeth him self because of a dead bodie, and toucheth it againe, what auaileth his washing?

So is it with a man that fasteth for his sinnes, and committeth them againe: who wil heare his prayer? or what doeth his fasting helpe him?

CHAP. XXXV.

Of true sacrifices. 14 The prayer of the fatherles, and of the widowe, and him that humbleth him self.

Who so kepeth the Law, bringeth offerings y<sup>e</sup>ough: he that holdeth fast the commandemens, offreth an offering of saluacion.

He that is thakeful to them that haue wel destrued, offreth fine floure: & he that giueth almes, sacrificeth praise.

To departe from euil is a thakeful thing to the Lord, and to forsake vnrighteousnes, is a reconciling vnto him.

*Thou shalt not appeare emptie before the Lord.

For all these things are done because of the commandement.

The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the smel thereof is swete before the most High.

The sacrifice of the righteous is acceptable, and the remembrance thereof shal neuer be forgotten.

Giue the Lord his honour with a good and liberal eye, and diminish not the first frutes of thine hands.

In all thy giftes shewe a ioyefull countenance, and dedicate thy tithes with gladnes.

Giue vnto the moste High according as he hath enriched thee, & loke what thine hand is able, giue with a cheareful eye.

For the Lord recompenseth, and wil giue thee seven times as muche.

*Diminish nothing of thine offering: for he wil not receiue it, and abstaine from wrōgful sacrifices: for the Lord is the iudge, and regardeth no mans persone.

He accepteth not the persone of the poore, but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed.

He despiseth not the desire of the fatherles, nor the widow, when she powreth out her prayer.

Doeth not the teares of widowes chekes? and he that causeth them: [kes do they go vp vnto the Lord which heareth them.]

He that serueth y<sup>e</sup> Lord with fauour, and his prayer vnto the cloudes.

The prayer of him that self, goeth thorowe the cloudes: not til it come nere the moste High.

And the Lord wil not be merciful, and aduenging heathen, til he haue taken ende of the cruel, and but of the vnrighteous, til he after his workes, and reuenge their deuises, til he haue of his people, and comfort his mercie.

Oh, how faire a thing is me of anguish and trouble of raine, that cometh a drought.

10 And say vnto thee, Thy way is good, & afterwarde he stand against thee, and loke what shal become of thee.

11 [Aske no counsell for religion of him, that is without religion, nor of iustice, of him that hathe no iustice, nor of a womā touching her of whome she is ielous, nor of a coward in matters of warre, nor of a marchant concerning exchange, nor of a bier for the sale, nor of an enuious man touching thankfulness, nor of the vnmerciful touching kindenes, nor of an vn honest man of honestie, nor of the slothful for anie labour, nor of an hireling for the finishing of a worke, nor of an idle seruant for muche busines: hearken not vnto these in anie matter of counsell.

12 But be cōtinual with a godlie man whome thou knowest to kepe the commandments of the Lord, whose minde is according to thy minde, & is forie for thee whē thou stumblest.

13 Take counsell of thine owne heart: for there is no man more faithfull vnto thee, then it.

14 For a mans minde is sometime more accustomed to shewe more the seuen watchmen that sit about in an high tower.

15 And aboue all this pray to y<sup>e</sup> most High, that he wil direct thy way in trueth.

16 Let reason go before euerie enterpryse, & counsell before euerie action.

Wise man.

19 Some man wil be wise in wordes, and is hated, yea, he is destitute of all foodes.

20 Because grace is not giuen him of the Lord: for he is destitute of all wisdom.

21 Another is wise for him self, and the frutes of vnderstanding are faithfull in his mouth.

22 A wise man instructeth his people, and the frutes of his wisdom faile not.

A physician is commendable. 16 To burye the dead.

24 The wisdom of him that is learned.

Honor y<sup>e</sup> physician with that honor that is due vnto him, because of necessity: for the Lord hathe created him.

2 For of the moste High cometh healing, and he shal receiue giftes of the King.

3 The knowledge of the physician listeth vp his head, and in the sight of great men he shalbe in admiration.

4 The Lord hathe created medecines of the earth, and he that is wise, wil not abhorre it.

5 *Was not y<sup>e</sup> water made swete with wood, that men might know the vertue thereof?

6 So he hathe giuen men knowledge, that he might be glorified in his wonderous workes.

7 With suche doeth he heale men, and taketh away their paines.

8 Of suche doeth the apothecarie make a confession, and yet he can not finish his owne workes: for of y<sup>e</sup> Lord cometh prosperitie and welch ouer all the earth.

9 My sonne, faile not in thy sickenes, but praye vnto the Lord, & he wil make thee whole.

10 Leau of from sinne, and order thine hands a right, and cleanse thine heart from all wickednes.

11 Offer swete incense, and fine flour for a remembrance: make the offering fat, for thou art not the first giuer.

12 Then giue place to the physician: for the Lord hathe created him: let him not go from thee, for thou hast nede of him.

13 The houre may come, that their enterprises

prizes may haue good successe.

14 For they also shal praye, that he wolde prosper their for ease, & their phyckening of life.

15 He that sinneth before the Lord, fall into the hands of the enemy.

16 My sonne, powre forth thy dead, & beginne to mone, hadest suffred great harm.

17 Make a grievous lamentation, and neglect not to cōuer his bodie according to the ment, and neglect not to cōuer his bodie according to the ment, and neglect not to cōuer his bodie according to the ment.

18 Make a grievous lamentation, & earnest in mourning, & as he is worthie, & that, thou be euil spoken of, and thy self for thine heauines.

For of heauines cometh death, and the heauines of the heart breaketh y strength.

Of the affection of the heart cometh sorrow, and the life of him that is afflicted, is according to his heart.

Take no heauines to heart: driue it away and remember the last end.

Remember his iudgement: thine also shalbe likewise, vnto me yester daye, and vnto thee to day.

Seing the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest, & comforte thy self againe for him, when his spirit is departed from him.

The wisdom of a learned mā cometh by vsing wel his vacant time: and he that ceaseth from his owne matters and labour, may come by wisdom.

How can he get wisdom that holdeth the plough, and he that hathe pleasure in the gode, and in driuing oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and talketh but of the brede of bullockes?

He giueth his minde to make forowes, and is diligent to giue the kine fodder.

So is it of euerie carpenter, and workemaster that laboreth night and daye: and they that cut, and graue seales, and make sondrie diuersities, and giue them selues to contrefait imagerie, and watch to performe the worke.

The smithe in like maner abideth by his anvil, and doeth his diligēce to labour the yron: the vapour of the fyre dryeth his flesh, and he muste fight with the heat of the fornace: the noyce of the hammer is euer in his eares, and his eyes loke stil vpon the thing that he maketh: he setteth his minde to make vp his workes: therefore he watcheth to polish it persitely.

So doeth the potter sit by his worke: he turneth the whele about with his fete: he is careful alwaye at his worke, and maketh his worke by number.

He facioneth the claye with his arme, & with his fete he tempereth the hardnes thereof: his heart imagineth how to couer it with lead, and his diligence is to clenfe the ouen.

All these hope in their hands, and euerie one bestoweth his wisdom in his worke.

Without these can not y cities be maintained, nor inhabited, nor occupied.

And yet they are not asked their iudgement in the counsel of the people, neither are thei hie in the congregacion, neither sit they vpon the iudgement seates, nor vnderstand the order of iustice: they can not declare matters according to the forme of the Law, and they are not mete for hard matters.

But thei mainteine the state of the worlde, and their desire is concerning their worke and occupation.

CHAP. XXXIX.

A wise man. 16 The workes of God. 25 Vnto the good, good things profite, but vnto the euil, euen good things are euil.

He onelie that applieth his minde to the Law of the moste High, and is occupied in the meditation thereof, seketh out the wisdom of all the ancient, & exerciseth him self in the prophecies.

He kepeth the sayings of famous men, & entreth in also to the secrets of darke sentences.

He seketh out the mysterie of graue sentences, and exerciseth him self in darke parables.

He shal serue among great men and appeare before the prince: he shal traueil through strange countreis: for he hathe tried the good and the euil among men.

He wil giue his heart to reserue early vnto the Lord that made him, & to praye before the moste High, and wil open his mouth in prayer, and praie for his finnes.

When the great Lord wil, he shalbe filled with the Spirit of vnderstanding, that he may powre out wise sentences, & giue thanks vnto the Lord in his praier.

He shal direct his counsel, & knowledge: so shal he meditate in his secrets.

He shal shewe forthe his sciēce and learning, and reioyce in the Law & covenant of the Lord.

Manie shal commend his vnderstanding, and his memorie shal neuer be put out, nor departe away: but his name shal continue from generacion to generacion.

*Gen. 1. 31.

16 * All the workes of the Lord are exceeding good, and all his commandements are done in due season.

17 And none may say, What is this? wherefore is that? for at time conuenient they shall all be fought out: at his commandement the water fliode as an heape, & at the worde of his mouth the waters gathered them selues.

18 His whole fauour appeared by his commandement, and none can diminish that which he wil faue.

19 The workes of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

20 He seeth from euermore: to euermore, & there is nothing wonderful vnto him.

21 A man nedeth not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for he hath made all things for their owne vse.

22 His blessing shall renne ouer as the streame, and moisture the earth like a flood.

23 As he hath turned the waters into salt, so shall the heathen feele his wrath.

24 As his waies are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.

25 ¶ For the good, are good things created from the beginning, and euil things for the sinners.

Chap. 29. 21.

26 * The principal things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fyre, and yron, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, & milke, the blood of the grape, and oyle, and clothing.

27 All these things are for good to y godlie: but to y sinners they are turned vnto euil.

28 There be spretes that are created for vengeance, which in their rigour laye on sure strokes: in the time of destruction they shewe forth their power, and accomplish the wrath of him that made them.

29 Fyre, and haile, and famine, and death: all these are created for vengeance.

30 The teeth of wilde beasts, and the scorpions, and the serpents, and the sworde execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.

31 They shall be glad to do his commandments: & when nedeth is, they shall be ready vpon earth: and when their houre is come,

they shall not overpasse the commandement.

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and haue thought on these things, and haue put them in writing.

33 * All the workes of the Lord are good, & Gen. 1. 31. he giueth euery one in due season, & when nedeth is:

34 So that a man nedeth not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthy praise.

35 And therefore praise y Lord with whole heart and mouth, and blesse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XLII.

1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon them that forsake the Law

of God. 12 Good name & fame. 14 An exhortation to giue heed vnto wisdom. 17 Of what things a man

ought to be ashamed.

1 O Death, how bitter is the remembrā-
ce of thee to a man that liueth at rest

in his possessions, vnto the man that hathe
nothing to vex him, and that hathe pro-

peritie in all things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meat!

2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudge-ment vnto the nedeful, and vnto him whose strength faileth, and that is now in the last

age, & is vexed with all things, and to him
that dispaireth, and hathe lost pacience!

3 Feare not the iudgement of death: remē-ber them that haue bene before thee, and that come after: this is the ordināce of the Lord ouer all flesh.

4 And why woldest thou be against y<sup>e</sup> pleasure of the moste High? whether it beten

or an hundredth, or a thousand yeres, there is no defense for life against the graue.

5 ¶ The children of the vngodlie are abominable children, and so are they that ke-

pe companie with the vngodlie.

6 The inheritance of vngodlie children
shal perish, and their posteritie shal haue a perpetual shame.

7 The children complaine of an vngodlie father, because they are reproched for his sake.

8 Wo be vnto you, o ye vngodlie, which haue forsaken the Law of the moste high

God: for though you increase, yet shal you perish.

9 If ye be boine, ye shalbe borne to cursing:
if ye dye, the curse shalbe your porcion.

10 All that is of y<sup>e</sup> earth, shal turne to earth

The Law of God must be taught. 9 A daughter. 14 A woman. 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the secrets of thine heart.

In what things we ought not to be ashamed.

- OF these things be not thou ashamed, neither haue regarde to offend for anie person,

3 Of the cause of thy companion, and of strangers, or of distributing the heritage among friends:
4 To be diligent to kepe true balance, and weight, whether thou haue muche or litle:
5 To sel marchandise at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, and to beat an euil seruant to the blood:
6 To sit a good locke where an euil wife is, and to locke where manie hands are:
7 If thou giue anie thing by number, and weight, to put all in writing, both that y is giuen out, and that that is receiued againe:
8 To teache the vnlearned, & the vnwise, & the aged, that contend against y yong: thus shalt thou be wel instructed, and ap-proued of all men liuing.

Or, for a secret watche in the father.

- 9 The daughter maketh the father to watche secretly, and the carefulnes that he hathe for her, taketh away his slepe in the youth, lest she shulde passe y floure of her age: and when she hathe an housband, lest she shulde be hated:
10 In her virginities, lest she shulde be defiled, or gotten withchilde in her fathers house, and when she is with her housband, lest she misbehaue her self: and when she is married, lest she continue vnfruitful.

Chap. 26. 10.

- 11 If thy daughter be vnshamefast, kepe her straitly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh thee to scorn, and make thee a comune talke in the citie, and diffame thee among the people, and bring thee to publicke shame.

Gen. 3. 6.

- 13 For as the moth cometh out of garmets: so doeth wickednes of the woman.
14 The wickednes of a man is better then the good inreatie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame, and reprove.
15 I wil remember the workes of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue sene: by the worde of the Lord are his workes.

- 17 Hathe not the Lord appointed that his Saints shulde declare all his wonderous workes, which the almightie Lord hathe stablished to confirme all things by in his maiestie?

- 18 He seeketh out the depth, and the heart, and he knoweth their practises: for y Lord knoweth all science, and he beholdeth the signes of the worlde.

- 19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and he discloseth the paths of things that are secret.

- 20 No thought may escape him, neither may anie worde be hid from him.

- 21 He hathe garnished the excellent workes of his wisdom, and he is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing be added, neither can he be diminished: he hathe no nede of anie counseller.

The praise of Ioseph, Caleb, and Samuel.

Iesus ¶ the sonne of Naue was valiant in the warres, & was y successeur of Moyses in prophecies, who according vnto his name, was a great sauour of the elect of God, to take vengeance of y enemies that rose vp against them, and to set Israel in their inheritance.

Herushed in vpo the nacions in battel, & in the going downe of Bethorō he destroyed the aduersaries, that they might knowe his weapons, and that he fought in the fight of the Lord: for he followed the Almighty.

In y time of Moyses also he did a good worke: he and Caleb the sonne of Iephone stood against the enemy, and withheld the people from sinne, & appeased the wicked murmuring.

* And of six hundred thousand people of Israhel, they two were preferred to bring the into the heritage, euen into the land that floweth with milke and honey.

The Lord gaue it strength also vnto Caleb, which remained with him vnto his olde age, so that he went vp into the high places of the land and his sede obtained it for an heritage.

That all the children of Israel might see, that it is good to follow the Lord.

¶ Samuel the Prophet of the Lord, beloued of his Lord, * ordeined Kings, and anointed the princes ouer his people.

By the Lawe of the Lord he iudged the congregacion, and the Lord had respect vnto Iacob.

This Prophete was approued for his faithfulness, and he was knowne faithful in his wordes and visions.

* He called vpon the Lord almightie, when his enemies preased vpon him on euerie side, when he offed the sucking lambe.

And the Lord thondred from heauen, & made his voyce to be heard with a great noyce.

So he discomfited the princes of y Tyrian, and all the rulers of the Philistims.

* And before his long slepe he made protestacion in the sight of the Lord, and his anointed, that he toke no substance of any man, no, not so muche as a shooc, and no man colde accuse him.

* After his slepe also he tolde of y Kings death, & from the earth lift he vp his voyce, and prophesied that the wickednes of the people shulde perish.

CHAP. XLVII.

The praise of Nathan, Dauid and Salomon.

¶ After him rose vp * Nathi to prophesie in the time of Dauid.

For as the fat is taken away from the peace offering, so was Dauid chosen out of the children of Israel.

* He plaied with the lions, as with kiddes, and with beares, as with lambes.

* Slewe he not a gyante when he was yet but yong, and toke away the rebuke from the people, when he lift vp his hand with the stone in the sling, to beat downe the pride of Goliath.

For he called vpon the moite high Lord, which gaue him strength in his right had, to slay that mightie warriour, and that he might set vp the horne of his people againe.

* So he gaue him y praise of ten thousand, and honored him with great praises, and gaue him a crowne of glorie.

* For he destroyed the enemies on euerie side, and rooted out the Philistims his aduersaries, and brake their horne in funder vnto this day.

In all his workes he praised the Holy one, and the moite high with honorable wordes, and with his whole heart he sung songs, and loued him that made him.

* He set fingers also before the altar, and according to their tune he made sweete songs, that they might praise God daily with their songs.

- 22 *Neuertheles the Lord left not of his mercie, nether was he destroyed for his workes, nether did he abolish the posteritie of his elect, nor toke away the sēde of him that loued him, but he left a remnant vnto Iacob, & a roote of him vnto Dauid.
- 23 Thus rested Salomon with his fathers, & of his sēde he left behinde him ¶ Roboam, euen the foolishnes of the people, and one that had no vnderstanding, who turned away the people thorow his counsel, & Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat, who caused Israel to sinne, & shewed Ephraim the way of sinne,
- 24 So that their sinnes were so muche increased, that they were driuen out of the land.
- 25 For they sought out all wickednes, til the vengeance came vpon them.
- 26 He brought a famine vpon the, and by his zeale he diminished the: [for they might not away with the commandments of the Lord.]
- 27 By the worde of the Lord he shut the heauen, *and thre times brought he the fyre from heauen.
- 28 O Elias, how honorable art thou by thy wonderful dedes, who may make his boast to be like thee!
- 29 Which hast raised vp the dead from death, & by the worde of the moste High out of the graue:
- 30 Which hast brought Kings vnto destruction, and the honorable from their seate:
- 31 Which heardest the rebuke of the Lord in Sina, *and in Horb the iudgement of the vengeance:
- 32 *Which didest anoint Kings that they might recompense, and Prophetes to be thy successours:
- 33 Which wast taken vp in a whirle winde of fyre, and in a charet of fyrie horses:
- 34 Which wast appointed to reprove in due season, & to pacifie the wrath of the Lords iudgement before it kindled, & to turne the hearts of the fathers vnto the childre, and to set vp the tribes of Iacob.
- 35 Blessed were they that sawe thee, & slept in loue: for we shal liue.
- 36 *When Elias was couered with the storme, [Eliseus was filled with his spirit: while he liued, he was not moued for any prince, nether colde any bring him into subiection.]
- 37 Nothing colde ouercome him, *and after his death his bodie prophesied.
- 38 He did wonders in his life, and in death were his workes marueilous.
- 39 For all this the people repented not, nether departed they from their sinnes: til they were caryed away prisoners out of their land, and were scattered through all the earth, so that there remained but a very few people with the prince vnto the house of Dauid.
- 40 Howbeit some of them did right, and some heaped vp sinnes.
- 41 ¶ Ezekias made his citie strong, & coueied water into the middes thereof: he digged thorow the rocke with yron, and made fountaines for waters.
- 42 *In his time came Sennacherib vp, and sent Rabfaces, and lift vp his hand against Sion, and boasted proudly.
- 43 Then trembled their hearts and hands, so y<sup>e</sup> they sorowed like a woman in trauel.
- 44 But they called vpon the Lord, which is merciful, and lift vp their hands vnto him, and immediatly the holy one heard them out of heauen.
- 45 [He thought no more vpon their sinnes, nor gaue them ouer to their enemies,] but deliuered them by the hand of his Angel destroyed the hoste, and his Angel destroyed the hoste.
- 46 For Ezekias had done as the Lord commanded, and remained the wayes of Dauid his great Prophet, and faithfully had commanded him.
- 47 *In his time the sonne and he lengthened the Kinges daies.
- 48 He sawe by an excellēt de come to passe at the sorte them that were forsaken for ever, and secret things made to passe.

CHAP. XLIX.

Of Esai, Hzekiah, David, Ieremie, Ezechiel, Zorobabel, Isai, Nehemias, Enoch, Ieseph, Sem & Seth.

1 The remembrance of || Iosias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the arte of the apothecarie: it is swete as honie in all mouthes, and as musicke at a banquet of wine.

2 He behaued him self wrightly in the reformation of the people, and toke away all abominacions of iniquitie.

3 He * directed his heart vnto the Lord, & in the time of y vngodlie he established religion.

4 All, except Dauid and Ezekias, and Iosias, committed wickednes: for euen the Kings of Iuda forsoke the Law of the moste High, and failed.

5 Therefore he gaue their " horne vnto other, and their honor to a strange naciō.

7 For thei * intreated him euil, which neuertheles was a Prophete, * sanctified fro his mothers wombe, that he might roote out, and afflict, and destroye, and that he might also buyld vp, and plant.

9 For he made mencio of the enemies vnder the figure of the raine, and directed the that went right,

10 * And let the bones of the twelue Prophetes flourish out of their place, and let their memorie be blessed: for they comforted Iacob, and delivered them by assured hope.

11 * How shal we praise || Zorobabel, which was as a ring on the right hand!

12 So was || Iesus also the sonne of Iosedec: these men in their time buylded the house, and set vp the Sanctuarie of the Lord againe, which was prepared for an euerlasting worship.

13 * And among the elect was || Neemias

whose renoume is great, which set vp for vs the walles that were fallen, and set vp the gates and the barres, and laied the fundacions of our houses.

14 ¶ But vpon the earth was no man created like || Enoch: for he was takē vp from the earth.

15 Nether was there a like man vnto || Ioseph the gouernour of his brethren, & the vpholder of his people, whose bones were kept.

16 || * Sem and || Seth were in great honour among men: and so was || Adam aboute euerie liuing thing in the creation.

CHAP. L.

Of Simon the sonne of Onias. 22 An exhortacion to praise the Lord. 27 The autor of this booke.

1 Simon * the sonne of Onias the hie Priest, which in his life set vp the house againe, and in his dayes established the Temple,

2 Vnder him was the fundacio of the double height laied, and the hie walles that compasseth the Temple.

3 In his daies the places, to receiue water that were decayed, were restored & the brasē was about in measure as the * sea.

4 He toke care for his people, that they shulde not fall, & fortified the citie against the siegē.

5 How honorable was his conuersation among the people, and when he came out of the house couered with the vail!

6 He was as the morning starre in the middes of a cloude, and as the moone when it is full,

7 And as the sunne shining vpon the Temple of the moste High, and as the raine-bowe that is bright in the faire cloudes,

8 And as the floure of the roses in y spring of the yere, and as lilies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tre in the time of somer,

9 As a fyre & incense in the censur, and as a vessel of masie golde, set with all manner of precious stones,

10 And as a faire oliue tre that is fruitful, and as a cypresse tre, which groweth vp to the cloudes.

11 When he put on the garment of honour and was clothed with all beaurie, he went vp to the holy altar, and made the garment of holines honorable.

12 When he toke the porcions out of the Priests hands, he him self stoode by the herth of the altar, compassed with his brethre rounde about, as the branches do the cedre tre in Libanus, & thei compassed him as the branches of the palme trees.

- 14 And that he might accomplish his min-

offring of the moste High, and almightie,
- 15 He stretched out his hand to the drinke
offring, and powred of the blood of the grape, and he powred at the fote of the altar a perfume of good sauour vnto the moste high King of all.
- 16 Then shewed the sonnes of Aaron, and blowed with brasen trumpets, and made a great noyce to be heard, for a remembrance
before the moste High.
- 17 Then all the people together hasted, & fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God almightie, and moste high.
- 18 The fingers also sang with their voyces,
so that the sounde was great, and the melodie swete.
- 19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord
moste high with prayer before him that is merciful, til the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his seruice.
- 20 Then went he downe, and stretched out his hands ouer the whole congregacion of the children of Israel, that they shulde giue
praise with their lippes vnto the Lord,
and reioyce in his Name.
- 21 He began againe to worship, & he might
receiue the blessing of the moste High.

wisdome of his heart.
- 28 Blessed is he that exerciseth him self therein: and he that layeth vpon these in his heart, shalbe wise.
- 29 For if he do these things, he shalbe strong
in all things: for he seeketh his steppes
in the light of the Lord, which giueth wisdo-

A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

- 1 I wil confesse thee, o Lord and King,
- 2 And praise thee, o God, my Saviour: I

- 3 giue thanks vnto thy Name.
- 4 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preferred my bodie from destruction, and from the snare of the scande-rous tongue, and from the lippes that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me
against mine aduersaries,
- 5 And hast deliuered me according to the multitude of thy mercie, and for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were readie to deuoure me, and out of the hands of suche as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions, which I had,
- 6 And from the fyre that choked me roun-
de about, and from the middes of the fyre
that I burned not;
- 7 And from the botome of the belie of hel,
from an vnclene tongue, from lying wor-
des, from false accusation to the King, &
fro the slander of an vnrighteous tongue.
- 8 [My soule shal praise the Lord vnto dea-

my life was nere to the hel beneath.
- 9 They compassed me on euerie side, & there was no man to helpe me: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.
- 10 Then thought I vpon thy mercie, o Lord,
and vpon thine actes of olde, how thou
deliuerest suche as waite for thee, and sa-
uest them out of the hands of the enemies.
- 11 Then list I vpon my prayer from the earth,
and praied for deliuerance from death.
- 12 I called vpon the Lord the father of my Lord, that he wolde not leaue me in the daye of my trouble, and in the time of the proude without helpe.
- 13 I wil praise thy Name continually, and wil sing praise with thanksgiving: & my prayer was heard.
- 14 Thou sauest me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the euil time: therefore wil I giue thanks and praise thee, &
bless the Name of the Lord.
- 15 When I was yet yong, or euer I wet abroad,
I desired wisdome openly in my praier.
- 16 I praied for her before the Temple, and sought after her vnto farre countreis, and she was as a grape that waxeth ripe out of the floure.
- 17 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foote
walked in the right way, & from my youth
vp sought I after her.
- 18 I bowed somewhat downe mine eare, &
receiued her, & gate me muche wisdome:
- 19 And I profited by her: therefore wil I ascribe the glorie vnto him, that giueth me wisdome.
- 20 For I am aduised to do thereafter: I wil
be ielous, of that that is good: so shal I
not be confounded.

I haue examined my workes: I lifted vp

CHAP. I.

Baruch wrote a boke during the captiuitie of Baly-
lon, which he red before Iechonias and all the people.
The Lewes sent the boke with money vnto Ierusalem
to their other brethren, to the intent that they shoulde pray for them.

And these are the wor-
des of the boke, which Baruch y sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Ma-asias, the sonne of Sedcias, the sonne of Asadias, the sonne of Hel-
cias wrote in at Babylon,

In the fift yere, and in the seventh day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans
toke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fyre.
And Baruch did read the wordes of this
boke, that Iechonias the sonne of Ioachim
King of Iuda might heare, & all the people that were come to heare the boke,
And in the audience of the gouernour, &
of the Kings sonnes, & before the Elders, & before the whole people, fro the lowest vnto the hiest, before all them that dwelt
at Babylon by the river Sud.
Which when they heard it, wept, fasted and made prairs before the Lord.
They made a collection also of money,
according to euerie mans power,
And sent it to Ierusalem vnto Ioachim the sonne of Helcias the sone of Salom Priest,
and vnto the other Priests, and to all the people, which were with him at Ierusalem,
When he had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring the agai-ne into the land of Iuda, the tenth day of the moneth Sivan, so wit, silver vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Iofias King of Iudah had made,
After that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon had led away Iechonias from Ie-

rusalem, and his princes, & his nobles, prisoners, and the people, and caryed them to Babylon.
And they said, Beholde, we haue sent you money, wherewith ye shal bye burnt offrags
for sinne, and incense, and prepare a meat
offring, & offre vpon the altar of the Lord
our God,
And pray for the life of Nabuchodono-for King of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their daies may be
vpon earth, as the daies of heaven,
And that God wolde giue vs strength &
lighten oure eyes, that we may liue vnder
the shadowe of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and vnder the shadowe of Balta-sar his sonne, that we may long do the ser-
uice, and finde fauour in their sight.
Pray for vs also vnto the Lord our God
(for we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and vnto this day the furie of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from vs)
And rede this boke (which we haue sent to you to be rehearsed in the Temple of the Lord) vpon the feast daies, and at time
conuenient.
Thus shal ye say, * To the Lord our God
Ielongeth righteousness, but vnto vs y con-

this day vnto them of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem,
And to our Kings, and to our princes, &

And knowe that I am y Lord their God:
then wil I giue them an heart to vnderstand,
and cares.

And they shal heare, and praise me in the land of their captiuitie, & thinke vpon
my Name.

Then shal they turne them from their
harde backes, and from their euil workes:
for they shal remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

And I wil bring them againe into the land, which I promised with an othe vnto
their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob, and they shal be lords of it: and I wil increase them, and they shal not be diminished.

And I wil make an euerlasting couenant
with them, that I wil be their God, & they shal be my people: and I wil no more dri-ue my people of Israel out of the land
that I haue giuen them.

CHAP. III.

The people continueth in their prayer begun for their deliverance. 9 He praiseth wifdome vnto the people,
showing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof. 36 Onely God was the finder of wifdome. 37 Of the incarnation of Christ.

O Lord almightie, o God of Israel, the soule that is in trouble, and the spirit
that is vexed, cryeth vnto thee.

Heare, o Lord, and haue mercie: for thou art merciful, and haue pitie vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.

For thou endurest for euer, and we vtter-
ly perish.

O Lord almightie, the God of Israel,
heare now the praier of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto
the voyce of thee their God, wherefore
these plagues hang vpon vs.

Remember not the wickednes of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, and thy Name at this time.

For thou art the Lord our God, & thee, o
Lord, wil we praise.

And for this cause hast thou put thy fea-
re in our hearts, that we shulde call vpon
thy Name, and praise thee in our captiui-
tie: for we haue considered in our min-des all the wickednes of our fathers, that sinned before thee.

Beholde, we are yet this day in our capti-uitie, where thou hast scattered vs, to be a reproche, and a curse, and subiect to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which are departed from the Lord their God.

O Israel, heare the commandements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou maiest
learne wifdome.

What is the cause, o Israel, that thou art
in thine enemies land, and art waxen olde
in a strange countrey?

And art defiled with the dead: and art counted with them, that go downe to the graves?

Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wif-
dome.

For if thou hadest walked in the way of God, thou shuldest haue remained safe
for euer.

Learne where is wifdome, where is strength, where is vnderstanding, that thou maist knowe also from whence cometh
long continuance, and life, and where the light of the eyes, and peace is.

Who hath found out her place: or who hath come into her treasures?

Where are the princes of the heathen, &
suche as ruled the beasts vpon the earth?

They that had their pastime with the foules of the heauen; that hoorded vp sil-
uer, and golde, wherein men trust, & made none end of their gathering?

For they that coynd siluer, and were so careful of their worke, and whose inuen-
tion had none end,

Are come to naught, and gone downe to hel, and other men are come vp in their steades.

Whé thei were yong, they sawe y light,
and dwelt vpon the earth: but they vnder-
stode not the way of knowledge,

Nether perceiued the paths thereof,
nether haue their childre receiued it: but they were farre off from that way.

My darlings haue gone by rough wayes,
and were led away as a flocke that is sca-

Be of good comfort, my children, and

hath you in remembrance.

And as it came into your minde to go a-

to seke him.

For he that hath brought these plagues
vpon you, wil bring you euerlasting ioye
again, with your saluation.

Take a good heart, & Ierusalem: for he which gaue thee that name, wil comfort
thee.

They are miserable that afflict thee, and

The cities are miserable whome thy children serue: miserable is she that hath take thy sonnes.

For as she reioycied at thy decay, and was glad of thy fall, so shal she be sorie for her owne desolation.

For I wil take away the reioycing of her great multitude, and her ioye shal be turned into mourning.

For a fyre shal come vpon her from the Euerlasting, long to endure, & she shal be inhabited of deuils for a great season.

O Ierusalem, loke towards the East, and beholde the ioye that cometh vnto thee
from thy God.

Lo, thy sonnes (whome thou hast let go)
come gathered together from the East vnto the West, reioycing in the worde of the Holy one vnto the honour of God.

Put on the garment of righteousness, that cometh from God, and set a crowne vpon
thine head of the glorie of the Euerlastig.

For God wil declare thy brightness to
euerie countrey vnder the heauen.

And God wil name thee by this name
foreuer, The Peace of righteousness, and the glorie of the worship of God.

Arise, & Ierusalem, & stand vpon hie, and were led away of their enemies: but God

wil bring the againe vnto thee, exalted in

For God hath determined to bring dowe euerie high mountaine, and the long
enduring rockes; and to fil the valleyes,
to make the grounde plaine, that Israel
may walke safely vnto the honour of God.

The woods and all swete smelling trees
shal ouersadowe Israel at the commandement of God.

For God shal bring Israel with ioye in the light of his maiestie, with the mercie
and righteousnes that cometh of him.

CHAP. VI.

A COPIE OF THE PISTLE,
that Ieremias sent vnto them that were led away captiues into Babylon by the King of the Babylonians, to certifie the of the thing that was commanded him of God.

BEcause of the sinnes, that ye haue committed against God, ye shalbe led away captiues vnto Babylon, by Nabuchodonosor, King of the Babylonians.

So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shal
remaiue there manie yeres, and a long season, euen seven generations, and after that wil I bring you away peaceably fro thence.

Now shal ye se in Babylon gods of siluer,
and of golde, and of wood, borne vpon
mens shulders, to cause the people to feare.

* Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like the strangers, nether be ye afraide of them, when ye se the multitude before the
and behinde them worshipping them,

But say ye in your hearts, O Lord, we must
worshippe thee.

For mine Angel shalbe with you, & shal
care for your soules.

As for their tongue, it is polished by the
carpenter, and they them selues are gilded,
and laied ouer with siluer: yet are they but
lyes, and can not speake.

And as they take golde for a maide that
loueth to be deckt,

So make they crownes for the heads of their gods: some times also the Priests
them selues conuey away the golde, and siluer from their gods, and bestowe it vpon
them selues.

Yea, they giue of the same vnto the
harlots, that are in their houses: againe,
they decke these gods of siluer, and gods
of golde, and of wood with garments like men,

Yet can not they be preserued from rust
and wormes,

Baruch.

- 22 Thogh they haue couered the with clothing of purple, and wipe their faces because of the dust of the Temple, whereof
there is much vpon them.
- 23 One holdeth a scepter, as thogh he were a certaine iudge of the cōtrei: yet can he not slay suche as offende him.
- 24 Another hath a dagger or an axe in his right hand: yet is he not able to defende
him self from battel, nor from theues: so
then it is euident, that they be no gods.
- 25 Therefore feare them not: for as a vessel that a man vseth, is nothing worthe when
it is broken,
- 26 Suche are their gods: when they be set vp
in their temples, their eyes be ful of dust
by reason of the fete of those y come in:
- 27 And as the gates are shut in round about
vpon him that hath offended the King:
or as one that shulde be led to be put to death, so the Priests kepe their temples with doores, and with lockes, & with barres, lest
their gods shulde be spoyled by robbers.
- 28 They light vp candel before them: yea,
more the for them selues whereof they ca
not se one: for they are but as one of the poises of the temple.
- 29 They confesse, that euen their hearts are gnawen vpon: but when the things, that crepe out of the earth, eat them and their clothes, they feele it not.
- 30 Their faces are blacke thorow the smoke that is in the temple.
- 31 The owles, swalowes and birdes slie vpō
their bodies, and vpon their heads, yea, &
the cattes also.
- 32 By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.
- 33 Notwithstanding the golde, that is about them to make them beautiful, except one wipe of the rust, they can not shine: neither
when they were molten, did they fele it.
- 34 The things wherein is no breth, are bought for a moste high price.
- 35 *They are borne vpon mens sholders,
because they haue no feete, whereby they declare vnto men, that they be nothing worthe: yea, & they that worship them, are ashamed.
- 36 For if they fall to the grounde at anie
time, they can not rise vp againe of them selues, neither if one set them vp right, can they moue of them selues, neither if they be bowed downe, can they make them selues straight: but they set giftes before them, as vnto dead men.
- 37 As for the things y are offred vnto them,
their Priests sell them, and abuse them: likewise also the women lay vp of the same:
but vnto the poore and sicke they giue
nothing.
- 38 Th. menstruous women, and they that are in childebed, touche their sacrifices:

- by these things ye may knowe that they are no gods: feare them not.
- 29 From whence cometh it then, that they are called gods: because the women bring giftes to the gods of siluer, and golde, and wood.
- 30 And the Priests sit in their temples, ha-
uing their clothes rent, whose heades and beardes are shauen, & being bare headed,
- 31 Their roare, & crye before their gods, as men do at the feast of one that is dead.
- 32 The Priests also take away of their garments, and clothe their wiues and childre.
- 33 Whether it be euil that one doth vn-
to the, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can neither set vp a King
nor put him downe.
- 34 In like maner they can neither giue riches,
nor money: thogh a man make a vowe
vnto them and kepe it not, they wil no require it.
- 35 They can saue no mā from death, neither
deliuer the weake from the mightie.
- 36 They can not restore a blinde man to his sight, nor helpe anie man at his nede.
- 37 They can shewe no mercie to the wid-
dowe, nor do good to the fatherles.
- 38 Their gods of wood, golde and siluer,
are as stones, that be hewen out of the mounaine, and they that worship them,
shalbe confounded.
- 39 How shulde a man the thinke or say that they are gods?
- 40 Moreover the Chaldeaes them selues dis-
honor them: for when they se a dome man,
that can not speake, they present him to Bel,
- 41 And desire that he wolde make him to speake, as thogh he had anie seig: yet they
that vnderstand these things, can not lea-
ue them: for they also haue no sense.
- 42 Furthermore the women, girded with
coards, sit in the stretes, and burne strawe.
- 43 And if one of them be drawn away, and lie with anie suche as come by, she casteth
her neighbour in the teeth, because she was not so worthely reputed, nor her coard broken.
- 44 Whatsoeuer is done amōg them, is lies:
how may it then be thoght or said, that
they are gods?
- 45 Carpenters and goldefsmithes make the,
neither be they anie other thing, but cūp
what the workeman wil make them.
- 46 Yea, they that make them, are of no lōg
continuance: how shulde then the things that are made of them, be gods?
- 47 Therefore they leaue lies, and shame
for their posteritie.
- 48 For when there cometh anie warre or plague vpō the, the Priests imagine with them selues, where they may hide the sel-
ues with them.

For<sup>39</sup> *seing they be but of wood, and of
siluer, and of golde, men shal knowe hereafter that they are but lies, and it shalbe manifest to all nations & Kings, that they
be no gods, but the workes of mens hands,
and that there is no worke of God in the.

Whereby it maye be knowen, that they are no gods.

They can set vp no King in the lād, nor
giue raine vnto men.

They can giue no sentence of a matter,
nether preferue from iniurie: they haue no
power, but are as crowes betwene the hea-
uen and the earth.

When there falleth a fyre vpo the house of those gods of wood, and of siluer, &
of golde, the Priests wil escape & saue the
selues, but thei burne as y bales therein.

Thei can not withstand anie King or enemies: how can it then be thought or said
that they be gods?

Moreover these gods of wood, of golde,
and of siluer can nether defend them
selues from theues nor robbers.

For they that are strongest, take awaye
their golde and siluer, and apparel, where-
with they be clothed: and when they haue
it, they get them awaye: yet can they not helpe them selues.

Therefore it is better to be a King, & so
to shewe his power, or els a profitable vessel in an house, whereby he that oweth it,
might haue profite, then suche false gods:
or to be a dore in an house, to kepe suche
things safe as be therein, then suche false gods: or a pillar of wood in a palace, then suche false gods.

For the sunne, and the moone, and the starres that shine, when thei are sent done for necessarie vses, obey.

Likewise also the lightning when it shi-

neth, it is euident: and the winde bloweth
in euerie countrey.

And when God comandeth the cloudes
to go about the whole worlde, they do as thei are bidden.

Whē the fyre is sent downe from aboue
to destroye hilles and woods, it doeth that which is commanded: but these are not like anie of these things, nether in forme,
nor power.

Wherefore men shulde not thinke, nor say that they be gods, seing thei can nether giue sentence in iudgement, nor do men good.

For so muche now as ye are sure, that they be no gods, feare them not.

For they can nether curse, nor blesse
Kings:

Nether can thei shewe signes in the hea-
uen among the hearthē, nether shine as the moone.

The beastes are better the they: for thei
can get them vnder a couert, and do them
selues good.

So ye may be certified that by no maner
of meanes, they are gods: therefore feare
them not.

For as a skarcrowe in a garden of cu-
cubers kepeth nothing, so are thei gods
of wood, and of siluer, and of golde:

And likewise thei gods of wood, and golde and siluer are like to a white thorne
in an orcharde, that euerie birde sitteth vpon, and as a dead bodie that is cast in the darke.

By the purple also and brightnes, which faderth vpon them, ye may vnderstand, that they be no gods: yea, they them selues shal
be consumed at the last, and they shalbe
a shame to the countrey.

Better therefore is the iuste man, that hathe none idoles: for he shalbe farre fro reprofe.

indgements: for by right and equitie hast thou brought all these things vpon vs, because of our finnes.

39 For we haue sinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue we trespassed,

40 And not obeyed thy commandements, nor kept them, neither done as thou hadest commanded vs, that we might prosper.

41 Wherefore in all that thou hast brought vpon vs, & in euery thing that thou hast done ro vs, thou hast done them in true iudgement:

42 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, & moste hateful traitors, and to an vnrighteous King, and the moste wicked in all the worlde.

43 And now we may not open our mouthes: we are become a shame and reprofe vnto thy seruants, and to them that worshippe thee.

44 Yet for thy Names sake, we beseeche thee, giue vs not vp for euer, neither breake thy covenant,

45 Neither take away thy mercie from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams sake, and for thy seruant Isaaks sake, & for thine holy Israels sake,

46 To whome thou hast spoken and promised, that thou wouldest multiplie their seede as the starres of heauen, and as the sand, that is vpon the seashore.

47 For we, o Lord, are become lesse then a nation, and be kept vnder this daye in all the worlde, because of our finnes:

48 So that now we haue neither prince, nor Prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt offering, nor sacrifice, nor oblation, nor incense, nor place to offer y first frutes before thee, that we might finde mercie.

49 Neuertheles in a contrite heart, and an humble spirit, let vs be receiued.

50 As in the burnt offering of rams and bullockes, & as in ten thousand of fat lambs, so let our offering be in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion vnto the that put their trust in thee.

51 And now we followe thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and seke thy face.

52 Put vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindenes, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

53 Deliuer vs also by thy miracles, & giue thy Name the glorie, o Lord,

54 That all they which do thy seruants euill, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their strength be broken,

55 That they maye knowe, that thou onelie art the Lord God, and glorious ouer the whole worlde.

56 ¶ Now the Kings seruants that had cast them in, ceased not to make the ouen hot with naphtha, and with pitche, and with towes, and with fagotes,

57 So that the flame went out of the furnace fortie and nine cubites.

58 And it brake forth, & burnt those Chaldeans, that it founde by the furnace.

59 But the Angel of the Lord went downe into the furnace with the that were with Azarias, and smote the flame of the fyre out of the furnace,

60 And made in the middes of the furnace like a moyste hissing winde, so that the fyre touched the not at all, neither grieved, nor troubled them.

61 Then these thre (as out of one mouth) praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the furnace, saying,

62 Blessed be thou, o Lord God of our fathers, and praised, and exalted aboute all things for euer, & blessed be thy glorious & holie Name, & praised aboute all things, and magnified for euer.

63 Blessed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glorie, and praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.

65 Blessed be thou in the glorious Throne of thy kingdome, and praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.

THE HISTORIE OF Sufanna, which some ioynē to the end of Daniel, and make it the 13. chap.

THERE dwelt a mā in Babylon called Ioacim, And he toke a wife, whose name was Sufanna, the daughter of Helcias, a verie faire woman, and one that feared God.

<sup>3</sup> Her father and her mother also were godlie people, & taught their daughter according to the Law of Moses.

<sup>4</sup> Now Ioacim was a great riche man, and had a faire garden ioyning vnto his house, and to him resorted the Iewes, because he was more honorable then all others.

<sup>5</sup> The same yere were appointed two of the ancēt's of the people to be iudges, suche as the Lord speaketh of, that the iniquitie came from Babylon, & frō the ancēt iudges, which semed to rule the people.

<sup>6</sup> These hanted Ioacims house, & all suche as had any thing to do in the Law, came thither vnto them.

<sup>7</sup> Now when the people departed away at noone, Sufanna went into her hous bands garden to walke.

<sup>8</sup> And the two Elders sawe her that she wēc in daily and walked, so that their lust was inflamed towarde her.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore thei turned away their mids, & cast downe their eyes, thei shulde not se heauen, nor remembre iuste iudgements.

Sufanna.

- 10 And albeit thei bothe were wouled with her loue, yet durst not one shewe another his grief.
- 11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to haue to do wth her.
- 12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see her.
- 13 And the one said to the other, Let vs go now home, for it is diner time.
- 14 So they went their way, and departed, one from another: yet they returned againe, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, thei acknowledged their lust: the appointed they a time bothe together whē they might finde her alone.
- 15 Now when they had spied out a conuenient time, that she went in, as her maner was, with two maides onely, and thoght to wash her self in the garden (for it was an hore season)
- 16 And there was no bodie there, saue the two Elders that had hid them selues, and watched for her:
- 17 She said to her maides, Bring me oyle & sops, and shut the gardē dores, that I may wash me.
- 18 And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden dores, and went out them selues at a backe dore, to fet the thing that she had commanded them: but they sawe not the Elders, because they were hid.
- 19 Now whē the maides were gone forth, the two Elders rose vp & ranne vnto her, saying,
- 20 Beholde, the garden dores are shut, that no man can se vs, & we burne in loue with thee: therefore consent vnto vs, and lye with vs.
- 21 If thou wilt not, we wil beare witnes against thee, that a yong mā was with thee, and therefore thou didest send away thy maides from thee.
- 22 Then Sufanna sighed, and said, I am in trouble on euerie side: for if I do this thīg, it is death vnto me: & if I do it not, I can not escape your hands.
- 23 It is better for me to fall into your hāds, and not do it, then to sinne in the sight of the Lord.
- 24 With that Sufanna cryed with a loude voyce, and the two Elders cryed out against her.
- 25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden dore.
- 26 ¶ So whē the seruants of the house heard the crye in the garden, they rushed in at ſ<sup>y</sup> backe dore, to se what was done vnto her.
- 27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruants were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer ſuche a reporte made of Sufanna.
- 28 On the morow after, came the people to Ioachim her housband, & the two Elders came also, ful of mischieuous imaginaciō against Sufanna, to put her to death,
- 29 And said before the people, Send for Sufanna the daughter of Helcias Iochims wife. And immediately they sent.
- 30 So she came with her father & mother, her children and all her kinred.
- 31 Now Sufanna was very tender, and faire of face.
- 32 And these wicked mē cōmanded to vncouer her face (for she was couered): that thei might so be ſatiſſied with her beautie.
- 33 Therefore they that were about her, and all they that knewe her, wept.
- 34 Thē the two Elders stode vp in the middes of the people, and layed their hands vpon her head,
- 35 Which wept and loked vp toward heaven: for her heart trusted in the Lord.
- 36 And the Elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maides, whome she sent away from her, and shut the garden dores.
- 37 Then a yong man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.
- 38 Then we which stode in a corner of the gardē, ſeing this wickednes, rāne vnto thē, and we sawe them as they were together,
- 39 But we colde not holde him: for he was stronger then we, and opened the dore, and leaped out.
- 40 Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what yong man this was, but she wolde not tel vs: of these things are we witnesses.
- 41 Then the assemblie beleued them, as those that were the Elders and iudges of the people: so thei condēned her to death.
- 42 Then Sufanna cryed out with a loude voyce, and said, O euerlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things afore they come to passe,
- 43 Thou knowest, that they haue borne false witnes against me, and beholde, I must dye, where as I neuer did ſuche thīgs as these men haue maliciously inuēnted against me.
- 44 And the Lord heard her voyce.
- 45 ¶ Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised vp ſ<sup>y</sup> holie spirit of a yong childe, whose name was Daniel.
- 46 Who cryed with a loude voyce, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.
- 47 Thē all the people turned them toward him, and said, What means these wordes, that thou hast spoken?
- 48 Thē Daniel stode in the middes of thē, and said, Are ye ſuche ſcoles, o Israēlites, that without examination, or knowledge of the trueth, ye haue condemnēd a daughter of Israēl?

Then said Daniel vnto them, Put these two aside, one farrre from another, and I wil examine them.

So when they were put a fonder, one fro
another, he called one of them & said vnto
him, O thou that art olde in a wicked life,
now thy sinnes which thou hast committed afore time, are come to light.

For thou hast pronounced false iudge-
ments, and hast condemned the innocent,
and hast let the gilty go free, albeit the Lord saith, * The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay.

Now then, if thou hast sene her, tel me,
vnder what tre sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a lentilke tre.

The said Daniel, Verely thou hast lyed
against thine owne head: for lo, the Angel of God hath receiued the sentence of God, to cut thee in two.

So put he him aside, & commanded to bring the other, & said vnto him, O thou
seede of Chanaan, and not of Iuda, beaurie hath diseiued thee, and lust hath subuer-
ted thine heart.

Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare cōpanied with you: but the daughter of Iuda wolde not abide your wickednes.

Now therefore tel me vnder what tre di-
dest thou take them cōpanying together?
Who answered, Vnder a prime tree.

Then said Daniel vnto him, Verely thou hast also lyed against thine head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sworde to cut thee in two, & so to destroie you bothe.

¶ With that all y<sup>e</sup> whole assemblie cryed
with a loude voyce, and praised God,
which saueth them that trust in him.

And they arose against the two Elders,
(for Daniel had conuict them of false witnes by their owne mouth)

* And according to the Law of Moyses Deu. 19. 15.
they delt with them, as they delt wicked-
ly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saued the same day.

Therefore Helcias, and his wife praised
God for their daughter Sufanna, with Io-
acim her housband, and all the kinned,
that there was no dishonestie founde in her.

From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputacion in the sight of the people.

And King Astyages was laide with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his steade.

THE HISTORIE OF Bel and of the dragon, which is the fourteenth chapter of Daniel after the Laten.

ow when King Asty-
ages was laide with his fathers, Cyrus y<sup>e</sup> Persian receiued his kingdome.

And Daniel did eat at the Kings table, & was honored aboue all his friends.

Now the Babylonians had an idole, called Bel, and there were spent vpon him e-uerie day, twelue a great measures of fine
floure, and fortie shepes, and six great bottles of wine.

And the King worshipped it, and went daily to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King said vnto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel?
Who answered, and said, Because I may not worship idoles made with hands, but the liuing God, which hath created the heaven & the earth, and hath power vpo
all flesh.

Then said the King vnto him, Thinkest

thou not that Bel is a liuig God? seest thou not how muche he eateth and drinketh e-uerie day?

Then Daniel smiled and said, O King,
be not deceiued: for this is but claye with-
in, and brasse without, and did neuer eat any thing.

So the King was wroth, and called for his Priests, and said vnto them, If ye tell me
not, who this is that eateth vp these expenses, ye shal dye:

But if ye can certifie me that Bel eateth
them, then Daniel shal dye: for he hath spoke blasphemie against Bel. And Daniel said vnto the King, Let it be according to thy worde.

(Now the Priests of Bel were thre score and ten beside their wives and childre:)
and the King went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

So Bels Priests said, Beholde, we wil go
out, and set thou the me at ther, o King,

- fast, and seale it with thine owne signet.
- 12 And to morowe when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, we wil suffer death, or els Daniel that hath liyd vpon vs.
- 13 Now thei thought the selues sure ynough: for vnder the table thei had made a priue entrance, and there went they in euer, and toke away the things.
- 14 So whē they were gone forth, the King set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his seruants to bring ashes, and these they strowed thorowout all the temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out, and shut the dore, & sealed it with the Kings signet, and so departed.
- 15 Now in the night came the Priests, with their wiues and children, (as they were wont to do) and did eat and drinke vp all.
- 16 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel wish him.
- 17 And the King said, Daniel, are the seales whole? Who answered, Yea, o King, thei be whole.
- 18 And as soone as he had opened the dore, the King looked vpon the table, and cryed with a loude voyce, Great art thou, o Bel, and with thee is no disceite.
- 19 Then laughed Daniel, and helde the King that he shulde not go in, & said, Beholdenow the pauement, and marke wel whose footestepes are these.
- 20 And the King said, I se the footestepes of men, women, and children: therefore the King was angrie,
- 21 And toke the Priests, with their wiues, and children, and they shewed him the priue dores, where they came in, and consumed suche things as were vpon the table.
- 22 Therefore the King slew them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him and his temple.
- 23 Moreover in that same place there was a great dragon, which the Babylonians worshipped.
- 24 And the King said vnto Daniel, Sayest thou, that this is of brasse also? lo, he liueth and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no liuing god: therefore worshipp him.
- 25 Then said Daniel vnto the King, I wil worshipp the Lord my God: for he is the liuing God.
- 26 But giue me leaue, o King, and I wil slay this dragon without sworde or staffe. And the King said, I giue thee leaue.
- 27 Then Daniel toke pitche, and farte, & heere, and did seeth them together, & made lompes thereof; this he put in the dragons mouthe, and so the dragon burst in sunder. And Daniel said, Beholde, whom ye worshipp.
- 28 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderful wroth, and gathered them together against the King, saying, The King is become a Iewe: for he hath destroyed Bel, and hath slaine the dragon, and put the Priests to death.
- 29 So they came to the King, and said, Deliuer vs Daniel, or els we wil destroy thee and thine house.
- 30 Now whē the King sawe, that thei pressed fore vpon him, and that necessity constrained him, he deliuered Daniel vnto them:
- 31 Who cast him into the lions denne, where he was six daies.
- 32 In the denne there were seven lions, and they had giue them euerie day two bodies and two shepes, which then were not giuen them, to the intent that they might deuour Daniel.
- 33 ¶ Now there was in Iewrie a Prophet called Abbacuc, which had made porage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field for to bring it to the reapers.
- 34 But y Angel of the Lord said vnto Abbacuc, Go, carye the meat y thou hast, into Babylon vnto Daniel, which is in the lions denne.
- 35 And Abbacuc said, Lord, I neuer sawe Babylō, nether do I knowe where the denne is.
- 36 Then the Angel toke him by the crowne of the head, and bare him by the heere of the head, and through a mightie winde set him in Babylon vpon the denne.
- 37 And Abbacuc cryed, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.
- 38 Then said Daniel, O God, thou hast thought vpon me, and thou neuer failest: that seke thee and loue thee.
- 39 So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Abbacuc in his owne place againe immediatly.
- 40 Vpon the seuenth day, the King went to bewaile Daniel: and when he came to the denne, he looked in, and beholde, Daniel sat in the middes of the lions.
- 41 Then cryed the King with a loude voyce, saying, Great art thou, o Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee.
- 42 And he drew him out of the denne, and cast the that were the cause of his destruction into the denne, & they were deuoured in a momente before his face.

CHAP. I.

The death of Alexander the King of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kingdome. 12 Many of the children of Israel make covenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his dominion. 22 Antiochus setteth vp idoles.

After that Alexander the Macedonian, y sonne of Philippe, went forthe of the land of Chettim, & slewe Darius King of the Persians and Medes, and reigned for him, as he had before in Grecia. He toke great warres in hand, and wan strong holdes, and slewe the Kings of the earth.

So went he thorow to y ends of the worlde, and toke spoiles of many nations, in so muche that y worlde stode in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed vp and was hawtie.

Now when he had gathered a mightie strong hoste,

And had reigned ouer regions, nations and kingdomes, they became tributaries vnto him.

After these things he fel sicke, and knewe that he shulde dye.

Then he called for the chief of his seruantes, which had bene broght vp with him of children, and parted his kingdome among them, while he was yet aliue.

So Alexander had reigned twelue yeres when he dyed.

And his seruants reigned euerie one in his roume.

And they all caused the selues to be crowned after his death, and so did their children after the many yeres, and muche wickednes increased in the worlde.

For out of these came the wicked roote, euen Antiochus Epiphanes the sonne of King Antiochus, which had bene an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundredth and seuen and thirtieth yere of the kingdome of the Grekes.

In those daies wet there out of Israel wicked men, which enyced many, saying, Let vs go, and make a covenant with the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for since we departed fro them, we haue had muche sorowe.

So this deuice pleased them wel.

And certeine of the people were readie, & went to y King which gaue the licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen.

The set thei vp a place of exercise at Ie-

rusale, according to the facions of y heathen, And made them selues vncircumcised, & forsoke the holy covenant, & ioyned them selues to the heathen, and were folde to do mischief.

So when Antiochus kingdome was set in order, he wet about to reigne ouer Egypt, that he might haue the dominion of two realmes.

Therefore he entred into Egypt with a mightie copanie, with charrets, & elephants, & with horsemē, & with a great nauie, And moued warre against Ptolemeus King of Egypt: but Ptolemeus was afraid of him, and fled, and manie were wounded to death.

Thus Antiochus wanne many strong cities in the land of Egypt, and toke away the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he turned againe in the hundredth, fortie and thre yere,

And went vp towarde Israel and Ierusalem with a mightie people.

And entred proudly into the Sanctuarie, and toke away the golden altar, and the candlesticke for the light, & all the instruments thereof, & the table of y shewbread, and the powring vessels, and the bowles, & the golden basins, and the vaile, & the crownes, & the golden apparel, which was before the Temple, and brake all in pieces.

He toke also the siluer and golde, & the precious iewels, & he toke the secret treasures that he founde, & when he had taken away all, he departed into his owne land.

After he had murdered many men, and spoken verie proudly.

Therefore there was a great lametacion in euerie place of Israel.

For the princes & the Elders mourned: the yong women, and the yong men were made feble, & the beautie of the women was changed.

Euerie bridegrome toke him to mourning, and she that sate in the marriage chamber, was in heauines.

The land also was moued for the inhabitants thereof: for all the house of Iacob was couered with confusion.

After two yeres the King sent his chief taxer master into y cities of Iuda, which came to Ierusalem with a great multitude.

Who spake peaceable wordes vnto them in disceite, & they gaue credit vnto him.

Then he fell suddenly vpon the citie, & smote it with a great plague, & destroyed muche people of Israel.

I. Maccabees.

- 33 And when he had spoiled the citie, he set fyre on it, calling downe the houses thereof, and walles thereof on euerie side.
- 34 The womē and their children toke they captiue, and led away the cattel.
- 35 Then fortified they the citie of Dauid with a great & thicke wall, & with mightie towres, and made it a strong holde for them.
- 36 Moreover they set wicked people there, and vngodlie persones, and fortified them selues therein.
- 37 And they stored it with weapons and vittails, and gathered the spoile of Ierusalem, and laied it vp there.
- 38 Thus became they a fore snare & were in ambushment for y<sup>e</sup> Sanctuarie, and were wicked enemies euermore vnto Israel.
- 39 For thei shed innocent blood on euerie side of the Sanctuarie & defiled the Sactuarie,
- 40 In so muche that the citizens of Ierusalem fled away because of them, and it became an habitacion of strāgers, being desolate of them whome she had borne: for her owne children did leaue her.
- 41 Her Sactuarie was left waste as a wilderness: her holie daies were turned into mourning, her Sabbaths into reproche, and her honour brought to naught.
- 42 As her glorie had bene great, so was her dishonour, and her excellencie was turned into forowe.
- 43 Also the King wrote vnto all his kingdomes, that all the people shulde be as one, and that euerie mā shulde leaue his lawes.
- 44 And all the heathen agreed to the commandement of the King.
- 45 Yea, many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offering vnto idoles, & defiling the Sabbath.
- 46 So the King sent letters by the messengers vnto Ierusalem, and to the cities of Iuda, that they shulde followe the strange lawes of the countrey,
- 47 And that they shulde forbid the burnt offerings and sacrifices, and the offerings in the Sanctuarie,
- 48 And that they shulde defile the Sabbaths and the feasts,
- 49 And pollute the Sanctuarie and the holie men,
- 50 And to set vp altars, & groues, & chapels of idoles, & offer vp swines flesh, and vncleane beasts,
- 51 And that they shulde leaue their childre vncircumcised, & defile their soules with vncleannes, and pollute them selues, that they might forget the Law, & change all the ordinances,
- 52 And that whosoever wolde not do according to the commandement of the King, shulde suffer death.
- 53 In like maner wrote he thorow out all his kingdomes, and set ouerseers ouer all the people, for to compell them to do these things.
- 54 And he commanded the cities of Iuda to do sacrifice, citie by citie.
- 55 Then went many of the people vnto the by heapes, euery one that forsake y<sup>e</sup> Law, and so they committed euil in the land.
- 56 And they droue the Israelites into secret places, euen wheresoeuer they coulde flee for succour.
- 57 The fiftenth day of Casleu, in the hundredth and fiftie and fortieth yere, they set vp the abomination of desolacion vpon the altar, & thei buylded altars thorow out the cities of Iuda on euerie side.
- 58 And before the dores of the houses, and in the stretes they burnt incense.
- 59 And the booke of the Law, which they founde, they burnt in the fyre, and cutte in pieces.
- 60 Whosoever had a booke of the Testament founde by him, or whosoever consented vnto the Law, the Kings commandement was, that they shulde put him to death by their autoritie,
- 61 And they executed these things euerie moneth vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cities.
- 62 And in the fiftie and twentieth day of the moneth, they did sacrifice vpon the altar, which was in the stead of the altar of sacrifices.
- 63 And according to the commandement, they put certeine women to death, which had caused their children to be circumcised,
- 64 And they hāged vp the children at their neckes, and they spoiled their houses, and slewe the circumcisers of them.
- 65 Yet were there many in Israel, which were of courage, and determined in them selues, that they wolde not eat vncleane things,
- 66 But chose rather to suffer death, then to be defiled with those meats: so because thei wolde not breake the holie couenant, they were put to death.
- 67 And this tyrannie was verie fore vpon the people of Israel.

What helpeth it vs then to liue anie lon-

And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his sonnes, and put sackcloth vpon them,
and mourned verie sore.
Then came men from the King to the cite of Modin to compell them to forsake
God, and go sacrifice.
So manie of the Israelites consented
vnto them: but Mattathias and his sonnes
assembled together.
Then spake the commissioners of the Kings, and said vnto Mattathias, Thou art
the chief and an honorable man, & great in this citie, and hast many children and
brethren.
Come thou therefore first, and fulfil the Kings commandement, as all the heathen
haue done, and also the men of Iuda, and suche as remaine at Ierusalé: so shalt thou and thy familie be in the Kings fauour &
thou and thy children shalbe enriched
with siluer & golde, & w manie rewards.
Then Mattathias answered & said with a loud voice, I hough all nations that are vnder the Kings dominion, obey him, and fall away euerie man from the religion of their fathers, and consent to his com-
mandements,
Yet wil I and my sonnes, and my brethren, walke in y couenant of our fathers.
God be merciful vnto vs, that we forsake
not the Law and the ordinances.
We wil not hearken vnto the Kings
wordes to transgresse our religion, nether
on the right side, nor on the left.
And when he had left of speaking these

wordes, there came one of the Iewes, in the sight of all to sacrifice vpon the altar
which was at Modin, according to the Kings commandement.
Now when Mattathias sawe it, he was so inflamed with zeale, that his raines shoke,
and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the Law: therefore he ran
vnto him, and killed him by the altar:
And at the same time he slewe y Kings
commissioner, that compelled him to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altar.
Thus bare he a zeale to y Law of God,
* doing, as Phinees did vnto Zambri the Numb. 25. 10.
sonne of Salom.
Then cryed Mattathias with a loud
voyce in the citie, saying, Whofoeuer is zealous of the Law, and wil stand by the
couenant, let him come forth after me.
So he, and his sonnes fled into the moun-
taines, & left all that thei had in the citie.
Then manie that foght after iustice &
iudgement,
Went downe into y wildernes to dwell
there, bothe they, and their children, and their wiues, and their cattel: for the afflictions increased fore vpon them.
Now whé it was tolde vnto the Kings
seruants, and to the garisons, which were in Ierusalem in the citie of Dauid, that men had broken the Kings commandement, & were gone downe into the secret
places in the wildernes,
Then many pursued after them: and hauing ouertaken them, thei camped against them, and set the battel in array against them on the Sabbath day,
And said vnto them, Let this now be suf-ficiér: come forth & do according to the commandement of the King, and ye shal
liue.
But they answered, We wil not go for-
the, nether wil we do the Kings commandement, to defile the Sabbath day.
Then they gaue them the battel.
But the other answered them nothing,
nether cast anie one stone at the, nor stopped the priue places.
But said, We wil dye all in our innocencie: the heauen and earth shal testifie for vs, that ye destroy vs wrongfully.
Thus thei gaue them the battel vpon the Sabbath, and slewe bothe men and cattel,
their wiues and their children to the number of a thousand people.
When Mattathias & his friends vnder-stode this, thei mourned for them greatly.
And said one to another, If we all do as our breth'n haue done, and fight not against the heathen for our liues, & for our Laws, then shal thei incōtinently destroy vs out of the earth.
Therefore they concluded at the same time, sayig, Whosoeuer shal come to make battel with vs vpon the Sabbath daye, we wil fight against him, that we dye not all, as our brethren that were murdered in the secret places.

42 Then came vnto them the assemblie of the Asideans, which were of the strongest men of Israel, all suche as were wel minded toward the Law.

43 And all they that were fled for persecution, ioyned them selues vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.

44 So they gathered a power, and smote the wicked men in their wrath, & the vngodlie in their anger: but the rest fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

45 Then Mattathias and his friends went about, and destroyed the altars,

46 And circumcised the children by force that were vncircumcised, as manie as they founde within the coasts of Israel,

47 And they pursued after the proude mẽ: and this acte prospered in their hands.

48 So they recovered the Law out of the hand of the Gentiles, & out of the hand of Kings, and gaue not place to y wicked.

49 Now when the time drewe nere, that Mattathias shulde dye, he said vnto his sonnes, Now is pride and persecution increased, and the time of destruction, and the wrath of indignacion.

50 Now therefore, my sonnes, be ye zealous of the Law, & giue your liues for the couenant of our fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what actes our fathers did in their time: so shal ye receiue great honour and an everlasting name.

ma: for his glorie is but dongue and wormes.

63 To day is he set vp, & to morowe he shal not be founde: for he is turned into his dust, and his purpose perisheth.

64 Wherefore, my sonnes, take good hearts, and shewe your selues men for the Law: for by it shal you obtaine glorie.

65 And behold, I knowe that your brother Simon is a man of counsel: giue care vnto him alway: he shal be a father vnto you.

66 And Iudas Maccabeus hath bene mightie and strong, euen from his youth vp: let him be your captaine and fight you the battel for the people.

67 Thus shal ye bring vnto you all those that obserue the Law, & shal aduenge the iniuries of your people.

68 Recompense fully the heathen, and giue your selues to the commandement of the Law.

69 So he blessed them, and was laied with his fathers,

11 Which when Iudas perceiued, he went rest fled.

12 So Iudas toke their spoiles, and toke also Apollonius sworde, and fought with it all his life long.

13 ¶ Now whē Seron a prince of y armie of Syria, heard that Iudas had gathered vnto
him the congregacion, and Church of the faithful, and went forthe to the warre,

14 He said, I wil get me a name, and wil be glorious in the realme: for I wil go fight with Iudas, & the that are with him, which haue despised the Kings commandement.

15 So he made him readie to go vp, and there went with him a mightie hoste of the yngodlie to helpe him, & to be a Iuenced
of the children of Israel.

16 And when he came nere to the going vp of Bethhoron, Iudas went forthe to mete
him with a smale companie.

17 But when they sawe the armie coming against them, they said to Iudas, How are
we able, being so fewe; to fight against so great a multitude, & so strong, seing we be
to wearie, and haue fasted all this day?

18 Then said Iudas, It is an easie thing for many to be shut vp in the hands of fewe,
and there is no difference before the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude, or
by a smale companie.

19 For the victorie of the battel stādeth not in the multitude of y hoste, but the strēgth
cometh from heauen.

20 They come against vs with a cruel and proude multitude, to destroy vs, and our wiues, and our children, and to robbe vs.

21 But we do fight for our liues, and for our Lawes,

22 And God him self wil destroye the before our face: therefore be not ye afraied
of them.

23 And whē he had left of speaking, he lepte
suddenly vpon them: so was Seron and his hoste destroyed before him.

24 And they pursued them from the going downe of Bethhoron vnto the plaine: where there were slaine eight hundredth men of them, and the residue fled into the land of the Philistims.

25 Then the feare & terrour of Iudas & his brethre fel vpon the naciōs rounde about,

26 So that his fame came vnto the King:
for all the Gentiles colde tell of the war-
res of Iudas.

27 ¶ But when King Antiochus heard these tidings, he was angrie in his minde: wherefore he sent forthe, & gathered all y power
of his realme a very strong armie,

28 And opened his treasure, and gaue his hoste a yeres wages in hand, commanding
the to be readie for a yere for all occasiōs.

29 Neuertheles, when he sawe that the money of his treasures failed, & that the tributes in the countrey were smale, because of the dissencion, & plagues y he had broght
vpon the land, in taking away the lawes
which had bene of olde time,

30 He feared lest he shulde not haue now at the second time, as at the first, for the charges & giftes that he had giue with a liberal hand afore: for in liberalitie he farre
passed the other Kings y were before him.

31 Wherefore he was heauie in his minde,
and thoght to go into Persia, for to take tributes of the countreis, and to gather
much money.

32 So he left Lyfias a noble man and of the Kings blood to ouerse the Kings busines,
from the riuier of Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypt,

33 And to bring vp his sonne Antiochus, til
he came againe.

34 Moreouer, he gaue him halfe of his hoste
and elephantes, & gaue him the charge of all things that he wolde haue done,

35 And concerning those which dwelt in Iu-da and Ierusalem, that he shulde send an armie against them, to destroy and roote
out the power of Israel & the remnant of Ierusalem, and to put out their memorial
from that place,

36 And to set strangers for to inhabite all their quarters, & parte their lād amōg the:

37 And the King toke the halfe of the ho-
ste that remained, & departed from Antio-
chia his royal citie, in the yere an hūdreth
fortie and seuen, and passed the riuier Euphrates, & went thorow the hie countreis.

38 Then Lyfias chose Ptolemus the sonne
of Doriminius, & Nicanor, and Gorgias,
mightie men, and the Kings friends,

39 And sent with them fortie thousand foremen, & seuen thousand horsemen, to go into the land of Iuda, & to destroy it, as the King commanded.

40 So they wēt forthe with all their power and came and pitched by Emmaus in the plaine countrey.

41 Now when the marchants of the coun-
trei heard the rumour of them, they toke
very muche siluer & golde, & seruants, &
came into the campe to bye the childre of Israel for slaues, & the strength of Syria
& of strange naciōs ioyned with them.

42 ¶ Now when Iudas & his brethren sawe
that trouble increased, and that the hoste
drew nere vnto their borders, cōsidering
the Kings wordes, whereby he had commanded to destroy the people, and vterly
abolish them,

43 They said one to another, Let vs redres-
se the decay of our people, and let vs fight
for our people, and for our Sanctuarie.

gathered to fight, and to praye, and to desire mercie and compalsion.

45 As for Ierusalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wildernes. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the Sanctuarie was troden downe, and the strangers kept the forteresse, and it was the habitation of the heathen: & the mirth of Iacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceased.

46 So they gathered them selues together, and came to Maspha before Ierusalem: for in Maspha was y place where they praised afore time in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put sackcloth vpon them, and cast ashes vpon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And opened the booke of the Law, wherein the heathē sought to paint the likenes of their idoles,

49 And brought the Priests garments, and the first frutes, and the tithes, and set there the Nazarites, which accomplished their daies.

50 And they cryed with a loude voyce, towards heauen, saying, What shal we do with these? and whether shal we carye them away?

51 For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe and desiled, and thy Priests are in heauines, & broght downe.

52 And beholde, the heathē are come against vs to destroie vs: thou knowest what things they imagine against vs.

53 How can we stand before them, except thou helpe vs?

54 Then they blew the trumpets, & cryed with a loude voyce.

55 And after this Iudas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundreths, and captaines ouer fifties, and captaines ouer ten.

56 And they comanded them that buylded houses, or married wiues, or planted vineyardes, or were fearful, that they shulde returne euerie one to his owne house, according* to the Law.

*Deut. 20. 5.
iud. 7. 3.*

57 So the hoste remoued, and pitched vpon the Southside of Emmaus.

58 And Iudas said, Arme your selues, and be valiant men, & be readie against the morning to fight with these naciōs, which are gathered together against vs, to destroie vs and our Sanctuarie.

59 For it is better for vs to dye in battel, then to se the calamities of our people & of our Sanctuarie.

CHAP. IIII.

Iudas goeth against Gorgias which lieth in wait. 14 He putteth Gorgias and his hoste to flight 28 Lyfias invadeth Iudea. 29 But Iudas driueth him out. 43 Iudas purifieth the Temple and dedicateth the altar.

Then toke Gorgias five thousand five hundred men, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and departed out of the campe by night,

To inuade the campe of the Iewes, and to slaye the suddenly: and the men of the forteresse were his guides.

Now when Iudas heard it, he remoued, & they that were valiant men to finite the Kings armie which was at Emmaus,

Whiles yet the armie was disperfed fro the campe.

In the meane season came Gorgias by night into Iudas campe: & when he founde no man there, he sought the in the mountaines: for said he, They flee from vs.

But as soon as it was day, Iudas shewed him self in the field with three thousand men, which had nether harness nor swordes to their mindes.

And thei sawe that the armies of the heathen were strong, and wel armed, and their horsemen about them, and that these were experte men of warre.

Then said Iudas to the men that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, nether be afraied of their assault.

Remember, how our fathers were deliuered* in the red Sea, when Pharaο pursued them with an armie.

Therefore now let vs crye vnto heauen, and the Lord wil haue mercie vpon vs, & remember the couenant of our fathers, & wil destroie this hoste before our face this day:

So shal all the heathen knowe, that there is one, which deliuereth Israel, and saueh Israel.

Then the strangers lift vp their eyes, & sawe them coming against them,

And they went out of their tentes into the battel, and they that were with Iudas, blew the trumpets.

So they ioyned together, and the heathē were discomfited and fled by the plaine.

But the hinmoste of the sel by the sword, and they pursued them vnto Gazero, and into the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Iamnia, so that there were slaine of them about three thousand men.

So Iudas turned againe with his hoste pursuing them,

And said vnto the people, Be not griedie of the spoiles: for there is a battel before vs.

And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but stand ye now fast against your enemies, and overcome them: then may ye safely take the spoiles.

As Iudas was speaking these wordes, there appeared one parte which looked from the

the mountaines.

But when Gorgias sawe and that Iudas soldier (for the smoke that was done.)

When they sawe thei were afraied, and when Iudas and his hoste were to set them selues in array.

They fled euerie one to his strangers.

So Iudas turned againe to the places, where he gate much riches, and precious stones, and great riches.

Thus they went home to Ierusalem, and praised towards God, he is gracious, and his mercie for euer.

And so Israel had a great day.

Now all the strangers of Iudea, & tolde Lyfias all that he had done.

Who when he heard of it, was afraied, and discouraged, and things came not vpon him, nether such things as he comanded him, came to pass.

Therefore the next yere Iudas thre thousand men, and five thousand, went to fight against Ierusalem.

So they came into Ierusalem, their tentes at Beth-sure, and fought against them with the sword.

And when he sawe that he was afraied and said, Blessed be the name of the Lord, who hath saved Israel, which delivereth his people, and saueh Israel.

And he gaue the heathen into the hand of Ionathas, and of his armour bearer.

Shut vp this armie in the temple of Israel, & let the heathen see their power, and with the sword.

Make them afraied, and let them see the boldenes & strength, which is in the Lord, which delivereth his people, and saueh Israel.

Cast them downe by the sword, that loue thee: the Lord shall be praised, and thy Name, praise thee.

So they ioyned together, and fought against the hoste of Lyfias, and they fell before them.

The Lyfias, seeing his hoste, and the manlines of the heathen, that they were ready, and valiantly, he went into the temple, and fled his armie, he was prepared to come againe.

Then said Iudas & his

the mountaines.

10 But when Gorgias sawe that his were fled, and that Iudas soldiers burnt the tentes: (for the smoke that was sene, declared what was done.)

11 When they sawe these things, they were sore afraied, and when they sawe also that Iudas and his hoste were in the field readie to set them selues in array,

12 They fled euerie one into the land of strangers.

13 So Iudas turned againe to spoile the tentes, where he gate muche golde and siluer, and precious stones, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

14 Thus they went home, and sang psalmes, and praised towards the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercie endureth forever.

15 And so Israel had a great victorie in that day.

16 Now all the strangers that escaped, came, & tolde Lyfias all the things that were done.

17 Who when he heard these things, was sore afraied, and discouraged, because suche things came not vpon Israel as he wolde, nether suche things as the King had commanded him, came to passe.

18 Therefore the next yere following, gathered Lyfias thre score thousand chosen souldiers, and five thousand horsemen to fight against Ierusalem.

19 So they came into Idumea, and pitched their tentes at Beth-sura, where Iudas came against them with ten thousand men.

20 And when he sawe that mightie armie, he praied and said, Blessed be thou, o Sauour of Israel, which didest destroe the assalte of y<sup>e</sup> mightie man by the had of thy seruāt David, & gauest the hoste of the strāgers into the had of Ionathan, y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Saul, and of his armour beares:

21 Shut vp this armie in y<sup>e</sup> hand of thy people of Israel, & let the be confounded with their power, and with their horsemen.

22 Make them afraied, and consume their boldenes & strength, that thei may be astonished at their destruction.

23 Cast them downe by the sworde of them that loue thee: the shall all thei that knowe thy Name, praise thee with songs:

24 So they ioyned together, and there were slaine of Lyfias hoste, five thousand men, and they fell before them.

25 The Lyfias, seing his armie put to flight and the manlines of Iudas soldiers, and that they were readie, either to liue or dye valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered strangers, and when he had furnished his armie, he thoght againe (being prepared) to come against Iudea.

26 Then said Iudas & his brethre, Beholde,

our enemies are discomfited: let vs now go vp to cleanse, and to repaire the Sanctuarie.

27 So all the hoste gathered them together, and went vp into the mountaine of Sion.

28 Now when they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, and the altar defiled, and the dores burnt vp, and the shrubbes growing in the courtes, as in a forest, or as on one of the mountaines, and that the Priests chambers were broken downe,

29 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes vpon their heads,

30 And fel downe to the grounde on their faces, and blew an alarme with the trumpets, and cryed towards heauen.

31 Then Iudas commanded certeine of the men to fight against those which were in y<sup>e</sup> castel, til he had clenfed the Sanctuarie.

32 So he chose Priests that were vndefiled, suche as delited in the Law,

33 And they clenfed the Sanctuarie, and bare out the defiled stones into an vnclene place,

34 And consulted what to do with the altar of burnt offrings, which was polluted.

35 So they thoght it was best to destroe it, lest it shulde be a reproche vnto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar,

36 And layed vp the stones vpon the mountaine of the Temple in a convenient place, til there shulde come a Prophet, to shewe what shulde be done with them.

37 So they toke whole stones according to the Law, and buylded a new altar according to the former,

38 And made vp the Sanctuarie, and the things that were within the Temple, and the courts, and all things.

39 They made also new holie vessels, and brought into the Temple the candlesticke, and the altar of burnt offrings, and of incense and the table.

40 And they burnt incense vpon the altar, & lighted the lanipes which were vpon the candlesticke, that they might burne in the Temple.

41 Thei set also the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vailles, and finished all the workes that they had begon to make.

42 And vpon the five and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Chassu, in the hundreth and eight and fortieth yere they rose vp betimes in the morning,

43 And offred sacrifice according to the Law, vpon the new altar of burnt offrings, that they had made.

¶ Iudas Maccabeus alſo, and his brother Jonathan went ouer Iorden, and trauailed
thre dayes iourney in the wildernes,

¶ Where they met with the Nabathites,
who receiued them louingly, & tolde the euerie thing that was done vnto their brethren in the countrey of Galaad,

¶ And how that manie of them were beſie-

are ſtrong, and great)

¶ And that they were kept in other cities
of Galaad, and to morow they are appointed to bring their hoſte vnto theſe fortes,
and to take them, and to deſtroie them all
in one day.

¶ So Iudas & his hoſte turned in all haſte
by the way of the wildernes towarde Bo-ſorra, and wan the citie, and ſlewe all the males with the edge of the ſworde, and to-ke all their ſpoile, and ſet fyre vpon the citie.

¶ And in the night he removed from thence, and went towarde the fortereſſe.

¶ And betimes in the morning when thei
looked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people beaung ladders, and instruments of warre, to take the forte, and had aſſailed them.

¶ When Iudas ſawe that the battel was begon, and that the crye of the citie went vp to heauen with trumpets, and a great founde,

¶ Then he ſaid vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.

¶ So he wet forth behinde them with thre companies, and they blew the trumpets, &
cryed with prayer.

¶ Then the hoſte of Timotheus knewe,
that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, & he ſmore them with a great ſlaugh-
ter, ſo that there was killed of them the ſa-
me day, almoſte eight thouſand men.

¶ ¶ Then departed Iudas vnto Maſpha, &
laid ſiege vnto it, and wanne it, and ſlewe
all the males thereof, and ſpoiled it, and
ſet fyre vpon it.

¶ From thence went he and toke Chaſbó, Maged, and Boſor, and the other cities in Galaad.

¶ After theſe things gathered Timotheus
another hoſte, and he camped before Ra-phon beyonde the flood.

¶ Now Iudas had ſent to eſpie the hoſte,
& they brought him worde againe, ſaying,
All the heathen that be rounde about vs,
are gathered vnto him, and the hoſte is ve-
rie great,

¶ And he hath hyred the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their ten-tes beyonde the flood, & are readie to come and fight againſt thee. So Iudas went to mete them.

¶ Then Timotheus ſaid vnto the captai-nes of his hoſte, When Iudas and his ho-
ſte come nere the flood, if he paſſe ouer firſt vnto vs, we ſhal not be able to withſtand him: for he wil be to ſtrong for vs.

¶ But if he be afraid, and campe beyonde
the flood, we wil go ouer vnto him, and ſhal preuaile againſt him.

¶ Now whe Iudas came nere to the flood,
he cauſed the gouernours of the people to remaine by the flood, and commanded the,
ſaying, Suffer none to pitche a tent, but let
euerie man come to the battel.

¶ So he went firſt ouer towarde them, and
all people after him: and all the heathen
were diſcomfited before him, & caſt away
their weapons, and fled into the temple
that was at Carnaim.

¶ Which citie Iudas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that were in it: ſo was Carnaim ſubdued, and might not withſtand Iudas.

¶ ¶ Then Iudas gathered all the Iſraelites that were in the countrey of Galaad, from the leaſt vnto the moſte, with their wi-
ues and their children, and their baggage,
a verie great hoſte, to come into the land
of Iuda.

¶ So they came vnto Ephron, which was a great citie by the way, and ſtrongly de-fenſed: they colde not paſſe, nether at the right hand nor at the left, but muſt go thorowe it.

¶ But they that were in the citie, ſhut the ſelues in, and ſtopped vp the gates with ſtones: and Iudas ſent vnto them with peaceable wordes, ſaying,

¶ Let vs paſſe thorowe your land, that we may go into our owne country, and none
ſhal hurt you: we wil but onely go tho-
rowe on fore: but they wolde not open
vnto him.

¶ Wherefore Iudas commanded a procla-
macion to be made thorowe out the hoſte, that euerie man ſhulde aſſail it according to his ſtanding.

¶ So the valiant men ſet vpon it, and aſ-ſailed the citie all that day, and all that night, and the citie was giuen ouer into
his hands:

¶ Who ſlewe all the males with the edge of the ſworde, and deſtroyed it, and toke
the ſpoile thereof, and went thorowe the citie ouer them that were ſlaine.

¶ Then went they ouer Iorden into the great plaine before Bethſan.

¶ And Iudas gathered together thoſe that were behinde, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorowe, til they were come into the land of Iuda.

¶ Thus they went vp with ioye, and glad-

nes vnto mount Sion; where they offered burnt offerings, because there were none of them, slaine, but came home againe in safetie.

55 ¶ Now whiles Iudas and Ionathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galilee before Ptolemais,

56 Ioseph the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant actes, and battels which they had achieved, said,

57 Let vs get vs a name also, and go fight against the heathen that are round about vs.

58 So they gave their hosts a commandement and went towards Iamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the citie to fight against them.

60 And Ioseph and Azarias were put to flight and pursued vnto the borders of Iudea: and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men: so y<sup>e</sup> there was a great ouerthrowe among the people of Israel,

61 Because they were not obedient vnto Iudas, and his brethren, but thought to do some valiant thing.

62 Also they came not of the stocke of these men, by whose hands deliuerance was giuen to Israel.

63 But the man Iudas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wherefoer their name was heard of.

64 And the people came vnto them, bidding them welcome.

¶ Antiochus, willing to take the citie of Elimaïs, is driuen away of the citizens. 8 He falleth into sickness, and dyeth. 17 His sonne Antiochus is made King. 34 The manner to prouoke elephants to fight. 43 Eleazarus valiant acte. 49 The siege of Sion.

*Ioseph Anti-
12. chap. 13.*

NOW when King Antiochus trauailed thorow the high countreis, he heard that Elimaïs in the countrey of Persia was a citie greatly renowned for riches,

siluer and golde,

2 And that there was in it a verie riche temple, where as were coverings of golde, cote armoures, and harnes, which Alexandre King of Macedonia the sonne of Philippe (y<sup>e</sup> reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the citie, and to spoile it, but he was not able: for y<sup>e</sup> citizens were warned of the matter,

4 And rose vp against him in battel, & he fled and departed thence with great heauines, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreouer, there came one which brought him tidings in the countrey of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Iuda, were driuen away,

6 And that Lysias, which went forthe first with a great power, was driuen away of the Iewes, and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and diuers spoiles which they had gotten of the armies whome they had destroyed,

7 And that they had pulled downe the abominacion, which he had set vp vpon the altar at Ierusalem, and fensed the Sanctuarie with high walles, as it was afore, and Beth-sura his citie.

8 So when the King had heard these wordes, he was astonished, and sore moued: therefore he laid him downe vpon his bed, & fellicke for verie sorowe, because it was not come to passe, as he had thought.

9 And there continued he manie dayes: for his grief was euer more & more, so that he sawe he must nedes dye.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, & said vnto them, The slepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart faileth for verie care.

11 And I thinke with my self, Into what aduersitie am I come? & into what floods of miserie am I fallen now, where as afore time I was in prosperitie, and greatly set by, by reason of my power.

12 And now do I remember the euils that I haue done at Ierusalem: for I toke all the vessels of golde & of siluer that were in it, and sent to destroye the inhabitants of Iuda without cause.

13 I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause, and beholde, I must dye with great sorowe in a strange land.

14 Then called he for Philippe, one of his friends, whome he made ruler of all his realme,

15 And gaue him the crowne, and his robe, and the ring, that he shulde instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him vp, til he might reigne him self.

16 So King Antiochus dyed there in the hundreth, and fortie and ninth yere.

was dead, he ordeined Antiochus his son-

Now they that were in the castle at Jerusalem, kept in the Iſrachites rounde about the Sanctuarie, and fought alwaies their hurt, and the strengthening of y<sup>e</sup> heathen.

Therefore Iudas thought to destroy the,
& called all the people together to besiege
them.

So they came together, and besieged the
in the hundredth and fiftie yere, and made instruments to shoote and other engines of warre.

But certeine of them that were besieged,
gate forthe, (vnto whome some vngodlie
men of Israel ioyned them selues.)

And they went vnto the King, saying,
How long wilt thou cease from executing
iudgement, and aduenge our brethren?

We haue bene readie to serue thy father, & to go forwarde in those things, that he appointed, & to obey his commandemēts.

Therefore they of our nacions fel from vs for this cause; and wheresoever they founde anie of vs, they slewe them, and spoyled our inheritance.

And thei haue not onely laied hand vpon
vs, but vpon all about their borders.

And beholde, this day are they besieging
the castle at Ierusalem to take it, and haue fortified the Sanctuarie, and Beth-sura.

And if thou doeſt not prevent the quickly, thei wil do greater things: then these,
and thou shalt not be able to ouercome
them.

When the King heard this, he was verie
angrie, and called all his friends, the captaines of his armie, and his horsemen,

And bandes that were hired, came vnto
him fro the Kings, that were confederate,
and from the yles of the sea.

So the number of his armie was an hundredth thousand fote men, & twentie thousand horsemen, and two and thirtie ele-
phantes exercised in battel.

These came through Idumēa and drewe
nere to Beth-sura, and besieged it a long season, and made engines of warre: but thei
came out, and burnt them with fyre, and fought valiantly.

Then departed Iudas from the castle, &
remoued the hoste towarde Beth-zacarias
ouer against the Kings campe.

So the King arose verie earely, & broght
the armie and his power towarde the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armies set the selues in array to the battel, and blew the trumpets.

And to pronoke the elephantes for to fght, thei shewed the the blood of grapes
and mulberries,

And they set the beasts according to the

ranges: so that by euerie elephant there stood a thousand men armed with coares
of maile and helmets of brasse vpon their heads, and vnto euerie beast were ordeined
fue hundredth horsemen of the best,

Which were readie at all times where-soever the beast was: and whether soeuer
the beast went, they went also, and departed not from him.

And vpon them were strong towres of wood that couered euerie beast, which were fastened thereon with instruments, &
vpon euerie one was two and thirtie men,
that fought in them, and the Indian that ruled him.

They set also the remnant of the horsemen vpon bothe the sides in two wings of the hoste to stirre them vp, and to kepe
them in the valleis.

And when the sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the mountaines glistered
therewith, and gaue light as lapses of fyre.

Thus parte of the Kings armie was spred vpon the hie mountaines, and parte
beneth: so they marched forwarde warely
and in order.

And all they that heard the noyce of their multitude, and the marching of the companie, and the ratteling of the harness,
were astonished: for the armie was verie
great and mightie.

Then Iudas and his hoste entred into
the battel, & thei slewe six hundredth men of the Kings armie.

Now when Eleazar, the sonne of Abar-
on, sawe one of the elephantes armed with royal harness, and was more excellent then all y<sup>e</sup> other beasts, he thought that the King
shulde be vpon him.

Wherefore he ieopardied him self to de-liuer his people, and to get him a perpetual name,

And ranne boldely vnto him through the middes of the hoste, slaying on the right hand, and on the left, so that thei departed away on bothe sides.

So went he to the elephantes fete, and gate him vnder him, and slewe him: then
fel the elephant downe vpon him; & there
he dyed.

But the other, seeing the power of y<sup>e</sup> King
and the fiercenes of his armie, departed
from them.

And the Kings armie went vp to mete
them towarde Ierusalem, and the King pitched his tents in Iudea towarde mount Sion.

Moreouer, the King toke truce with the
that were in Beth-sura: but when they came out of the citie, because they had no
vitailes there, and were flint vp therein, &
the land had relted,

a garison to kepe it,
 51 And besieged the Sanctuarie many dayes, & made instruments to shoote, & other engins of warre, and instruments to cast fyre and stones, and pieces to cast dartes and slings.

10, the Jewes

52 Thei also made engins against their engins, and foght a long season.
 53 But in the garners there were no vitayles: for it was the seueneth yere, and then they that were in Iudea, & were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten vp the residue of the store,

54 So that in the Sanctuarie were fewe men left: for the famine came so vpon the, that they were scattered euerie mā to his owne place.

55 Now when Lysias heard that Philippe (whome Antiochus the King, whiles he liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his sonne, that he might be King)

56 Was come againe out of Persia, & Media, and the Kings hoste with him, and thought to take vnto him the rule of thigs,

57 He and his halles, and were stirred forward by them in the castel to go and tell the King, and the captaines of the hoste, and to others, saying, We decrease dayly, & our vitayles are but smale: and the place that we laye siege vnto, is strong, and the affaires of the realme depende vpon vs.

Or, great bands

58 Now therefore let vs agre with these men, & take truce with them, and with all their nation,

59 And grāte them to liue after their Law, as they did afore: for they be grieved, and do all these things, because we haue broken their Lawes.

60 So the King and the princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peace, & they receiued it.

61 When the King & the princes had made an othe vnto them, they came vp to this out of the fortresse.

62 And the King went vp to mount Sion: but when he sawe that the place was well defended, he brake his othe that he had made, and commanded to breake downe the wall rounde about.

63 Then departed he in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia where he founde Philippe hauing dominion of the citie: so he foght against him, and toke the citie by force.

Demetrius reigned, after he had killed Antiochus and Lysias. 5 He troubleth the children of Israel throue the counsel of cerceins wicked persons. 37 The prayer of the Priests against Nicanor. 41 Iudas killeth Nicanor, after he had made his prayer.

Joseph An- 219, 12, chap. 5

IN the hundredth and one and fiftieth yere, departed Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from Rome, and came vp with a

fewe men vnto a citie of the sea coast, and reigned there.

2 And when he came into the possession of his fathers kigdome, his soldiers toke Antiochus and Lysias, and broght them vnto him.

3 But when it was tolde him, he said, Shewe me not their faces.

4 So thei put the to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kigdome,

5 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodlie men of Israel, whose captaine was Alcimus, that wolde haue bene the hie Priest.

6 These men accused the people vnto the King, saying, Iudas and his brethren haue slayne all thy friends, and driuen vs out of our owne land.

7 Wherefore send now some man, whome thou trustest, that he maye go and se all the destruction, which he hath done vnto vs, and to the Kings land, and let him punish them with all their partakers.

8 Then the King chose Bacchides a frie of his, which was a great man in the realme, and ruled beyonde the flood, and was faithful vnto the King, and sent him,

9 And that wicked Alcimus, whome he made hie Priest, and commanded him to be aduenged of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed, and came with a great hoste into the land of Iuda, and sent messengers to Iudas and his brethren, deceitfully with peaceable wordes.

11 But they beleued not their saying: for thei sawe that they were come with a great hoste.

12 Then a companie of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreat of reasonable points.

13 And the Aſideans were the first that required peace among the children of Israel.

14 For said they, He that is a Priest of the sede of Aarō, is come with this armie: therefore he wil not hurt vs.

15 Then he spake vnto them peaceably, and swore vnto them, and said, We wil do you no harme, nether your friends:

16 And they beleued him: but he toke of the thre score men, and slewe them in one day according to the wordes that were written.

17 *Thei haue cast y bodies of thy Saines, and their blood rounde about Ierusalem: and there was no man that wolde burye them.

18 So there came a feare and trembling among all the people: for they said, There is neither trouth, nor righteousnes in them: for they haue broken the appoyntment, & othe that they made.

& pitched his tence at Beth-zecha, where he sent forth & toke manie of the me that had forsaken him, & certeine of the people whom he slewe <sup>cast</sup> into the great pit. Then committed he the countrey vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with him to helpe him: so Bacchides wet vnto y King. Thus Alcimus stroue for y priesthode. And all such as troubled the people resorted vnto him: in somuche, that they obtained the land of Iuda, and did much hurt in Israel. Now when Iudas sawe all the mischief, that Alcimus and his companie had done among the Israelites more then the heathē, He went forth the rounde about all the borders of Iuda, and punished those, that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroade in the countrey. But when Alcimus sawe that Iudas & his people had gotten the vpper hād, & knewe that he was not able to abide them, he went againe to the King, and accused the of wicked things. Then the King sent Nicanor one of his chief princes, which hated Israel deadly, & commanded him, that he shulde destroye the people. So Nicanor came to Ierusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Iudas, and his brethren deceitfully with friendlie wordes, saying, Let there be no warre betwene me, and you: I wil come with fewe men, to se how ye do, friendly. So he came vnto Iudas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were prepared to take away Iudas. Neuertheles, it was tolde Iudas, that he came vnto him vnder disceit: therefore he feared him, and wolde not se his face no more. When Nicanor perceiued that his counsel was bewrayed, he went out to fight against Iudas, beside Carphasalama. Where there were slaine of Nicanors hoste about fise thousand men: so they fled vnto the citie of David. After this came Nicanor vp vnto mount Sion, and some of the Priests with the Elders of the people went forth of the Sanctuary to salute him peaceably, & to shew him the burnt offering that was offered for the King. But he laughed at them, and mocked the & counted them prophane, and spake proudly. And swore in his wrath, saying, If Iudas and his hoste be not deliuered now into mine hands, if euer I come againe in safetie, I wil burne vp this house. With that, went he out in a great anger. Then the Priests came in, and stode before the altar in the Temple, weping, and saying, For so muche as thou, o Lord, hast chosen this House, that thy Name might be called vpon therein, and that it shulde be an house of prayer, and petition for thy people, Be aduenged of this man and his hoste, and let them be slaine by the sword: remember their blasphemies, & suffice them not to continue. When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem, he pitched his tent at Beth-horon, & there an hoste met him out of Syria. And Iudas pitched in Adasa with thre thousand me where Iudas prayed, saying, O Lord, because the messengers of King Sēnacherib blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forth, and slewe an hundreth, foure score, and fise thousand of them. So destroye thou this hoste before vs to day, that all other may knowe that he hath spoke wickedly against thy Sanctuarie, & punish him according to his malice. So the armies ioyned together in bartel, the thirtenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited, and he him self was first slaine in the bartel. Now when his armie sawe that Nicanor was slaine, they cast away their weapons and fled. But they pursued after the a dayes iourney from Adasa vnto Gaserā, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them. So they came forth of all the townes of Iudea rounde about, and rushed vpon them, and threwe them from one to another, so that they all fel by the sword, & there was not one of them lefte. Then they toke the spoyles, and the pray and smote of Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he helde vp so proudly, and broght it with them, and hanged them vp afore Ierusalem. So the people reioyced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladnes. And they ordeined, to kepe yereley that day on the thirtenth day of the moneth Adar. Thus the land of Iuda was in rest a litle while.

Iudas, considering the power and policie of the Romans, maketh peace with them. 22 The conditions of mutual friendship sent to the Romans.

3 And what they had done in the countrey of Spaine: how that they had wonne there the mines of siluer and golde,

4 And that by their counsel, and gentle behauiour they were rulers in euerie place, though the place was farre from them, and that they had discomfited, and giuen great overthrowes to y<sup>e</sup> Kings that came against them, from the vitermost parte of y<sup>e</sup> earth, and that others gaue them tribute euerie yere,

Or, Clifme.

5 How they had also discomfited by battel Philippe and Perles Kings of the Macedonias, and others, that rose against the, and how they ouercame them,

6 And how great Antiochus King of Asia that came against the in battel, hauing an hundred and twentie elephants, with horsemen, & charretts, and a verie great armie, was discomfited by them,

7 And how they toke him aliue, and ordeined him, with suche as shulde reigne after him, to paye a great tribute, & to giue hostages, and a separate porcion,

9 Againe when it was tolde them that the Grecians were comming to destroye them,

10 They sent against the a capitaine, which gaue them battel, & slewe manie of the, & toke manie prisoners with their wiues, and children, and spoyled them, and conquered their land, and destroyed their strongholdes, and subdued them to be their bondmen, vnto this day:

11 Moreouer, how they destroyed, & brought into subiection other kingdomes & yles, whosoever had withstand them:

12 But that thei kept amitie with their owne friends, and those that stayed vpon them: finally, that conquered kingdomes, bothe farre and nere, in so muche that whosoever heard of their renoume, was afrayed of them.

13 For whome they wolde helpe to their kingdomes, those reigned, and whome they wolde, they put downe: thus were they in moste high autoritie,

14 Yet for all this that none of them wore a crowne, nether was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby,

15 But that thei had ordeined them selues a counsel, wherein thre hundredth and twentie men consulted dailey, and prouided for the commune affaires, to gouerne them wel,

16 And that they committed their gouernment to one man euerie yere, who did rule ouer all their countrey, to whome euerie man was obedient: and there was nether harred nor enuie among them.

17 ¶ Then Iudas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Iohny, the sonne of Accus, and Isafon, the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome to make friendship, & mutual fellowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they sawe that the kingdome of the Grecians wolde kepe Israel in bondage)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a verie great iourney, and came into the Senat where they spake and said,

20 Iudas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Iewes hathe sent vs vnto you, to make a bonde of friendship, and peace with you, and ye to register vs as your partakers and friends.

21 And the matter pleased them.

22 And this is the copie of the epistle that they wrote in tables of brasse and sent to Ierusalem, that they might haue by them a memorial of the peace, and mutual fellowship.

23 Good successe be to the Romaines, and to the people of the Iewes, by sea, and by land for euer, and the sworde, and enemie be from them.

24 If there come first anie warre vpon the Romaines, or anie of their friends throughout all their dominion,

26 Also they shal giue nothing to the that come to fight for the, nor serue them with wheat nor weapons, nor money, nor shippes as it pleaseth the Romaines, but they shal kepe their couenantes without taking anie thing of them.

27 Likewise also if warre come first against the nation of the Iewes, the Romains shal helpe them with a good wil, according as the time shalbe appointed them.

28 Nether shal wheat be giuen vnto them, that take their parte, nor weapons, nor money, nor shippes, as it pleaseth y<sup>e</sup> Romains, who wil kepe these couenants without deceite.

29 According to these articles y<sup>e</sup> Romains made the bonde with the people of the Iewes.

30 If after these pointes the one partie, or the other wil adde or diminish, they may do it, at their pleasures, & whosoever they shal adde, or take away, shal be ratified.

31 And as touching the euil that Demetrius hathe done vnto the Iewes, we haue written vnto him, saying, Wherefore layest thou thine heauie yoke vpon our friends, and confederates the Iewes?

After the death of Nicanor Demetrius sendeth his army against Iudas. 18 Iudas is slaine. 31 Ionathan is put in the stead of his brother. 47 The battell between Ionathan and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is slain with the palfie, and dyeth. 68 He cometh vpon Ionathan by the counsell of certeine wicked perſones, and is overcome. 70 The truce of Ionathan with Bacchides.

IN the meane ſeaſon when Demetrius had heard how Nicanor, and his hoſte had giuen the battell, he ſent Bacchides, and Alcimus againe into Iudea, and his chief ſtrength with them.

So they went forth by the way that is toward Gaſgala; and pitched their tentes before Melathoth which is in Arbelis, and wanne it and ſlew muche people.

And in the firſt moneth of the hundreth, ſiftie and two yere, they layed their ſiege againſt Ieruſalem.

But they raiſed their campe, and came to Betea, with twentie thouſand ſore men & two thouſand horſemen.

Now Iudas had pitched his tent at Eleaſa, & thre thouſand choſen men with him.

And when they ſawe, that the multitude of the armie was great, they were ſore afraid, and manie conueied them ſelues out of the hoſte, ſo that there abode no mo of them, but eight hundreth men.

When Iudas ſawe that his hoſte failed him, and that he muſt nedes fight, he was ſore troubled in minde that he had no time to gather them together; and was diſcouraged.

Neuertheleſs, he ſaid vnto them that remained, Let vs riſe, and go vp againſt our enemies, if peradventure we may be able to fight with them.

But they wolde haue ſtaied him, ſaying, We are not able: but let vs rather ſaue our liues: turne backe now, ſeing our brethren are departed: for ſhal we fight againſt the, that are ſo fewe?

Then Iudas ſaid, God forbid, that we ſhulde do this thing, to fle from them: if our time be come, let vs dye manfully for our brethren, and let vs not ſtaine our honour.

Then the hoſte remoued out of the tentes, and ſtoode againſt them, who had deuidd their horſemen into two troupes, and they that threwe with ſlings, and the archers marched in the forewarde, and they that fought in the forewarde, were all valiant men.

And Bacchides was in the right wing. So the armie drewe nere on bothe ſides, & blew the trumpets.

They of Iudas ſide blew the trumpets alſo, & the earth ſhoke at the noyce of the armes, and the battell continued from morning to night.

14 And when Iudas ſawe that Bacchides and the ſtrength of his armie was on the right ſide, he toke with him all the hardie men,

15 And brake the right wing, and followed vpon them vnto mount Azotus.

16 Now when they which were of the left wing, ſawe that the right wing was diſcomfited, they followed Iudas behinde, and the that were with him hard at the heles.

17 Then was there a fore battell: for many were ſlaine of bothe the parties.

18 Iudas alſo him ſelf was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 So Ionathan and Simon toke Iudas their brother, and buried him in his fathers ſepulchre in the citie of Modin.

20 And all the Iſraelites wept for him, and mourned greatly for him, and lamèted many daies, ſaying,

21 How is the valiant man fallen which deliuered Iſrael!

22 Concerning the other things of Iudas, bothe the battells and the valiant actes that he did, & of his worthines, they are not written: for they were very many.

23 ¶ Now after the death of Iudas, wicked Ieſeph Antiochus came vp in all the coaſtes of Iſrael, & there aroſe all ſuche as gaue them ſelues to iniquitie.

24 In thoſe daies was there a very great famine in the land, and all the country gaue ouer them ſelues with them.

25 And Bacchides did chuſe wicked men, and made them lords in the land.

26 Theſe fought out, and made ſearche for Iudas friends, and broght them vnto Bacchides, which aduèged him ſelf vpon the, and mocked them.

27 And there came ſo great trouble in Iſrael, as was not ſince the time that no Prophet was ſene among them.

28 Then came all Iudas friends together, & ſaid vnto Ionathan,

29 Seing thy brother Iudas is dead, & there is none like him to go forth againſt our enemies, euen againſt Bacchides, and againſt the of our nation that are enemies vnto vs,

30 Therefore, this day we chuſe thee that thou maiſt be our prince and captaine in his place to order our battell.

31 So Ionathan toke the gouernance vpon him at the ſame time, and ruled in ſtead of his brother Iudas.

32 But when Bacchides knewe it, he fought for to ſlay him.

33 Then Ionathan and Simon his brother, perceiuing that, fled into the wildernes of Thecua with all their companie, and pitched their tentes by the water poole of Aſphar.

- 34 Which when Bacchides vnderstode, he came ouer Iorden with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.
- 35 (Now had Ionathan sent his brother Iohn, a captaine of the people, to pray his friends the Nabathites, that they wolde kepe their baggage which was muche.
- 36 But the children of Ambri came out of Medaba, & toke Iohn; and all that he had, & when they had taken it, went their way.
- 37 After this came worde vnto Ionathan, and to Simon his brother, that the children of Ambri made a great marriage, & brought the bride from Medaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan.
- 38 Therefore they remembered Iohn their brother, and went vp, and hid them selues vnder the couert of the mountaine.
- 39 So they lift vp their eyes, and looked, and beholde, there was a great noyce, & muche preparation: then the bridegrome came forth, and his friends and his brethren met them with tymbrels, and instruments of musike, and manie weapons.
- 40 Then Ionathans men that lay in ambusher, rose vp against the, & slewe manie of them, and the remnant fled into the mountaines, so that they toke all their spoiles.
- 41 Thus the marriage was turned to mourning, and the noyce of their melodie into lamentacion.
- 42 And so when they had aduenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Iorden.
- 43 When Bacchides heard this, he came vnto the border of Iorden with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)
- 44 Then Ionathan said vnto his companie, Let vs rise now, & fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as in time past.
- 45 Beholde, yf battel is before vs, and behinde vs, and the water of Iorden on this side and that side, and the marise, and forest, so yf there is no place for vs to turne aside.
- 46 Wherefore crye now vnto heauen, that ye may be deliuered from the power of your enemies: so they ioyned battel.
- 47 Then Ionathan stretched out his hand, to smite Bacchides: but he turned aside fro him and reculed.
- 48 Then Ionathan, and they that were with him, leapt into Iorden, and swimmied over vnto the further bake: but the other wolde not passe through Iorden after them.
- 49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.
- 50 Then he turned againe to Ierusalem, & buylt vp the strong cities in Iuda, as the castel of Iericho, and Emmaus, and Bethoron, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, Pharithoni, & Tephro, with high walles, with gates, and with barres,
- 51 And set garisons in the, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel.
- 52 He fortified also the citie Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castel, & set a garison in them with prouision of vitayles.
- 53 He toke a so the chiefest mens sonnes in the countrey for hostages, and put them in the castel at Ierusalem to be kept.
- 54 Afterwarde in the hundreth, fiftie and thre yere, in the seconde month, Alcimus commanded, that the walles of the inner court of the Sactuarie shulde be destroyed, and he pulled downe the monumentes of the Prophetes, and began to destroy them.
- 55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindered, & his mouth was stopped: for he was smitten with a palfie, & colden no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.
- 56 Thus dyed Alcimus with great torment at the same time.
- 57 And when Bacchides sawe, that Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to the King, & so the land of Iuda was in rest two yeres.
- 58 Then all the vngodlie men helde a counsell, saying, Beholde, Ionathan and his companie dwell at ease, & without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, and he wil take them all in one night.
- 59 So they went and consulted with him.
- 60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters priuely to his adherentes, which were in Iudea, to take Ionathan and those that were with him: but they coulde not, for their counsell was knowne vnto them.
- 61 And they toke fiftie men of the countrey, which were the chief workers of this wickednes, and slewe them.
- 62 Then Ionathan and Simon with their companie departed vnto Beth-basin which is in the wilderness, and repaired the decay thereof, and made it strong.
- 63 When Bacchides knewe this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent worde to them that were of Iudea.
- 64 Then came he & laid siege to Beth-basin, and fought against it a long season, and made instruments of warre.
- 65 But Ionathan had left his brother Simo in the citie, & went forth into the countrey, and came with a certeine number,
- 66 And slewe Odomeras and his brethren, and the children of Phasiron in their tentes: so he began to slaye, and increased in power.
- 67 Simon also and his companie went out of the citie, and burnt vp the instruments of warre.
- 68 And fought against Bacchides, and discomfited him, and vexed him sore, so that his counsell and iorney was in vaine.

Alexander.

In the hundredth and thre score yere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Epiphanes, and toke Ptolemas, and they received him, and there he reigned.

Now when Demetrius the King heard it,
he gathered an exceeding great hostie, and
went forth against him to fight.

Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Ionathā,
with louing wordes, as though he wolde pre-ferre him.

For he said, We wil first make peace with him, before he ioine with Alexander against vs.

Els he wil remember all the euil that we
haue done against him, & against his brethren and his nacion.

And so he gaue Ionathan leaue to gather
an hostie, and to prepare weapons, and to be confederate with him, and commanded the hostages that were in the castell, to be deliuered vnto him.

Then came Ionathan to Ierusalem, and red the letters in the audience of all the people, & of them that were in the castell.

Therefore they were sore afraied, because they heard that the King had giue him
licence to gather an armie.

So they that were of the castell, deliuered
the hostages vnto Ionathan, who restored
them to their parents.

Ionathan also dwelt at Ierusalem, & began to buyld, and repaire the citie.

And he commanded the workemen to buyld the walles, & the mount Sion roun-de about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: &
so they did.

Then the strangers that were in the ca-
stels which Bacchides had made, fled,
so that euerie man left his place, & went
into his owne countrey.

Onely at Beth-sura remained certeine
which had forsaken the Law and the com-
mandements: for it was their refuge.

Now when King Alexander had heard of the promises that Demetrius had made
vnto Ionathan: and when it was tolde
him of the battels and noble actes, which he and his brethren had done, and of the paines that they had indured,

He said, Might we finde suche a mā: now therefore we wil make him our friend and confederate.

Vpon this he wrote a letter, and sent it
vnto him, with these wordes, saying,

KING ALEXANDER to his brother Ionathan sendeth salutation.

We haue heard of thee, that thou art a very valiant man, and worthie to be our
friend.

Wherefore this day we ordeine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nacion, and to be called the Kings friend: and he sent him a purple robe, and a crowne of golde, that thou maist consider what is for our profite, and kepe friendship towar-
de vs.

So in the seuenth moneth of the hundredth and thre score yere, vpon the feast daye of the tabernacles, Ionathan put on the holie garment, & gathered an hostie, & prepared
many weapons.

Which when Demetrius heard, he was
marueilous sory, and said,

What haue we done, that Alexander ha-
the preuented vs in getting the friendship
of the Iewes for his strength?

Yet wil I write and exhorte them, and promes them dignities and rewardes, that they may helpe me.

Whereupon he wrote vnto them these
wordes, KING DEMETRIUS
vnto the nations of the Iewes sendeth
greeting.

We haue heard that ye haue kept your couenant towarde vs, and continued in our friendship, and haue not ioined with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

Now therefore remaine still, and kepe fi-

you for the good thinges that ye haue done
for vs,

And wil release you of many charges, &
giue you rewardes.

And now I discharge for your sake all

35 So that in them no man shal haue power to do any thing, or to vex any of them in any maner of cause.

36 Also thirtie thousand of the Iewes shalbe writen vp in the Kings hofte, and haue their wages paid them as apperteineth to all them that are of the Kings armie: and of the shalbe ordeined certeine to kepe y Kings strong holdes.

38 And the thre gouuernements that are added vnto Iudea from the countrey of Samaria, shalbe ioyned vnto Iudea, and they shalbe as vnder one, and obey none other power, but the hie Priest.

39 And I giue Ptolemais & the borders thereof vnto the Sanctuarie at Ierusalem, for the necessarie expeses of the holie things.

40 Moreover, I wil giue euerie yere fiftene thousand sicles of siluer of the Kings reuenues out of the places apperteining vnto me.

41 And all the ouerplus which they haue not paid for the things due, as they did in the former yeres, from hence forth they shal giue it towarde the workes of the Temple.

42 And besides this, the fve thousand sicles of siluer which they received yerely of the accounte appointed for the interteinemet of the Sanctuarie, these yeres passed, euen these things shalbe released because they apperteine to the Priests that minister.

43 Item, whosoever they be that flee vnto the Temple at Ierusalem, or within the liberties thereof, and are indetted to y King for any maner of thing, they shalbe pardoned; and all that they haue in my realme.

44 For the buylding also and repairing of the workes of the Sanctuarie, expeses shalbe giuen of the Kings reuenues.

45 And for the making of the wallles of Ierusalem, and fortifying it rounde about that the holdes in Iudea may be buylt vp, shal also the costes be giuen out of the Kings reuenues.

46 ¶ But when Ionathan & the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credit vnto the, nether receiued them: for thei remembered the great wickednes that he had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.

47 Wherefore they agreed vnto Alexander: for he was the fust that had irritated of true peace with them, and so were confederat with him alway.

48 Then gathered King Alexander a great hofte, & camped ouer against Demetrius.

49 So the two Kings ioyned batrel, but Demetrius hofte fled, and Alexander pursued him, and preuailed against them.

50 So that sore batrel continued til the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day.

51 ¶ Then Alexander sent ambassadours <sup>Josephus</sup> vnto Ptolemeus the King of Egypt with these wordes, saying,

52 For so muche as I am come againe to my realme; and am set in the throne of my fathers, and haue gotten the dominion, and haue destroyed Demetrius, and enioye my countrey,

53 Seing that I haue euen giuen him the batel, and he and his armie is discomitted by me, & I sit in the throne of his kingdome,

54 Let vs now make friendship together, and giue me now thy daughter to wife: so shal I be thy sonne in law, and giue thee rewardes, and vnto her things according to thy dignitie.

55 Then Ptolemeus the King gaue answer, saying, Happie be the day, wherein thou art come againe vnto the lande of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdome.

56 Now therefore wil I fulfil thy writing: but mete me at Ptolemais that we may se one another, and that I may make thee my sonne in law, according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolemeus wet out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, & came vnto Ptolemais in the hundred threscore & two yeres.

58 Where King Alexander met him, and he gaue vnto him his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemais with great glorie, as the maner of Kings is.

59 ¶ Then wrote King Alexander vnto Ionathan, that he shulde come and mete him.

- 16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemeus was exalted.
- 17 And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, & sent it vnto Ptolemeus.
- 18 But the third day after, King Ptolemeus dyed: and thei that were in the holdes, were slayne one of another.
- 19 And Demetrius reigned in the hundredth, thre score and seuenth yere.
- 20 ¶ At the same time gathered Ionathan them that were in Iudea, to laye siege vnto the castle, which was at Ierusalem, and they made manie instruments of warre against it.
- 21 Then went there certeine vngodlie persones (which hated their owne people) vnto King Demetrius, and tolde him that Ionathan besieged the castle.
- 22 So when he heard it, he was angrie, and immediatly came vnto Ptolemais, & wrote vnto Ionathan, that he shulde laye no more siege vnto it, but that he shulde meete him and speake with him at Ptolemais in all haste.
- 23 Neuertheles when Ionathan heard this, he commanded to besiege it: he chose also certeine of the Elders of Israel, and the Priests, and put him self in danger.
- 24 And toke with him siluer and golde, and apparell, and diuerse presents, and went to Ptolemais vnto the King, and founde fauour in his sight.
- 25 And though certeine vngodlie men of his owne nacion had made complaines vpon him,
- 26 Yet the King intreated him as his predecessors had done, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends,
- 27 And confirmed him in the hie priesthood with all the honorable things, that he had afore, & made him his chief friend.
- 28 Ionathan also desired the King, that he wolde make Iudea free with the thre gouernemets, & the countrey of Samaria, & Ionathan promised him thre hundred talents.
- 29 Whereunto the King consented, & gaue Ionathan writing of the same, conteyning these wordes,
- 30 KING DEMETRIUS vnto his brother Ionathan, and to the nacion of the Iewes sendeth greeting.
- 31 We send you here a copie of the letter, which we did write vnto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye shulde se it.
- 32 King Demetrius vnto Lasthenes his father sendeth greeting.
- 33 For the faithfulness that our friends the nacion of the Iewes kepe vnto vs, and for their good wil towards vs we are determined to do them good.
- 34 Wherefore we asigne to the coasts of Iudea with the thre gouernemets Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathe (which are added vnto Iudea from the countrey of Samaria) and all that apperteineth to all them that sacrifice in Ierusalem: bothe concerning the paiments which the King toke yere aforetime, bothe for the fruits of the earth, & for the fruits of the trees.
- 35 As for the other things apperteining vnto vs of the tenths & tributes, which were due vnto vs, and the customes of sale, & crowne taxes, which were payed vnto vs, we discharge the of all fro hence forth.
- 36 And nothing hereof shalbe reuoked fro this time forth and for euer.
- 37 Therefore se that ye make a copie of these things, and deliuer it vnto Ionathan, that it may be set vp vpon the holy mount in an open place.

After

After this when Demetrius the King
sawe that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, he sent away all his hoste, euerie man to his owne
place, except certeine bandes of strangers,
whome he broght from the yles of the sea
then: wherefore all his fathers hoste hated
him.

Now was there one Tryphon, that had bene of Alexanders parte afore, which whē
he sawe that all his hoste murmured against Demetrius, he went to Simalcue the Arabian, that broght vp Antiochus the sonne
of Alexander,

And layd fore vpon him, to deliuer him
this yong Antiochus, that he might reigne in his fathers stead: he tolde him also what great euil Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre hated him, and he remained there a long season.

Also Ionathan sent vnto King Demetrius to driue them out which were in the castell at Ierusalem, and those that were in the fortresses: for they fought against Israel.

So Demetrius sent vnto Ionathā, saying,
I will not onely do these things for thee & thy nation, but if opportunitie serue, I will honour thee and thy nation.

Now therefore thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wilt send me mē to helpe me:
for all mine armie is gone from me.

So Ionathā sent him thre thousand strōg
men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto
the King: wherefore the King was verie
glad at their comming.

But they that were of the citie, euen an hundreth, and twentie thousand men, gathered them together in the middes of the citie, & wolde haue slaine the King.

But the King fled into the palace, & the citizens kept the stretes of the citie, and beganne to fight.

Then the King called to the Iewes for helpe, which came to him altogether, and
went abroad through the citie,

And slewe the same day an hūdreth thousand, and set fyre vpon the citie, and toke
many spoiles in that day, & deliuered the King.

So when the citizens sawe that the Iewes
had gotten the vpper hand of the citie, and that they them selues were disappointed
of their purpose, they made their supplication vnto the King, saying,

Grant vs peace, and let the Iewes cease
from vexing vs and the citie.

So they cast away their weapons; & made peace, and the Iewes were greatly honored before the King, and before all that were in his realme, and they came againe to Ierusalem with great pray.

Then King Demetrius sate in the throne of his kingdome, and had peace in his

land.

Neuertheles he dissembled in all that e-uer he spake, and withdrew him self from Ionathan; nether did he rewarde him according to the benefites which he had done for him, but troubled him verie sore.

After this returned Tryphon with the yong childe Antiochus, which reigned, &
was crowned.

Then there gathered vnto him all the mē
of warre, whome Demetrius had scatered;
and they fought against him, who fled and
turned his backe.

So Tryphon toke the "beastes, and wam" Antiochia.

And yong Antiochus wrote vnto Iona-
than, saying, I appoint thee to be the chief Priest, and make thee ruler over the foure
gouernements, that thou maist be a friend of the Kings.

Vpon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue him leaue to drin-
ke in golde, and to wear purple, & to haue a colar of golde.

He made his brother Simon also captaine frō the coastes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypt.

Then Ionathan went forth and passed through the cities beyonde the flood, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vn-
to him for to helpe him: so he came vnto Ascalon, & they of the citie receiued him honorably.

And from thence went he vnto Gaza:
but they of Gaza shut him out: wherefore he laid siege vnto it, and burned the suburbs thereof with fyre, and spoiled
them.

Then they of Gaza made supplication
vnto Ionathan, and he made peace with them, and toke of the sonnes of the chief
men for hostages, and sent them to Ierusalem, and went through the countrey vnto Damascus.

And when Ionathan heard that Demetrius priees were come into Cades, which is in Galile, with a great hoste, purposing
to driue him out of the countrey,

He came against them, & left Simon his brother in the countrey.

And Simon besieged Beth-sura, and fought against it a long season, and shut
it vp.

So they desired to haue peace with him,
which he granted them, and afterwarde
put them out from thence, and toke the ci-
tie, and set a garison in it.

Then Ionathan with his hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.

And beholde the hostes of the "strangers"

bushments for him in the mountaines.

69 So that when they came against them, the ambushments rose out of their places and skirmished.

70 So that all that were of Ionathans side, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the sonne of "Abshalomus, and Iudas the sonne of Calphi the captaines of the holte.

71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth vpon his head, and prayed,

72 And turned againe to them to fight, and put them to flight, so that they fled away.

73 Now when his owne men that were fled, sawe this, they turned againe vnto him, & helped him to followe after all vnto their tentes at Cades, and there they camped.

74 So there were slaine of the strangers the same day about thre thousand men, & Ionathan turned againe to Ierusalem.

1 Jonathan now seing that the time was mete for him, chose certaine men, and sent them vnto Rome, to establish and renew the friendship with them.

2 He sent letters also vnto the Spartians and to other places, for the same purpose.

3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, and said, Ionathan the hie Priest and the pacion of the Iewes sent vs vnto you, for to renewe friendship with you, and the bonde of loue, as in times past.

4 So the Romaines gaue them fre passports, that men shulde lead them home into the land of Iuda peaceably.

5 ¶ AND THIS is the copie of the letters that Ionathan wrote vnto the Spartians,

Joseph. Anti. 13. chap. 10. 107. 108.

7 Heretofore were letters sent vnto Onias the hie Priest, from Arius, which then reigned among you, that ye wolde be our brethren, as the copie here vnder written specifieth.

8 And Onias intreated the ambassadour honorably, and receiued the letters: wherein there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and friendship.

9 But as for vs, we nede no suche writings: for we haue the holy bokes in our hands for comfort.

10 Neuertheles we thoght it good to send vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhode and friendship, lest we shulde be strange vnto you: for it is long since the time that ye sent vnto vs.

11 Wherefore we remember you at all seasons continually, and in the feastes and other daies appointed when we offre sacrifices and prayers, as it is mete and conuenient to thinke vpon our brethren.

12 And we reioyce at your prosperous estate.

13 And thogh we haue bene enuironed with great troubles & warres, so that the Kings rounde about vs haue fought against vs,

14 Yet wolde we not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other of our cōfederates & friends in these warres.

15 For we haue had helpe from heauen, that hath foccoured vs, and we are deliuered from our enemies, and our enemies are subdued.

16 Yet haue we chosen Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iafon, and sent them vnto the Romaines, for to renewe the former friendship with them, and league.

17 We commanded them also to go vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters, concerning the renewing of our brotherhode.

18 And now ye shal do vs a pleasure to giue vs an answer of these things.

19 ¶ And this was the copie of the letters, which Arius the King of Sparta sent vnto Onias.

20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Onias the hie Priest sendeth greting.

21 It is founde in writing, that the Spartians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generacion of Abraham.

22 And now for somuche as this is cometo our knowledge, ye shal do wel, to write vnto vs of your prosperitie.

23 As for vs, we haue written vnto you, that your cattel and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue we commanded to be shewed vnto you.

24 ¶ Now when Ionathan heard, that Demetrius princes were cometo fight agaiñt him, with a greater hoste then afore,

25 He went from Ierusalem, and met them in the land of Hamath: for he gaue the not space to come into his owne countrey.

26 And he sent spies vnto their tentes, which came againe, and tolde him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night.

27 Wherefore, whē the sunne was gone downe, Ionathan commanded his men to watche, and to be in armes ready to fight all the night, & sent watchmen rounde about the hoste.

28 But when the aduerfaries heard that Ionathan was ready with his men to the battel, they feared, and trembled in their hearts,

hearts, and kindled fyre, and fled away.

29 Neuertheles Ionathan knewe it not til the morning the fyres burning.

30 Then Ionathan followe he colde not ouertake, he gone ouer the flood.

31 So Ionathā turned to where they were called Zabedei, and roke their spoile.

32 He proceded further to Damascus, and went into his countrey.

33 But Simon his brother came to Ascalon and departed vnto Ioppe.

34 For he heard that they holde to them that tok wherefore he set a garde.

Then Jonathan followed vpon them, but he colde not ouertake them: for they were

So Ionathā turned to the Arabiās, which were called Zabedei, and slewe them, and toke their spoile.

He proceded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went through all the country.

But Simon his brother went forthe, and came to Ascalon and to the next holdes,
departing vnto Ioppe, and wanne it.

For he heard that they wolde deliuer the
holdes to them that toke Demetrius parte;
wherefore he set a garison there to kepe it.

After this came Ionathan home, and called the Elders of the people together,
and deuised with them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Iudea,

And to make the walles of Ierusalem
hier, and to make a great mount betwixt
the castel and the citie, for to separate it from the citie, that it might be alone, and that men shulde nether bye, nor sel in it.

So they came together to buyld vp the citie: for parte of the wall vpon the broke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Caphenatha.

Simon also set vp Adida in Sephela, &
made it strong with gates and barres.

In the meane time Tryphon purposed
to reigne in Asia, and to be crowned when he had slaine the King Antiochus.

But he was afraied that Ionathan wol-
de not suffer him, but fight against him:
wherefore he went about to take Ionathan,
and to kil him: so he departed, and came vnto Bethsan.

Then went Ionathā forthe against him
to the battel with fortie thousand chosen
men, and came vnto Bethsan.

But when Tryphon sawe that Ionathan came with so great an hoste, he durst not lay hand vpon him,

But receiued him honorably, and commended him vnto all his friends, and ga-
ue him rewardes, and comāded his men
of warre to be as obedient vnto him as to himself,

And said vnto Ionathan, Why hast
thou caused this people to take suche
travail, seeing there is no warre betwene vs?

Therefore send them now home againe,
and chuse certeine men to wait vpon thee,
and come thou with me to Ptolemais: for I wil giue it thee, with the other strong hol-
des, and the other garisons, and all them

that haue the charge of the cōmune affaires: so wil I returne, & departe: for this is the cause of my comming.

Jonathan beleued him, & did as he said,
and sent away his hoste, which went into
the land of Iuda,

And reteinēd but thre thousand with him, whereof he sent two thousand into Ga-lile, & one thousand went with him self.

Now assone as Ionathā entred into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and toke him, and slewe all them with the
sworde, that came in with him.

Then sent Tryphon an hoste of fotemen, & horsen into Galile, & into the great plaine, to destroye all Ionathās com-panie.

But when they knewe that Ionathā was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they encouraged one another, and came forthe against them readie to the battel.

But when thei which followed vpon the,
sawe that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.

By this meanes all they came into the land of Iuda peaceably, and bewailed Ionathan, and them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentacion.

For all the heathē that were round about
them, fought to destroye them.

For they said, Nowe haue they no cap-
taine, nor anie man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them, and roote out their memorie from amōg men.

Now when Simō heard that Tryphō gathered a great hoste to come into

And sawe that the people was in great trembling and feare, he came vp to Ierusa-

- 7 In hearing these wordes the hearts of the people were kindle d,
- 8 So that they cryed with a loude voyce, saying, Thou shalt be our capitaine in stead of Iudas and Ionathan thy brethren.
- 9 Fight thou our batels, and whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we wil do it.
- 10 ¶ So he gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finish the walles of Ierusalem, and fortified it rounde about.
- 11 Then sent he Ionathan the sonne of Abisalomus with a great hoste vnto Ioppe, which droue them out that were therein, & remained there him self.
- 12 Tryphon also remoued from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the lād of Iuda, & Ionathā was with him as prisoner.
- 13 And Simon pitched his tentes at Addis vpon the open plaine.
- 14 But when Tryphon knewe that Simon stode vp in stead of his brother Ionathan, & that he wolde fight against him, he sent messengers vnto him, saying,
- 15 Where as we haue kept Ionathā thy brother, it is for money that he is owing in the Kings account cōcerning the busines that he had in hand.
- 16 Wherefore send now an hundred talents of siluer, & his two sonnes for hostages, y when he is letten forth, he wil not turne from vs, and we wil send him againe.
- 17 Neuertheles Simō knewe that he dissembled in his wordes, yet commanded he the money and children to be deliuered vnto him, lest he shulde be in greater hatred of the people of Israel.
- 18 Who might haue said, Because he sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Ionathan dead.
- 19 So he sent the children and an hundred talents: but he dissembled, and wolde not let Ionathan go.
- 20 ¶ Afterwarde came Tryphon into the land to destroye it, & went rounde about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but wheresoeuer they went, thether went Simō and his hoste.
- 21 Now they that were in the castel, sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make haste to come by the wilderness, & to send them vitailles.
- 22 So Tryphon made readie all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snowe, so that he came not, because of the snowe: but he remoued and went into the countrey of Galaad.
- 23 And when he came nere to Bascama, he slewe Ionathan and he was buried there.
- 24 So Tryphon returned, & went into his owne land.
- 25 ¶ Then sent Simon to take the bones of Ionathan his brother, & they buried him in Modin his fathers cities.
- 26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamentacion, & mourned for him verie long.
- 27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father & his brethren, a buylding high to loke vnto, of hewen stone behinde and before,
- 28 And set vp seuen pillars vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren,
- 29 And set great pillars round about them, and set armes vpon the pillars for a perpetual memorie, and carued shippes beside the armes, that they might be sene of men sailing in the sea.
- 30 This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.
- 31 ¶ Now as Tryphon wēt forthe with the yong King Antiochus, he slewe him traitorously,
- 32 And reigned in his stead, and crowned him self King of Asia, and broght a great plague vpon the land.
- 33 Simon also buylte vp the castels of Iudea, and compassed them about with high towers, & great walles, euen with towers, and gates and barres, and laid vp vitailles in the strong holdes.
- 34 Moreover Simon chose certeine men and sent them to King Demetrius, that he wolde discharge the lād: for all Tryphons doings were robberies.
- 35 Whereupon Demetrius the King answered him, and wrote vnto him after this maner,
- 36 DEMETRIUS the King vnto Simon the high Priest, and the friend of Kings, and to the Elders and to the nation of the Iewes sendeth greting.
- 37 The golden crowne, and precious stone that ye sent vnto vs, haue we receiued, and are readie to make a stedfast peace with you, and to write vnto the officers, to release you of the things wherein we made you free.
- 38 So the things that we haue granted you, shalbe stable: the strong holdes which ye haue buylded, shalbe your owne.
- 39 Also we forgieue the ouersights, and fautes cōmitted vnto this day, and the crowntaxe that ye ought vs: and where as was anie other tribute in Ierusalem, it shalbe now no tribute.
- 40 And they that are mete among you to be written with our men, let them be writte vp, that there may be peace betwene vs.
- 41 Thus the yoke of the heathē was take fro Israel in the hundredth, & seuentie yere.
- 42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters, & publike instruments, IN THE FIRST yere of Simō, the high and chief Priest, gouernour, and prince of the Iewes.

In those dayes Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it round about, where he set vp an engine of warre, and ap-proched nere the citie, and bet a towre, and toke it.

So thei that were in the engine, leapt into the citie, and there was great trouble in
the citie,

In so muche that the people of the citie
rent their clothes, and climed vp vpon the walles with their wiues, and children, and cried with a loude voyce, beseeching Simon to grant them peace, saying,

Deale not with vs according to our wic-
kednes, but according to thy mercie.

Then Simon pitied them, and wolde
fight no more against them, but put them
out of the citie, and clesed the houses,
wherein the idoles were, and so entred the-
reunto with psalmes and thanksgiuing.

So when he had cast all the filthines out,
he set suche men in it as kept the Law, and fortified it, and buylded there a dwelling place for him self.

Now, when they in the castel at Ieru-
salem were kept, that they colde nor come forthe nor go into the countrey, nether bye
nor sel, they were very hungrie, and manie
of them were famished to death,

In so muche that they besought Simon to make peace with them: which he granted
them, and put them out from thence, and
clesed the castel from filthines.

And vpon the thre, and twentie day of the seconde moneth in the hūdreth, seuentie
and one yere, they entred into it with thanksgiuing, and branches of palme trees,
and with harpes, and with cymbales, and
with viols, and with psalmes, and songs,
because the great enemy of Israel was o-
uercome.

And he ordeined that the same day shul-

And he fortified the mount of the Tēple

Simon also seing that Iohn his sonne was

CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius is overcome of Arsaces. 11 Simon being captaine, there is great quietnes in Israel. 12 The couenant of friendship with the Romans, and with the people of Sparta is renewed.

In the hundreth, seuentie and two yere
I gath. red King Demetrius his hoste, & departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for
to fight against Tryphon.

But when Arsaces the King of Persia and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred
within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him alieue.

So he went, and ouercame the armie of

Demetrius, and toke him, and brought him
to Arsaces, which kept him in warde.

Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest,
so long as Simon liued: for he sought the welth of his nacion: therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to do him worship alway.

Simon also wanne the citie of Ioppe to his great honour to be an hauē towne,
and made it an entrance vnto the yles of
the sea.

He enlarged also the borders of his people, and conquered the countreis.

He gathered vp manie of their people
that were prisoners, and he had the dominion of Gazaris, and Beth-sura, and the castel, which he clesed from filthines, &
there was no man that resisted him,

So that euerie man tilled his ground in peace, and the land gaue her frutes, & the trees gaue their frute.

The Elders sate in the opē places, & consulted altogether for the commune welth,
and the yong mē were honorably clothed
and armed.

He prouided vitayles for the cities, and all kinde of munition, so that his glorious fame was renoumed vnto the end of the worlde.

He made peace thorow out the land, and
Israel had perfit mirth and ioye.

For euerie mā sate vnder his vine, & the
fig trees, & there was no man to fray them.

There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the Kings were o-
uercome.

He helped all those that were in aduersity among his people: he was diligent to se the Law kept, and he toke away the vn-
godlie, and wicked.

He beautified the Sāctuarie, and encrea-sed the vessels of the Temple.

Whē the Romans heard, and the Spar-tians had knowledge, that Ionathan was dead, they were very forie.

But whē they heard, that Simon his brother was made high Priest in his steade, &
how he had wonne the land againe, with
the cities in it,

They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse,
to renewe the friendship, and bonde of loue, which they had made with Iudas & Ionathan his brethren.

Which writings were red before the congregation at Ierusalem, and this is the copie of the letters that the Spartias sent,

THE SENATORS and citie of Sparta vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the Elders, and to the Priests, and to the residue of the people of the Iewes their brethren send greeting.

& honour, we were glad of their coming,
21 And haue registred their ambassage in y<sup>e</sup> publike recordes in this maner, Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason the Iewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renewe amitie with vs.

22 And it pleased the people, that the men shulde be honorably intreated, and that the copie of their ambassage shulde be registred in the publike recordes, that it might be for a memorial vnto the people of Sparta: and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chief Priest.

23 After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of golde of a thousand pounde weight, to confirme the friendship with them.

24 Which when the people vnderstode, they said, What thanks shal we recompense againe vnto Simon and his children?

25 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father haue stablished Israel, and overcome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it vpon pillers in mount Sion.

26 The copie of the writing is this, In the eight and twentie day of the moneth* Elul in the hundredth, seuentie and two yere, in the thirde yere of Simon the high Priest.

27 In Saramel in the great cōgregation of the Priests, and of the people, and of the gouernours of the nation, and of the Elders of the countrei, we wolde signifie vnto you, y<sup>e</sup> manie battels haue bene foughten in our countrey.

28 Wherein Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the children of Iareb) and his brethren put them selues in dāger, and resisted the enemies of their nation, and their Sanctuarie, and Law might be maintained, & did their nation great honour.

29 For Jonathan gathered his nation together, and became their high Priest, and is laid with his people.

30 After that wolde their enemies haue invaded their countrey, and destroyed their land, and lay their hands on their Sanctuarie.

31 Then Simō resisted them, & fought for his nation, and spent much of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gaue them wages.

32 He fortified also the cities of Iudea, and Beth-sura that lyeth vpon the borders of Iudea (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) and set there a garison of the Iewes.

33 And he fortified Ioppe, which lyeth vpon the sea, and Gazara that bordreth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he placed Iewes, and furnished them with thigs necessarie for the reparation thereof.

34 Now when the people sawe the faithfulness of Simon, and to what glorie he thought to bring his nation vnto, they made him their gouernour, and the chief Priest, because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnes, and fidelitie that he had kept to his nation, and that sought by all means to exalte his people.

35 For in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem, where they had made them a castel, out of the which they wēt, and defiled all things that were about the Sanctuarie, and did great hurt vnto religion.

36 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it, for the assurance of the land, and citie, and raised vp the walles of Ierusalem.

37 And King Demetrius confirmed him in his high priesthode for these causes,

38 And made him one of his friends, and gaue him great honour.

39 For it was reported that the Romans called the Iewes their friends, and confederates, & that they honorably receiued Simons ambassadours,

40 And that the Iewes, & Priests cōsented, that Simon shulde be their prince, & high Priest perpetually, til God raised vp the true Prophet,

41 And that he shulde be their capitaine, and haue the charge of the Sanctuarie, and so set men ouer the workes, and ouer the countrey, and ouer the weapons, and ouer the fortresses, and that shulde make prouision for the holie things,

42 And that he shulde be obeyed of every man, and that all the writings in the countrey shulde be made in his name, and that he shulde be clothed in purple, and weare golde,

43 And that it shulde not be lawfull for anie of the people or Priests to breake anie of these things, or to wight and his wordes, or to call anie cōgregation in the countrey without him, or be clothed in purple, or weare a colar of gold:

44 And if anie did contrarie to these things or brake anie of them, he shulde be punished.

45 So it pleased all the people to agre that it shulde be done to Simon according vnto these wordes.

46 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the high Priest, and the capitaine, & the prince of the Iewes, and of the Priests, and to be the chief of all.

47 And they commanded to set vp this writing in tables of brasse, and to fasten it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuarie in an open place.

*Antiochus maketh a covenant of friendship with Simon
11 Tryphon is pursued. 15 The Romans write letters
vnto Kings and nations on the defence of the Iewes.
17 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him,

Moreover King Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters from the yles of the sea vnto Simon the Priest, and prince of the Iewes, and to all the nation,

Cōteining these wordes, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, & to the nation of the Iewes sendeth gretting. For so muche as certaine pestilent men haue vsurped y<sup>e</sup> kingdome of our fathers, I am purposed to challenge the realme againe, and to restore it to the olde estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared shippes of warre,

That I may go thorowe the country, & be aduenged of them, which haue destroyed our country, and wasted manie cities in the realme.

Now therefore I do confirme vnto thee all the liberties, whereof all the Kings my progenitours haue discharged thee, and all the payments, whereof they haue released thee.

And I giue thee leaue to coyne money of thine owne stampe within thy country,

And that Ierusalem, and the Sanctuarie beside, and that all the weapons, that thou hast prepared, and the fortresses, which thou hast buylded, & kept in thine hāds, shalbe thine.

And all that is due vnto the King, and all that shalbe due vnto y<sup>e</sup> King, I forgiue it thee, from this time forth for evermore.

And when we haue obtained our kingdome, we wil giue thee, & thy nacion & the Temple great honour, so that your honor shalbe known thorowe out the worlde.

In the hūdreth, seuentie & foure yere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bandes came together vnto him, so that fewe were left with Tryphon.

So the King Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Dora, which lyeth by the sea side.

For he sawe that troubles were toward him, and that the armie had forsaken him.

Then camped Antiochus against Dora with an hundred and twentie thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.

So he compassed the citie about, and the shippes came by the sea. Thus they pressed the citie by land, & by sea, in so muche that thei suffered no man to go in nor out.

In the meane season came Numenius, and his companie from Rome, hauing letters written vnto the Kings and countreis, wherein were contained these wordes,

LVCIVS THE Consul of Rome vnto King Ptolemeus sendeth gretting.

The ambassadours of y<sup>e</sup> Iewes are come vnto vs as our friends and confederates from Simon the hie Priest, and from the people of the Iewes to renewe friendship, and the bonde of loue,

Who haue broght a shield of golde weighing a thousand pounde.

Wherefore we thought it good to write vnto the Kings and countreis, that they shulde not go about to hurt them, nor to fight against them, nor their cities, nor their countreie, neither to mainteine their enemies against them.

And we were content to receiue of them the shield.

If therefore there be anie pestilent felowes fled from their countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Simon the hie Priest, that he maye punish them according to their owne Law.

The same things were written to Demetrius the King, and to Attalus, and to Arrathes and to Arsaces,

And to all countreis, as Sampfames, and to them of Sparta, and to Delus, and to Mindus and to Sicion, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphylia, and to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodus, and to Phaelis, and to Cos, and to Siden, and to Cortyna, and to Gnidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.

And they sent a copie of them to Simon the hie Priest.

So Antiochus the King cāped against Dora the seconde time euer readie to take it, and made diuers engins of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he colde nether go in nor out.

The Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him with siluer & golde, and muche furniture.

Neuertheles, he wolde not receiue the, but brake all the covenant, which he had made with him afore, and withdrewe him self from him,

And sent vnto him Athenobius one of his friends to commune with him, saying, Ye withholde Ioppe, and Gazara with the castle that is at Ierusalem, the citie of my realme,

Whose borders ye haue destroyed and done great hurt in the land, and haue the gouernement of manie places of my kingdome.

Or els giue me for them fise hundred talents of siluer, and for the harme that ye haue done, and for the tributes of the places other fise hundred talents: if not, we wil come, and fight against you.

So Athenobius the Kings friend came to Ierusalem, & when he sawe the honour of Simon, and the cubbert of golde and siluer plate, and so great preparacion, he was astonished, and tolde him the Kings message.

Then answered Simon, and said vnto him, We haue nether taken other mens lads, nor witholden that which apperteineth to others: but our fathers heritage, which our enemies had vnrighteously in possession a certeine time.

But when we had occasion, we recouered the inheritance of our fathers.

Or, complaining concerning.

And whereas thou requirest Ioppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and through our countrey, yet wil we giue an hundred talents for them. But Athenobius answered him not one worde,

But turned againe angrie vnto the King, and tolde him all these wordes, and the dignitie of Simon, with all that he had sene: and the King was verie angrie.

In the meane time fled Tryphon by shippes vnto Orthosias.

Then the King made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him bades of fotemen and horsfemen,

And comanded him to remoue his hoste towarde Iudea, and to buylde vp Cedron, & to fortifie the gates, & to warre against the people: but the King pursued Tryphon.

So Cendebeus came vnto Iamnia, and began to vex the people, and to inuade Iudea, and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.

And he buylte vp Cedron, where he set horsfemen and garisons, that they might make outrodes by the waies of Iudea, as the King had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

Cendebeus the captaine of Antiochus hoste is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon. Ptolemus the sonne of Abubus killeth Simon and his two sonnes at a banquet. Iohn killeth them that lye in waite for his life.

Ioseph Antiq. 13. chap. 12.

Then came Iohn vp from Gazara, & tolde Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done.

So Simon called two of his eldest sonnes, Iudas and Iohn, and said vnto them, I, and my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth vnto this day fought against the enemies of Israel, & the matters haue had good successe vnder our hands, & we haue deliuered Israel often times.

But I am now olde, & ye by Gods mercie are of a sufficient age: be ye therefore in stead of me, & my brother, & go forth & fight for our nation, & the helpe of heauen be with you.

So he chose twentie thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horsfemen, which went forth against Cendebeus, & rested at Modin.

In the morning they arose, and went into the plaine field: & behold, a mightie great hoste came against them bothe of foremen, & horsmen: but there was a riuer betwixt them.

And Iohn ranged his armie ouer against him, and when he sawe that the people was afrayed to go ouer the riuer, he went ouer first him self, and the men seeing him, passed through after him.

Then he deuided his men, & set the horsfemen in the middes of the foremen.

For their enemies horsfemen were verie manie: but when they blew the trumpets, Cedebeus fled with his hoste, whereof manie were slayne, & the remnant gate them to the forteresse.

Then was Iudas Iohns brother wounded: but Iohn followed after them, til he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had buylt.

Also they fled vnto the towres, that were in the fields of Azotus, and those did Iohn burne with fyre: thus were there slaine two thousand me of them: so he returned peaceably into the land of Iuda.

Now in the field of Iericho was Ptolemus the sonne of Abubus made captaine, and he had abundance of siluer and golde. (For he had married the daughter of the hie Priest.)

Therefore he waxed proude in his minde, and thought to rule the land, & thought to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.

Now as Simon went about thorowe the cities of the countrey, & studied carefully for them, he came downe to Iericho with Mattathias, and Iudas his sonnes in the hundredth, seuentie & seuen yere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.

The sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a litle holde, called Dochus, which he had buylte, where he made them a great banquet, and had hid men there.

So when Simon and his sonnes had made good chere, Ptolemus stode vp with his men, and toke their weapons, and entered in to Simon in the banquet house, and slew him with his two sonnes, and certeine of his seruants.

Whereby he committed a great vilenie, and recompensed euil for good.

Then wrote Ptolemus these things and sent to the King, that he might send him an hoste to helpe him, & so wolde deliuer him the countrey with the cities.

CHAP. I.

An epistle of the Iewes that dwells at Ierusalem, sent vnto them that dwell in Egypt, wherein they exhorte them to giue thanks for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fyre that was hid in the pitte. 24 The prayer of Nemeias.

IN A brethren the Iewes, which be at Ierusalem, &
they y are in the countrey
of Iudea, vnto y brethren
the Iewes, that are thorowout Egypt, send salutation, and prosperitie.

- 1 God be gracious vnto you and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob his faithful seruants,
2 And giue you all an heart, to worship
him, and to do his wil with a whole heart
and with a willing minde,
3 And open your hearts in his Law, and
commandements, and send you peace,
4 And heare your prayers, and be reconciled with you, and neuer forsake you in time of trouble.
5 Thus now we praye here for you.
6 When Demetrius reigned, in the hundredth, thre score and nine yere, we Iewes
wrote vnto you in the trouble, and violence
that came vnto vs in those yeres, after that Iason, and his companie departed out of the holie land and kingdome,
7 And burnt the porche, and shed innocent blood. Then we praid vnto the Lord, and were heard: we offered sacrifices and fine floure, and lighted the lampes, and set for-
the the bread.
8 Now therefore kepe ye the dayes of the feast of the Tabernacles in the moneth Challeu.
9 In the hundredth, fourescore and eight yere, the people that was at Ierusalem, and in Iudea, and the counsell and Iudas, vn-
to Aristobulus King Ptolemeus master,
which is of the stocke of the annointed

Priests, & to the Iewes that are in Egypt,
sendeth greting and helth.

- 10 In so muche as God hath deliuered vs
from great perils, we thake him highly, as thogh we had overcome the King.
11 For he brought them into Persia by hea-
pes, that fought against the holie citie.
12 For albeit the captaine, and the armie,
that was with him, seemed inuincible, yet
they were slaine in the temple of Nanea,
by the disceit of Nanea Priests.
13 For Antiochus, as thogh he wolde dwell
with her, came thither, he, and his friends
with him, to receiue money vnder the title of a dowrie.
14 But when the Priests of Nanea had laid
it forth, and he was entred with a smale
companie within the Temple, they shut
the Temple, when Antiochus was come in.
15 And by opening a priuie dore of the
vaute, they cast stones, as it were thunder,
vpon the captaine & his, and hauing bruised them in pieces, they cut of their heads & threwe the to those that were without.
16 God be blessed in all things, which hath deliuered vp the wicked.
17 Whereas we are now purposed to kepe y purification of the Tēple vpon the fise &
twētie day of y moneth Challeu, we thoght
it necessarie to certifie you thereof, y ye also might kepe the feast of y Tabernacles, & of the fyre which was giuen vs when Nee-
mias offered sacrifice, after y he had buylt
the Temple, and the altar.
18 For whē as our fathers were led away vn-
to Persia, y Priests, which fought the honor of God, toke the fyre of the altar priuely, Leuit. 24. 17.
and hid it in an hollow pit, which was drie
in y bottom, & therein they kept it, so that the place was vnknown vnto euerie mā.
19 Now after manie yeres when it pleased God that Neemias shulde be sent from the King of Persia, he sent of y posteritie of those Priests, which had hid it to fetch the fyre, and as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre, but thicke water.

21 Then commanded he them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when the things appertaining to the sacrifices were broght, Neemias commanded the Priests to sprinkle the wood, and the things laid thereupon with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloude, there was a great fyre kindled, so that euerie man marueiled.

23 Now the Priests, and all prayed, while the sacrifice was consuming: Jonathan began, and the other answered thereunto.

24 And the prayer of Neemias was after this manner, O Lord, Lord God maker of all things, which art feareful, and strong, & righteous, and merciful, and the onelie and gracious King,

25 Onely liberal, onely iuste and almightie and euermlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers, and sanctified them,

26 Receiue the sacrifice for thy whole people of Israel, and preserue thine owne portion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scattered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: loke vpon them which are despised, and abhorred, that the heathen may knowe that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, and with pride do vs wrong.

Deut. 30.5.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holie place: as Moyses harhe spoken.

30 And the Priests sang psalmes thereunto.

31 Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commanded the great stones to be sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which when it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 So when this matter was knowne, it was tolde the King of Persia, that in the place where the Priests, which were led away, had hid fyre, there appeared water, where-with Neemias and his companie had purified the sacrifices.

34 The King tryed out the thing, and closed the place about, and made it holie.

35 And to them that the King fauoured, he gaue and bestowed manie giftes.

36 And Neemias called the same place Ephthar, which is to say, purification: but manie men call it Nephthar.

CHAP. II.

How Ieremie hid the tabernacle, the Arke, and the altar in the hill. 23 Of the fise booke of Iasmon contained in one.

IT is founde also in the writings of Ieremias the Prophet, that he commanded them, which were caried away, to take fyre, as was declared, & as the Prophet commanded that were led into captiuitie,

2 * Giuing them a Law that they shulde not forget the commandemets of y Lord, & that they shulde not erre in their mindes, when they sawe images of golde and siluer, with their ornaments.

3 These and suche other things commanded he them, and exhorted them that they shuld not let y Law go out of their hearts.

4 It is written also, how the Prophet, by an oracle that he had, charged them to take the tabernacle and the arke, and follow him: & when he came vp into y mountaine where Moyses went vp, & sawe the heritage of God,

5 Ieremias went forth, and founde an holowe caue, wherein he laid the Tabernacle, and the Arke, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the dore.

6 And there came certeine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they coulde not finde it.

7 Which when Ieremias perceiued, he reproued them, saying, As for that place, it shalbe vnknowne, vntil the time that God gather his people together againe, & that mercie be shewed.

8 The shal the Lord shewe the these things, and the maiestie of the Lord shal appeare and the cloude also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as when Salomō desired, that the place might be honorably sanctified.

9 For it is manifest that he, being a wise man, offered the sacrifice of dedication, and consecration of the Temple.

10 * And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fyre came downe from heauē, & consumed the sacrifice: so, when Salomon prayed, the fyre came downe fro heauen, and consumed the burnt offering.

11 And Moyses said, Because the sinoffring was not eaten, therefore is it consumed.

12 So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

13 These things also are declared in the writings, and registers of Neemias, and how he made a librarie, and how he gathered the actes of the Kings, & of the Prophets, and the actes of David, and the epistles of the Kings concerning the holie giftes.

14 Euen so Iudas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

 haue mercy vpō vs, & gather vs together
 from vnder the heauen into his holie pla-

 and hathe clenfed the place.
 19 As concerning Iudas Maccabeus, & his brethren, the purification of the great Tēple, and the dedicacion of the altar,
 20 And the warres against Antiochus Epi-phanes, and Eupator his sonne,
 21 And the manifest signes, that came frō
 heauen vnto those, which manfully stode
 for the Iewes religiō: (for though they were but fewe, yet they rāne through whole cōū-
 treis, and pursued the barbarous armies, 22 And repaired the Tēple that was renou-med thow out all the worlde, and deli-
 uered the citie, and established the Lawes,
 that were like to be abolished, because the Lord was merciful vnto the wall lenitie)
 23 We wil assay to abridge in one volume
 those things, that Iason the Cyrenean ha-
 the declared in fise booke.
 24 For considering the wonderful number,
 & the difficultie that thei haue that wolde
 be occupied in the rehearsal of stories, because of the diuersitie of the matters, 25 We haue indeuored, that they that wol-
 de read, might haue pleasure, and that thei
 which are studious, might easily kepe
 them in memorie, & that whosoever read
 them, might haue profite.
 26 Therefore to vs that haue taken in hand
 this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abridgement, but required bo-
 the sweat, and watching.
 27 Like as he that maketh a feast, & seketh
 other mens commoditie, hathe no smale labour: so we also, for manie mens sakes are verie wel content to vndertake this great labour.
 28 Leauing to the autor the exact diligence
 of euerie particular, we wil labour to go forwarde according to the prescript order of an abridgement.
 29 For as he that wil buylde a newe house,
 must provide for the whole buylding, but he that setteth out y<sup>e</sup> plat or goeth about to painte it, seketh but onely what is com-
 lie for the decking thereof:
 30 Euen so I thinke for vs, that it appertei-neth to the first writer of a storie to enter depely into it, and to make mencion of all things, and to be curious in euerie parte.
 31 But it is permitted to him that wil shorten it, to vse fewe wordes, and to auoyde
 those things that are curious therein.
 32 Here then wil we beginne the storie,
 adding thus muche to our former wordes,
 that it is but a foolish thing to abonde in wordes before the storie, and to be shorte in the storie.

Of the honour done vnto the Temple by the Kings of the Gentiles. 6 Simon vstereth what treasure is in the Temple. 7 Heliodorus is sente to take them away.
 26 He is striken of God and healed at the prayer of Onias.
 What time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the Lawes were very wel kept, because of the godlines of Onias the hie Priest, and hatred of wickednes,
 2 It came to passe that euen the Kings did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great giftes.
 3 In so muche that Seleuchus King of Asia
 of his owne rentes, bare all the costes belonging to the seruice of the sacrifices.
 4 But one Simon of the tribe of Benjamin being appointed ruler of the Temple, contended with the hie Priest concerning the iniquitie committed in the citie.
 5 And whē he colde not ouercome Onias,
 he gate him to Apollonius the sonne of Thraseas, which then was gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice,
 6 And tolde him that the treasure in Ierusalē was ful of innumerable money, which did not belong to the prouision of the sacrifices, and that it were possible that these things might come into y<sup>e</sup> Kings hands.
 7 Now whē Apollonius came to the King,
 and had shewed him of the money, as it was tolde him, the King chose out Heli-odorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandement, to bring him the foresaid
 money.
 8 Immediately Heliodorus toke his iourney
 as though he wolde visite the cities of Coelosyria & Phenice, but in effect to fulfil the Kings purpose.
 9 So when he came to Ierusalem, and was courteously receiued of the hie Priest into the citie, he declared what was determined concerning the money, & shewed the cause of his coming, and asked if these things were so in dede.
 10 Then the hie Priest tolde him that there were suche things laide vp by y<sup>e</sup> widdowes
 and fatherles,
 11 And that a certeine of it belonged vnto
 Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble mā,
 and not as that wicked Simon had reported, and that in all there were but foure
 hundred talents of siluer, and two hundredth of golde,
 12 And that it were altogether vnpossible
 to do this wrong to thm that had committed it of trust to the holines of the place and Temple, which is honored thorowe
 the whole worlde for holines & integritie.
 13 But Heliodorus because of the Kings cōmandemēt giuen him, said that in any wise
 it must be broght into y<sup>e</sup> Kings treasure.

II. Maccabees.

- 14 So he appointed a day, and went in to take order for these things: then there was no small grief thoroughout the whole citie.
- 15 For y<sup>e</sup> Priests fell downe before the altar in the Priests garments, and called vnto heauen vpon him which had made a Law concerning things giuen to be kept, that they shulde be safely preferred for suche as had committed them to be kept.
- 16 Then thei that looked the high Priest in the face, were wounded in their heart: for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the sorowe of his minde.
- 17 The man was so wrapped in feare & trembling of the bodie, that it was manifest to thei that looked vpon him, what sorowe he had in his heart.
- 18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comune prayer, because y<sup>e</sup> place was like to come vnto contempt.
- 19 And the women, girt with sackcloth vnder their breastes, filled the stretes, and the virgines that were kept in, ranne some to the gates and some to the walles, & others looked out of the windowes.
- 20 And all helde vp their hands toward heauen, and made prayer.
- 21 It was a lamentable thing to see the multitude that fell downe of all sortes, and the expectation of the high Priest being in such anguish.
- 22 Therefore thei called vpon the almighty Lord that he wolde kepe safe and sure the things, which were layed vp for those that had deliuered them.
- 23 Neuertheles, the thing y<sup>e</sup> Heliodorus was determined to do, that did he performe.
- 24 And as he & his souldiers were now there present by the treasure, he that is the Lord of the spirits, & of all power, shewed a great vision, so that all thei which presumed to come with him, were astonished at the power of God, and fell into feare, and trembling.
- 25 For there appeared vnto them an horse with a terrible mane sitting vpon him, most richely barbed, and he ranne fiercely, and smote at Heliodorus with his fore feet, & it semed that he that sat vpon the horse, had harness of golde.
- 26 Moreover, there appeared two yong men, notable in strength, excellent in beautie, and comelie in apparel, which stode by him on either side, and scourged him continually, and gaue him manie fore stripes.
- 27 And Heliodorus fel suddenly vnto the ground, and was couered with great darkenes: but they that were with him, toke him vp, and put him in a litter.
- 28 Thus he that came with so great copie, & manie souldiers into y<sup>e</sup> said treasure, was borne out: for he colde not helpe him self with his weapons.
- 29 So they did knowe the power of God manifestly, but he was donne by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and helth.
- 30 And they praised the Lord that had honored his owne place: for the Temple which a litle afore was full of feare and trouble, when the almighty Lord appeared, was filled with ioye and gladnes.
- 31 Then straight wayes certeine of Heliodorus friends prayed Onias, that he wolde call vpon the moste High to grant him his life, which lay readie to giue vpon the golfe.
- 32 So the high Priest, considering that the King might suspect that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euil, he offered a sacrifice for the helth of the man.
- 33 Now when the high Priest had made his prayer, the same yong men in the same clothing appeared, and stode beside Heliodorus, saying, Giue Onias y<sup>e</sup> high Priest great thanks: for his sake hath the Lord granted thee thy life.
- 34 And seeing that thou hast bene scourged fro heauen, declare vnto all me the mighty power of God: & when they had spoke these wordes, they appeared no more.
- 35 So Heliodorus offered vnto the Lord sacrifice, and made great vowes vnto him, which had granted him his life, and thanked Onias, & went againe with his hoste to the King.
- 36 Then testified he vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had sene with his eyes.
- 37 And when the King asked Heliodorus, who were mete to be sent yet once againe to Ierusalem, he said,
- 38 If thou hast anie enemy or traitor, send him thither, & thou shalt receive him wel scourged, if he escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is a special power of God.
- 39 For he that dwelleth in heauen, hath his eye on y<sup>e</sup> place, and defendeth it, & he beateh & destroyeth thei that come to hurt it.
- 40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasure.

Simon reporteth euil of Onias. 7 Iason obtaineth the office of the high Priest by corrupting the King, 27 And was by Menelaus defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slayne traitorously by Andronicus.

This Simon now, of whome we spake afore, being a bewraier of the money and of his owne natural cuntry, reported euil of Onias, as thogh he had moored Heliodorus vnto this, and had bene the inuenter of the euil.

2 Thus was he bolde to call him a traitour that was so beneficial to the citie, and a defender of his nacion, and so zealous of the Lawes.

But when his malice increaſed ſo farre,
that thorow one that belonged to Simon,
murders were committed,

Onias conſidering the danger of this con-

the gouernour of Coeſoſyria and Phenice,
did rage, and increaſed Simons malice,

He went to the King not as an accuſer of the citizens, but as one that intended the commune welth bothe priuatly and publicely.

For he ſawe it was not poſſible except the King toke order to quiet the matters, and that Simon wolde not leaue of his folie.

But after the death of Seleucus, when An-tiochus, called Epiphanes, toke the kingdome, Iason the brother of Onias labored by vnlawful meanes to be hie Priest.

For he came vnto the King, and promiſed
him thre hundredth and threſcore talents
of ſiluer, and of another rente, foureſcore talents.

Beſides this he promiſed him an hundredth and fiſtie, if he might haue licence
to ſet vp a place for exerciſe, and a place for the youth, and that they wolde name
them of Ieruſalem Antiochians.

The which thing when the King had granted, & he had gotten the ſuperioritie,
he began immediately to drawe his kinſme
to the cuſtomes of the Gentiles,

And aboliſhed y<sup>e</sup> friendlie priuiledges of the Kings, that the Iewes had ſet vp by Iohn, the father of Eupolemus, which was ſent ambaffadour vnto Rome, to become friends and confederates: he put downe
their lawes & policies, & brought vp newe
ſtatutes, and contrarie to the Lawe.

For he preſumed to buyde a place of ex-erciſe vnder the caſtel, & brought the chief yong men vnder his ſubiection, and made them weare hattes.

So there began a great deſire to follow
the maners of the Gentiles, and they toke vp the factions of ſtrange nations by the exceeding wickednes of Iason, not the hie
Priest, but the vngodlie perſone,

So that the Prieſtes were now no more diligent about the ſeruice of the altar, but deſpiſed the Temple, and regarded not the ſacrifices, but made haſte to be partakers
of the wicked expenſes at the playe after
the caſting of the ſtone.

For they did not ſet by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glorie of the Gentiles beſt of all.

By reaſon whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had them to be their enemies and puniſhers, whoſe cuſtome
they followed ſo earneſtly, and deſired to be like them in all things.

For it is not a light thing to tranſgreſſe

againſt the Lawes of God, but the time
following ſhal declare theſe things.

Now when the games that were vſed
euerie ſiue yere, were plaide at Tyruſ, the King being preſent,

This wicked Iason ſent from Ieruſalem men to loke vpon them, as thogh they had bene Antiochians, w<sup>h</sup> brought thre hundredth drachmes of ſiluer for a ſacrifice to Hercules: albeit they that caryed them, deſi-
red they might not be beſtowed on the ſacrifice (becauſe it was not comelie) but to be beſtowed for other expenſes.

So he that ſent them, ſent them for the ſacrifice of Hercules: but becauſe of thoſe that brought them, they were giuen to
the making of galleis.

Now Apollonius the ſonne of Me-neſtheus was ſent into Egypt becauſe of the coronation of King Ptolemeus Phi-lometor: but when Antiochus perceiued
that he was euil affectioned towarde his affaires, he ſoght his owne aſſurance, and departed from thence to Ioppe, and ſo came to Ieruſalem,

Where he was honorably receiued of Iaſon, and of the citie, & was brought in with torche light, & with great ſhowings, and ſo he went with his hoſte vnto Phenice.

Thre yere afterwarde Iason ſent Mene-
laus, the foreſaid Simons brother, to beare
the money vnto the King, and to bring to paſſe certeine neceſſarie affaires, whereof
he had giuen him a memorial.

But he, being commended to the King,
magnified him for the appearance of his power, & turned the prieſthode vnto him
ſelf: for he gaue thre hundredth talents of ſiluer more then Iason.

So he gate the Kings letters patentes, albeit he had nothing in him ſelf worthie of the hie prieſthode, but bare the ſtomacke
of a cruel tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beaſt.

The Iason, which had diſceiued his owne brother, being deceiued by another, was compelled to flee into the cōuntry of the Ammonites.

So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as
for the money that he had promiſed vnto
the King, he toke none order for it, albeit Soſtratus y<sup>e</sup> ruler of the caſtel required it.

For vnto him appertained the gathering of y<sup>e</sup> cuſtomes: wherefore they were bothe
called before the King.

Now Menelaus left his brother Lyſima-chus in his ſtead in the prieſthode, and So-ſtratus left Crates which was gouernour
of the Cyprians.

Whiles theſe things were in doing, the Tharſians and they of Mallot made inſurrectio, becauſe they were giue to the Kings
concubine called Antiochis.

II. Maccabees.

- 31 Then came the King in all haste, to appease the busines, leauing Andronicus a man of autoritie to be his lieutenant.
- 32 Now Menelaus, supposing that he had gotten a cōuenient time, stole certeine vessels of golde out of the Temple, and gaue certeine of them to Andronicus: and some he solde at Tyrus & in the citie thereby.
- 33 Which when Onias knewe of a suretie, he reprov'd him, and withdrew him self into a Sanctuarie at Daphne by Antiochia.
- 34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus a parte, prayed him to slay Onias: so when he came to Onias, he counsel'd him craftily, giuing him his right hand with an othe: (howbeit he suspect him, & perswaded him to come out of the Sanctuarie) so he slew him incontinently without any regarde of righteousness.
- 35 For the which cause not onely the Iewes, but many other nations also were grieved, and toke it heauily for the vnrighteous death of this man.
- 36 ¶ And when the King was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Iewes that were in the citie, and certeine of the Grekes that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slaine without cause.
- 37 Therefore Antiochus was sorie in his minde, and he had compassion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.
- 38 Wherefore being kindled with angre, he toke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commanded him to be led through out the citie, and in the same place where he had committed the wickednes against Onias, he was slaine as a murderer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserued.
- 39 ¶ Now when Lyfimachus had done many wicked dedes in the citie through the counsell of Menelaus, and the brute was spread abroad, & multitude gathered them together against Lyfimachus: for he had caryed out now muche vessel of golde.
- 40 And when the people arose, & were full of angre, Lyfimachus armed about thre thousand, & began to vse vnlaful power, a certein tyrant being their captaine, who was no lesse decayed in wit then in age.
- 41 But when they vnderstode the purpose of Lyfimachus, some gate stones, some great clubbes, and some cast handfulls of dust, which lay by, vpon Lyfimachus men, and those that inuaded them.
- 42 Whereby manie of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other chased away: but the wicked Churchrobber him self they killed besides the treasure.
- 43 For these causes an accusation was laide against Menelaus.
- 44 And when the King came to Tyrus, thre men sent from the Senat pleaded the cause before him.
- 45 But Menelaus, being now cōuinc'd, promised to Ptolemeus the sonne of Demetrius muche money, if he wolde perswade the King.
- 46 So Ptolemeus went to the King into a court, where as he was to coule him self, & turned the Kings minde.
- 47 In so muche that he discharged Menelaus from the accusations (notwithstanding he was the cause of all mischief) and condēd those poore men to death, which if they had tolde their cause, yea, before the Scythians, they shulde haue bene heard as innocent.
- 48 Thus were they sone punished vniustly, which followed vpon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holie vessels.
- 49 Wherefore they of Tyrus hated that wickednes, and ministred all things liberally for their buryal.
- 50 And so through the couetousnes of the that were in power, Menelaus remained in authoritie, increasing in malice, and declared him selfe a great traitor to the citizeis.

CHAP. V.

Of the signes and tokens sene in Ierusalem. 6 Of the end and wickednes of Iason. 11 The persuite of Antiochus against the Iewes. 12 The spoiling of the Temple 27 Maccabees fleeth into the wilderness.

ABout the same time Antiochus vnderooke his seconde voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there sene through out all the citie of Ierusalem, fortie dayes long, horsemen running in the aire, with robes of golde, and as bandes of speare men.

3 And as troupes of horsemen set in array, incountering & coursing one against another with shaking of shields and multitude of darts and drawing of swords, and shoting of arrowes, and the glittering of the golden armour sene, and harnes of all fortes.

4 Therefore euerie man prayed, that those tokens might turne to good.

5 Now when there was gone forth a false rumour, as thogh Antiochus had bene dead, Iason toke at & least a thousand men, and came suddenly vpon the citie, & they that were vpon the walles, being put backe and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the castell, but Iason slew his owne citizeis without mercie, not considering that to haue the aduantage against his kinne is greatt disadvantage, but thought that he had gotten the victorie of his enemies, & not of his owne nation. Yet he gate not the superiority, but at the last receiued shame for the rewarde of his traison,

eraison, and went againe into the countrey of Syria. Finally he had this conuersation, & he was as the King of the Arabians into citie, being proud and hated as a forsake was in abomination to countrey and citizeis to Egypt.

9 Thus he that had ruled their owne countrey shed man, after that Lacedemonians, thine gotten succour by reason. And he that had caryed, was throwen mourning for him, no graue: nether was he theirs sepulchre.

11 ¶ Now when these men were declared to be that Iudea wolde haue wherefore he came without of Egypt, & toke He commanded him that they shulde kill as they met, and to slay their houses.

12 Thus was there a slaue and olde men, and a women & children, a fanes were murdered.

14 So that within thre foure score thousand, taken prisoners, and solde as were slayne.

15 Yet was he not content to go into the most all the worlde, hauing tour to the Lawes, and troy, to be his guide.

16 And with his wicked vessels, which other King garnishing, glorie and ce, & handled them.

17 So haucie in his minde that he considered not a litle wrothe for the dwelt in the citie, for tempt came vpon them.

18 For if they had not nie sinnes, he, as none suddenly bene punished his presumption, as Eme Seleucus the King treasure.

ere was gone forthe a false gh Antiochus had bene at y least a thousand men, ly vpon the citie, & they he walles, being put backe length taken, into the castel, but Iason citizens without mercie, not to haue the aduantage, is is greatesse disadvantage, he had gotten the victorie, not of his owne nacion. the superioritie, but at the me for the rewarde of his traifon;

traifon, and went againe like a vagabound into the countrey of the Ammonites.

Finally he had this end of his wicked conuersation, y he was accused before Areta, the King of the Arabians, and fled from citie to citie, being pursued of euerie mā, and hated as a forsaker of the Lawes, and was in abomination, as an enemy of his countrey and citizens, and was driuen into Egypt.

Thus he that had chased manie out of their owne countrey, perished as a banished man, after that he was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to haue gotten succour by reason of kinred.

And he that had cast manie out vnburied, was thrown out him self, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

Now when these things that were done, were declared to the King, he thought that Iudea wolde haue fallen from him: wherefore he came with a furious minde out of Egypt, & toke the citie by violence.

He commanded his men of warre also, that they shulde kill, and not spare suche as they met, and to slay suche as went into their houses.

Thus was there a slaughter of yong men, and olde men, and a destruction of men & women & children, and virgines, and infants were murdered:

So that within three dayes were slayne foure score thousand, and fortie thousand taken prisoners, and there were as manie folde as were slayne.

Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the moste holy Temple of all the worlde, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the Lawes, and to his owne countrey, to be his guide,

And with his wicked hāds toke the holie vessels, which other Kings had giuen for y garnishing, glorie and honour of that place, & handled them with his wicked hāds.

So haucie in his minde was Antiochus, that he considered not, that God was not a litle wrothe for the finnes of them that dwelt in the citie, for the which suche contempt came vpon that place.

For if they had not bene wrapped in manie finnes, he, as sone as he had come, had suddely bene punished, & put backe from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whome Seleucus the King sent to vewe the treasure.

But God hathe not chosen the nation for the places sake, but the place for the nacion sake.

And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shal it be partaker of the benefites of the Lord, and as it is now forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so when the great Lord shalbe reconciled, it shalbe set vp in great worship againe.

So when Antiochus had taken eighteen hundred talents out of the Temple, he gate him to Antiochia in all haste, thinking in his pride to make men sayle vpon the drye land, and to walke vpon the seas: suche an hie minde had he.

But he left deputies to vex the peoples: at Ierusalem Philippe a Phrygia by birth, in maners more cruel then he that set him there:

And at Garizin Andronicus, & with the Menelaus, which was more grievous to the citizens then the other, and was despitelous against the Iewes his citizens.

He sent also Apollonius a cruel prince, with an armie of two & twentie thousand, whome he commanded to slay those that were towarde mans age, and to sell the women, and the yonger forte.

So when he came to Ierusalem, he fained peacc, and kept him stil vntil the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Iewes keeping the feast, he commanded his men to take their weapons.

And so he slewe all them that were gone forthe to the shewe, and running through the citie with his men armed, he murthered a great number.

But Iudas Maccabeus, being as it were the tenth, fled into the wilderness, & liued there in the mountaines with his companie among the brastes, and dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they shulde be partakers of the filthines.

CHAP. VI.

The Iewes are compelled to leaue the Law of God. 4 The Temple is defiled. 10 The women cruelly punished. 22 The grievous paine of Eleazar.

Not long after this, sent the King an olde man of Athens, for to compel the Iewes, to transgresse the Lawes of the fathers, and not to be governed by the Law of God,

And to defile the Temple that was at Ierusalem, and to call it the temple of Iupiter Olympius, and that of Garizin, according as they did that dwelt at that place, Iupiter, that kepeth hospitalitie.

This wicked gouernement was fore and grievous vnto the people.

For the Temple was ful of dissolucion, and glotonie of the Gentiles, which dallied with harlors, & had to do with women within the circuit of the holie places, and brought in suche things as were not lawfull.

The altar also was ful of suche things, as were abominable & forbidden by the Law.

nely to confesse him self to be a Iewe.

7 In the day of the Kings birth they were grievously compelled perforce euerie moneth to banker, and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constrained to go in the procession of Bacchus with garlandes of yuie.

8 Moreouer through the counsell of Ptolemus, there went out a commandemēt vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Iewes, that the like custome, and banquetting shulde be kept.

10. eating of the flesh that was sacrificed.

9 And who so wolde not conforme them selues to the maners of the Gentiles, shulde be put to death: then might a man haue sene the present miserie.

10 For there were two women brought forth, that had circumcised their sonnes, whome when they had led rounde about y<sup>e</sup> citie (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them downe headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were runne together into dens, that had circumcised their sonnes, were discouraged vnto Philippe, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honorable day they were afraied to helpe them selues.

12 ¶ Now I beseeche those which reade this booke, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they iudge these afflictions, not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nation.

13 For it is a token of his great goodness, not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight waies to punish them.

14 For the Lord doeth not long waite for vs, as for other nations, whome he punisheth whē they are come to y<sup>e</sup> fulnes of their sins.

15 But thus he dealeth with vs, that our sinnes shulde not be heaped vp to the ful, so that afterwarde he shulde punish vs.

16 And therefore he neuer withdraweth his mercie from vs: & though he punish with aduersitie, yet doeth he neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken now for a warning vnto vs: & now wil we come to the declaring of the matter in fewe wordes.

18 ¶ Eleazar then one of the principal scribes, an aged man, & of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrained to open his mouth, and to eat swines flesh.

19 But he desiring rather to dye gloriously thē to liue with hatred, offered him self willingly to the torment, and spit it out.

20 As they ought to go to death which suffer punishment for suche things, as it is not lawful to taste of for the desire to liue.

21 But they that had the charge of this wicked banquet, for that olde friendship of the mā, toke him aside priuely, & prayed him, that he wolde take suche flesh, as was lawful for him to vse, & as he wolde prepare for him self, & dissemble as though he had eaten of the things appointed by y<sup>e</sup> King, euen the flesh of the sacrifice,

22 That in so doing he might be deliuered from death, and that for the olde friendship that was among them, he wolde receiue this fauour.

23 But he began to consider discretely, & as became his age, and the excellencie of his ancient yeres, and the honour of his gray heeres, wherunto he was come, & his most honest conuersation from his childehode, but chiefly the holie Law made and giuen by God: therefore he answered consequently, and willed them straight waies to send him to the graue.

24 For it becometh not our age, said he, to dissemble, whereby manie yong persones might thinke, that Eleazar being foure score yere olde and ten were now gone to "another religion,"

25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a litle time of a transitorie life) they might be deceiued by me, and I shulde procure maledictiō, & reproche to mine olde age.

26 For thogh I were now deliuered frō the torments of mē, yet colde I not escape the hand of the Almighty, nether aliue nor dead.

27 Wherefore I wil now change this life manfully, and wil shewe my self suche as mine age requireth,

28 And so wil leaue a notable exāple for suche as be yong, to dye willingly & courageously for the honorable & holie Lawes. And whē he had said these wordes, immediately he went to torment.

29 Now they that led him, changed y<sup>e</sup> loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the wordes that he had spoken: for they thought it had bene a rage.

30 And as he was readie to giue the goft because of the strokes, he sighed and said, The Lord that hathe the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue bene deliuered frō death, I am scourged and suffer these sore paines of my bodie: but in my minde I suffer them gladly for his religion.

31 Euē now after this maner ended he his life, leauing his death for an exāple of a noble courage, and a memorial of vertue, not onely vnto yong mē, but vnto all his natiō.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seven brethren & of their mother.

1 It came to passe also that seven brethren, with their mother, were taken to be compelled by the King against the Law, to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whippes.

2 But one of them, which spake first, said thus, What seekst thou, and what woldest y<sup>e</sup> knowe

asse also that seuen bre-

it thou; and what wouldst y

knowe of vs? we are readie to dye, rather
the to trasgresse the Lawes of our fathers.

Then was the King angric, and commanded to heat pannes and cauldrons, which were incontinently made hote.

And he comanded the toge of him that spake first, to be cut out, and to flay him &
to cut of the vtmost partes of his bodie in
y sight of his other brethren & his mother.

Now when he was thus mangled in all his membres, he comanded him to be brought aliue to the fyre & to frye him in the pan-
ne; & while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the pane, the other brethren with their mother, exhorted one another to dye
courageously, saying in this maner,

The Lord God doeth regarde vs, & in de-detaketh pleasure in vs, as Moyses declared in the song wherein he testified openly, saying,

That God will take pleasure in his seruants.

So when the first was dead after this ma-
ner, they brought the seconde to make him
a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with y heere ouer his head,
they asked him, if he wolde eat, or he were punished in all the members of the bodie.

But he answered in his owne langage, &
said, No. Wherefore he was tormented forthwith like the first.

And when he was at y last breth, he said,
Thou murderer takest this present life
from vs, but the King of the worlde will raise vs vp, which dye for his Lawes, in
the resurrection of euerlasting life.

After him was the thirde had in derision, and when they demanded his tongue,
he put it out incontinently, & stretched for-
the his hands boldly,

And spake manfully, These haue I had
from the heauen, but now for the Law of God, I despise them, and trust that I shal receiue them of him againe.

In so muche that the King & they which were with him, marueiled at the yong mas
courage, as at one that nothing regarded y
paines.

Now when he was dead also, they vexed
and tormented the fourth in like maner.

And when he was now readie to dye, he said thus, It is better that we shulde chage
this which we might hope for of men, &
wait for our hope from God, that we may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee,
thou shalt haue no resurrection to life.

Afterwarde they brought the fift also &
tormented him,

Who looked vpon the King, & said, Thou hast power among men, and thogh thou be
a mortal man, thou doest what thou wilt:
but thinke not, that God hath forsaken
our nation.

But abide a while, and thou shalt see his great power, how he wil torment thee and thy sede.

After him also they brought the sixt, who being at the point of death, said, Deceiue not thy selfe foolishly: for we suffer these things, which are worthe to be wored at
for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.

But thinke not thou, which vndertake
to fight against God, that thou shalt be vnpunished.

But the mother was marueilous about
all other, & worthe of honorable memo-
rie: for when the sawe her seuē sonnes slai-ne within y space of one day, she suffred it with a good wil, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.

Yea, she exhorted euerie one of them in her owne langage, and being ful of courage and wisdom, stirred vp her womanlie affections with a malie stomacke, and said
vnto them,

I can not tel how ye came into my wom-
be: for I nether gaue you breth nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of
your bodie,

But douteles the Creator of the worlde,
which formed the birth of man, & founde
out the beginning of all things, wil also of his owne mercie giue you breth and life again, as ye now regarde not your owne
selues, for his Lawes sake.

Now Antiochus thinking him self despised, & considering the iniurious wordes,
while the yongest was yet aliue, he did ex-
horte him not onely with wordes, but swore also vnto him by an othe y he wolde make him riche and welthie, if he wolde forsake y Lawes of his fathers, & that he wol-
de take him as a friēd, & giue him offices.

But when the yong mā wolde in no case
hearken vnto him, the King called his mother, and exhorted that she wolde counsell
the yong man to saue his life.

And when he had exhorted her with manie wordes, she promised him that she wolde counsell her sonne.

So she turned her vnto him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorne, & spake in her owne
langage, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me,
that bare thee nine moneths in my wombe,
& gaue thee sucke thre yerres, & nourished
thee, and toke care for thee vnto this age,
and brought thee vp.

I beseeche thee, my sonne, loke vpon the
heauen & the earth, and all that is therein, & consider that God made the of things y
were not, & so was mākinde made likewise.

Fear not this hangman, but shewe thy self worthe suche brethren by suffering
death, that I may receiue thee in mercie
with thy brethren.

While she was yet speaking these wor-

- 17 And thou that imaginest all mischief against the Hebrewes, shalt not escape the hand of God.
- 18 For we suffer these things, because of our sinnes,
- 19 But thogh the living Lord be angrie with vs a litle while for our chastening and correction, yet wil he be reconciled with his owne seruants.
- 20 But thou, o man without religion & most wicked of all men, list not thy self vp in vaine, which art puffed vp with vncertaine hope, and listest thine hands against the seruants of God.
- 21 For thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of almightie God, which seeth all things.
- 22 My brethre that haue suffered a litle paine, are now vnder the diuine covenant of euerlasting life: but thou through the iudgement of God, shalt suffer iust punishments for thy pride.
- 23 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my bodie and life for the Lawes of our fathers, beseeching God, that he wil so be merciful vnto our nation, and that thou by torment and punishment mayest confesse, that he is the onelie God,

CHAP. VIII.

Judas gathereth together his hoste. 9 Nicanor is sent against Judas. 16 Judas exhorteth his souldiers to constancie. 20 Nicanor is overcome. 27 The Iewes giue thanks, after they haue put their enemies to flight, diuiding parte of the spoiles vnto the fatherles and vnto the widdowes. 30 Timotheus and Bacchides are discomfited. 35 Nicanor sleeth vnto Antiochus.

Then Iudas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went priuily into the townes, & called their kinfolk & friends together, & toke vnto the all suche as continued in the Iewes religio, and assembled six thousand men.

2 So they called vpon the Lord, that he wolde haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euerie mā, & haue pitie vpon the Temple that was defiled by wicked men,

3 And that he wolde haue compassion vpon the citie y<sup>e</sup> was destroyed, & almost brought to the ground, & that he wolde heare the voyce of the blood that cryed vnto him,

4 And that he wolde remember the wicked slaughter of the innocent children, & the blasphemies committed against his Name, & that he wolde shewe this hatred against the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, he colde not be withstand by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercie.

6 Therefore he came at vnwares, & burnt vp the townes and cities: yet he toke the moste commodious places, and slewe many of the enemies.

7 But specially he vfed the nightes to make suche assaults, in so muche that the brute of his manlines was spred euerie where.

8 ¶ So when Philippe sawe that this mā increased by litle and litle, and that things prospered with him for the moste parte, he wrote vnto Ptolemeus the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, to helpe him in the Kings busines.

9 Then sent he spedely Nicanor the sonne of Patroclus, a special friend of his, & gaue him of all nations of the heathē no lesse then twentie thousand men, to rote out the whole generation of the Iewes, & ioyned with him Gorgias a captaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Nicanor ordeined also a tribute for the King of two thousand talents, which the Romaines shulde haue, to be taken of the Iewes that were taken prisoners.

11 Therefore immediately he sent to the cities on the seacoast, prouoking them to bye Iewes to be their seruants, promising to sel fourescore & ten for one talent: but he considered not the vengeance of almightie God, that shulde come vpon him.

12 When Iudas then knewe of Nicanors coming, he tolde the that were with him, of the coming of the armie.

13 Now were there some of them fearful, which trusted not vnto y<sup>e</sup> righteousness of God, but fled away, & abode not in y<sup>e</sup> place.

14 But the other solde all that they had left, and besoght the Lord together, to deliuer them fro that wicked Nicanor, which had solde them, or euer he came nere them.

15 And thogh he wolde not do it for their sakes, yet for the covenant made with their fathers, and because they called vpon his holie and glorious Name.

16 And so Maccabeus called his men together, about six thousand, exhorting the not to be afraied of their enemies, neither to feare the great multitude of the Gentiles, which came against them vnrighteously, but to fight manly,

17 Setting before their eyes that they had vnjustly done, and the crueltie done to them, and the destruction, and the destruction blithed by their fathers.

18 For they, said he, trusted in boldenes: but our comfourt is in almightie God, which destroyeth them that conuince the worlde.

19 Moreover he admonished them, that they shoulde helpe that God shewed his mercie, as when there perished fourescore, and siue thousand Iewes.

20 And of the battell that was fought against the Galatians, in all to y<sup>e</sup> battell eight thousand Macedonians were slain, and thousand Iewes an hundred and thre through the help of God from heauen, whereof many benefites.

21 Thus when he had read these wordes, & read the names of the countrey, he departed to foure partes,

22 And made his owne armie, to wit, Sirhan, giuing eche one of them a bowe, and a sword.

23 And when Eleazar the brother of Iudas, which led the hoste, was with Nicanor,

24 And because the Almightie God had wounded and maimed many of Nicanors hoste, and slain many of them,

25 And toke the money to bye them, and purloined the time they returned, they returned.

26 For it was the day before the feast of the Tabernacles, therefore they wold not fight.

27 So they toke their weapons, & kept the Sabbath, and praising the Lord, had deliuered them from the hands of Nicanor.

28 And after the Sabbath, they deliuered the spoiles to the sick, & to the widdowes, & to the fatherles.

29 When this was done, they made a general prayer, thankfull to the Lord to be reconciled with his seruants.

they had vniuilly done to the holy place,
and the crueltie done to the citie by deri-

18 For they, said he, trust in their weapons &
boldenes: but our confidence is in the al-
mightie God, which at a becke can bothe
destroy them that come against vs, and all
the worlde.

19 Moreouer he admonished them of the helpe that God shewed vnto their fathers,
as when there perished an hundreth and four score, and fine thousand vnder* Sen-
nacherib,

20 And of the battel that they had in Babylon against the Galacians, how they came
in all to y battel eight thousand, with fou-re thousand Macedonians: and when the Macedonians were astonished, the eight thousand slewe an hūdreth & twentie thou-

from heauen, whereby they had receiued
many benefites.

21 Thus when he had made the bolde with these wordes, & readie to dye for y Lawes
and the countrey, he deuided his armie in-
to foure partes,

22 And made his owne brethren captaines
ouer y armie, to wit, Simō, & Ioseph & Iona-
than, giuing eche one fiftene hūdreth men.

23 And when Eleazarus had red the holie
boke, & giuen them a token of the helpe of God, Iudas which led the forewarde, ioy-
ned with Nicanor,

24 And because the Almightye helped the,
they slewe aboue nine thousand men, and wounded and maimed the moste parte of Nicanors hoste, and so put all to flight,

25 And toke the money fro those that came to bye them, and pursued them farre: but lacking time they returned.

26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, &
therefore they wolde no longer pursue the.

27 So they toke their weapons, & spoiled the enemies, & kept the Sabbath, giuing thākes
and praising the Lord wonderfully, which had deliuered them that day, and powred
vpon them the beginning of his mercie.

28 And after the Sabbath, * they distributed
the spoiles to the sicke, & to the fatherles, & to the widowes, & deuided the residue
among them selues and their children.

29 When this was done, & they all had made a general prayer, they besoght the merciful Lord to be reconciled at the length
with his seruants.

30 Afterwarde with one cōsent they sel vpō
Timotheus and Bacchides, & slewe aboue
twentie thousand, & wanne hie & strong hol-
des, & deuided great spoiles, & gaue an equal porciō vnto y sicke, & to y fatherles,
& to y widowes, & to aged persones also.

31 Moreouer they gathered their weapons together, and layed them vp diligently in conuenient places, and broght the remnāt
of the spoyles to Ierusalem.

32 They slewe also Philarches a moste wicked persone, which was with Timotheus,
and had vexed the Iewes manie wayes.

33 And when they kept the feast of victorie
in their countrey, they burnt Callisthenes
that had set fyre vpon the holie gates,
which was fled into a litle house: so he re-
ceiued a rewarde mere for his wickednes.

34 And that moste wicked Nicanor, which had broght a thousand marchants to bye
the Iewes,

35 He was through the helpe of the Lord
broght downe of them whome he thought as nothing, in so much that he put of his glorious raiment, and fled ouerthwart the countrey like a fugitiue seruant, and came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour
through the destruction of his hoste.

36 Thus he that promised to pay tribute to the Romaines, by meanes of the prisoners of Ierusalem, broght newes, that the Iewes
had a defender, and for this cause none
colde hurt y Iewes, because they followed
the Lawes appointed by him.

Or, God their defender.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus willing to spoyle Persopolis, is put to flight.
5 As he persecuteth the Iewes, he is striken of the Lord. 13 The sained repentance of Antiochus. 20 He dyeth miserably.

1 AT the same time, came Antiochus
againe with dishonour out of the countrey of Persia.

2 For when he came to Persopolis, & went about to robbe the Temple, and to subdue the citie, the people ranne in a rage to defende themselves with their weapons,
and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants, and returned with shame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatana, he vn-derstode the things that had come vnto Nicanor, and Timotheus.

4 And then being chafed in his fume, he thought to impute to y Iewes their faute, w
had put him to flight, and therefore commanded his charet man to driue cōtinual-
ly, and to dispatche the iourney: for Gods
iudgement compelled him: for he had said
thus in his pride, I wil make Ierusalem a cōmune burying place of the Iewes, whē
I come thether.

5 But the Lord almightie & God of Israel
smote him with an incurable and inuisible
plague: for assone as he had spoken these wordes, a paine of the bowels, that was remediles, came vpon him, & sore tormēts
of the inner partes,

6 And that moste iustly: for he had tormēted other mens bowels with diuerse, and

strange torments.

7 Howbeit he wolde in no wise cease from his arrogancie, but swelled the more with pride, breathing out fyre in his rage against the Iewes, and commanded to haste the iornay: but it came to passe that he fel downe from the charet that rane swiftly, so that all the membres of his bodie were bruised with the great fall.

8 And thus he that a litle afore thought he might commande the floods of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) & to weigh the hie mountaines in y balance, was now cast on the ground, and caried in an horselitter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God,

Mat. 23.

9 *So that the wormes came out of the bodie of this wicked man in abundance: and whiles he was aliue, his flesh fel of for paine and torment, and all his armie was grieved at his smel.

Or. ymagine.

10 Thus no man colde beare because of his stinke, him y a litle afore thought he might reach to the starres of heauen.

11 Then he began to leaue of his great pride, & self wil, when he was plagued & came to the knowledge of him self by the scourge of God, & by his paine which increased euerie moment.

12 And when he him self might not abide his owne stinke, he said these wordes, It is mete to be subiect vnto God, & that a man which is mortal, shulde not thinke him self equal vnto God through pride.

13 This wicked persone prayed also vnto y Lord, who wolde now haue no mercie on him,

14 And said thus y he wolde set at libertie y holie citie vnto y which he made haste to destroy it, & to make it a burying place.

15 And as touching the Iewes, whome he had iudged not worthie to be buried, but wolde haue cast them out with their children to be deuoured of the foules & wilde beastes, he wolde make the all like the citizens of Athenes.

16 And whereas he had spoiled y holie Temple afore, he wolde garnish it with great gifts, and encrease the holie vessels, and of his owne rentes beare the charges belonging to the sacrifices.

17 Yea, & that he wolde also become a Iewe him self, & go through all the worlde that was inhabited, & preache y power of God.

18 But for all this his paines wolde not cease: for the iust iudgement of God was come vpo him: therefore despairing of his helth, he wrote vnto the Iewes this letter vnder writen, cōteining y forme of a supplicatio.

19 ¶ THE KING & prince Antiochus vnto the Iewes his louing citizens wisheth muche ioye and helth and prosperitie.

20 If ye and your children fare wel, & if all things go after your minde, I giue great thākes vnto God hauing hope in y heaue. 21 Thogh I lie sicke, yet I am mindeful of your honour, & good wil for y loue I beare you: therefore when I returned fro the countrey of Persia, and fel into a sore disease, I thought it necessarie to care for the commune safetie of all,

22 Nor distrusting mine helth, but hauing great hope to escape this sickenes.

23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against y high countreys, he appointed who shulde succede him:

24 That if anie controuersie happned contrary to his expectation, or if that anie tidings were broght that were grievous, they in the lād might knowe to whome y affaires were committed, that they shulde not be troubled.

25 Again, when I ponder how that the gouernours, y are borderers, and neighbours vnto my kingdome, waite for all occasiōs, & loke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sōne Antiochus shal be King whome I oft cōmēded & cōmitted to many of you, whē I went into y hie prouinces, & haue writē vnto hī as followeth hereafter.

26 Therefore, I pray you & require you, to remēber the benefites y I haue done vnto you generally, & particularly, and y euerie mā wil be faithfull to me and to my sōne.

27 For I trust that he wil be gentle, & louing vnto you according to my minde.

28 ¶ Thus y murtherer & blasphemor suffered moste grievously, & as he had intreated other mē, so he dyed a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.

29 And Philippe that was broght vp with him, carryed away his bodie, who fearing the sōne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

8 They ordeined also by decree, that euery man shulde be kept of y who had done this.

9 And this was the end of Epiphanes.

10 ¶ Now wil we declare the doings of Antiochus Eupator, which this wicked man gathe lamities of the warres.

Now vpō the ſame day, that the ſtrāgers
polluted the Tēple, on the verie ſame day
it was cleſed againe euen y<sup>e</sup> ſue & twētieth
day of the ſame moneth, which is Challeu.

They kept eight dayes with gladnes as in the feaſt of the Tabernacles, remēbring,
that not long afore they held the feaſt of the Tabernacles when they liued in the mountaines and dennes like beaſtes.

And for the ſame cauſe they bare grene
bowes, and faire branches and palmes, and ſang pſalmes vnto him that had giuen the good ſuccesse in clenſing his place.

They ordeined alſo by a commune ſtatu-
re, and decre that euerie yere thoſe dayes
ſhulde be kept of y<sup>e</sup> whole naciō of y<sup>e</sup> Lewes.

And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.

¶ Now wil we declare the actes of An-tiochus Eupator, which was the ſonne of this wicked man gathering briefly the calamities of the warres, that followed.

For when he had taken the kingdome,
he made one Lyſias, which had bene cap-
taine of the hoſte in Phenice, & Cocloſy-ria, ruler ouer the affaires of the realme.

For Ptolemus that was called Macron, purpoſed to do iuſtice vnto the Lewes for y<sup>e</sup> wrōg, y<sup>e</sup> had bene done vnto the, & went about to behaue him ſelf peaceably wth the.

For the which cauſe he was accuſed of his friends before Eupator, & was called off times traitour, becauſe he had leſt Cyprus
that Philometor had comitted vnto him,
and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore ſeing that he was no more in eſtima-
tion, he was diſcouraged, and poyſonned
him ſelf, and dyed.

¶ But when Gorgias was gouernour of the ſame places, he intertained ſtrangers, &
made warre oft times againſt the Lewes.

Moreover the Idumeans that helde the
ſtrōg holds, which were mete for their purpoſe, troubled the Lewes, and by receiuing
them that were driuen fro Ieruſalem, toke
in hand to continue warre.

Then thei that were with Maccabeus made prayers, & befoght God that he wolde
be their helper, and ſo they fel vpon the ſtrōg holdes of the Idumeans,

And aſſailed them ſore, that they wanne
the places, & ſlew all that foght againſt
them on the wall, and killed al y<sup>e</sup> they met
with, & ſlew no leſſe the twētieth thouſand.

And becauſe certeine (which were no leſſe then nine thouſand) were fled into two ſtrōg caſtels, hauing all maner of things conuenient to ſuſtaine the ſiege,

Maccabeus leſt Simō, & Ioseph, & Zac-cheus alſo, & thoſe that were with the, w<sup>ch</sup>
were y<sup>e</sup> now to beſiege them, and departed

to thoſe places w<sup>ch</sup> were more neceſſarie.

Now thei that were with Simon, being led with couetouſnes, were intreated for monci, (thorowe certeine of thoſe that were in y<sup>e</sup> caſtel,) & toke ſeuentie thouſand
drachmes, and let ſome of them eſcape.

But when it was tolde Maccabeus what was done, he called the gouernours of the people together, & accuſed thoſe mē, that they had ſolde their brethren for money,
and let their enemies go.

So he ſlew the when they were cōuiſt of
traifon, & immediatly wan y<sup>e</sup> two caſtels:

And hauing good ſuccesse, as in all the warres that he toke in hand, he ſlew in the two caſtels mo then twentie thouſand.

Now Timotheus whome the Lewes had ouercome afore, gathered an armie of ſtrā-
gers of all ſortes, and brought a great troupe of horſemen out of Aſia to winne Iew-
rie by ſtrength.

But when he drew nere, Maccabeus, and
thei y<sup>e</sup> were with him, turned to praye vnto
God, & ſprinkled earth vpō their heads, &
girded their reines with ſackcloth,

And fel downe at the ſore of the altar, &
befoght the Lord to be merciful to them, &
to be an enimie to their enemies, and to be an aduerſarie to their aduerſaries, * as
the Law declareth.

Exod. 23. 20
Deu. 20. 4.

So after the prayer, they toke their weapons, & went on further from the citie, &
when they came nere to the enemies, they
toke hede to them ſelues.

And whē y<sup>e</sup> morning appeared, they bo-
the ioyned together: the one parte had y<sup>e</sup>
Lord for their refuge, & pledge of proſpe-
ritie, & noble victorie, and the other toke
courage as a guide of the warre.

But when y<sup>e</sup> batel waxed ſtrōg, there appeared vnto the enemies fro heauen ſue comelic men vpon horſes with bridles of golde, and two of them led the Lewes,

And toke Maccabeus betwixt them, & co-
uered him on euerie ſide with their weapons, & kept him ſafe, but ſhot dartes, &
lightenings againſt the enemies, ſo y<sup>e</sup> thei
were cōfounded with blindenes, and beaten downe and ful of trouble.

There were ſlaine of ſolement wētie thou-
ſand & ſue hūdreth & ſix hūdreth horſmē.

As for Timotheus him ſelf, he fled vnto
Gazara, w<sup>ch</sup> was called a very ſtrōg holde;
wherein Chereas was capitaine.

But Maccabeus & his cōpanie laid ſiege a-gainſt y<sup>e</sup> fortrefſes w<sup>ch</sup> courage for foure daies.

And thei that were within, truſting to the height of the place, blafphemed exceedingly, and ſpake horrible wordes.

Neuertheles vpō the fiſth day in y<sup>e</sup> morning twentie yōg men of Maccabeus cōpanie, whoſe hearts were inflamed, becauſe of
y<sup>e</sup> blafphemies, came vnto y<sup>e</sup> wall, & w<sup>ch</sup> bolde

- 36 Others also that climed vp vpon the engines of warre against the that were within, set fyre vpon the towers, & burnt those blasphemers quicke with the fyres that they had made, & others brake vp the gates, and receiued the rest of the armie, and toke the citie.
- 37 And hauing found Timotheus, that was crept into a caue, they killed him, & Chereas his brother with Apolliphanes.
- 38 When this was done, they praised y<sup>e</sup> Lord with psalmes, and thanksgiuing, which had done so great things for Israel, & giuen them the victorie.

15 Lyfias goeth about to ouercome the Iewes. 16 Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Iewes. 16 The letter of Lyfias vnto the Iewes. 20 The letter of King Antiochus vnto Lyfias. 27 A letter of the same vnto the Iewes. 24 A letter of the Romans to the Iewes.

- 1 Verie shortly after this, Lyfias the Kings stewarde, and a kinsma<sup>n</sup> of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, toke sore displeasure for the things that were done.
- 2 And when he had gathered about fourescore thousand, with all the horsmen he came against the Iewes, thinking to make the citie an habitation of the Gentiles.
- 3 And the Temple wolde he haue to get money by, like the other temples of the heathen: for he wolde sel the Priests office euerie yere.
- 4 And thus being puffed vp in his minde, because of the great number of fotemen, & thousands of horsmen, & in his fourescore elephants,
- 5 He came into Iudea, and drewe nere to Beth-sura, which was a castel of defence, fise furlongs from Ierusalem, and laid fore siege vnto it.
- 6 But when Maccabeus, and his companie knewe that he besieged the holdes, they, & all the people made prayers with weping, and teares before the Lord, that he wolde send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.
- 7 And Maccabeus him self first of all toke weapons, exhorting the other that they wolde iopardie them selues together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went forthe together wth a courageous minde.
- 8 And as thei were there besides Ierusalem, there appeared before them vpon horsebacke a man in white clothing, shaking his harnes of golde.
- 9 Then they praised the merciful God all together, and toke heart, in so muche that they were ready, not onely to fight wth me, but with the moste cruel beasts, & to breake downe walles of yron.
- 10 Thus they marched forwarde in array, hauing an helper from heauen: for the

a Whereof eight make a mile.

- Lord was merciful vnto them.
- 11 And runing vp<sup>o</sup> their enemies like lions, they slewe eleuen thousand fotemen, and sixteen hundred horsmen, & put all the other to flight.
- 12 Manie of them also being wounded, escaped naked, and Lyfias him self fled away shamefully, and so escaped.
- 13 Who as he was a man of vnderstanding, considering what losse he had had, & knowing, that the Hebrewes colde not be overcome because the almightie God helped them, sent vnto them,
- 14 And promised, that he wolde consent to all things which were reasonable, and persuade the King to be their friend.
- 15 Maccabeus agreed to Lyfias requestes, hauing respect in all things to y<sup>e</sup> commune welth, and whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lyfias concerning the Iewes, the King granted it.
- 16 For there were letters written vnto the Iewes fro Lyfias cōteining these wordes, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Iewes sendeth greeting.
- 17 Iohn & Abesalom, which were sent fro you, deliuered me the things that you dema<sup>n</sup>de by writing, and required me to fulfil the things that they had declared.
- 18 Therefore what things soeuer were mete to be reported to the King him self, I haue declared them, and he granted that that was possible.
- 19 Therefore if ye behaue your selues as frieds: toward his affaires, hereafter also I wil indeour my self to do you good.
- 20 As concerning these things, I haue giue commandement to these men, and to those whome I sent vnto you, to commune with you of the same particularly.
- 21 Fare ye wel, the hundredth and eight and fortie yere, the foure and twetie day of the moneth Dioscorinthius.
- 22 ¶ Now the Kings letter contained these wordes, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lyfias sendeth greeting.
- 23 Since our father is translated vnto the gods, our wil is, that they which are in our realme, liue quietly, that euerie man may applie his owne affaires.
- 24 We vnderstand also that the Iewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be brought vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but wolde kepe their owne maner of liuing: for the which cause they require of vs, that we wolde suffer them to liue after their owne Lawes.
- 25 Wherefore our minde is that this naciō shalbe in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that thei may be gouerned according to the custome of their fathers.
- 26 Thou shalt do wel therefore to send vnto

them, and grante them they are certified of our be of good comfort, and about their owne affaires.

27 And this was the King nacion, KING ANT the Elders of the Iewes, the Iewes sendeth greeting.

28 If ye fare wel, we haue also in good helth.

29 Menelaus declared vnto fire was to returne home, owne busines.

32 I haue sent also Menelaus you.

33 Fare ye wel: the hundredth and fortie yere, the fiftenth day of Panthicus.

34 ¶ The Romans also sending these wordes, QVINTVS and Titus Manilius of the Romans, vnto the Iewes send greeting.

35 The things that Lyfias man hath granted you, we also.

36 But concerning that which vnto the King, send herewith, when ye haue considered diligently, that we maye as shalbe best for you: so to Antiochia.

17 ¶ Then departed they from thence, seven hundred and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tubieni.

18 But they founde not Timotheus there: for he was departed from thence, and had done nothing, and had left a garison in a verie strong holde.

19 But Dositheus, & Sosipater, which were captaines with Maccabeus, went forth, & slewe those that Timotheus had left in the forteresse more than ten thousand men.

20 And Maccabeus prepared, & ranged his armie by bandes, & went courageously against Timotheus, which had with him an hundred and twentie thousand men of fore, and two thousand and five hundred horsemen.

21 When Timotheus had knowledge of Iudas comming, he sent the women, & children, and the other baggage afore vnto a forteresse called Carnion (for it was hard to besiege, & vneasie to come vnto because of the straites on all sides.)

22 But when Iudas first bade came in fight, the enemies were smitten with feare, and a trembling was among them thorow the presence of him that seeth all things, in so muche that they sleie one here, another there, were oft times hurt by their owne people, and wounded with the pointes of their owne swordes.

23 But Iudas was verie earnest in pursuing, and slewe those wicked men: yea, he slewe thirtie thousand men of them.

24 Timotheus also him self fell into the hands of Dositheus, & Sosipater, whome he besoght with muche crafte to let him go with his life, because he had manie of the Iewes parents & the brethren of some of them, which if they put him to death, shulde be despised.

25 So when he had assured the with manie wordes, & promised that he wolde restore them without hurt, they let him go for the helth of their brethren.

26 ¶ Then went Maccabeus towarde Carnion, and Atargation, and slewe five and twentie thousand persones.

27 And after that he had chased away and slayne the, Iudas remoued the hoste towarde Ephron a strong citie, wherein was Lysias & a great multitude of all naciōs, & the strong yong men kept the walles defending the mightely: there was also great preparacion of engins of warre, & darts.

28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they wan the citie, & slewe five and twentie thousand of them that were within.

29 ¶ Fro thence went they to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs from Ierusalem.

30 But when the Iewes which dwelt there, testified, that the Scythopolitans dealt lovingly with them, & intreated them kindly in the time of their aduersitie,

31 They gaue them thanks, desiring them to be friendlie still vnto them, and so they came to Ierusalem, as the feast of the weekes approached.

32 ¶ And after the feast called Pentecost they went forth against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea.

33 Who came out with three thousand men of fore and foure hundred horsemen.

34 And when they ioyned together, a few of the Iewes were slayne,

35 And Dositheus one of the Baccenors, which was on horsebacke and a mightie man, toke Gorgias, and laied holde of his garment, and drewe him by force, because he wolde haue taken the wicked man aliue: but an horseman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote of his shulder, so that Gorgias fled into Marisa.

36 And when they that were with Escriu, had foughten long, and were wearie, Iudas called vpon the Lord, that he wolde shewe him self to be their helper, and captaine of the field.

37 And then he began in his owne language, and sung psalmes with a loude voyce, in so muche that straight wayes he made the that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.

38 ¶ So Iudas gathered his hoste, and came into the citie of Odolla. And when the seventh day came, they clenfed them selues (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.

39 And vpon the daye following, as necessity required, Iudas and his companie came to take vpon the bodies of them that were slayne, and to burye them with their kinsmen in their fathers graues.

40 Now vnder the coates of euerie one, that was slayne, they founde iewels that had bene consecrate to the idoles of the Iammites, which thing is forbidden the Iewes by the Law. The euerie man sawe, that this was the cause wherefore they were slayne.

41 And so euerie man gaue thanks vnto the Lord, the righteous Iudge, which had opened the things that were hid.

42 And they gaue them selues to prayer, & besoght him, that they shulde not viterly be destroyed for the faute committed. Besides that, noble Iudas exhorted the people to kepe them selues from sinne, for so muche as they sawe before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of these that were slayne,

43 And hauing made a gathering through the companie, sent to Ierusalem about two thousand thousand drachmes of silver for offering, doing very well that he thought of the restitution. For if he had not hoped they were slaine, shulde rise againe superfluous, and vain dead.

And therefore he perceived that was great fauour laid vpon godly. (It was an holie,) So he made a reconciliation that they might be deliuered.

The coming of Eupator into the citie of Menelaus. 10 Maccabeus Eupator, moueth his souldiers to kill fourtene thousand men in Rhodes the betrayer.

Menelaus also ioyned him, and with great disceit in chus, not for the safegard, but because he thought to the gouernour.

4 But the King of King chus minde against this Lysias informed the King was the cause of all misse. King commanded to bring to put him vnto death at that place.

Now there was in that fiftie cubites high, full of an instrument that turne on euerie side it rouled althes.

The coming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabens going to fight against Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. 15 He killeth fourtene thousand men in the tentes of Antiochus. 21 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

I N the hundreth, fortie and nine yere it was tolde Iudas, that Antiochus Eupa-tor was comming with a great power in-
to Iudea,

And Lyfias the stewarde and ruler of his
affaires with him, hauing bothe in their ar-
mie an hundreth and tenthousand men
of fore of the Grecians, and fise thousand horfemen, and two and twentie elephants, and thre hūdreth charets fet with hookes.

Menelaus also ioyned him self with them
and with great difceit incouraged Antio-
chus, not for the safegard of the countrei,
but becaufe he thoght to haue bene made
the gournour.

But the King of Kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man, and Lyfias informed the King that this man
was the cause of all mischief, so that the King commanded to bring him to Berea to put him vnto death as the maner was in that place.

Now there was in that place a tower of fiftie cubites high, ful of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned rounde, and on euerie side it rouled downe into the ashes.

6 And there whosoeuer was condemned of sacrilege, or of anie other grieuous crime, was cast of all men to the death.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked man shulde dye suche a death, and it was a moste iuste thing that Menelaus shulde
want buryal,

8 For becaufe he had committed manie sin-
nes by the altar, whose fyre and ashes
were holie: he him self also dyed in the ashes.

9 Now the King raged in his minde, and came to shewe him self more cruel vnto
the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Iudas perceiued, he commanded the people to call vpon the Lord night and day, that if euer he had

holpen them, he wolde now helpe them;
when they shulde be put from their Law,
from their countrey and from the holie
Temple:

11 And that he wolde not suffer the people, which a litle afore began to recouer,
to be subdued vnto the blasphemous na-
cions.

12 So when they had done this all together,
and besoght the Lord for mercie with weping, and fasting, and falling downe
thre daies together, Iudas exhorted them
to make them selues readie.

13 And he being aparte with the Elders,
toke counsel to go forth, afore the King brought his hofte into Iudea, & shulde take the citie, & commit the matter to the helpe
of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to the Lord
of the worlde, he exhorted his souldiers
to fight manfully, euen vnto death for the Lawes, the Temple, the citie, their coun-trei, and the commune wealth, and camped by Modin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watche
worde, The victorie of God, he piked out
the manliest yong men, and went by night
into the Kings campe, and slewe of the hofte fourtene thousand men, & the great-
test elephant with all that sate vpon him.

16 Thus when they had broght a great fea-
re, and trouble in the campe, & all things went prosperously with them, they departed.

17 This was done in the breake of the day,
because the protection of the Lord did
helpe them.

18 ¶ Now when the King had tasted the manlines of the Iewes, he went about to take the holdes by policie,

19 And marched towarde Beth-sura, which was a strōg holde of the Iewes: but he was chased away, hurt and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, suche things as were necessarie.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes
hofte, disclofed the secretes to y enemies:
therefore he was soght out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this did the King commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and "toke truce
with them, departed, and ioyned battel
with Iudas, who ouercame him.

23 But when he vnderstode, that Philippe (whome he had left to be ouerscer of his busines at Antiochia) did rebell against him, he was astonished, so that he yelded him self to the Iewes, and made them an othe to do all things that were right, and was appeased towarde them, &
offred sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentleness to the place,

II. Maccabees.

24 And embraced Maccabeus, and made him capitaine and gouernour from Ptolemais vnto the Gerreneans.

25 Neuertheles, whē he came to Ptolemais, the people of the citie were not content wth this agreement: and because they were grieued, they wolde that he shulde breake the covenants.

26 Then went Lysias vp into the iudgemēt seat, and excused the fact as wel as he colde, & perswaded them, and pacified them, and made them wel affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the Kings iourney, and his returne.

CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius moued by Alcimus sendeth Nicanor to kill the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compacte with the Iewes. 29 Which he yet breaketh through the motion of the King. 37 Nicanor commandeth Razis to be taken, who slayeth him self.

After thre yeres was Iudas enformed that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and name by the hauen of Tripolis,

2 When he had wonne the countrey, and slaine Antiochus and his lieutenant Lysias.

3 Now Alcimus, which had bene the high Priest, and wilfully defiled him self in the time that all things were cōfounded, seing that by no meane he colde saue him self, nor haue anie more entrance to the holie altar,

4 He came to King Demetrius in the hundredth, fiftie and one yere, presenting vnto him a crowne of golde, and a palme, & of the boughes, which were vsed solemnely in the Temple, and that day he helde his tongue.

5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, & occasion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counsell, and asked him what deuises or counsels the Iewes leane vnto.

6 To the which he answered, the Iewes that be called Asideans whose capitaine is Iudas Maccabeus, mainteine warres, and make insurrections, and wil not let the realme be in peace.

7 Therefore I, being deprived of my fathers honour (I meane the high priestthode) am now come hether,

8 Partely because I was wel affectioned vnto the Kings affaires, and secondly because I fought y<sup>e</sup> profite of mine owne citizē: for all our people, thorowe their rashnes, are not a litle troubled.

9 Wherefore, o King, seing thou knowest all these things, make propioun for the countrey, and our nacion which is abused, according to thine owne humanitie, that is readie to helpe all men.

10 For as long as Iudas liueth, it is not possible that the matter shulde be wel.

11 When he had spoken these wordes, other friends also hauing euil wil at Iudas, set Demetrius on fyre.

12 Who immediatly called for Nicanor, the ruler of the elephantes, and made him capitaine ouer Iudea,

13 And sent him forthe, commanding him to slay Iudas, and to scatter the that were with him, & to make Alcimus high Priest of the great Temple.

14 Then the heathen which fled out of Iudea from Iudas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thinking the harme and calamities of the Iewes to be their welfare.

15 Now whē the Iewes heard of Nicanors comming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprinkled them selues with earth, & prayed vnto him which had appointed him self a people foreuer, and did alway defende his owne porcion with euident tokens.

16 So at the commandement of the capitaine, they remoued straight wayes from thence, and came to the towne of Dessan,

17 Where Simō Iudas brother had ioyned battel with Nicanor, and was somewhat astonished thorowe the sudden silence of the enemies:

18 Neuertheles Nicanor hearing the manlines of them that were with Iudas, & the bolde stomackes that they had for their countrey, durst not proue the matter with blood shedding.

19 Wherefore, he sent Polidonius, Theodorus, and Matthias before, to make peace.

20 So when they had taken long aduise, thereupon, and the capitaine shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde, and consented to the covenants.

21 And they appointed a day when they shulde particularly come together: so whē the day was come, they set for euerie man his stoole.

22 Neuertheles Iudas commanded certeine men of armes to waite in conuenient places, lest there shulde suddenly arise anie euil thorowe the enemies: and so they communed together of the things whereupon they had agreed.

23 Nicanor, while he abode at Ierusalem, did none hurt, but sent away the people that were gathered together.

24 He loued Iudas, and fauoured him in his heart.

25 He praid him also to take a wife, and to beget children: so he married, & they liued together.

26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betwene them, and vnderstanding the covenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and tolde him that Nicanor had taken strange matters in hand, and ordeined Iudas a traitour to the realme, to be his

his successeur.

27 Then the King was diuised by the reportes of this wicked counsellor to Nicanor, saying, that he should be the gouernour for the covenants, so that he shulde send Maccabeus prisoner vnto Antiochia.

28 When these things came to the King, he was astonished & sore grieved, seing that that man was no wickednes.

29 But because it was not comely to withstand the King, he consented to accomplish it.

30 Notwithstanding when he perceiued that Nicanor began to be cruel vnto him, and that he intended to take away rudely the he was wont to, such rigour came not offore he gathered a fewe men, and withdrew him self from thence.

31 But the other perceiuing this, and being moued by Maccabeus wordes into the great & holie Temple, commanded the Priests, what their vsual sacrifices, to offer for the man.

32 And when they swaie, they could not tell where the man was fled.

33 He stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an oath, saying, If ye wil not deliuer me prisoner, I wil make this Temple a plaine field, and wil breake downe the altar, and wil erect a notable monument to Bacchus.

34 After these wordes he came to the Priests lift vp their hands, and besought him that was the ruler of their nacion, saying,

35 Thou, o Lord of all things, haue neede of nothing, woldest thou that thine habitation shulde be polluted?

36 Therefore now, o most merciful God, cleanse this house euer vndeiled, and stoppe all vnrighteousnes.

37 Now was there accused Razis one of the Elders of the citie, and a marshall of the porte, which for his loue to the Iewes,

38 For this man afore time was counted among the Iewes, were minded to kepe the Temple led and pure, being accursed of the Iewes, did not forsake bodie and life with all religion of the Iewes.

39 So Nicanor willing to see that he bare to the Iewes, he sent forth hundred men of warre his successour.

37 Then the King was displeased, and by the reportes of this wicked man, he wrote to Nicanor, saying, that he was very angry for the covenants, commanding him that he shulde send Maccabeus in all haste prisoner vnto Antiochia.

38 When these things came to Nicanor, he was astonished & sore grieved, y he shulde breake the things wherein they had agreed, seeing that that man had committed no wickednes.

39 But because it was not comodious to him to withstand the King, he sought craftely to accomplish it.

40 Notwithstanding when Maccabeus perceived that Nicanor beganne to be rough vnto him, and that he intreated him more rudely the he was wonte, he perceived that suche rigour came not of good, and therefore he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrew himself from Nicanor.

41 But the other perceiuing that he was persecuted by Maccabeus worthie policie, came into the great & holie Temple, and commanded the Priests, which were offering their vsual sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.

42 And when they sware that they colde not tell where the man was, whome he sought,

43 He stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an othe in this manner, If ye wil not deliuer me Iudas as a prisoner, I wil make this Temple of God a plaine field, and wil breake downe the altar, and wil erect a notable Temple vnto Bacchus.

44 After these wordes he departed: then the Priests lift vp their hands toward heauē, and besought him that was euer the defender of their nation, saying in this maner,

45 Thou, o Lord of all things, which hast neede of nothing, woldest that the Temple of thine habitation shulde be among vs.

46 Therefore now, o moste holie Lord, kepe this house euer vndefiled, which lately was clesed, and stoppe all the mouths of the vnrighteous.

47 Now was there accused vnto Nicanor, Razis one of the Elders of Ierusalem, a louer of the citie, and a man of very good reporte, which for his loue was called a father of the Iewes.

48 For this man afore times when the Iewes were minded to kepe them selues vndefiled and pure, being accused to be of the religion of the Iewes, did offer to spend his bodie and life with all constancie for the religion of the Iewes.

49 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that he bare to the Iewes, sent about fiftie hundred men of warre to take him.

40 For he thought by taking him to do the Iewes muche hurte.

41 But when this companie wolde haue taken his castel, and wolde haue broken the gates by violence, and commanded to breake fyre to burne the gates, so that he was ready to be taken on euery side, he fell on his sworde,

42 Willing rather to dye manfully, the he gave himself into the hands of wicked men, and to suffer reproche vnworthie for his noble stocke.

43 Notwithstanding what time as he misdeed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude rushed in violently between the dores, he ran boldly to the wall, and cast himself downe manfully among the multitude.

44 Which conueyed them selues lightly away, and gaue place, so that he fell vpon his bellie.

45 Neuertheles while there was yet breath in him, being kindled in his minde, he rose vp, and though his blood gushed out like a fountaine, and he was verie sore wounded, yet he ran thorow the middes of the people,

46 And gate him to the toppe of an hie rocke: so when his blood was vtterly gone, he roke out his owne bowels with bothe his hands, and threwe them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lord of life and spirit, that he wolde restore them againe vnto him, and thus he dyed.

CHAP. XV.

¶ Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabbath day. 1 The blasphemy of Nicanor. 14 Maccabeus expounding vnto the Iewes the vision, incourageth them. 21 The prayer of Maccabeus. 30 Maccabeus commandeth Nicanors head and hands to be cut of, and his tongue to be given vnto the foules. 39 The autor excuseth him self.

¶ Now when Nicanor knewe that Iudas and his companie were in the countrey of Samaria, he thought with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.

1 Neuertheles the Iewes that were compelled to go with him, said, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day, that is appointed by him that seeth all things.

2 But this moste wicked persone demaded, Is there a Lord in heauen, that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept?

3 And whē they said, There is a liuing Lord, which ruleth in the heauen, who commanded the seuenth day to be kept,

- 7 But Maccabeus had euer sure confidence and a perfit hope that the Lord wolde helpe him,
- 8 And exhorted his people not to be afraid at the coming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust now also, that they shulde haue the victorie by the Almightye.
- 9 Thus he encouraged them by the Law & Prophetes, putting them in remembrance of the battels that they had wone afore, & so made them more willing,
- 10 And stirred vp their hearts, and shewed them also the disceitfulnes of the heathē, and how they had broken their othes.
- 11 Thus he armed euerie one of them, not with the assurance of shields and speares, but with wholsome wordes and exhortations, and shewed them a dreame worthie to be beleued, and reioyced them greatly.
- 12 And this was his vision, He thoght that he sawe Onias (which had bene the high Priest, a vertuous & a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, wel spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all pointes of godlines from a childe) holding vp his hands toward heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Iewes.
- 13 ¶ After this there appeared vnto him another man which was aged, honorable, and of a wonderful dignitie, and excellencie aboue him.
- 14 And Onias spake, & said, This is a louer of the brethren, who prayeth muche for the people, and for the holie citie, to wit, Ieremias the Prophet of God.
- 15 He thoght also that Ieremias helde out his right hand, and gaue vnto Iudas a sworde of golde: & as he gaue it, he spake thus,
- 16 Take this holie sworde a gifte frō God, wherewith thou shalt wounde the aduersaries.
- 17 And so being comforted by the wordes of Iudas, which were very swete and able to stirre them vp to valiantnes and to encourage the heartes of the yong men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and manfully to assaile them, and to trye the matter hand to hand, because the citie and the Sanctuarie, and the Temple were in danger.
- 18 As for their wiues, and children, and brethren and kinsfolkes, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principal feare was for the holie Temple.
- 19 Again they that were in the citie, were careful for the armie that was abroad,
- 20 Now whiles thei all waited for the tryal of the matter, and the enemies now met with them, and the hoste was set in aray, and the beastes were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings,
- 21 Maccabeus considering the coming of the multitude and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenes of the beastes, helde vp his hands toward heauen, calling vpon the Lord that doeth wonders, and that looked vpon the, knowing that the victorie cometh not by the weapons, but that he giueth the victorie to them that are worthie, as semeth good vnto him.
- 22 Therefore in his prayer he said after this maner, O Lord, * thou that didest send thine Angel in the time of Bezecias King of Iudea, who in the hoste of Sennacherib slewe an hundreth, forecore & siue thousand,
- 23 Send now also thy good Angel before vs, O Lord of heauens, for a feare and drede vnto them,
- 24 And let the be discōfited by the strength of thine arme, which come against thine holie people to blaspheme. Thus with these wordes he made an end.
- 25 Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drewe nere with trumpets and shoutings for ioye.
- 26 But Iudas and his companie praying and calling vpon God, incountered with the enemies,
- 27 So that with their hands they fought, but with their hearts they prayed vnto God, and slewe no lesse then siue & thirrie thousand mē: for thorowe the presence of God they were wonderfully comforted.
- 28 Now when they left of, & were turning againe with ioye, they vnderstode that Nicanor him self was slaine for all his armour.
- 29 Then they made a great shoute and a crye, praising the Almightye in their owne langage.
- 30 Therefore Iudas, which was euer & chief defender of his citizens bothe in bodie & minde, and which bare euer good affectio towards them of his nacion, commanded to smite of Nicanors head, with his hand and shulder, and to bring it to Ierusalem.
- 31 And when he came there, he called all the of his nacion, and set the Priests by the altar, and sent for them of the castel,
- 32 And shewed the wicked Nicanors head, & the hand of that blasphemour which he had holden vp against the holie Temple of the Almightye with proude bragges.
- 33 He caused the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in little pieces, & to be cast vnto the foules, and that the rewardes of his madnes shulde be hanged vp before the Temple.

So euerie man praised

THE HOLY <sup>a</sup>GOSPEL of Iesus Christ, <sup>b</sup>according to Matthewe.

THE ARGUMENT.

In this historie written by Matthewe, Marke, Luke, and Iohn, the Spirit of God so governed their hearts, that although they were foure in number, yet in effect and purpose they so consent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile and manner of writing they differ, and sometime one writeth more largely than which the other doeth abridge: nevertheless in matter and argument they all tende to one end: which is, to publish to the worlde the fauour of God towards mankind through Christ Iesus, whome the Father hath given as a pledge of his mercie & love. And for this cause they intitle their storie, Gospel, which signifieth good tidings, for asmuche as God hath performed in dæd that which the faithers hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the worlde, and the vanities thereof, and with moste affectioned hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offered vnto vs: for there is no ioye nor consolacion, no peace nor quietnes, no felicitie nor saluacion, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, and in whome all the promises are yea, and amen. And therefore vnder this worde is contained the whole New Testament: but communely we vse this name for the historie, which the foure Euangelists write, concerning Christs coming in the flesh, his death and resurrection, which is the perfe sümme of our saluation. Matthewe, Marke, and Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more labourerth to set forthe his doctrine, wherein bothe Christs office, and also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeare: for without this, to knowe that Christ was borne, dead & risen againe, shalde nothing profit vs. The which thing notwithstanding that the thre first touch partly, as he self sometime intermedleth the historical narration, yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therefore as a moste learned interpreter writeth, they describe, as it were, the bodie, and Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherefore the same aptely termeth the Gospel writ by Iohn, the keye which openeth the dore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoever doeth knowe the office, vertue and power of Christ, shal reade that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the redemer of the worlde, with moste profit. Now as concerning the writers of this historie, it is euident that Matthewe was a Publicane or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to be an Apostle. Marke is thought to haue bene Peters disciple, and to haue planted the first Church at Alexandria, where he dyed the eight yere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a phisition of Aniodhia and became Pauls disciple, and fellowe in all his travels: he liued foure score and foure yeres, and was buryed at Constantinople. Iohn was that Apostle whome the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of James: he dyed thre score yeres after Christ, and was buryed nere to the Citie of Ephesus.

- 7 And *

13 And Zorobabel begate Abiud. And Abiud begate Eliacim. And Eliacim begate Azor.

14 And Azor begate Sadoc. And Sadoc begate Achim. And Achim begate Eliud.

15 And Eliud begate Eleazar. And Eleazar begate Matthan. And Matthan begate Jacob.

16 And Jacob begate Ioseph, the housband of Marie, of whome was borne IESVS, that is called Christ.

17 So all the generaciōs from Abraham to David, are fourtene generaciōs. And from David vntil they were caryed away into Babylon, fourtene generaciōs: and after they were caryed away into Babylon vntil Christ, fourtene generaciōs.

18 ¶ Now the byrth of IESVS Christ was thus. When as his mother Marie was betrowthed to Ioseph, before they came together, she was founde with childe of the holie Gost.

19 Then Ioseph her housband being a iust man, and not willing to make her a publike example, was minded to put her away secretly.

20 But while he thought these things, beholde, the Angel of the Lord appeared vnto him in a dreame, saying, Ioseph the sonne of David, feare not to take Marie for thy wife: for that which is concieued in her, is of the holie Gost.

21 And she shal bring forth a sonne, and thou shalt call his name IESVS: for he shal saue his people from their sinnes.

22 And all this was done that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying,

23 Beholde, a virgin shalbe with childe, and shal beare a sonne, and they shal call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, God with vs.

24 ¶ Then Ioseph, being raised from slepe, did as the Angel of the Lord had ioyned him, and toke his wife.

25 But he knewe her not, til she had brought forth her first borne sonne, and he called his name IESVS.

of Herode the King, beholde, there came Wisemen from the East to Ierusalem,

2 Saying, Where is the King of the Iewes that is borne: for we haue sene his starre in the East, and are come to worship him.

3 When King Herode heard this, he was troubled, and all Ierusalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the chief Priests & Scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ shulde be borne.

5 And they said vnto him, At Beth-lehem in Iudea: for so it is writen by the Prophet,

6 And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Iuda, art not the least among the Princes of Iuda: for out of thee shal come the gouernour that shal fede my people Israel.

7 Then Herode priuily called the Wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,

8 And sent them to Beth-lehem, saying, Go, and seache diligently for the babe: and when ye haue founde him, bring me worde againe, that I may come also, and worship him.

9 So when they had heard the King, they departed: and lo, the starre which they had sene in the East, went before them, til it came, and stode ouer the place where the babe was.

10 And when they sawe the starre, they reioyced with an exceeding great ioye,

11 And went into the house, and founde the babe with Marie his mother, and fel downe, and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and presented vnto him giftes, euen golde, and incense, and myrrhe.

12 And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they shulde not go againe to Herode, they returned into their country another way.

13 ¶ After their departure, beholde the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Ioseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, & take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there til I bring thee worde: for Herode wil seke the babe, to destroye him.

14 So he arose and toke the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt,

15 And was there vnto the death of Herode, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying, Out of Egypt haue I called my Sonne.

16 ¶ The Herode, seing that he was mocked of Wisemen, was exceeding wrath, and sent forth, & slew all the male children that were in Beth-lehem, and in all the coastes thereof, from two yere olde & vnder, according to the time which he had diligently searched out of the Wisemen.

Then was that fulfilled by the Prophet Ieremias. In Rama was a voyning, and weping and greeuing, Rachel weping for her children, that she denot be comforted, because they were not.

And when Herode was dead, the Angel of the Lord appeared to Ioseph in Egypt,

Saying, Arise, and take the babe and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought thy life.

17 Then he arose vp, and went into the land of Israel, his mother, and came into Beth-lehem.

18 But when he heard that Archelaus reigned in Iudea in stead of Herode, he was afrayed to go thither, and was warned of God to turne aside into the partes of Galilee.

And went and dwelt in Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled by the Prophet, that he shulde be called Nazarene.

 9 And said to him, All these wil I giue thee, if thou wilt fall downe, and worship me.

Deut. 6.13. & 10.30.
 10 Then said Iesus vnto him, Auoide Sará: for it is written, *Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.

11 Then the deuill left him: and beholde, the Angels came, and ministred vnto him.

12 *And when Iesus had heard y<sup>e</sup> Iohn was deliuered vp, he returned into Galile,

13 And leauing Nazaret, went and dwelt in Capernaum, which is nere the sea in the borders of Zabulon & Nephthalim,

14 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying,

15 *The land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthalim by the way of the sea, beyond Iordan, Galile of the Gentiles:

16 The people which sate in darkenes, sawe great light: and to them which sate in the region and shadowe of death, light is risen vp.

17 *From that time Iesus began to preache, and to say, Amend your liues: for y<sup>e</sup> kingdome of heauen is at hand.

18 *And Iesus walking by the sea of Galile, sawe two brethren, Simó, which was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers.)

19 And he said vnto them, Followe me, and I wil make you fishers of men.

20 And they straight way leauing the nets, followed him.

21 And when he was gone forth from thence, he sawe other two brethren, Iames the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn his brother in a ship with Zebedeus their father, mending their nets, and he called them.

22 And they without tarying, leauing the ship and their father, followed him.

23 So Iesus went about all Galile, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the kingdome, and healing euerie sickenes and euerie disease among the people.

24 And his fame spred abroad through all Syria: and they brought vnto him all sicke people, and they were taken with diuers diseases and gripings, and them that were possessed with deuils, & those which were lunatike, and those that had the palsey: and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes out of Galile, and Decapolis, and Ierusalem, and Iudea, and from beyonde Iordan.

And when he sawe the multitude, he went vp into a mountaine: and whē he was set, his disciples came to him. And he opened his mouthe and taught them, saying,

1 *Blessed are the poore in spirit, for theirs is the kingdome of heauen.

2 *Blessed are they that mourne: for they shal be comforted.

3 *Blessed are the meke: for they shal inherite the earth.

4 Blessed are they which hunger & thirst for righteousnes: for they shal be filled.

5 Blessed are the merciful: for thei shal obtaine mercie.

6 Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shal see God.

7 Blessed are the peace makers: for they shal be called the children of God.

8 Blessed are they which suffer persecutiō for righteousnes sake: for theirs is the kingdome of heauen.

9 *Blessed are ye when men reuile you, and persecute you, and say all manner of euill against you for my sake, falsely.

10 Reioyce and be glad, for great is your rewarde in heauen: for so persecuted they the Prophets which were before you.

11 *Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt haue lost his sauour, wherewith shal it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, & to be troden vnder fote of men.

12 Ye are the light of the worlde. A citie that is set on an hill, can not be hid.

13 *Nether do men light a candel, and put it vnder a bushel, but on a candellsticke, & it giueth light vnto all that are in the house.

14 *Let s<sup>e</sup> your light so shine before men, that they may se your good workes, & glorifie your Father which is in heauen.

15 Thinkenot that I am come to destroye the Law, or the Prophetes. I am not come to destroye them, but to fulfil them.

16 *For truly I say vnto you, Til heauen and earth perish, one iote, or one tittle of the Law shal not scape, til all things be fulfilled.

17 *Whosoever therefore shal breake one of these least commandments, & teache men so, he shal be called the least in the kingdome of heauen: but whosoever shal obserue and teache them, the same shal be called great in the kingdome of heauen.

18 For I say vnto you, except your righteousnes exceede the righteousnes of y<sup>e</sup> Scribes

& Pharises, ye shal not er dome of heauen.

19 Ye haue heard that the of the olde time, *Thou shalt not kille, & whosoever killeth, shal be iudged.

20 But I say vnto you, whosoever is angry with his brother, & vnadvisedly saith vnto his brother, thou art worthy to be punished.

21 And whosoever shal swear by his othe, thou art worthy to be punished.

22 If the thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee,

23 Leave there thine offering before the altar, and go thy way: first be reconciled to thy brother, & then come and offer thy gift.

24 *Agre with thine aduersarie while thou art in the way, lest thine aduersarie deliuer thee to the iudge, and thou be cast into prison.

25 Verely I say vnto thee, thou shalt not come out thence, til thou hast paid the least farthing.

26 *Ye haue heard that it is said of olde time, *Thou shalt not commit adultery.

27 But I say vnto you, y<sup>e</sup> that looketh on a woman to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

28 *Wherefore if thy right eye offend thee, plucke it out, and cast it from thee: for better it is for thee, that one of thy members perish, than that thy whole body be cast into hel.

29 *If thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for better it is for thee, that one of thy members perish, than that thy whole body be cast into hel.

30 It hath bene said also, Whosoever putteth away his wife, let him write a bill of diuorcement.

31 But I say vnto you, whosoever putteth away his wife (except it be for fornication), causeth her to commit adultery: whosoever shal marrie her, which is put away, committeth adultery.

32 Again, ye haue heard that it is said of olde time, *Thou shalt not sweare thy self, but shalt be bound by thy othes to the Lord.

33 But I say vnto you, nether by heauē, for it is heaven, nor yet by earth, for it is earth, nor yet by Ierusalem, for it is the great King.

34 Nether shalt thou sweare because thou canst not see the face of the Father.

35 But I say vnto you, y<sup>e</sup> that sweareth by the temple, he sweareth by the temple, and by the altar, and by all things which are therein.

36 And he that sweareth by the heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, which sitteth upon the cherubims.

37 Therefore whosoever he is that sweareth by the heaven, by the earth, by Ierusalem, or by any of these things, he is guilty of blasphemy against heaven and earth.

38 But whosoever sweareth by the temple, or by the altar, or by any of these things, he sweareth by the things which are therein, and by the person which sitteth upon them: therefore he is guilty of blasphemy against heaven and earth.

39 Therefore whosoever he is that putteth away his wife, and causeth her to commit adultery, shall be guilty of adultery against God: but he that putteth away his wife, and causeth her to commit adultery, shall be guilty of adultery against man.

40 Therefore whosoever he is that putteth away his wife, and causeth her to commit adultery, shall be guilty of adultery against God: but he that putteth away his wife, and causeth her to commit adultery, shall be guilty of adultery against man.

& Pharises, ye shal not enter into the kingdome of heauen.

Ye haue heard that it was said vnto
the of the olde time, *Thou shalt not kil:
for whofoeuer killeth, shal be culpable of
iudgement.

But I say vnto you, whofoeuer is angrie
with his brother: vnadvisedly, shal be culpable of iudgement. And whofoeuer saith vnto his brother, °Raca, shal be worthy to be punished by the Counsel.

And whofoeuer shal say, Foole, shal be worthy to be punished with hel fyre.

If the thou bring thy gift to the altar, &
there remembreth that thy brother hathe
oght against thee,

Leaue there thine offering before the altar, and go thy way: first be reconciled to thy brother, & then come & offer thy gift.

Agre with thine aduersarie quickly,
whiles thou art in the way with him, lest
thine aduersarie deliuer thee to the iudge,
and the iudge deliuer thee to the fergat,
and thou be cast into prison.

Verely I say vnto thee, thou shalt not come out thence, til thou hast payed the ve-
most farthing.

Ye haue heard that it was said to them
of olde time, *Thou shalt not commit adulterie.

But I say vnto you, y<sup>e</sup> whofoeuer loketh
on a womā to lust after her, hathe comit-
ed adulterie wher already in his heart.

Wherefore if thy right eye cause thee
to offend, plucke it out, and cast it fro thee:
for better it is for thee, that one of thy me-
bers perish, the that thy whole bodie shulde be cast into hel.

Also if thy right hand make thee to offend, cut it of, and cast it fro thee: for better it is for thee that one of thy members perish, the that thy whole bodie shulde be cast into hel.

It hathe bene said also, *Whofoeuer shal
put away his wife, let him giue her a testimonial of diuorcement.

But I say vnto you, whofoeuer shal put away his wife (except it be for fornicatio) causeth her to commit adulterie: and whofoeuer shal marie her that is diuor-
ced, committeth adulterie.

Again, ye haue heard that it was said to them of olde time, *Thou shalt not for-swear thy self, but shalt performe thine
othes to the Lord.

But I say vnto you, Swear not at all,
neither by heauē, for it is y<sup>e</sup> throne of God:
Nor yet by y<sup>e</sup> earth: for it is his fote stoule: neither by Ierusalem: for it is the citie
of the great King.

Nether shalt thou swear by thine head,
because thou canst not make one heere
white or blacke.

*But let your communication be, °Yea, yea: Nay, nay. For whatfoeuer more the
these, commeth of y<sup>e</sup> euil.

Ye haue heard that it hathe bene said,
An eye for an eye, & a tooth for a tooth.

But I say vnto you, °Resist not euil: but whofoeuer shal smite thee on thy right
cheke, turne to him the other also.

And if anie man wil sue thee at the law,
and take away thy coate, let him haue thy cloke also.

And whofoeuer wil compell thee to go a mile, go with him twaine.

*Giue to him that asketh, and from him
y<sup>e</sup> wolde borow of thee, turne not away.

Ye haue heard that it hathe bene said,
*Thou shalt loue thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.

But I say vnto you, °Loue your enemies:
blisse them that curse you: do good to the
that hate you, & praye for them which hurt you, and persecute you,

*That ye may be the childre of your Father that is in heauen: for he maketh his sunne to arise on the euil, and the good,
and sendeth raine on the iuste, & vniuste.

For if ye loue them, which loue you, what rewarde shal you haue? Do not the Publicanes euen the same?

And if ye be friendlie to your brethre
only, what singular thing do ye do not euen the Publicanes likewise?

Ye shal therefore be °perfite, as your Father which is in heauen, is perfite.

Take hede that ye giue not your al-

*Therefore when thou giuest thine al-praised of men. Verely I say vnto you,

they haue their rewarde.

But when thou doest thine almes, let not thy left hand knowe what thy right
hand doeth,

That thine almes may be in secret, & thy

And when thou prayest, be not as the hy-

7 Also when ye pray, vse no vaine repetitions as the heathen: for they thinke to be heard for their muche babling.

8 Beye not like them therefore: for your Father knoweth whereof ye haue nede, before ye aske of him.

9 After this maner therefore pray ye, *Our father which art in heauen, halowed be thy Name.

10 Thy kingdome come. Thy wil be done euen in earth, as it is in heauen.

11 Giue vs this day our daily bread.

12 And forgiue vs our dettes, as we also forgiue our detters.

13 And lead vs not into tentation, but deliuer vs fro euil: for thine is the kingdome, and the power, and the glorie for euer, Amen.

14 *For if ye do forgiue men their trespasses, your heauenlic Father wil also forgiue you.

15 But if ye do not forgiue men their trespasses, no more wil your Father forgiue you your trespasses.

16 Moreover, when ye fast, loke not sowe as the hypocrites: for they disfigure their faces, that they might seme vnto men to fast. Verely I say vnto you, that they haue their rewarde.

17 But when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face,

18 That thou seme not vnto men to fast, but vnto thy Father which is in secret: & thy Father which seeth in secret, wil rewarde thee openly.

19 Lay not vp treasures for your selues vpon the earth, where the mothe & canker corrupt, & where theues digge through, and steale.

20 *But lay vp treasures for your selues in heauen, where nether the mothe nor canker corrupteth, and where theues nether digge through, nor steale.

21 For where your treasure is, there wil your heart be also.

22 ¶ The light of the bodie is the eye: if the thine eye be single, thy whole bodie shal be light.

23 But if thine eye be wicked, then all thy bodie shalbe darke. Wherefore if the light is in thee, be darkenes, how great is that darkenes!

24 *No man can serue two masters: for either he shal hate the one, and loue the other, or els he shal leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and riches.

25 *Therefore I say vnto you, be not careful for your life, what ye shal eat, or what ye shal drinke: nor yet for your bodie, what ye shal put on. Is not the life more worth then meat: and the bodie then raiment?

26 Beholde the fowles of the heauen: for they sowe not, neither reape, nor carie into the barnes: yet your heauenlic Father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they?

27 Which of you by taking care, is able to adde one cubit vnto his stature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learne, how the lilies of the field do growe: they labour not, nether spinne:

29 Yet I say vnto you, that euen Solomon in all his glorie was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore if God so clothe the gras of the field which is to day, and to morowe is cast into the ouen, shal he not do muche more vnto you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shal we eat or what shal we drinke for where with shal we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things seke the Gentiles) for your heauenlic Father knoweth, that ye haue nede of all these things.

33 But seke ye first the kingdome of God, and his righteousnes, and all these things shalbe ministred vnto you.

34 Care not then for the morowe: for the morowe shal care for it: self: the day hath enought with his owne grief.

*And whē he was entred into the ship, his disciples followed him.

24

And beholde, there arose a great tempest in the sea, so y<sup>e</sup> the ship was couered with waues: but he was a slepe.

25

Then his disciples came, & awoke him, saying, Master, saue vs: we perish.

26

And he said vnto the, Why are ye fearful, o ye of litle faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the windes and the sea: and so there was a great calme.

27

And the men marvelled, saying, What man is this, that both the windes and the sea obey him!

28

*And when he was come to the other side, into the country of the Gergefenes, there met him two possessed with deuils, which came out of the graues verie fierce, so that no man might go by that waye.

29

And beholde, they cryed out, saying, Iesus the Sonne of God, what haue we to do with thee? Art thou come hether to torment vs before the time?

30

Now there was a farre off from them, a great herd of swine feeding.

31

And the deuils besoght him, saying, If thou cast vs out, suffer vs to go into the herd of swine.

32

And he said vnto them, Go. So thei went out, and departed into the herd of swine: & beholde, the whole herd of swine was caried with violence from a steepe downe place into the sea, and dyed in the water.

33

Then the herdmen fled: and when thei were come into the citie, they tolde all things, and what was become of them that were possessed with the deuils.

34

And beholde all the citie came out, to mete Iesus: and when thei sawe him, thei besoght hi to departe out of their coasts.

1 Then he entred into a ship, & passed ouer, and came into his owne citie.

2 And *lo, they brought to him a man sicke of y<sup>e</sup> palsey, lying on a bed. And Iesus seig their faith, said to the sicke of the palsey, Sonne, be of good comfort: thy sinnes are forgiven thee.

3 And beholde, certeine of the Scribes said with them selues, This man blasphemeth.

4 But when Iesus sawe their thoughts, he said, Wherefore thinke ye euil things in your hearts?

5 For whether is it easier to say, Thy sinnes are forgiven thee, or to say, Arise, and walke?

6 And that ye may knowe that the Sonne of man hathe autoritie in earth to forgive sinnes, (then said he vnto the sicke of the palsey,) Arise, take vp thy bed, and go to thine house.

7 And he arose, and departed to his owne house.

8 So when the multitude sawe it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had giue such autoritie to men.

9 *And as Iesus passed forth he from thence, he sawe a man sitting at the receite of custome named Mattheue, & said to him, Followe me. And he arose, and followed him.

10 And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at meat in his house, beholde, manie Publicanes and sinners, that came thither, sate downe at the table with Iesus and his disciples.

11 And when the Phariseis sawe that, they said to his disciples, Why eatech your master with Publicanes and sinners?

12 Now when Iesus heard it, he said vnto them, The whole nede not a physicion, but thei that are sicke.

13 But go ye and learne what this is, I wil haue mercie, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

14 *Then came the disciples of Iohn to him, saying, Why do we and the Phariseis fast oft, and thy disciples fast not?

15 And Iesus said vnto them, Can the children of the mariage chamber mourne as long as the bridegrome is with them? But daies wil come when y<sup>e</sup> bridegrome shalbe taken from them, and then they shall fast. Moreover no man putteth a piece of new cloth shulde fill it vp, taketh garment, and the breach shalbe made worse.

Nether do they put olde vessels: for then they shalbe broken, and the wine w<sup>ch</sup> the vessels shulde perishe, shalbe put into new vessels, and the wine shalbe preserved.

*While he thus spake, there came a certein ship, and Iesus was taken, and thei departed, and he was left alone. Then Iesus turned him, and said to his disciples,

(And beholde a woman eased with an yssue of blood, which followed him, and touched his garment.)

For she said in her selfe, If I shall but touche his garment, I shall be made whole.

Then Iesus turned him, and said, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that houre.)

Now when Iesus came out of the house, and sawe the multitude making noise,

He said vnto them, The maide is not dead, but she was sleeping. And they laughed him to scorn.

And when he was come, he took her by the hand, and she arose.

And this bruite went thar land.

And as Iesus departed, manie blinde men followed him, crying, O sonne of David, haue mercie on vs.

And when he was come, he said vnto them, Beholde, your faith hath made you whole. And they said vnto him, Lord, doe thou will.

Then touched he their eyes, and they sawe.

And their eyes were charged them, saying, Knowe it.

But when they were spread abroad his fame, they followed him.

*And as they went on, he was brought to him a domme a deuill.

And when the deuill sawe Iesus, he fell downe, and said, Thou art the Sonne of God. And Iesus answered him, saying, The like w<sup>ch</sup> Irael.

He said vnto them, Get you hense: for the maide is not dead, but slepeth. And they laughed him to skorne.

And whe the multitude were put forth, he went in and toke her by the hand, and the maide arose.

And this brute went through out all
that land.

And as Iesus departed thence, two
blinde men followed him, crying, and say-

And when he was come into the house,
the blinde came to him, and Iesus said vn-
to them, Beleue ye that I am able to do this? And they said vnto him, Yea, Lord.

Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it vnto you.

And their eyes were opened, and Iesus charged them, saying, Se that no man
knowe it.

But when they were departed, they spred abroad his fame throughout all
that land.

* And as they went out, beholde, they

And when the deuil was cast out, the
